HURRICANE THREATENS FLORIDA'S WEST COAST

Twenty Buildings Wrecked, Several Persons Hurt at Fort Lauderdale — Some Damage at Miami.

KEY WEST STREETS DEEP IN WATER

Heavy Loss of Life and Property at Nassau in Worst Storm in History of Capital of Bahamas.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory. Northeast storm warnings ordered 9:30 p. m. North of Tampa to Pensacola and warnings changed to southeast Jupiter to Miami and hurricane warnings changed to southwest storm Key West section. Tropical storm central about 50 miles north-northwest of Key West and apparently moving northwestward about 10 miles an hour. This storm will continue to move northwestward for the next 12 hours and gales of near hurricane force are indicated off the West Florida coast as far north as Tampa. Caution advised vessels northeastern Gulf of Mexico."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 28.—The tail of the West Indian hurricane, which caused the loss of 20 lives in the Bahamas, swept Florida today and throughout last night. Gales and in some cases hurricanes struck at the coast as they had intermittently on Friday.

At Fort Lauderdale, 25 miles north of here, a tornado damaged 20 buildings. Several persons were injured but no deaths were reported.

Two similar storms did minor damage at Stuart, 105 miles north of here.

Winds ranging from 60 to 95 miles an hour raked Miami and the lower east coast. Plate glass windows on the main streets of Miami were blown in. The total property loss in Miami is said to be about $10,000. At Coral Gables eight miles west of Miami, and at Goulds and Homestead, 20 and 28 miles south, roofs were blown off houses, wooden warehouses wrecked and trees and telephone poles blown down. The Miami electric light plant was put out of commission for about two hours early today, because of fallen poles.

Train Forced to Turn Back.

Concrete and brick buildings did not seem to suffer in the storm. Roofs of corrugated iron, however, in many instances were ripped to ribbons. The storm, during the day, apparently reached its greatest force between Key West and Miami, along the keys. The Havana special, a de luxe passenger train from New York, was forced back by the storm below Glades, where the Atlantic Coast line passes from the mainland to the keys. The train backed up 18 miles to Homestead and was marooned there 11 hours in the teeth of the storm.

At Homestead some of the residents remained in their homes during the storm but about 200 men, women and children sought refuge in the school house Friday night and remained there tonight. Food in abundance was provided them today by a Miami relief unit. There was much property damage but no casualties.

Islamorada, a keys station on the Coast Line Railroad, and about 35 miles from the Florida mainland, was struck by a wind blowing 110 miles an hour about 6 o'clock this morning. It was said several buildings were damaged.

In Miami it rained steadily beginning about midnight last night. Winds buffeted Miami Beach and Miami continuously. Many sections in Miami were flooded but no casualties were reported. The storm, while powerful, was not comparable with the intensity of the 1926 hurricane which Miami will always remember, and of the 1928 storm which razed parts of West Palm Beach.

Under Strain Since Tuesday.

Florida's patience had been worn thin by storm strain. The first threat of the hurricane was reported on Tuesday. A bit of rain and slight winds on Wednesday lent color to the threat but did not interfere with bathers on the beaches. Thursday was slightly squally at Miami, but again not enough to interfere with bathing. Friday, however, winds began to get under

GOVERNOR TO OUST HEAD OF BOONVILLE REFORMATORY

Decision Follows Charge of Overcrowding and Insanitary Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 28.—Following charges of over-crowding and general insanitary conditions at the State reformatory at Boonville, Mo., Gov. Caulfield announced here tonight he would appoint a new superintendent next week. Col. C. M. Harrison, former publisher at Boonville, is the present superintendent.

The Governor's action was precipated by the reading yesterday before the Missouri Bar Association of a report compiled by Dr. Hastings H. Hart, consultant in delinquency for the Russell Sage Foundation. The report characterized conditions at the reform school as "deplorable."

Two men under consideration by Gov. Caulfield for the position are Col. Francis D. Ross, former superintendent of the municipal farm at Leeds, and E. J. Melton, Boonville newspaper man.

THREE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH IN GUATEMALA

Consul-General to New York, Also a Passenger, Is Seriously Injured.

By the Associated Press.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Sept. 28.—Three persons were killed and Julio Montano Novella, Consul-General of Guatemala in New York, was injured seriously in an airplane crash here today.

The dead: Jacinto Rodriguez Diaz, widely known Guatemalan aviator; Jose Luis Balcarcel, a lawyer, and an 11-year-old brother of the Consul-General.

The plane was on the way to Zacapa, where the Consul-General and his brother intended boarding a steamer for New York.

$1,000,000 TRUST FUND FOR ANNE MORROW LINDBERGH

Money Said to Have Been Set Aside Few Days Ago by Ambassador and His Wife.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The News says that Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow have established a $1,000,000 trust fund for the benefit of their daughter, Anne, wife of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The Lindberghs, flying as pathfinders for a new air mail route to South America, were said to know nothing as yet of the trust fund, which Ambassador Morrow set aside after his return Thursday from a vacation at his Maine home

$41,655 INHERITANCE TAX PAID ON BASCOM ESTATE

St. Louis Rope Manufacturer, Who Died Year Ago, Left $1,008,771 Subject to State Levy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 28.—A State inheritance tax of $41,655 on the estate of Joseph D. Bascom, rope manufacturer of St. Louis, was paid to the State Treasurer today by executors of the estate.

Mr. Bascom died Aug. 15, 1928. His estate was appraised at $1,120,870 and deductions authorized by law left a net estate of $1,008,771 subject to the State inheritance tax.

COURT EXCUSES FERGUSON JURY TILL TOMORROW

After an Afternoon Spent in Deliberating Without Result Members Are Sent Home.

RETURNED ONCE FOR INFORMATION

Inquired as to Responsibility of Defendant in Sending Out False Statements.

For the third time a Federal Court jury is trying to determine the guilt or innocence of Forrest Ferguson, on trial on a charge of using the mails to defraud by padding financial statements on which the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co. obtained loans of $3,350,000.

The jury began its deliberations at 12:55 p. m. yesterday, following arguments by counsel and routine instructions by the court. At 5:50 p. m., Judge Davis excused the jury for the week-end, with permission to go home and instructions to resume deliberations at 10 a. m. Monday.

Once during the afternoon the jury appealed to Judge Davis to explain what the effect of the mailing of letters by other officers of the company had on the guilt or innocence of Ferguson. Judge Davis repeated one of his instructions to the effect that if Ferguson engaged with others in carrying out a wrongful plan with a common purpose and a common effect, then any act performed by one was the act of all.

Trial Lasts a Week.

The trial began last Monday. Two previous trials in Federal Court had ended in jury disagreements. Testimony ended Friday afternoon.

In the Federal indictment Ferguson was accused of mailing a false financial statement purporting to show the condition of the Ferguson-McKinney Co., as of Feb. 28, 1925, to various banks; and of mailing notes and letters connected with the loans obtained from the banks. Ferguson signed the notes; the false financial statement was signed by Murray Carleton. The statement, purporting to show a balance of $4,669,735.08, was falsified to the extent of $2,3 6,449.30, it was charged, by padding assets and omitting liabilities.

The punishment for the offense charged, on conviction, is imprisonment up to five years, a fine up to $3000, or both.

Shifts Blame to Carleton.

Ferguson, as president, was subordinate to the late Murray Carleton, churchman and civic leader, in the direction of the Ferguson-McKinney Co., the collapse of which, nearly four years ago, was the biggest business scandal in St. Louis history. In his third trial, as in the previous trials, Ferguson's defense was that he merely obeyed the orders of Carleton, who was treasurer of the company, and head of the affiliated Carleton Dry Goods Co.

This defense led Assistant District Attorney Stattler to argue to the jury:

"You have heard but one side of the story. Carleton is not here to give his version. He lies in his grave with Ferguson hiding behind a dead man."

Albert Miller, of counsel for Ferguson, argued that the question of intent on Ferguson's part was the most vital issue. Reviewing the evidence, he asserted it had not been proved that Ferguson had intended to defraud anyone.

Attorney Miller referred to the bankers as "vultures swooping down on the company and causing the conditions of which they now complain." He added that Ferguson, Carleton and others believed that had not the creditors placed the firm in receivership, the firm eventually could have paid dollar for dollar.

Even with the assets liquidated at forced sale, the attorney continued, enough was realized to pay creditors 46 cents on the dollar, besides $160,000 paid out as expenses of the receivership.

Closing for the Government, District Attorney Breuer told the jury that Ferguson, after receiving a statement showing his firm had lost $1,000,000 in 1924, hurried with the statement to Carleton's bedside "and there it was that the scheme was hatched that resulted in this trial."

Breuer declared that the assets of the Ferguson-McKinney and affiliated companies had been juggled back and forth two or three times a year over a period of seven or eight years, to deceive creditors. He asked if this was consistent with Ferguson's claim to

AMPHIBIAN PLANE SERVICE UP AND DOWN MISSISSIPPI

New Company to Eliminate Need for Landing Fields by Following River.

Plans for a new air service centering in St. Louis and employing amphibian planes between Minneapolis-St. Paul and New Orleans were announced last night by Charles P. Bland of St. Louis and Redmond S. Brennan of Kansas City, counsel for the National Air Boat Express. Charles Davenport of Kansas City is president of the company, which is backed by St. Louis and Kansas City capital.

In addition to the line to be operated over almost the entire length of the Mississippi River, lines will be established over the Ohio River to Pittsburg and over the Missouri River to Kansas City. This service will enable St. Louisans to fly to the Twin Cities in five and a half hours, to New Orleans in seven hours, to Chicago in two and a half hours, and to Kansas City in three hours.

Officers of the company point out that the use of rivers instead of landing fields will reduce costs, save time, and increase safety. The air boats, capable of landing on ground or water, will follow the rivers, thus avoiding obstructions and enabling them to fly low within easy gliding distance of a natural "landing field." River landings will also bring passengers closer to the center of various cities, it was pointed out.

All lines will carry both passengers and express.

PLANE TAKES MESSAGE FROM CORD HELD BETWEEN BAYONETS

Device Is Developed for Communication Between Isolated Troops and Aircraft.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — A simple and practical method by which ground troops on action can communicate important information to co-ordinating air squadrons when cut off from all other means of communication has been developed by the War Department. During and since the World War such a device was sought for use by surrounded, isolated or lost troops.

The rig of the airplane is only a weighted hook on the radio antenna. That of the ground troops consists of a small message bag attached to 100 feet of cord swung suspended in a continuous loop on two rifles with bayonets fixed and held high by two soldiers.

The pilot of the plane swoops down over the line, between the uprights, and as he passes the line the suspended hook snatches it and the message bag. The observer in the plane then reels in the antenna and extracts the message, map or order.

So valuable has this means of communication proven during recent field maneuvers that orders have been issued to instruct aviators and ground troops in the use of this method.

JOHN COOLIDGE AND BRIDE AT GOV. TRUMBULL'S CAMP

Alone Except for Guide on Moosehead Lake; Neighbors 12 Miles Away.

By the Associated Press.

ROCKWOOD, Me., Sept. 28.—John Coolidge and his bride today enjoyed the seclusion sought by most honeymooners.

Twelve miles from any neighbors, except a few occupants of a nearby camp, and out of immediate reach of telephones, they plan to enjoy a week's stay at the summer camp of Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, father of Mrs. Coolidge, on Moosehead Lake. Their only adviser and handy man is J. W. Vandyke, the Governor's guide, who met them at Greenville late yesterday and transported them by private motorboat to the camp.

Their automobile, in which they motored from Plymouth, Vt., after a two-day visit at the Coolidge somestead, was parked in a Greenville garage.

PANTAGES SEEKS VENUE CHANGE

Theater Magnate Accused by Girl Serves Notice.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—Notice that a change of venue would be requested in the case of Alexander T. Pantages, 54 year old, multimillionaire vaudeville magnate, charged with two counts of assault on a dancing girl, was served on District Attorney Buron Fitts today by defense attorneys.

The notice contended that the husband of Mrs. Lois Pantages, recently convicted of manslaughter, could not obtain a fair trial in Los Angeles County. Burden of proof rests with the defense, and Fitts indicated he would fight the move. Pantages' trial on the charges, brought by Eunice Pringle, 17, is set for Tuesday in the court room in which Mrs. Pantages was recently convicted of manslaughter on charges growing out of the death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardener, in an automobile collision.

NEUN, KUHS JOIN FIGHT ON STREET CAR FRANCHISE

Ten Aldermen Now Have Taken Definite Positions Against 'Tying the City's Hands.'

WOULD NOT ABOLISH TRANSIT BOARD

They Are Members of Commission—'This Franchise Talk Is Useless,' Kuhs Declares.

Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, and Alderman Edward L. Kuhs of the First ward yesterday declared their opposition to a new street railway franchise, in interviews with a Post-Dispatch reporter.

As both are members of the city's Transportation Survey Commission, their attitude will have important bearing on the future action of that body, which was created by the Board of Aldermen more than a year ago to make a survey of transportation facilities and rapid transit requirements and possibilities, but which has devoted much time to the effort to get a new street railway franchise for the St. Louis Public Service Co.

The position of Neun and Kuhs was stated in discussion of the bill introduced in the Board of Aldermen Friday by Alderman Wimer of the Twenty-seventh ward, to abolish the Transportation Survey Commission by repeal of the ordinance creating it. This bill will have its second reading at the next meeting of the Board and then will be referred to a committee Against Abolishing Commission.

Both Neun and Kuhs thought it would not be wise to abolish the Commission at this time and this view was shared by some other Board members who were interviewed, but several suggested appointment of a committee of Aldermen to inquire into what the Commission has accomplished

In support of his bill, Alderman Wimer said the Commission had become a "rapid franchise" body instead of the rapid transit board it was supposed to be, and was wasting its appropriation of $50,000. It has spent $14 494 in the 14 months of its existence and has left 10 months of the period of two years for which it was created.

Two members of the Board, Wilbur C. Schwartz of the Twentieth ward and Clarence C. Kaufmann of the Twenty-fifth, said they would vote to abolish the Commission. Several others said they would be inclined to vote the same way unless the Commission could show it had accomplished more than is generally known.

"This Commission has as members some very able men," Alderman Kuhs said "and I believe it is capable of accomplishing a great deal for the improvement of existing transportation facilities and development of rapid transit if it will lay aside this franchise discussion and devote itself to the real problem. Its engineer has made some comprehensive surveys and reports and the foundation has been laid for a transportation plan

Won't "Tie City's Hands."

"But this franchise talk is useless. I am opposed to any kind of franchise or grant to the street car company, under any name or in any form, and as a member of the Commission I am opposed to wasting any more time on that matter. It is folly to even consider tying the hands of this city in transportation matters by a new franchise for 50 years or even for 30 or 10 years."

President Neun of the board said he thought it would be unwise to abolish the commission without giving it a further opportunity to do the work for which it was created, but that he was opposed to any further moves by the Commission for a franchise. He indicated such an attitude at the meeting of the Commission last Wednesday when he moved to have R. F. Kelker Jr., the Commission's engineer, report on the street railway situation in Detroit, Mich., before the Commission acts on Kelker's recommendation for a 'contract ordinance" franchise based on the so-called service-at-cost principle.

Aldermen Against Franchise.

With Neun and Kuhs openly against a franchise 10 members of the Board of Aldermen now have taken this position. The others are Edward Hirth, Eighth Ward; George Meisinger, Tenth; John Neu Jr., Thirteenth; H. P. Riefling, Fifteenth; Clarence C. Kaufmann, Twenty-fifth; Ralph Ellers, Twenty-sixth; Samuel Wimer, Twenty-seventh, and Herman Waldman, Twenty-eighth.

All others except one went on

ANGLO-U. S. PACT ONLY PRELIMINARY SAYS MACDONALD

Naval Accord Will but Pave the Way to Larger and More Inclusive Agreement, He Hopes.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Prime Minister MacDonald, in a message to the national executive of the Labor party prior to his departure for the United States, referred to the forthcoming disarmament conference at Washington and said that any agreement achieved could only be preliminary to a larger agreement which must be reached in conference with the other naval Powers.

"We are not trying to present any other nation or nations with a fait accompli which they must take or leave," he said.

The message will be read at the opening of the annual labor conference Monday.

"What we are determined to avoid is that the general march forward toward disarmament may be held up in the future, as it has been in the past, while the two great naval Powers, ourselves and America, halt by the wayside to argue about their special difficulties.

"I think we can now say that the kind of agreement necessary to prevent that is well within reach, and I go to meet President Hoover in the hope and expectation that the degree of friendly understanding achieved during many weeks of distant correspondence will be strengthened and rendered closer by a few days of personal contact.

"I also feel, quite irrespective of the particular points we have been discussing, that establishment of such contact is immensely to be desired and that nothing could be of more value to international good will than mutual confidence between the Governments of the United States and Great Britain."

WOMAN CLAIMANT OF M'CLINTOCK ESTATE WEDS

Isabelle Pope Said to Have Got $335,000 After Litigation Over Fiance's Property.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Before a small group of relatives and friends, Miss Isabelle Pope, former fiancee of the late William Nelson McClintock, was married tonight to Melvin Veeder. Miss Pope is reported to have received $335,000 as her share of McClintock's estate, over which Miss Pope, two groups of cousins and McClintock's guardian, William Darling Shepherd, have been engaged in litigation. Shepherd was tried and acquitted of McClintock's murder.

Miss Pope has alleged that Shepherd prevented her from marrying McClintock on his deathbed, and, on that ground, sought a widow's share of the estate.

North Wind Develops Which May Drive Bags South, With Landings East of St. Louis.

CONDITIONS DO NOT PORTEND A RECORD

Thousands See Inflation and Take-Off—Heat Expands Gas and Limits the Ballast.

By the Associated Press.

GODFREY, Ill., Sept. 28.—One of the balloons which started in the Gordon Bennett race was sighted here at 9:15 p. m. The bag was too high to make out its identity. It was flying six to seven miles an hour. Godfrey is approximately 40 miles due north of the starting point.

At 9:30 three other unidentified balloons passed over at an altitude of 400 to 500 feet, and at 9:45 a fifth bag floated over.

Balloon "racing," most antiquated of air sports, was shown at its slowest yesterday afternoon, when most of the people of St. Louis watched nine big balloons, entries of six nations in the Gordon Bennett international distance trophy contest, drift lazily over the city for nearly two hours, and disappear in the dusk to the north.

Rising languidly from the field at 8900 South Broadway, at five-minute intervals, beginning at 4 p. m., the yellow and silver spheres loafed along, first over Carondelet and South St. Louis, then over the West End, which because of the city's conformation is nearly due north from the starting place. The Tower Grove region, and later the Forest Park district, saw them for more than an hour, and several of them were visible from the Calvary Cemetery and Walnut Park sections when darkness cut off the view.

A dirigible balloon, plowing rings about the floating bags, and a tri-motored airplane which frisked around all the lighter-than-air craft, added to the sunset air show enjoyed by people in nearly all parts of the city.

Landing East of Here Predicted.

Early reports of the Weather Bureau made it appear that the air currents during the night would carry the balloons northward, but that by daylight they might find currents which would take them east and northeast, the directions in which distance records have been made in past flights from St. Louis. Later reports, issued shortly before by Lieut. M. T. Hankins, meteorologist at Scott Field, were that winds from the north might blow some of the contestants back in this direction. Rain was coming from western Iowa and Nebraska, but Lieut. Hankins saw a chance for the pilots to escape the rain by moving southeast. He predicted that some if not most of the balloons would land at points due east of St. Louis.

The hopes of the competing pilots, as to distance records, were not high. Erich Leimkugel, pilot of the German balloon Stadt Essen, first of the contestants to leave, looked over the Government weather reports a minute before his departure and said disgustedly:

"Ach, we stay over St. Louis all night."

As the Stadt Essen drifted away, to the strains of "Die Wacht am Rhein," at 4 o'clock, the pilot balloon, manned by Capt. H. E. Honeywell and three guests, had just passed from view to the northwest. Its slow start, and the repeated wisps of sand lined against the blue sky as its pilot sought an air current at height after height, showed plainly that everybody would have a slow time.

'SECRET BRITISH DOCUMENT' SAID TO BE A FORGERY

W. B. Shearer to Be Confronted With Copy of Letter He Wrote About to Shipbuilder Employers.

ONCE SHOWED IT TO JAMES A. REED

Committee Obtained Paper, Said to Bare Intrigue Against U. S., From Government Files.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—William B. Shearer, who will take the witness chair Monday in the Senate's spectacular inquiry of his big-navy propaganda at the Geneva Naval Arms Conference of 1927, will be confronted with a copy of the "amazing secret British document," about which he wrote in one of his letters to his shipbuilder employers.

Shearer will be asked how he procured this document, about the possession of which he boasted in his letter, and what use he made of it.

Senator Allen of Kansas, a member of the committee, obtained the copy from a governmental source, and is keeping the contents secret pending their disclosure at the hearing. Like experts who have examined the document for the Government, Allen is convinced that it is a forgery.

During the fight over the 15-cruiser bill in the last Congress, Shearer showed the document to James A. Reed, then in the Senate from Missouri, but Reed did not use it in his speeches for the bill, and there is no evidence that he was influenced by it. Reed's long-time views in favor of strong naval preparedness needed no bolstering.

Bore Earmarks of a Fake.

According to the recollection of others who saw the document at about the same time, its sophomoric character strongly suggested that it was a fake. It purported to be from a British statesman or secret agent—the accounts on that point vary—to a high official of his Government, and to give an account of British machinations against this country.

How far the three investigators, Senators Shortridge, Robinson and Allen, will go in uncovering Shearer's adventurous career remains to be seen. They themselves were not certain today just what lines the examination would follow, beyond the fact that they would seek to learn just what were Shearer's instructions from the shipbuilders and what he did at Geneva.

Shipbuilders Chief Target.

Particularly, of course, they want Shearer's version of what the shipbuilders told him to do. Colorful figure though he is, Shearer is, after all, but an incident in the investigation. The main business of the committee is to find out to what extent, if any, the shipbuilders, who stood to profit by the failure of the Geneva conference, were implicated in a conscious effort to produce that result.

It seems likely, however, that the exploration of Shearer's relations with the shipbuilders will lead the committee down some interesting by-paths in Shearer's career. Testimony has already been given by Drew Pearson, a newspaper man, who attended the Geneva conference, regarding a purported Scotland Yard dossier on Shearer. Judging from his mutterings and scowlings while Pearson was testifying, Shearer will undertake to answer the charges in this document. The way will thus be cleared, upon his own initiative, for as broad an examination of his career as the committee may care to make.

Reeves to Be Heard.

Preceding Shearer on the stand will be Rear Admiral J. M. Reeves, one of the American Naval experts at the Geneva conference, whom Pearson described as having been "loquacious" in expressing the hope that the conference would fail.

Rear Admiral Reeves, who lives at Annapolis, telephoned this morning to Chairman Shortridge that he desired to be heard in answer to Pearson. His request was immediately granted.

Shortridge said that after examining Shearer, the committee would decide whether or not it ought to summon the other Naval experts named by Pearson as apparently sympathetic with Shearer's views.

"What Shearer tells us," said Shortridge, "may make it imperative that we call the entire American delegation of Naval officers and recall the shipbuilders who have testified."

Shortridge and Allen both declared that they did not intend to let either Shearer or the Naval officers make the committeeroom a sounding board for their views on naval armaments, but would require them to stick to the matters under investigation.

Reed Says Shearer Once Talked to Him of International Matters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 28.—Former Senator James A. Reed said today that he did not remember having received from William B. Shearer any secret British document.

"I remember that Shearer called at my office once and talked about international matters," Reed said. "I do not remember his giving me any British document, or speaking of one. Yet I cannot be absolutely sure about this, for I had many callers, and quite a few of them had information which seemed to them of great importance.

"What I can say positively, and wish to say most emphatically, is that nothing said to me by Shearer had any efefct on my position on naval matters. The record will show that I have stood consistently for a strong navy."

In his speech supporting the 15-cruiser bill in the Senate last January, Senator Reed attacked dreamers, pacifists and internationalists as a menace to the safety of America, and satirized Senator Brookhart of Iowa in particular, cess of inflation, transforming the balloons from flat and sagging shapelessness to plump symmetry. Most of the inflation was finished by 3 p. m., but the United States Army and Navy balloons did not sever their gas pipe connections until after 3:30.

9 Balloons in Bennett Race Drift Northward

The heat, 89 degrees downtown by official figures, and several degrees more at the field in mid-afternoon, had the unfavorable effect of expanding the gas, and lessening the reserve of lifting power, as well as lessening the amount of sand ballast which could be taken. Because of the listless state of the air, there was no straining and tugging by the balloons, after they were filled. Scott Field landing crew had no difficulty in holding the balloons down, but had to be admonished not to push or shove the baskets. Their duty was merely to let go, and the pilot and his sandbags did the rest.

Air Board and Chamber of Commerce officials acted as starters, and told off minutes and seconds to obtain the proper 5-minute intervals. Although the starting time of each balloon was recorded carefully, the contest is wholly for distance, the winner being that balloon which lands farthest from the starting point. In the international race from St. Louis in 1907 the German winners went to Asbury Park, N. J., 872 miles, in 40 hours; in the race of 1910 from St. Louis, the American aeronauts Hawley and Post, were 44 hours in flying 1173 miles to a remote region in Quebec, and established a distance record for this continent. French flyers in 1912 were 46 hours in going 1334 miles from Stuttgart, Germany, to Moscow. The race goes each year to that country whose flyers won it the year before. The United States has won for the last three years.

A Contest of Skill.

Balloon racing, so-called, is in reality a contest of skill, in manipulation of ballast and selection of air levels. Such contests usually lack the chief characteristic of racing, in that the contestants are not in sight of each other for much of the time. They were well bunched, however, in their leisurely passage over St. Louis. From the low starting field, eight of the nine balloons could be seen after the last had started, and watchers on hotel roofs in the Forest Park district saw all nine at one time.

Drawing of lots had made the Stadt Essen the first starter. A closely packed throng held back by a ring of soldiers, drew about it as the pilot, Leimkugel, climbed into the rigging and waved his farewells to German-speaking friends. Georg Froebel was his aid. Boxes of cigarettes were conspicuous in the contents of the Essen's basket, though smoking is not admissible on a balloon flight, and was strictly forbidden at the starting field. The other flyers carried cigarettes also, explaining that they might land in some lonely spot where a smoke could not be bought.

Goodyear VIII, an American entry, distinguished by its new white bag from the yellow foreign balloons about it, and christened only a few minutes before with a bottle breaking ceremony, was the second starter. Ward T. Van Orman, winner of the Gordon Bennett trophy in 1926, was pilot of the Goodyear, with Alan MacCracken as his aid. The band played "Yankee Doodle' as the Goodyear rose.

Argentina's balloon, with no supporting local enthusiasts, had the quietest departure of all. Piloted by D. Eduardo Bradley, with Francisco Cadaval as aid, it left the ground just a shade before its scheduled time, which was 4:10. The starters thereupon took more care, and the subsequent ascents were on the second.

The airs played by the band for the ascent of the Argentina, and for the next entry, that of Denmark, were unfamiliar to most of the hearers, mut army officers present stood at attention and saluted them. The Danish bag, with the name "Danmark" on one side and the lettering "Oy Dan" on the other side, was piloted by Lieut. Georg Schemstrom, S. A. U. Rasmussen being his aid.

The second German balloon, the Barmen, was fifth in the takeoff. As the basket was released, the band struck up "Deutschland, Deutschland ueber Alles," and the pilot, Dr. Hugo Kaulen Jr., standing on the rim of his basket, led vigorously in the singing of the first verse. His aide, Fritz Ebener, joined in the singing, with a number of those on the ground.

The Barmen envelope hung a little askew in its netting, to which the basket was attached. As the German balloon moved slowly upward, the glass face of one of his instruments caught the sun's rays and winked like a heliograph.

Belgian a Four-Time Winner.

Capt. Ernest De Muyter, pilot of the Belgian balloon Belgica, was winner of the 1920, 1922, 1923 and 1924 races, making the first Gordon Bennett trophy the permanent possession of Belgium. He busied himself to the last second with tense orders and exact adjustment of ballast, "La Brabanconne," hymn of Belgium, was played as the Belgica arose, with red, yellow and black flag streaming beneath its basket. Frans Lecharlier was aid.

The Belgica, in the course of repairs, made since arrival in St. Louis, was turned inside out, and was inflated while still inside out. In consequence, the letters of its name, on the upper part of the bag, appeared in outline and in reverse. Capt. DeMuyter said it made no difference, but he had the name painted on the lower part of the bag.

Roses and naval uniforms were the setting of the next takeoff, that of the linen-colored United States Navy balloon. "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played as it ascended. Lieut. Thomas G. W. Settle was pilot, and received a goodbye kiss from Mrs. Settle, who had christened the new balloon shortly before. Lieut. Winfield Bushness was with him.

The national air was repeated for the silvery United States Army balloon, of which Capt. William E. Kepner of Scott Field was pilot, and Capt. James F. Powell aid. Capt. Kepner was the winner of last year's race, starting from Detroit and flying 460 miles to Kenbridge, Va. This victory made the United States the permanent holder of the second Gordon Bennett trophy. The present trophy is the third, and was provided by the Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

More burdened with equipment than the others, the Army balloon had instruments of all sorts, even to a radio aerial wrapped about a wooden frame and set in an aluminum pivot. By turning the aerial, and noting the relative loudness of various stations, the Army pilots will be able to locate their positions at night. In a netting bag slung to the side of the basket were two fleece-lined flying suits and two pairs of heavily lined rubber boots.

With "La Marseillaise" playing and with members of the French Society pressing about, the Lafayette, last in the takeoff, arose at 4:40. Georges Blanchet, pilot, had an American aid, Howard Scholle.

Four Carry Pneumatic Boats.

Four of the pilots carried pneumatic boats. The Goodyear had its boat folded up among other equipment. The Army, Argentina and Barmen carried their boats slung up in the ropes between bag and basket. The three American balloons had flotation apparatus under their baskets, air-filled rubberized tubes. The Navy pilot considered this sufficient without carrying a boat, but the Goodyear and the Army entry had double protection against a watery landing. One balloon which sailed from St. Louis in a national race, it is recalled, fell in Lake Huron, drowning its crew.

Capt. Honeywell, who has been a pilot in previous international races, but whose function this time was that of a tester of air-currents, remained in the air nearly three hours, and landed at 6:05 p. m. at Lambert-St. Louis Field, the city airport, about 20 miles northwest of the starting point. He said that the higher he went, the greater was the drift westward. He went to an altitude of 6500 feet, and he noticed that the competing balloons remained at a low altitude, to avoid being carried west. Their pilots preferred to go north until they could find an eastward air current.

Passengers in the pilot balloon were Capt. Honeywell's daughter, Mrs. C. F. Brown of Evansville, Ind., and two St. Louis men, H. E. Doerr and Arthur Hoskins.

Float Low Over West End.

In passing over the West End, most of the balloons were so low that their lettering could be seen by those on roofs, and even by those standing on lawns and street corners. The Stadt Essen, seen from Grand boulevard and De Tonty street, seemed hardly above the chimneys of adjoining apartment houses. The army balloon, near Forest Park, was flying almost as low. Most of those who watched the balloons saw frequent filtering of sand downward from one or another, the expenditure of precious ballast in the jockeying for an air current.

The gas supplied to each balloon was about 80,000 cubic feet, and the sand ballast was 1500 pounds, of which the different balloons had to leave portions up to one-third, according to the weight of their other contents. Each balloon had radio receiving apparatus, to receive weather reports broadcast from Scott Field in the languages of all the competing countries. Telegraph blanks were taken, to be dropped in towns, with messages to the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

The present competition is the eighteenth, the event having been established in 1906, and suspended through the war period and the year 1919. The winner will receive possession of the trophy for one year and $1000 in cash. Second prize is $800; third, $600; fourth, $400, and fifth, $200. Alan Hawley has promised $500 to the winner if the present Augustus distance record of 1173 miles, which he and Post made in 1910, is exceeded. Each foreign team receives $500 expense money and the United States entries $100. The Chamber of Commerce raised $22,500 to finance the event.

PHILADELPHIA PASTOR ACCEPTS ST. LOUIS CALL

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—The Rev. Edmund F. Miller, pastor of Wakefield Presbyterian Church, this city, announced today that he had accepted a call to the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church of St. Louis.

The Rev. Mr. Miller, who has served the local church for three years, was previously a missionary in Africa and held the pastorate of Cuyler Presbyterian Church in New York. He expects to leave here next Saturday.

ANNIVERSARY OF PROF. WISE'S FATAL FLIGHT IN BALLOON

Sept. 28, 1879 He Left St. Louis and With Aid Drowned in Lake Michigan.

Yesterday, when the eighteenth international balloon race started here, was the fiftieth anniversary of the fatal flight of Prof. John Wise, pioneer balloonist, who left St. Louis on his 463rd balloon voyage Sept. 28, 1879, and fell to his death in Lake Michigan that night.

Wise, who was from Lancaster, Pa., was accompanied on the flight by George Burr, who also was drowned.

Twenty years earlier, Wise traveled from St. Louis to Henderson, N. Y., by balloon over a roundabout course, covering 1150 miles and establishing a record that was not surpassed until 1900. He was accompanied on this trip by William Hyde of St. Louis, John La Mountain of Troy, N. Y., and D. A. Gager of Bennington, Vt. They left St. Louis Friday, June 1, 1859, in a balloon called the Atlantic and descended in New York state the next day. The Atlantic contained 60,000 cubic feet of gas and carried 900 pounds of ballast.

BARON TANAKA OF JAPAN DIES

Former Premier Succumbs to Heart Attack at 66.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Sept. 29.—(Sunday)—Baron Gitchi Tanaka, former Premier of Japan, died today of angina pectoris. He was 66 years old. He resigned with his Cabinet on July 2 last.

He suffered a heart attack at 5:30 this morning and died three hours later. Leaders of the Seisukai party met at the Tanaka residence shortly before noon to discuss the filling of Tanaka's place as president of the party.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Friends of Dieudonne Coste, French aviation ace, and his aid, Maurice Bellonte, who took off at 8:16 a. m. Friday (1:16 a. m. St. Louis time Saturday,) in an attempt to break the world record for straightaway flight, were without news of them tonight. The flyers were last reported over Cologne, Germany, about 12 hours after their start.

It was figured that unless he has met with an accident, Coste probably will not be heard from until he lands some time tomorrow morning. It was thought that today he was winging his way over the sparsely settled districts of Siberia.

The plane carried fuel for 50 hours. French aviation experts thought that it would cover more than 5000 miles on that supply.

record in interviews with a Post-Dispatch reporter as favoring home rule by St. Louis over its public utilities, which cannot be had under a franchise, but said they were not ready to say how they would vote on a franchise proposal. None took a stand in favor of a new franchise.

Besides the franchise proposal the Transportation Survey Commission now has before it two specific recommendations of its engineer for improvement of service. One is the street car rerouting report submited in May about which nothing has ben done, and the other is the bus and street car coordination program submitted at last Wednesday's meeting.

Chairman Russell of the commission will appoint a committee tomorrow to consider the bus report and Chairman Erastus Wells of the rerouting committee is planning to hold public hearings on the rerouting proposal.

CONFESSES PART IN MURDER OF MISS DUEBBERT

Norman Tanner Says She Was Shot When He and Partner Misunderstood Remark in German.

THOUGHT SHE HAD RECOGNIZED THEM

Confession Names David A. Miller as Actual Slayer, but Youth Admits Wounding Cousin.

Misinterpretation of a remark in German passed by Miss Pauline Deubbert to her cousin, August Meyer, when two intruders appeared on their farm at Femme Osage, St. Charles County, Aug. 22, last, led to the murder of Miss Duebbert and the wounding of Meyer, Norman Tanner, one of the men under arrest for the crime, told Prosecuting Attorney Bloebaum in a detailed confession yesterday.

Robbery alone was their object, Tanner said, but when Miss Duebbert muttered something, in the foreign tongue, after one of the men had struck her, they thought they had been recognized as having been employed as woodcutters on the farm a year before and opened fire.

According to Sheriff Grothe, Miss Duebbert's words, translated, were: "He hit me."

Says Partner Was Slayer.

Tanner stated that he shot Meyer and that David A. Miller, his companion, murdered Miss Duebbert. Tanner, who is 21 years old, blue-eyed, tall and fair-haired, said that his first shot sent Meyer to his knees and at Miller's behest he shot him two more times. Meyer is recovering.

Miller steadfastly refused to confirm Tanner's story. He is 44 years old. When questioned by a deputy sheriff yesterday, he stopped in the middle of a sentence to ask: "Where am I?" Tanner who is lodged on another floor of the county jail, readily admitted that he had confessed, identifying a pistol found near the scene as the one he had used.

"Now that I've gotten it all off my chest I feel better than I have since that awful night," Tanner told a Post-Dispatch reporter after his confession. "Believe me, when I went to that farm I didn't have any idea of doing what I did. We were just going to rob the place."

Tanner's confession came after he had been questioned for several hours by Sheriff Grothe, who has directed the search for the men. Sheriff Grothe sent for Prosecuting Attorney Bloebaum who questioned him further and took down his detailed confession, which he signed.

"We drove from Boonville in my auto on Aug. 21," Tanner told Bloebaum, "and left the machine in St. Charles. By street car we went to East St. Louis where we bought our pistols, came back to Market street and bought our coveralls and returned to the machine, driving out to a woods overlooking the Duebbert farm. Here we parked and slept all night.

Thought She Knew Him.

"All day Aug. 22 we just fooled around and in the evening walked to the farm where Miss Duebbert and Meyer were butchering a hog. When Miller struck Miss Duebbert and she said something in German, we thought sure she knew us and began shooting. If she had kept still, we would have robbed the place and beat it. As it was, we had to run without getting anything, although Miller wanted to rob the place anyway."

Miller was arrested Sept. 22 at the home of a relative near Buffalo, Mo., after a pair of sun glasses found near the scene of the murder had been traced to him. He was known as "the woodcutter with the glasses." Tanner was arrested the next day at Picher, Ok.

A note from Miller to Tanner advising him to "stick to your alibi" was intercepted in the jail a few days ago, Sheriff Grothe said.

The first definite clew which led to the apprehension of Miller was furnished Sheriff Grothe by Chester A. Hurt of Crocker, Mo., a lumber buyer and former employer of Miller, who was seeking him for passing several checks on his firm after his dismissal, a few days before the shooting. Hurt discovered that Miller had communicated with a relative. The lumberman visited the relative and discovered that Miller had once broached to him a plan to rob the Duebbert farm.

HURRICANE NOW THREATENS WEST COAST OF FLORIDA

way that really savored of the hurricane.

Throughout Friday, squalls repeatedly bent to earth the palms on Miami's ocean front parkway and then the sun would shine. Automobiles would travel gayly in the sunshine and a few moments later, motorists would be attempting to start engines, drowned by water blown through the hood by a 40-mile-an-hour wind. Still no really severe storm developed here. Hour after hour the hurricane in the Bahamas, changed its direction. During four days it moved slightly northward, then southward, then southwestward, then appeared to head for the Florida coast again, then back-tracked and devastated the island of Nassau. Then it seemed to sweep westward, venting fury on the Florida keys, and from time to time, the Weather Bureau reported the storm "still intense, but stationary, not moving in any direction, and impossible at this time to foretell its next direction."

95 Miles an Hour at Miami.

Miami, which prides itself now on knowing how to combat a hurricane, nevertheless shivered at threats of the storm's approach, and throughout today, there was the fear here that the wind, which reached 95 miles an hour at times, would rise higher.

Despite terrific wind buffetings in the Miami district weather man Gray stood by his bulletin: "There is no reason for alarm in the Miami district."

Tonight, the storm which roused fears earlier, was described as "Not so bad—nothing like '26."

For the first time in five days, residents are confident that no hurricane is in the offing. Tomorrow they will go back to their beaches.

Marooned 11 Hours.

Sixty-five passengers aboard the crack Havana special train, which was marooned near Homestead for 11 hours in the face of 90-mile-an-hour winds, reached Miami today. Blown down roofs, broken trees and fallen telegraph poles lay along the route. The train left Miami at 2:45 a. m. today and 4:45 a. m., ran into flooded tracks on the southern keys. H. B. Robinson, the conductor who took the same train through the 1926 hurricane and through that of 1928, ordered it back to Homestead, hoping to avoid the storm. The train was rocked from side to side by the winds. The station at Homestead was blown down, while the passengers were breakfasting. The day coaches were drenched with water, and one Pullman received a good wetting. Several windows were smashed, either by the wind or by objects blown against them. The passengers were in no marked discomfort although following luncheon, the ice supply and the water supply were reported to be low.

The wind roared outside the coaches and the rain drummed against them. Outside the train, forest of 30-foot Florida pines, the width of bean pjoles, swayed and whipped furiously in the blasts. Telephone and electric light poles along a highway adjoining the track tottered and fell as the wind increased.

At 4:30 this morning, the train started back from the Florida keys. At 6 o'clock it stopped near Homestead to weather the storm. It rained there until 4:30 p. m., when the train was ordered back to Miami.

MANY LIVES LOST IN STORM AT NASSAU

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 28.—A wireless dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent at Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, received late today follows:

"Severest hurricane known struck Nassau from west 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, preceded by 24-hour gale from west in early stages. Rose very high flooding road and carrying away sea wall and flooding houses. After seven hours' blow from west and southwest the center was over Nassau.

"Lull four hours. Resumed midnight blowing harder than before from southeast and east. Continued all Thursday. Barometer at height of storm 27.64. Abated Friday. Still strong winds blowing... Damage to private property enormous. Few houses escaped. Many unroofed, particularly in Negro quarter. Stores, churches and shipping suffered very severely.

"Mail steamer Princess Montagu blown out of harbor. Stranded Tony Rock. Rescued passengers and crew today (Saturday). Mail vessel Ena K., safe in harbor.

"Many lives lost and casualties considerable. Impossible estimate yet. No news other islands. Feared some suffered severely. No communication yet."

A relief boat was prepared here to proceed to the aid of Nassau as soon as the winds and seas permit.

Key West Streets Deep in Water But Winds Are Moderating.

By the Associated Press.

KEY WEST, Fla., Sept. 28.—As the winds blowing here this afternoon began to moderate and barometric pressure rose steadily early tonight, the weather bureau forecaster here reported that the diection of the wind had shifted to west-southwest and expressed the hope that the worst of the hurricane had passed.

Streets in many sections of the city were deep in water late this afternoon and virtually all automobile traffic had ceased because of the difficulty of driving in face of the strong wind and rain.

Two boats, the Princess Montagu and the Domira, were aground on islands of the Bahama group. All of the 33 aboard the Princess Montagu were said to have been saved while 27 of the 30 members of the crew and officers of the Domira abandoned the craft on Thursday. The Bahamian, a British freighter in service between Jacksonville and Nassau had not been heard from since leaving the former place on Monday carrying a crew of 12. The other ship unreported is the Isle of June, a freighter which cleared Miami on Tuesday with a crew of eight.

Tanker Aground on Sombrero Key Sends S O S Call

By the Associated Press.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 28.—The Radio Marine Corporation radio station here tonight reported receiving an SOS call from the tanker Garnet Hurlings (formerly the Salina) which reported that it was aground on Sombrero Key, 30 miles east of Key West.

Fort Meyers on West Coast of Florida Reports High Wind.

By the Associated Press.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Sept. 28.—As the tropical hurricane passed westward through the Florida Straits late today winds which occasionally reached a maximum velocity of 50 miles an hour and heavy rain were experienced here. Telephone communication with points south of here failed tonight after a message from Naples, 40 miles south of here, had told of gales there.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT CALLED IN GUS O. NATIONS' SUIT

She an Man Who Syndicated Her Articles on Prohibition Subpenaed for Depositions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney-general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, and Hilmar Baukhage, manager of Current News Features, Inc. which handled her newspaper articles on prohibition, were subpenaed today for taking of depositions Monday in the $1,000,000 damage suit instituted against Mrs. Willebrandt in St. Louis by Gus O. Nations, former Federal Prohibition agent. Heber Nations, brother of Gus Nations, is in Washington.

Heber Nations said he had come to Washington to visit his parents.

Mrs. Willebrandt could not be reached.

From persons to whom Heber Nations talked, it was learned that he had depositions charging that the government used perjured testimony in its second trial against him, in which Mrs. Willebrandt was active.

FORMER EDITOR OF NEW MENACE SLAIN IN FLORIDA

W. P. (Billy) Parker Shot Dead in Labor Paper Office by Jacksonville City Employe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 28.—W. P. (Billy) Parker, 56 years old, former editor and owner of the Menace, anti-Catholic weekly published at Aurora, Mo., was shot and killed late today in the editorial offices of the Blue Shirt, labor publication, which he established here.

Harvey Jackson, employe of the city Street Department, shot him twice, then surrendered to police. He said he fired in self-defense.

Incensed by articles about him which Parker had published in the Blue Shirt, Jackson went to the editor and demanded an explanation. There was an exchange of words.

Eyewitnesses said Parker started to rise from his chair and was shot by Jackson at close range. One bullet entered the editor's left temple and another the chest.

Parker's wife and daughter, in his office at the time, witnessed the shooting. The daughter, Mrs. Ira Johnson, is business manager of the Blue Shirt.

Jackson refused to discuss the shooting beyond saying he went to the office for an explanation of what he termed "lies in the paper." He declared that he fired when Parker attempted to attack him with a carpenter's square which lay on his desk.

Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Johnson and other witnesses, however, declared Jackson stormed into the office and began profanely to abuse Parker. Parker asked him not to use such language before his wife and daughter. Jackson is said then to have dared him to stand up. When the editor started from his chair, Jackson fired.

As editor of the Menace Parker gained a national reputation. He came to Jacksonville about 12 years ago. He had been editor of the Blue Shirt for about a year, waging a bitter fight against the employment of Negro labor. He termed everybody who employed Negroes "traitors to the white race." In his paper two weeks ago and again today, Parker printed attacks on Jackson for his alleged attempts to "collect money from city workers so they can hold their jobs when he, Jackson, is barely able to hold his own."

Scotch Emigrant, Grocer, Lecturer on Labor Catholicism.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 28.—James Parker, son of William P. (Billy) Parker, widely known anti-Catholic lecturer and former editor of the New Menace at Aurora, Mo., who was shot and killed in Jacksonville, Fla., this afternoon, left Aurora tonight for Jacksonville. James Parker is secretary and treasurer of the New Menace.

Three other sons, Tom, Garvit and Karl, live at the family home in Jacksonville, and another son, John, lives at El Paso, Tex.

Mr. Parker is survived also by his widow, Mrs. Jeanie W. Parker, and a daughter, Mrs. Jeanie Johnson, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Mr. Parker emigrated from Scotland about 35 years ago, and was for many years in the grocery business in Boston. Later he was identified with the union labor movement as lecturer and organizer at Dubois, Pa., in the mining region.

In 1913 he turned to anti-Catholic lecturing, through an informal affiliation with the old Menace. In 1916 he became business manager of the Menace, and after the burning of the plant in 1919 became editor of the New Menace. He retired from active connection with the paper in 1926.

NEW YORK HEIR TO $3,000,000 ESTATE DROWNS IN BATH

R. R. Ashner Would Have Received Property in 10 Years Under Unusual Will.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Robert Randolph Ashner, Brooklyn bachelor, 30 years old, who was to inherit $3,000,000 at the age of 40, provided he was of "good moral habit" and had "lawful living issue," at that time was drowned in a bathtub at Stuttgart, Germany, last week. Ashner and his mother, the widow of a Brooklyn investment broker, were touring in Germany.

Sigmund Ashner, father of Robert, died a year ago. The extraordinary provisions of her will excited much comment when it was filed for probate. Robert, an only child, always had plenty of money and, according to friends spent it recklessly.

The Ashner fortune now will be divided, presumably under the clause in the will which would have become effective if the son, upon the age of 40, should have been judged not moral.

The widow, who received but $12,000 annually while her son lived, will receive one fourth of the $3,000,000. Bertie Fink, a godson, will get another fourth and the remaining half will be divided among 30 relatives of the late broker.

Sigmund Ashner, who came to America as a German immigrant boy, entered the tobacco leaf business and made a fortune through investments in real estate.

be a fair and honest merchant.

"I imagine when Ferguson crosses the River Jordan a blush of shame will suffuse his face if he recalls these transactions," Breuer continued.

"The name of Murray Carleton has come out so frequently in this trial, I would like to remind the jurors that Murray Carleton has taken a change of venue from this world and is not on trial."

Holds Ferguson Responsible.

The Government attempted to show the personal responsibility of Ferguson for the false statements used in obtaining loans from the banks. Bankers from St. Louis and New York testified to conversations with Ferguson after the crash in which he admitted that padded statements had been issued.

One witness, George R. Baker, New York banker, said Ferguson admitted to him that a statement not only failed to show $1,251,000 due to affiliated companies, but omitted mention of Ferguson's personal obligations of $115,000. A St. Louis banker, Harold M. Bixby, testified that Ferguson remarked to him: "I guess I am headed for the penitentiary."

Ferguson, who is 68 years old, was the only witness for the defense, except for four character witnesses.

Alfred Baggot, secretary of the firm, and co-defendant in previous trials, and was not called as a witness. The Government took a severance in his case.

Defendant Says He Took Orders.

Picturing himself as the subordinate and protege of Carleton, Ferguson said he continued to take orders from Carleton, as he had done when a salesman under Carleton's supervision.

"I accepted directions from Mr. Carleton and did what he told me to do," Ferguson said, "and if he were alive today, I feel that I would still do the same."

Ferguson and other friends of Carleton have maintained that, but for the illness which began before the collapse of the business, and caused his death some months later, Carleton would have pulled the business through its difficulties.

Ferguson testified to visiting Carleton's bedside and suggesting a liquidation. Carleton objected, Ferguson said, on the ground that the closing of Ferguson-McKinney would hurt his other enterprises. Ferguson testified that Carleton gave him directions for padding the financial statement and that he (Ferguson) conveyed the instructions to the secretary and head bookkeeper.

Obeyed Without Question.

"As president of the manufacturing company," Ferguson went on, "I had no power over the finances, in fact, no connection with them and no voting power. Mr. Carleton handled all the financial affairs of this and his other companies.

"I never lost confidence in Mr. Carleton and accepted his orders without question at all times."

The first attempts to prosecute Ferguson was made in the State courts. He was indicted with Carleton on charges of felonious making of false statements, and was indicted separately on an embezzlement charge. After Carleton's death, Ferguson went to trial on the embezzlement charge and was freed by a directed verdict. The remaining charges were then dismissed.

Later the Attorney-General's office obtained indictments charging Ferguson with issuing a false financial statement, and obtaining money by false pretenses, and these cases have remained on the docket, awaiting the outcome of the Federal prosecution.

President Has "Gallery" of Unsolicited Portraits

Just Off Study Hoover Exhibits "One-Man Show" for Amusement of His Guests.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Full masculine prerogatives at the White House will mean for Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald a glimpse of President Hoover's own, very individual art gallery.

Reflecting a very human side of Herbert Hoover, the little gallery, a very recent growth, is fast gaining fame in high official circles. It gives a whimsical flavor to that mellow after-dinner moment, while the men have their cigars in the President's study.

The same quiet humor which prompted the President to make his speech on how humble a man must be in the eyes of a fish, also prompted the picture gallery. It covers the walls of a small room adjoining the study, and consists of pencil, pen, and oil portraits, sepia studies, and etchings of the President as conceived by widely-scattered artists, mostly amateur.

All have arrived at the White House as gifts since Mr. Hoover took office in March. None was posed for, and several apparently had none too lifelike photographs as inspiration. Several, done with impressionistic flourish and little attempt at likeness, are excellent.

Appreciating the work that went into them, and the spirit in which they were sent, President Hoover accords equal honor to all. It is not a gallery where a stern judge decides before a picture is hung.

The largest canvas, from South America, depicts a full-length President standing behind four flower pots, equally spaced along the front foreground. The smallest is an old-fashioned medallion, framed in woven raffia, red, white, and blue.

The President walks into his gallery and chuckles to see himself as others see him. The gallery may thus become his winter time substitute for Rapidan fishing, which gave him opportunity to see himself as he must appear in the eye of fishes. He tells his guests it is his "one man show."

It is probable the President's study will be the scene of one of many of the President's conversations with MacDonald. If so, the adjacent gallery may afford a few light moments in a very serious talk. Announcement of a formal dinner the night of the seventh is taken to indicate that the men will, as usual, have their cigars in the study with the picture gallery providing that after-dinner chuckle prescribed for good digestion.

ANGLO-U. S. PACT ONLY PRELIMINARY, SAYS MACDONALD

shortly afterward sailed for America. The trip to Cherbourg was uneventful, the sea being smooth.

The Berengaria put into Cherbourg slightly late on account of fog but sailed in a brilliant sunshine at 4 p. m. MacDonald is due in New York Friday.

MacDonald was in excellent spirits and responded to acclamations of a group of English tourists.

ABOARD THE U. S. BERENGARIA, Sept. 28.—The Berengaria tonight was fairly started on its voyage to New York with Prime Minister MacDonald aboard. The voyage began early today at Southampton where, with his daughter, Ishbel, and members of his official party, MacDonald boarded the liner last night. A short call was made at Cherbourg for other passengers.

The MacDonald party is naturally the center of attraction with the whole ship giving itself over to the job of following every movement of the Prime Minister and has daughter. MacDonald was the idol of the passengers today. Before Cherbourg was reached his daughter also had captured the popular fancy with simplicity, naturalness and sincerity.

MacDonald to all appearances spent an entirely carefree day and was still in a relaxed mood tonight. He sat for a few hours in the lounge after dinner, chatting with other members of his party and with friends. His daughter sat with him in a becoming black lace frock, with a gold evening wrap.

For two hours during the morning she left the imperial suite and read correspondence and wrote letters in the common writing room of the vessel where many of her fellow passengers were gathered. She wore a simple green short-sleeved frock with no hat, her wavy brown hair being parted in the middle and dressed low in the neck. Her shoes were of white sports type with gray stockings.

Earlier in the day she had worn a red leather coat to keep off the chill of the fog while patrolling the decks and waving farewells overside before the departure. She wore no hat.

EARTHQUAKE IN HILO RIPS STREET APART

Dozen Cracks Appear in Church After Continuation of Hawaiian Temblors.

By the Associated Press.

HILO, Hawaii, Sept. 28.—An earthquake rocked the entire city of Hilo at 7:10 a. m. today. One of the main streets was ripped apart in two places. The Catholic Church, which was moved on its foundation, was marred by a dozen cracks.

The shock was similar to that which caused $100,000 damage in the Kona district on the western, or opposite side, of Hawaii Island. It was the first shock felt in Hilo of the series of quakes that have kept the populace of the Kona district frightened since Monday night.

Hilo is approximately 60 air line miles from Kona district which has been shaken almost continually following the first shock Monday night, caused by movements of lava within the craters of the volcanoes Mauna Loa, Kilauea and Hualalai.

The volcano observatory at Kilauea, reported that 50 earthquakes in the last 24 hours were recorded on its seismograph, in such manner as to indicate that two columns of lava were rising to the surface. General belief is that the lava will appear from the craters of Hualalai or Mauna Loa, as predicted by volcanologist Thomas A. Jaggar.

Residents in the country to the north of Hilo were moving their belongings across the Wailuku River today in an attempt to get away from the Puuoo District where the quakes seemed to be concentrated. The district is about 15 miles east of Hilo and is sparsely settled.

After a lull yesterday, a series of shocks began at 10 o'clock last night. With increasing intensity they were felt over the entire island of Hawaii.

More than 200 shocks have been felt by the terrorized populace during the present seismic disturbance. Dr. Jaggar, who has studied the volcanoes of Hawaii for many years, said that such activity usually preceded an eruption, and that the Haulalai, Mauna Loa and Kilauea volcanoes might erupt simultaneously any time within a month, or the activity might be confined to any one of the three.

Hualalai, although dormant since 1801, was considered by Jaggar the most likely to burst into activity. Mauna Loa, which has discharged lava streams down its slopes from the 13,675-foot peak, is 22 miles south from Hualalai by air line. Kilauea, world's largest active volcano, which has frequently erupted, is about 20 more miles distant from Hualalai, on the southern slope of Mauna Loa.

YOUNG WOMAN'S BODY TAKEN FROM MISSISSIPPI

At the Foot of Valentine Street; Apparently in the River Only a Few Hours.

The body of an unidentified young woman was taken from the Mississippi River at the foot of Valentine street late yesterday. Death apparently had been caused by drowning. At the morgue it was said the body had been in the water only a few hours.

The woman was about 23 years old, five feet, four inches in height, weighing about 115 pounds, and clothed in a gray and green suit. She had dark bobbed hair.

SMOOT TO SEEK VOTE TUESDAY ON FLEXIBLE TARIFF

Expects, However, Decision on Clause Hoover Supports Will Be Delayed Past That Date.

SUGGESTS ONE VOTE MAY DECIDE ISSUE

Refuses Democrats' Request to Pair Copeland Who Is on His Way Back From Europe.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Contending factions in the Senate dispute over retention in the tariff bill of the 7-year-old policy of permitting the President to change customs duties, continued to express confidence of success today after a round of conferences.

The Senate took a day off for the first time since it began consideration of the Hawley-Smoot measure three weeks ago.

Republican leaders, backed by President Hoover in their efforts to keep the flexible tariff clause in the bill, reiterated they had enough votes to win. Democratic leaders countered with the claim that they had sufficient strength to repeal the provision. They were supported in this view by the Republican independents.

One Vote May Decide.

That the issue may hinge on a single vote was indicated by Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah, who said he was unwilling to give the Democrats a pair for Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, who is on his way from Europe.

The Finance Committee chairman viewed the readiness of the Democrats to vote yesterday as based on the condition that a pair be obtained for Copeland, but Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking minority member of the committee, said he was prepared for the ballot without a pair.

Smoot said he would ask for a vote by 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon but thought a decision would be delayed until later.

The remark, "as the flexible provision goes so goes the bill," dropped by Senator Sackett, of Kentucky, a Republican member of the Finance Committee, seemed to sum up the feelings of the administration Republicans.

Anxious to strengthen the Democratic cause, the Republican independents held a meeting during the day and decided to propose an amendment to the Simmons' proposal for repeal of the flexible provisions, and for making the Tariff Commission an agency of Congress alone.

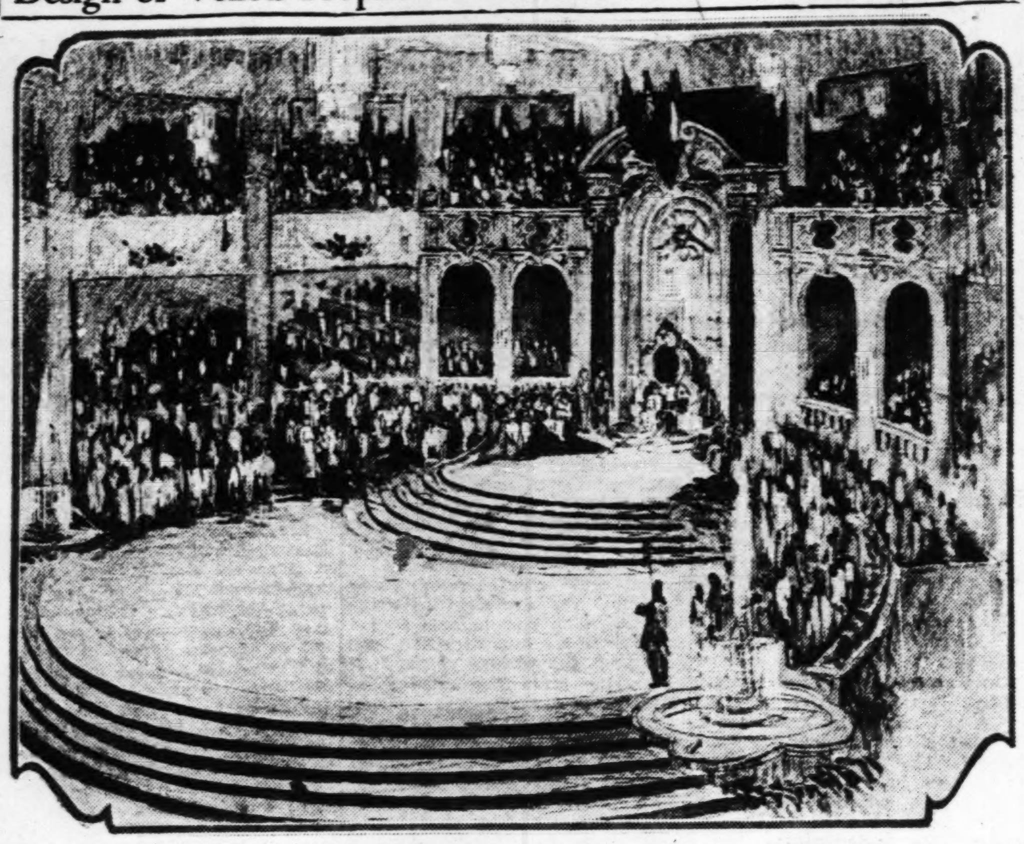
Amendments Proposed.

Framed by Senator Norris, (Rep.), Nebraska, the amendment would provide that whenever the commission recommended a change in a duty to Congress, consideration should be confined to the item or items in the report, thus avoiding a general revision every time the commission reported.

The proposal, which the Democrats are inclined to favor, would be in the nature of a declaration of policy against opening up the tariff to general revision every time the commissio nreported.

In event the minority plan fails, the Republican independent group it is understood is prepared to offer another amendment in the form of a compromise, but still giving Congress the final decision as to rate changes. It would allow the President to proclaim new rates after investigation by the Tariff Commission, but would provide also that either House, within 90 days, could nullify the proclamation by resolution.

Design of Veiled Prophet's Throne at 1929 Ball at Coliseum



THE VEILED PROPHET, tradition of traditions though he is, has discarded the throne chairs of former years and, for his annual appearance before his subjects Oct. 9 at the Coliseum, will use a single gorgeous settee surmounted by the royal coronet.

The special maids and members of the Prophet's court will sit in chairs flanking the throne, four on either side, on levels graduating down to the stage. The entire stage and setting, finished to resemble Italian marble, will be of the French Empire period, enlivened by hundreds of flowers.

Back of His Mysterious Majesty's settee will tower two massive columns of black and gold supporting a curved pediment of gold. The arch, 16 feet high, will be filled with mirrors and in front of the highest mirror will hang a crystal chandelier shedding its light over the Prophet's august head. On the front of the golden pediment will be a garland of fruits and flowers and a shield from which will rise the three flags which have flown over St. Louis—the ensigns of Spain, France and the United States.

On each side will be a frieze-surmounted arcade forming two royal boxes. They are to be hung with orchid draperies, and wreaths of smilax are to be thrown over the marble balustrades in front.

U. S. INJUNCTION PERMITS 10-CENT FARE IN LOUISVILLE

City Will Appeal, However, and Provision Is Made for Refund If Street Railway Loses.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 28.—Federal Judge Dawson today granted injunction to the Louisville Railway Co. ordering the city not to interfere with the company's plans to charge a 10-cent street car fare.

The injunction permits the company to charge 10 cents cash fare, with "permission to experiment with reduced fare tickets." The new rate will be put into effect after the order has been signed next Wednesday.

The company went to court with the claim that the present 7-cent fare was confiscatory, the same plea which ended 5-cent fares in this city eight years ago. The city contended throughout that Judge Dawson had no jurisdiction, but there was extended testimony as to the value of the company's property, with the city and the company far apart in their estimates.

The city will appeal the case, and provisions must be made for refund of fares in excess of 7 cents if the company loses. The issues involved have never been before the Supreme Court it was contended by the city.

FINDS HUSBAND HAS ANOTHER FAMILY; GETS ANNULMENT

Mrs. Esther Grace Lee, 18, Learned Fact a Few Days After Marriage Aug. 10.

On testimony that her husband deceived her by exhibiting false divorce papers and thereby induced her to marry him when he had a wife and two children, Mrs. Esther Grace Lee, 18 years old, 4915 Trendley avenue, East St. Louis, obtained an annulment decree in City Judge Cook's court in East St. Louis yesterday.

The husband, Willard B. Lee, 31, a salesman, was said to be under observation in the Alton State Hospital.

Mrs. Lee testified they were married on Aug. 10 in St. Louis. Lee became ill a few days later, she said, and she went to his mother's home to nurse him. She related that his mother then told her he was not divorced from his first wife.

NORWOOD (MO.) BANK CLOSED

Ryan Company Had Total Resources of $223,530.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 28.—The Ryan Banking Co. at Norwood, Wright County, which had $223,530 total resources, was closed today by its board of directors, the State Finance Department announced. The bank had $25,000 capital, $5000 surplus, $160,930 deposits, $176,616 loans, and $30,000 bills payable, according to its last statement.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Sept. 28.—The Crawford County State Bank at Girard, Kan., failed to open for business today. The directors at a meeting last night decided not to open the depository, one of two banks in Girard.

SUITS OVER ARREST OF TEXTILE WORKERS

Three, Held for Day and Freed, Seek $150,000 From North Carolina Officer.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 28.—Three suits for $150,000, growing out of efforts of the National Textile Workers' Union to establish itself in the Carolinas, have been filed here against Alex West, Charlotte Police Chief, and John R. Irwin, Mecklenburg County Sheriff.

The suits were brought by S. D. Saylors, C. M. Lell and Paul F. Sheppard for $50,000 each and resulted from the arrest of eight members and leaders of the National Textile Workers' Union, on charges of conspiracy to overthrow the State government. The cases against the unionists were dismissed in City Court for lack of evidence.

Suits in favor of George Sauls, Taylor Shytle, Dewey Martin, John Gibson and Etley Ritch, the other five men, and in behalf of Ben Wells, British textile worker, and Lell and Saylors on account of their kidnaping from Gaston County, will be filed later, it is announced.

The actions already filed charge that Saylors, Lell and Sheppard were arrested Sept. 12 and held without charges until noon the next day and that on Sept. 16, when the cases came up for preliminary hearing, they were dismissed without trial. The arrest, it is alleged, was "fictitious, trumped up, wicked and malicious."

State and defense counsel are preparing for opening on Monday of the third effort to try 13 men on charges of first degree murder and three women for second degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting, June 7, of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia.

34-Passenger Seaplane Launched.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 28.—A 34-passenger Commodore seaplane, one of the largest passenger flying boats ever built in America, was launched this afternoon here by the Consolidated Air Craft Co. The ship is the first of 12 similar planes which will go into service between New York, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires. The ship is powered with 575 horsepower twin motors and is capable of a speed of 140 miles an hour.

ROADHOUSE OWNER ARRESTED

Liquor Found in Raid on Place of Walter F. Niehaus.

Several quarts of wine and one quart of whisky were obtained by Deputy Sheriffs Newbold and Elder of St. Louis County in a raid on Cretonne Inn, a roadhouse on the Manchester road about one mile west of Geyer road, yesterday afternoon. Armed with a search warrant the two deputies found the bottles in a clump of weeds near the main building. They arrested Walter F. Niehaus, proprietor, on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor.

Niehaus was released on $1000 bond.

Your ears and eyes tell you why there are 5000 actual purchasers of Majestic Radios every single day.
Because of Majestic tone—that has never been equaled in radio. Because Majestci volume can be turned up to maximum without a trace of distortion. Because Majestic's distance-getting ability outreaches that of sets costing hundreds more. Majestic's sharp selectivity is without a rival. Majestic's quiet operation is unequaled—elimination of hum, sputter, and all background noise.

150 New Grand Pianos to be sold for $435 each

There is no thrill to match her glow of pride when first she sees her living-room touched with the glory of a Grand Piano . . .

12 leading retailers throughout the country, operating 100 music stores, are cooperating with the AEOLIAN COMPANY, international makers of fine pianos, in a great Selling Plan which will begin in St. Louis with the opening of our store tomorrow morning. Our quota of the instruments to be offered is just 150—no more—no less. So 150 persons will have this opportunity and no one has ever been able to obtain a good, durable Grand Piano at a lower price; upon easier terms; upon fairer or squarer conditions; or upon a more economical plan.

These instruments were contracted for and this Sale planned and arranged many months ago. (This will be told of fully in another advertisement.) They are all of one quality, and will all sell at the same price—$435. A piano of this grade at this price is only possible through the vast resources and facilities of the Aeolian Company who are known the world over as manufacturers of pianos of high-grade only.

We have entered into this plan enthusiastically because we believe it makes a rare opportunity available to you.

In Wood, Ivory, Felt, Strings, Tone and Workmanship. These Pianos are worthy of a place in any Home

The pianos that go into this Sale would grace any home. The materials are excellent; the woods that go into the case; the ivory that goes into the keys; the felt that goes into the hammers; and the steel wire that goes into the strings, and so on. They possess a beautiful, resonant tone, smooth, well balanced action and an exquisitely designed case in art finished mahogany. They are made by the Aeolian Company, the world's largest international producers of fine pianos, and the renowned manufacturers of the incomparable Duo-Art. They are made in one of the Aeolian Company's extensive factories in Boston, where only the most complete equipment, and the abundance of capital and resources to produce the best that is to be had, make it possible to "back up" our guarantee—the strongest ever placed upon a musical instrument.

12.50 Monthly

The initial payment necessary to obtain one of these pianos is $25. The $25 is deducted from the price, leaving $410 to be paid at $12.50 a month plus a small carrying charge

The Cooperative Plan Through Which These Pianos Will Be Sold Is the Most Economical Selling Plan . . . for You

If it were possible for 150 persons to walk into this store tomorrow morning and each buy one of these pianos—spot cash—we could cut a great big slice off the regular selling price.

But such a thing is impossible. The best that can be done is to come as nearly to this condition as possible. And that is just what is being done through this co-operative plan.

First of all, we are co-operating with the manufacturers themselves. We have contracted for these 150 grand pianos and absolutely guarantee delivery of this number—in rotation and in the order sold. This plan will save big sums of money on such items of expense as rent, light, clerical help, insurance, salesmen's salaries, advertising, etc.

Selling so many pianos of one grade would regularly be spread over a period of several months, while, under this plan, the sale of these 150 instruments will be narrowed down to a few weeks at the longest.

And it is the purpose of this advertisement (and others to follow) to find 150 persons who want Grand Pianos in their homes.

Here Are the Advantages You Share As a Result of this Cooperative Idea

1 . . . . The Aeolian Company, the makers of this fine Grand piano, have heretofore never manufactured a Grand piano to retail at less than $645.

2 . . . . Instead of paying $50 to $100 as a first payment, and $20, $30 or $50 a month as you will in the regular way, during this cooperative sale you pay but $25 to join in this cooperative movement and then *but $12.50 a month, plus a small carrying charge.

3 . . . . You get the strongest guarantee ever put on a piano; a joint guarantee signed by the manufacturers—The Aeolian Company—and ourselves, giving you protection for five years that is as safe as a government bond.

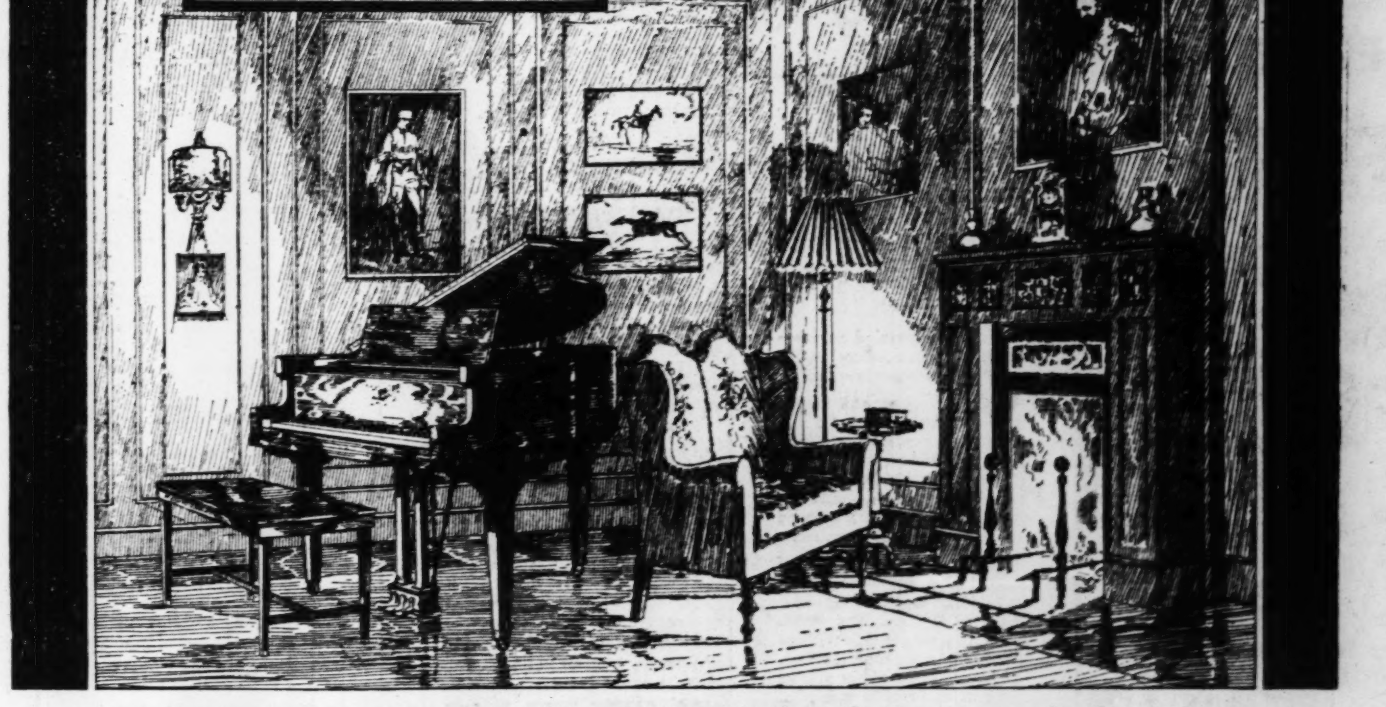
4 . . . . So confident are we as to the value of these instruments that within one year from the day you get your piano through this cooperative plan, you may exchange it for any of the celebrated makes of instruments we handle without so much as a penny's loss.

5 . . . . All payments remaining unpaid are voluntarily cancelled in the event of your death—thus leaving the piano free of encumbrance to your family.

6 . . . . You are given opportunity to secure others to cooperate in this plan. This still further reduces the cost of your instrument.

7 . . . . Under this plan, delivery within 150 miles of St. Louis is included without extra expense.



Some day someone may discover a gift that is dearer to the heart of a woman than a Grand Piano. But not yet.

HOW TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE COOPERATIVE PLAN

To take advantage of this unusual sale, all you have to do is to send or bring in $25, for which we will at once give you a receipt.

The cooperative plan then allows 34 months in which to pay the balance.

You can select your piano at once—tomorrow—next day—next week—or any other time convenient to you. Deliveries will be made in rotation, thus assuring each purchaser of an equal right to the privileges of this co-operative sale. If not convenient for you to personally select your piano, we will make the selection for you under your instructions.

CANTILEVER SHOES NATURAL ARCH SUPPORT

FATIGUE—frazzled nerves—headaches . . . shoes may be—shoes often are—the cause.

The modern woman cannot and will not limp through life. As she has freed her body from stiff, uncomfortable clothes, so does she now free her feet from stiff, uncomfortable shoes. Today thousands of smart, active women are wearing Cantilevers.

The orthopedic principles of Cantilever Shoes work toward foot-health and comfort from the first step on. The flexible shank supports the arch without binding or restricting the foot. The straight inner line allows the foot to function naturally. The wedged heel distributes the weight of the body and encourages graceful, light walking. . .

The new fall styles in the new popular colors are particularly interesting as they show how much good style a comfortable shoe can have. New, unique comfort features have been added. Come in and see this new improved Cantilever!

VISITING EDUCATOR

MISS RHODA ROBBINS.
President of Swansea College for Women in Wales.

ST. LOUIS SCHOOLS ADMIRED BY VISITOR

Welsh Educator Planned to Stay Two Days, but Will Tarry a Week.

St. Louis schools provided such interest that Miss Rhoda Robbins, president of Swansea College for Women in Wales, who intended to spend two days here on a survey of public education in this country, remained a week and plans to stop here again on the return trip from the West Coast.

Miss Robbins holds the 1929 Bush Scholarship, established by Irving T. Bush of the Bush Terminals in New York, to enable one teacher yearly from Great Britain to visit American schools. She departed last night for Kansas City.

"The conditions are so unlike those of England, that I am in a constant state of surprise and admiration," she declared. "The carefulness and detail with which you try to secure a stimulating and sympathetic environment for each pupil fills me with amazement.

"At the same time I am compelled to deplore the overcrowding which I found in almost every building which I visited. A square deal cannot be given to each child if the teacher is overburdened by her teaching load or if there is over-usage of rooms intended for specific purposes.

"I am also interested to note that the St. Louis Board of Education takes cognizance of the different appitudes and different capacities of the pupils as is shown by the diversified libraries, workshops and laboratories, which not only broaden the course of study and represent real life in miniature but materially help the child to find his talents and vocation.

"The St. Louis teachers are most fortunate in the assistance available from educational establishments such as the botanical gardens, the parks, the art museum and the zoological gardens. There is every evidence that the majority of your teachers do take advantage of this exceptional opportunity, and to their credit it must be said that they are alive to their responsibilities.

"At the Turner school for handicapped colored children, I was greatly impressed not only by the skill and the provisions made to deal with the handicapped, that must be an economy from an administrative standpoint, as well as a stimulating influence to the individual pupil; but by the happy nature of the instructors in the face of daily recurrent sad situations. I consider that the service of carefully chosen teachers in such a school is incalcuable in its effect. First, upon the children; second, upon the community from which they come.

"I found greater provision for the physical welfare through athletics than I had anticipated; and the result seems to be apparent in the appearance and poise of the pupils, as well as in steady application to work."

MRS. FANNY TODD CLARK DIES IN NEW YORK AT 81

Mrs. Fanny Todd Clark of 4411 McPherson avenue, died yesterday in New York of the infirmities of age. She was 81 years old and member of a pioneer St. Louis family.

Mrs. Clark held membership in the Colonial Dames and Daughters of the American Revolution. She was the widow of Hinman H. Clark.

Among surviving relatives are C. Todd Clark, 4707 Westminster place, grandson, and two granddaughters, Mrs. Robert B. Wade and Mrs. Fanny Todd Mitchell, New York playwright. Mrs. Clark died at the home of Mrs. Wade in New York.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but it is expected that the burial will be made in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

CAIRO TOLL BRIDGE OPENED

Mile-Long Line of Autos at Each End When Barriers Are Removed.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 28.—The highway toll bridge across the Mississippi River here was opened to traffic today. A string of automobiles and trucks a mile long was waiting at each end of the bridge when the barriers were removed at 7 o'clock this morning.

Hewitt Johnson of Cairo was appointed bridge manager. The formal opening and dedication of the bridge has been set for Oct. 18.

HOOVERS GO TO THEIR CAMP

Secretary and Mrs. Hyde Among Large Party of Guests.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—President and Mrs. Hoover left the White House today for a short week-end visit to the chief executive's mountain fishing lodge in Virginia, to remain until late tomorrow.

A large party of guests accompanied them, including their son, Herbert Hoover Jr.; Secretary of War and Mrs. Good and their son, Robert; Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde; Assistant Secretary Hurley of the War Department and Mrs. Hurley; Chairman C. H. Huston of the Republican National Committee; Mr. and Mrs. William Hard; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan and their daughter; Dr. Lillian Gilbreth; Mrs. Jean Large; Ralph Williams; the President's secretary, Lawrence Richey and Mrs. Richey; Walter Newton, also a secretary to the President, and Lieutenant-Commander Joel T. "DESERT CHARLIE"

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer

CHARLES W. HUBRICHT.

WANDERER HOME, CAN NOT SLEEP UNDER ROOF

"Desert Charlie" Hubricht Prefers Blanket in Pasture to Bed in House.

Charles W. Hubricht, otherwise "Desert Charlie," who got his name in the newspapers about a month ago when he fired a bullet through the lens of a camera when a photographer tried to steal his picture at Tonganoxie, Kan., returned to St. Louis a few days ago, leading four pack burros, to end a 21-month Odyssey, most of it through deserts in Arizona, New Mexico and California.

The 69-year-old retired carpenter and one-time prospector who left his home at 4116 Delmar boulevard a year ago last January, drove his burros into a pasture off Clayton road, a mile and a half west of Clayton, Wednesday night, rolled up in a blanket and went to sleep. Leaving his pack train in the pasture, he went the next day to visit his wife and four of his five children who remained at home.

There he is spending his days until next Saturday when he plans to start out again, this time for the East, but each night he returns to the pasture because he "can't get used to sleeping under a roof."

More Than 5000 Miles on Foot.

Hubricht, who quit carpentering two years ago because he couldn't get work on account of his age, figures he walked something over 5000 miles during his wanderings. He started out by bus and train, but "got enough of that" when a bus turned over near Dallas, Tex., and he narrowly escaped serious injury.

He began then his journey on foot, accepting rides from motorists, until at Buckeye, Ariz., he acquired the first of the burros which now compose his train. Two of the others were bought later and the fourth came to him on the desert, lost and half-starved.

At Buckeye his funds ran out and he "hired out" to a dairy until he had earned enough to buy the burro and some supplies. Then he set out across the desert to Four Peaks, near Phoenix.

"Well, sir, that's the prettiest place I ever saw," Charlie says. "I don't see why they don't make a resort out of it. There's a fine spring there, and the pine trees are two feet thick and 200 feet high. The air is so clear you can see Phoenix, 45 miles away."

Four days lolling about Four Peaks, and the wanderer again took to the trail. When his funds ran out he worked again until they were replenished, at one place doing carpenter jobs and at another digging post holes for a telephone company. He was fired from that job, he says, when the "big boss" came around and discovered he had white hair.

Twice in Serious Straits.

On two occasions he was in serious straits when lost on the desert without water. Once he flagged a freight train, the crew of which supplied his need, and on another occasion he encountered a Papago Indian, who led him to an Indian village, where he spent the night. Leaving there, he saw, out on the desert, what happened to be a statue of a man.

"It was as perfect as though carved with tools," Charlie declares. "The ears and nose were distinct and so was the hair and beard. The hair seemed to be parted on the left side. I traveled for four days, about 60 miles, with that statue in front of me. When I got there I found it was just a slab of granite. The other rocks around it make it look like a statue from a distance."

His escapade with the photographer at Tonganoxie was the outgrowth of a scheme he devised to add to his sources of revenue. Pictures of the bearded old man trudging ahead of his pack of burros appealed to so many tourists that posing became a nuisance and he painted on one of the burro's pack, the sign, "Posing for Pictures, 50 Cents."

He shot the photographer's camera when this fee was refused, he said. Jailed on a charge of assault to kill, he shot his way out, his demonstration of skill with the rifle convincing the Judge that if he wanted to kill the photographer he would have hit him and not his camera.

Art Exhibit
THIS WEEK

An Exhibition and Sale of Copies After Old Masters, by Mrs. Mary S. McCandless, of New York, Begins Monday.

You are cordially invited to an exhibition and sale of paintings in the Artwares Shop, Fourth Floor.

Decorators and women who demand correct accessories for their home interiors have discovered the desirability of carefully executed copies of old masters to supply flavor, quality and mellow beauty in modern rooms.

Mrs. Mary S. McCandless has made reproductions of paintings in the National Art Gallery, the Tate Gallery, the Victoria and Albert Museum in England, and in the Hamilton Art Gallery, Los Angeles. Also the Metropolitan Museum, New York, and Yale University Museum. She acquaints herself thoroughly with the style and technique of the artist, and her copies of the shadowy paintings of Rembrandt, and the types of Gainsborough and Velasquez are much in demand.

Exhibit Opens Monday, Sept. 23, 1929, From 9:00 to 5:00 Daily

CONFIRMATION OF ENTIRE U. S. FARM BOARD PREDICTED

Administration Leaders Do Not Think That Opposition Will Lead to Heavy Adverse Vote.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Confirmation of all members of the Federal Farm Board is looked for by administration leaders unless some unexpected charge of a serious nature is lodged against any of the eight men named by President Hoover.

Opposition on the floor of the Senate to Chairman Legge and possibly two or three other members of the board is considered inevitable. There is held to be no sign at present, however, of opposition based on past or present connections which might be construed as rendering any board member unfit to serve.

Administration leaders base their opinion that all will be confirmed upon assurances given them by various Senators in what might be considered the opposition groups. A number of prominent Democrats and western independent Republicans have indicated that while they think the board will prove ineffective, they are not disposed to vote against its confirmation because they regard the difficulties in the farm relief legislation rather than in the men named to carry out its provisions.

Hearings to End Wednesday.

A number of the Senators, on the other hand, both Republicans and Democrats, have evinced a desire to confirm the board as soon as possible in the belief that it has in view a constructive, long range program for the relief of agriculture that will be carried forward more rapidly once the board is entrenched in office.

Chairman McNary expects to close the Agriculture Committee hearings on the nominations Wednesday. The board members will be voted on promptly by the committee but McNary does not think Senate debate on confirmation can open before the following Monday or Tuesday.

The Agriculture Committee still must examine four commissioners of whom Carl Williams of Oklahoma, who represents cotton on the board, and Sam R. McKelvie of Nebraska, who speaks for wheat, apparently will be questioned at length.

Williams will appear tomorrow. After he was appointed several Southern Senators described him as not being "an out-and-out cotton man," and Senator Smith of South Carolina, Heflin of Alabama and Randell of Louisiana, all Democrats, have indicated they will examine him closely. Williams has been an official of the American Cotton Growers Co-perative Exchange and the publisher of farm journals.

The committee will question McKelvie Tuesday. Comng to the board as the representative of wheat over whose problems there has been much controversy, he also appears to be slated for close questioning from Senators in whose states the wheat surplus has presented a serious economic situation.

Williams was indorsed by Oklahoma's Senators, one of whom—Thomas—is a member of the Senate Committee, but McKelvie had no endorsement from either Senator Norris, also a member of the committee, or Senator Howell.

Chairman McNary thinks the hearings can be finished Wednesday by examining both William F. Schilling of Minnesota, representing dairy products, and C. C. Teague of California, representing fruits and vegetables.

MENZIES SHOE CO. BUILDING SEIZED TO SATISFY JUDGMENT

Sheriff Makes Execution Against S. D. Nichols and Firm at Carbondale, Ill.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Sept. 28.—Sheriff William Flanagan today executed the judgment against S. D. Nichols and the Menzies Shoe Co. of St. Louis and turned the Carbondale shoe factory over to the trustees, representing citizens of Carbondale who donated approximately $115,000 with which the building was erected. About $55,000 was given to the Menzies company in cash.

The Sheriff also seized the contracts between the shoe company and the trustees which were being held in trust by a local bank and turned the contracts over to the trustees.

The judgment against Nichols was obtained in Jackson County Circuit Court a few months ago, but was not executed pending negotiations between Nichols and trustees. The trustees said today they would attempt to collect the cash judgment of $52,750 against Nichols and the shoe company in any state and any way they could.

A move by Nichols last Wednesday won him a $5000 judgment in the Federal Court at Danville against the three trustees, C. E. Hamilton, E. V. Miller and Herbert Hays, Carbondale business men whom he had sued for $125,000 for alleged disparaging remarks about his credit. However, it was only a two days' victory for the shoe man, because yesterday Judge Lindley set the judgment aside and gave the defendants 10 days to prepare for trial.

THE FEDERAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
(hereinafter referred to as the Company)

HEREBY INSURES the life of said Insured and agrees as follows:

LIFE INSURANCE BENEFIT

Upon receipt at its Home Office in the City of Chicago of due proof of the death of said Insured while this policy is in force and due proof of the interest of claimant, the Company will pay to the beneficiary named above____________________Dollars (hereinafter referred to as the face amount of this policy) provided, however, that if such death occurs during the first six months of this policy the amount so payable shall be limited to one-half of the said face amount. If the beneficiary named herein is not living at the time of the death of said Insured the amount payable under this policy will be paid to the Insured's executors, administrators, or assigns.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH BENEFIT—DOUBLE INDEMNITY

If the Insured before the anniversary of this policy nearest the sixtieth birthday of the Insured and while this policy is in force, and while no premium hereon is in default, shall sustain bodily injury resulting directly from external, violent and accidental means (suicide, sane or insane, not included) exclusively and independently of all other causes, and if such bodily injury within thirty days from the event causing the accident shall result in the death of the Insured, the Company will pay to said beneficiary double the face amount of this policy in lieu of all other benefits hereunder.

This benefit does not cover any accidental bodily injury caused or contributed to by sickness or disease or cover war risk or disappearance or loss suffered while riding or being in or on any aerial conveyance or any submarine.

The above provisions of this policy relating to the payment of double the face amount hereof in the event of the accidental death of the Insured shall apply only if this policy is in full force and effect under its original premium paying conditions at the time of the death of the Insured. This double indemnity benefit shall terminate:

1—Upon written request of the Insured, accompanied by this policy for endorsement.
2—Upon change of this policy to reduced paid up insurance or extended term insurance.
3—Upon the anniversary hereof nearest to the sixtieth birthday of the Insured.

The monthly premium for the Accidental Death benefit is__________cents and is included in the premium shown in this policy. If the Accidental Death benefit be terminated, the monthly premium hereon will be reduced thereafter by the amount stated above to be the monthly premium for said benefit. Any premium paid to the Company for said benefit for any period not covered will be returned upon request.

CHANGE OF BENEFICIARY

This policy is issued with the express understanding that the Insured may, provided that it has not been assigned, change the beneficiary or beneficiaries at any time during the continuance hereof by filing with the Company a written request, duly acknowledged, accompanied by this policy, such change to take place upon the endorsement of the same hereon by the Company. Without the consent of the beneficiary the Insured may receive every benefit, exercise every right and enjoy every privilege conferred on him by this policy.

THIS announces a Special Life Insurance bargain for readers of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. A $1,000.00 Life Insurance Policy with Guaranteed Cash, Loan, Paid-Up Insurance Values and double accidental death benefits for as little as $1.09 a month—through a coupon clipped from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

An amazing value! A policy that protects you against death from any cause whatsoever, INCLUDING SICKNESS AND ACCIDENTS, suicide excepted. Positive protection for your loved ones!

And what is more, you obtain this special Life Insurance Policy by mail WITHOUT MEDICAL EXAMINATION.

This offer is made to enable the thousands of readers of the Post-Dispatch to obtain Life Insurance at very low cost. Applications will be considered only from persons in normal health, between the ages of 10 and 50. If you are not in normal health, or are not a standard, insurable risk, please do not apply.

The policies will be issued by the Federal Life Insurance Company of Chicago—one of Illinois' oldest and strongest "Old Line" Legal Reserve Life Insurance Companies—the same Company selected by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in offering Accident Insurance to its readers. The Federal Life Insurance Company has been established 30 years. It has $150,000,000.00 of Life Insurance in force. It has paid more than $22,000,000.00 in cash benefits to policyholders and beneficiaries. Get one of these policies for every eligible member of your family.

PROPAGANDIST SHEARER MADE HIS PATRIOTISM PAY; GOT $50,000 IN TWO YEARS

When He Testifies Tomorrow Senators Will Ask How He Stayed on Payroll After "Disgusting" Employers.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—William B. Shearer, big navy propagandist and man-about-the world, who will take the stand Monday, the seventh day of the Senate's investigation of international lobbying activities in Geneva, 1927, made his patriotism pay.

From the testimony to date it is possible to arrive at an itemized account of the funds received by Shearer from the shipbuilding members of the Shorn Club—those industrial innocents who hired him to propagandize in this country, some of whom, impressed by this magnetic manner, paid him $25,000 (or at the rate of about $100,000 a year) to go over to Geneva merely to look on and report.

If the enthusiastic Shearer did considerably more than look on and report; if, in his eagerness to have Uncle Sam arm to the teeth against the deadly wiles of Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan if he sought to make the conference the failure that it proved to be—if he did these things, then, according to the testimony of his employers, he went beyond his instructions. They paid him the $25,000 so they have repeatedly and harmoniously said, to observe and report—that and nothing more.

$50,000 in Two Years.

Be that as it may, an analysis of the testimony shows that Shearer, between December, 1926, and March, 1929, sold himself to the master minds of the shipbuilding industry, notwithstanding the ardent wish of the benevolent Charles M. Schwab that all battleships be sent to the bottom of the sea, for sums aggregating $50,275.

Whether Shearer collected also from the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Native Sons of California, both of which organizations he claimed to represent at Geneva, has not been developed.

The $50,275 comes pretty close to the figure which Shearer names in his New York suit against the shipbuilders as the amount received. In this proceeding, which brought about the present investigation nto Shearer's relations with the shipbuilders, he says that he received some $51,000, and for "saving the shipbuilding industry" by his efforts at Geneva, Washington and elsewhere, he is asking for $257,000 more.

Shearer's Bill Itemized.

Shearer's collections from the shipbuilders as disclosed by the testimony were as follows:

For services prior to the Geneva conference, in an educational campaign to stir up public sentiment for a strong merchant-marine, $7500.

For setting up and maintaining his observatory at Geneva, $25,000.

For continued efforts to make the public merchant-marine minded—12 months at $500, $6000.

Loans without security by two shipbuilding officers when he was "down and out," $2000.

For suppressing his book, "The Cloak of Benedict Arnold," cigarette money amounting to $225.

For services as "artist and consultant" to the Trans-Oceanic Corporation, $4550.

For a trip to California to get William Randolph Hearst interested in the four-day-ship project of the above named corporation, $5000.

Total—$50,275.

"Big-Hearted Harry."

The first of these items—$7500—was paid to Shearer by the three shipbuilding corporations which figure in the inquiry—the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., a subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Henry C. Hunter, attorney for the Council of American Shipbuilders, was the paymaster for the three concerns, and he later served in the same capacity for the same companies in their Geneva transactions with Shearer.

He performed this service which included also the receipt of Shearer's reports from Geneva and the transmission of copies to the shipbuilders, without pay, "just as a personal favor" to his friend, F. P. Palen, and the other shipbuilders—a circumstance which has led Senator Allen, a very useful member of the investigating committee, to name him "Big Hearted Harry."

After the Geneva conference came the $6000 payment to Shearer for continuing his domestic propaganda. Only the Newport News Co., as its officers have sadly testified, was "in on" this payment. In addition the president and the vice president of the Newport News Co. in the summer of 1928 made him three loans, totaling $2000 on his personal notes. They have not collected.

Benedict Arnold Modernized.

The $225 item didn't serve its purpose. Shearer took the money but "The Cloak of Benedict Arnold" was not suppressed. All three of the companies, with the obliging Hunter again as the paymaster, chipped in to make up the payment.

The $4550 "artist and consultant" fee was paid by Lawrence R. Wilder, chief promoter of the project to establish a line of four-day ships across the Atlantic. Wilder told the committee of his effort to put "romance" into the public's conception of the shipping business, and in the course of this enterprise, he testified, he engaged Shearer to paint three or four pictures of one of the proposed record-breaking liners. He said the pictures were fine and he wished he had one of them with him to show the committee. It was the first intimation the committee had received of this phase of Shearer's versatility.

Shearer was Wilder's consultant on technical shipping matters as well as his artist, and the witness said that he found his advice of great value. The $4550 fee covered work in both those capacities. Wilder promoted an expensive "educational" campaign, and tried to get the United States Shipping Board interested in his project. He denied, however, that Shearer, or anybody else did any lobbying for him, his statement in this respect being different from the testimony of his one-time associate, Clinton L. Bardo. The committee expects to recall Bardo.

Then there was the $5000 for

PROPOSAL IN GERMANY TO DISAVOW WAR GUILT

Steel Helmet and Nationalist Groups Offer Bill for Vote on Issue.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 28. — After months of pro and con propaganda, the first definite step toward a proposed plebiscite in Germany on the war guilt question and the Young plan was taken today when a bill was formally submitted to the Minister of the Interior by leaders of the Steel Helmet organization.

The bill, for a plebiscite "against the enslavement of the German people," was submitted by Alfred Hugenberg, prominent industrialist and Nationalist leader, and Franz Seldte, who signed it as official representatives of the Steel Helmet's national plebiscite committee and German Nationalist party. In addition 5000 signatures were attached.

Provisions of the Bill.

The bill is as follows:

(1) The German Government shall notify all foreign powers immediately and solemnly that the enforced acknowledgement of the war guilt in the Treaty of Versailles is contrary to historical truth: is based on false premises and is not binding in international law.

(2) The German Government shall use all endeavors to secure the annulment of the war guilt acknowledgement contained in Article 231 and Articles 429 and 430 of the Treaty of Versailles. It shall also undertake to secure the immediate and unconditional evacuation of the occupied German territories, without any remaining control commissions, independently of the acceptance or the rejection of The Hague convention.

(3) No further financial burdens or obligations based on the war guilt acknowledgement shall be assumed, inclusive of those arising from the recommendations of the Paris reparations experts.

(4) Chancellor and Ministers or representatives of the Reich who lend their signatures to agreements contrary to the provisions of paragraph 3 shall render themselves liable to posecution for high treason.

(5) This law enters into force at the moment of its proclamation.

Highly Embarrassing Move.

In Government circles the Nationalist move is declared to be highly inopportune and embarrassing, for, if the plebiscite bill fails —which is regarded as a foregone conclusion—it permits Germany's former foes to infer that the German people do not wish the war guilt stain to be removed. It is contended that nothing could be farther from the truth, but it is sheer folly to threaten the Government's accredited representatives with prosecution for treason for accepting the Young plan and therewith the liberation of the Rhineland.

The fate of the bill hinges on the improbable contingency, that one-third of the Reichstag, 164 of 491 members, can be found to vote for shelving the enforcement of the Young plan, even then 2,000,000 signatures of electors would be needed to hold a plebiscite, while 4,000,000 signatures would be needed if the necessary one-third vote in the Reichstag should be unobtainable.

SHEARER MADE PATRIOTISM PAY; GOT $50,000 IN TWO YEARS

the trip to California. This came out of the fund, when the American Brown Boveri Corporation raised for promotion work on the four-day project. Shearer saw Hearst, but according to Wilder, failed in his mission.

Shearer's employes have told of their "disgust" with him and how they threw his reports from Geneva into the waste basket and what a "damned fool" thing they did when they employed him to go to Geneva. Nevertheless, from some of them, at least, he continued to draw sizable sums of money for a year and a half after the Geneva conference. The investigating committee will try to find out from him Monday how he did it.

London Review Faborably Impressed by Shearer Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—"The subcommittee of the United States Senate has shown every indication of a real desire to get at the facts," the Nation, weekly review, comments concerning the investigation of the activities of W. B. Shearer at the Geneva disarmament conference.

"The inquiry seems likely to give both the big navy and the ship subsidy propaganda a blow from which it will be difficult for either to recover," the Nation contines. "The element of comedy in the affair does not disguise its sinister aspect or make the exposure any the less wholesome.

"The American case for naval parity is far too strong to need bolstering up by such activities as Shearer's, but the possibilities of international friction in propaganda of this kind are serious."

Plans London-to-New York Flight.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—A flight from London to New York will be attempted next year, possibly in the Southern Cross, Maj. C. E. Kingsford-Smith of the Royal Australian Air Forces announced today when he arrived in New York.

ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP IN ST. LOUIS

In the average St. Louis home, when you have used enough electricity to cheerfully light your rooms, then—automatically—all that you use in addition you pay for at the WHOLESALE rate—2½ cents a kilowatt hour. A kilowatt hour will run your washing machine 5 hours, your vacuum cleaner 6 hours, your electric fan 20 hours.

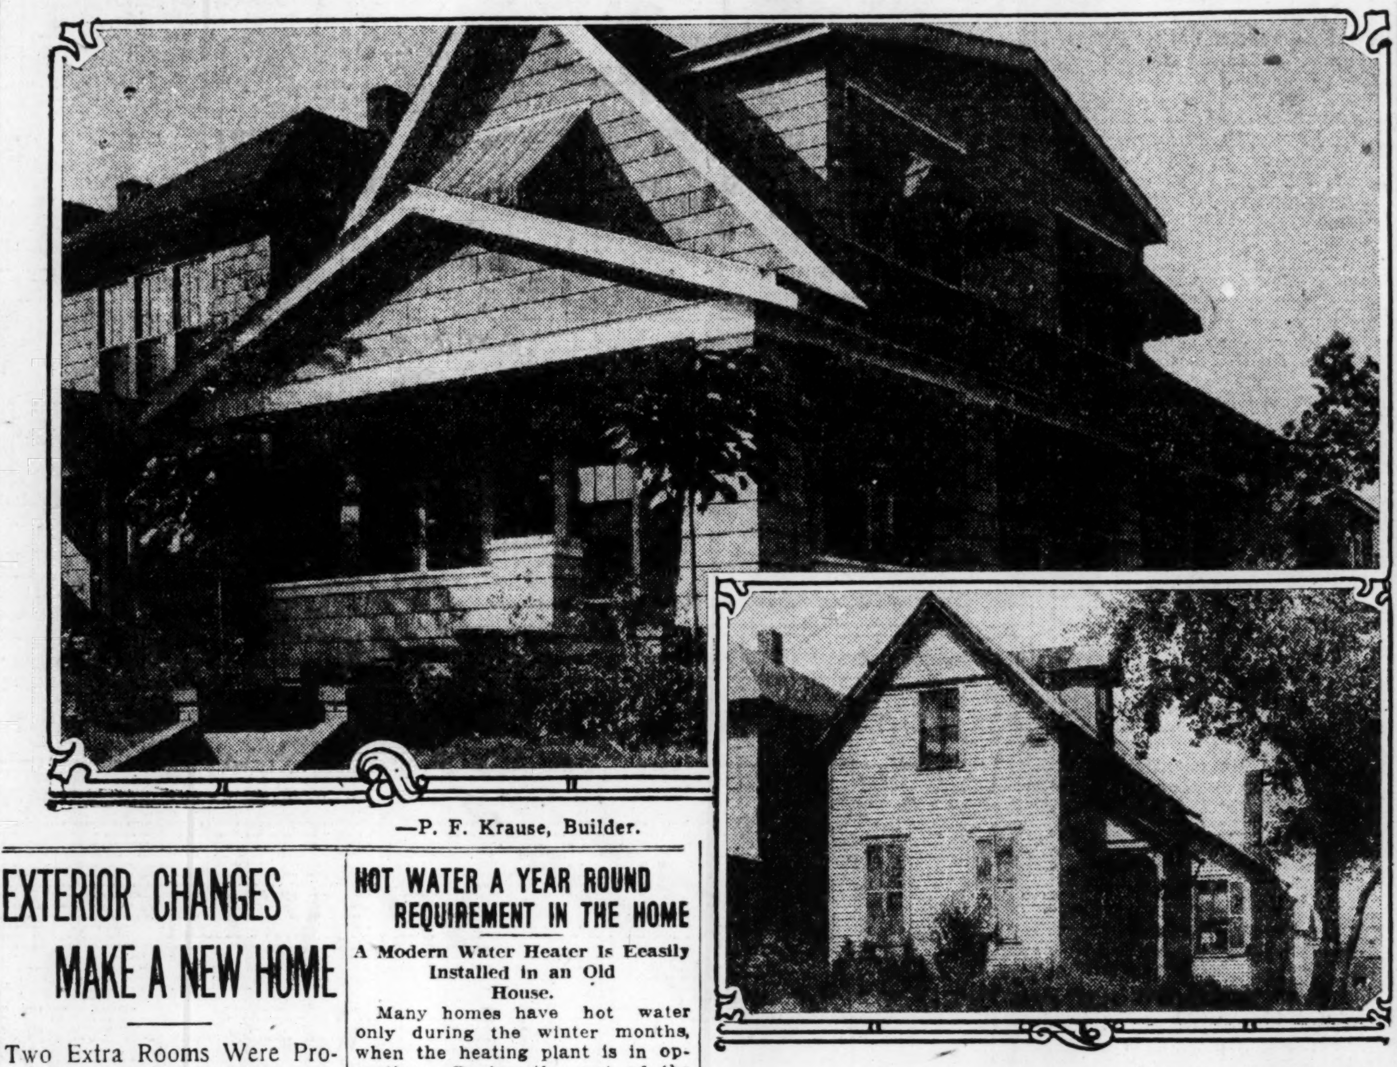
MULE HIDE ROOFS

HERE AGAIN MODERNIZATION PROVES ITS CASE



—P. F. Krause, Builder.

This charming little house shows what can be done to make four walls and a roof into a delightful home. Before and after views like these show the possibilities that await modernization.

EXTERIOR CHANGES MAKE A NEW HOME

Two Extra Rooms Were Provided When This House Was Modernized.

It is a far cry from the old house shown on the right to the modern home shown in the picture, yet these two illustrations show a house in Reber place west of Kingshighway, before and after the dwelling had been touched by the spirit of modernization.

It is almost unbelievable that such a smart looking residence could come from a drab, uninteresting house. A study of the pictures, however, will show that one is the aftermath of the other.

The roof lines have been changed. The bare steep slope of the roof has been extended gracefully to cover a trim porch the roof of which is supported by severely plain columns.

A dormer window was built out to let additional light into the enlarged second story room. The bungalow treatment of the front entrance and the graceful steps leading up to the terrace and the porch are added notes of distinction and homey comfort.

Making a charming home out of the old time house was accomplished with ease. Comparatively few of the old walls were changed. The bedroom wall was moved out two and one-half feet and the inside wall from front room to dining room was moved back three feet into the dining room. This procedure resulted in a modern living room 17 by 16 feet. The dining room, which was large, could well afford to give up three feet of its length for a modernized living room.

A charming breakfast room and a new bathroom were added to the ground floor plan.

The attractive treatment of the exterior of the modernized residence and the trim appearance of the surrounding lawn catch and hold the attention of all passersby.

The illustrations of the remodeled dwelling do not show the delightful treatment of the interior. Glistening, well-polished hardwood replaced the dingy, time-worn soft wood floors. The electrical fixtures are modern in design and an abundance of electrical outlets are provided in each room. The walls are decorated in harmonious colors.

The results have been entirely satisfactory. The property value has increased to a remarkable extent—in every way this modernization plan has proven to be a wise investment.

HOT WATER A YEAR ROUND REQUIREMENT IN THE HOME

A Modern Water Heater Is Easily Installed in an Old House.

Many homes have hot water only during the winter months, when the heating plant is in operation. During the rest of the year the occupants of the house have to put up with the old-fashioned, obsolete methods.

Hot water throughout the house ready to gush forth from every tap is a necessity nowadays. Whether in the laundry, the kitchen or the bath, hot water is essential each day.

A good hot-water heater should be installed in every home, for it should be unnecessary to have to wait until water is heated for use.

The selection of a heater depends upon a number of factors—the size of the house, the quantity of water needed and the speed with which the hot water is desired. An important element is safety—the heater must never explode nor endanger the house by fire.

Another Modern Note.

The unsightly but necessary radiator was for many years the bugbear of home owners who spent time and money in home decoration, only to have the effect marred by the radiator. Up-to-date housewives are adopting the plan of covering the radiators with covers and shields made for the purpose which, being neat and attractive, add a decorative note to rooms where used.

THE ROOF SHOULD ADD BEAUTY TO A HOUSE

Select a Roof Color Which Will Harmonize With the Structure.

The modern note in home decoration, according to leading authorities, is complete harmony of color, outside as well as inside the building.

According to this idea, while the roof of a house must give protection against the elements and must be lasting, yet as a prominent architectural feature of the house, the roof should also add to the beauty of the structure.

In line with this idea, commercial roofing materials are being manufactured in the greatest selection of colors. With these new colors it is possible to make the roof one of the most effective units in the decorative scheme.

These beautiful colors can be combined in an almost endless variety of tasteful combinations to harmonize with every architectural style and color scheme.

By consulting a roofing color chart, information is obtained in a second as to what color roof is in harmony with a red brick house, a white colonial residence, or a gray, brown or cream building. The chart also takes into consideration the color of the trim so that building, roof and trim may form a harmonious whole.

In these days of dawning multicolored buildings when the newest color card for roofs includes such a multiplicity of shades an antique brown, gray green, dusk blue, weathered brown, heather purple, tile red, jade green and black pearl, opal and multicrome, an authoritative color harmony chart is as necessary in the building world as in the dressmaking world.

REDECORATING MAKES HOME FAR MORE INTERESTING

Change in Color Scheme Tends to Make a Room a Different Habitation.

New life and beauty may be injected into the old house by the application of paint.

The interior of the drawing room of the old high-ceilinged house will respond to a coat of pale gray enamel on the woodwork, or to the traditional cream-colored finish. The walls may be covered with one of the diamond patterned, or figured, colonial papers.

The floors will take on a lustrous finish if they are of the soft wood, wide boarded type. A coat of dark filler varnish over soft wood floors may be followed by a generous application of wax, and the floor is redeemed. Some of the soft woods are better tinted, while others are better left in their natural color, with a transparent filler coat applied.

The color of the kitchen floor should be consulted before the kitchen is painted. The predominating color should be used in the major decoration. Perhaps not the same shade, but one that tones into the floor finish. It is wise to use, also, a second lighter shade with a small amount of a sharply contrasting bright shade for shelf edging, curtain decoration, and other touches.

Several suggested color schemes include green, neutral, buff and Chinese red. Blue, gray and bright yellow form another triumvirate. Dark blue, buff and bright blue make another effective scheme.

Worth Remembering.

It has been found that an insulated house was cooler in the summer, and that in both summer and winter the air inside preserved a more proper and healthful balance of humidity. A number of different types of insulation are now being manufactured to enable the home owner to obtain the benefit of such efficiency, comfort and economy.

BANK ROBBER AT VENICE, ROUTED BY WOMEN, IS SHOT

Companion of Angelo Timponi Wounded by Neighboring Merchant Flees After Stealing Auto.

Courage on the part of two women employes of the Venice State Bank, Venice, Ill., frustrated a robbery by two men there yesterday morning, and courage of a neighboring merchant resulted in the wounding and capture of one of the men.

The prisoner described himself as Angelo Timpone, 25 years old, of 3724 Evans avenue, St. Louis. He is in the county jail at Edwardsville, having been taken there after treatment at a hospital. His back was filled with pellets from a shotgun. His injuries are not serious.

There were four persons in the bank, at Third street and Broadway, Venice, when the would-be robbers entered. Those present were Mrs. Anna Ross, assistant cashier, at the teller's window; Miss Thelda Cooper, bookkeeper, in a rear room; J. N. Wood, a railroad engineer, in the customers' lobby, and, near Wood, Tommy Ferguson, a boy about 10 years old. Timpone and his companion entered, one flourishing a large pistol and the other a revolver.

"Stay where you are and say nothing," they ordered Mrs. Ross.

Women Scream for Help.

One of them pressed a weapon against Wood's side and commanded him to stand still. Between the lobby and the tellers' section is a partition with windows of bullet-proof glass. One man stood at the grated opening in this partition in front of Mrs. Ross and the other tried to kick open a locked door to the inner section. The disturbance he created momentarily distracted the attention of the one watching Mrs. Ross, giving her the opportunity to close the bullet-proof screen over the grating.

Thus protected, she ran to another door in the partition, which she locked, and then to a telephone. Without trying to get a connection in the usual way, she screamed, and the operator, realizing there was trouble, called the police. Miss Cooper, alarmed by the disturbance, joined Mrs. Ross and added her cries to the excitement.

Lee R. Wood, proprietor of a filling station and hardware store next door to the bank at 220 Broadway, and brother of the customer held up, heard the screams and then saw the armed robbers running past his establishment.

Wood hastened from the filling station to the store for a repeating shotgun. He was back on the sidewalk before the fleeing men had rounded the corner of Second street, a block away. They turned from Second into Hampden street and back towards Fourth street, in the rear of the bank.

One Flees in Stolen Car.

Meanwhile, Tom Foley, a Wabash Railway engineer, arming himself, had joined in the chase, going along Fourth street. Timpone saw Foley and prepared to fire at him, according to Wood, who was approaching Timpone from the rear and to one side. Because of this Wood fired two shells immediately. Timpone dropped into a clump of weeds. Wood made him emerge and called on the driver of a passing truck to disarm him. Dr. J. E. Lee, Mayor of Venice, who had heard the alarm, arrived and took charge of the prisoner. Timpone's companion reached the vicinity of Fourth street and it was reported that he held up a motorist there to escape in the car.

Two policemen had hurried to the bank from the police station, a block away, but the robbers were around the corner by that time. There was a report that a large touring car, with a man at the wheel, had parked in front of the bank, but was driven away when the screaming began. Police think an accomplice may have been in it. Timpone did not name his companion.

The principal item of money in the bank was $15,000 for a Chicago & Alton Railroad payroll yesterday.

Timpone Arrested 72 Times.

Mrs. Ross, a member of the Granite City Business & Professional Women's Club, resides on the Edwardsville road, seven miles from Granite City. Miss Cooper lives at 2419 Bromley street, Granite City.

The St. Louis police records show that an Angelo Timpone has been arrested 72 times in St. Louis and vicinity. Detectives describe him as an associate of gangsters and robbers. He was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary in 1923 as a participant in a holdup at Missouri Baptist Sanitarium but released in 1924 on a showing he had been a victim of mistaken identity. On Dec. 31, 1928, he was sentenced to the workhouse for carrying a concealed weapon, but he was paroled last May. In July he was identified as one of the men who took $2727 from a People's Motor Bus Co. garage in Wellston last December. He has been at liberty under bonds since Aug. 8, charged with that robbery and with transporting liquor.

The Venice State Bank, then three months old, was robbed of $12,407 on July 7, 1924. It was robbed of $5851 on Aug. 22, 1924. On Aug. 25, 1925, police, acting on advance information, frustrated a robbery there.

COURT THROWS OUT WALLACE COAL CO. BANKRUPTCY PLEA

"Shot Through With Fraud," Judge Faris Declares, of Petition Which Creditor Resists.

The voluntary bankruptcy case of the Wallace Coal Co. was thrown out of court yesterday by Federal Judge Faris who said it was "shot through with fraud which I need not stop to characterize." The president of the coal company is E. J. Wallace, who was fuel administrator for Missouri during the war.

The Wallace company's petition in banqruptcy was filed July 5. At that time Judge Faris refused to issue a temporary restraining order against this action, sought by the Brewerton Coal Corporation of Chicago.

Taking the witness stand yesterday in an effort to have the Wallace Company bankruptcy case thrown out of court, W. A. Brewerton, president of the Brewerton Coal Corporation of Chicago, told of his dealings with Wallace. Last March 7, Brewerton testified, he made an agreement with Wallace to pay the debts of the Wallace Company, and to take over the accounts receivable for collection, which amounted to about $129,000. He agreed at the time, Brewerton testified, to pay back to the Wallace Company any amount collected exceeding $100,000 minus $1000 for collecting expenses.

Wallace also agreed, the witness said, to pay any deficit should the collections run below $100,000. Brewerton said his representatives had collected only $70,000 and that his corporation was out $30,000.

When he made the agreement with Wallace, the witness testified, he told Wallace, "with his arm around his shoulder," that he was trying to do the best he could for him.

But when he started to pay the company's debt, Brewerton said, he found among the accounts a second mortgage for $1200 on Mrs. Wallace's home, and $2000 he paid to Wallace for the Wallace company's fixtures.

And finally, he testified, he found a note for $5000, held by W. H. Burke of Decatur, Ill., purchasing agent of the Illinois Light & Power Co. Brewerton says he refused to pay this claim, and that Burke and Wallace threatened to throw the company into bankruptcy, the former with an involuntary petition, the latter with a voluntary petition. Wallace, Brewerton said, did not list the Brewerton Coal Corporation among its creditors, but listed creditors who had been paid.

Evidence showed that Burke's note was dated in 1924, a date prior to the organization of the Wallace Coal Co.

Judge Faris, commenting on the case, said "it was evident Wallace was trying to transfer his personal obligation to Burke to the shoulders of the Brewerton corporation."

SUES GOLFERS FOR $10,000

Woman Says Her Foot Was Injured by Ball.

Two Forest Park golfers, Arthur Willow and Arthur Willow Jr., of 7034 Northmoor drive, were sued for $10,000 yesterday at Clayton by Mrs. Mayme E. Coslet of 5920 Minerva avenue, for injuries she alleged she suffered Aug. 19 near Jefferson Memorial when a golf ball struck her right foot.

Mrs. Coslet stated in her petition that the foot was bruised and swolen and the blood vessels injured, and that she was still forced to keep to her bed.

DECLINE, LIKE STOCK RISE, IS SELECTIVE

Unsettling Reports Include British Bank Rate Increase, Sharp Gain in Loans and Stiffer Charge for Money.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The Evening Post, in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"There was added to news this week such unsettling reports as an increase in the British bank rate, a further sharp rise in loans and a stiffer charge here for money, but the decline has been highly selective in character just as was the previous 1929 advance. The stocks that rose fastest up to Labor day week have been hit the hardest since then. Others that were falling early in the year have come up. While the market has been accustomed this month to news somewhat distasteful, it was giving evidence of a rally until the blow of a $192,000,000 expansion in brokers' loans this week was felt. With stock prices moving generally downward the market was scarcely prepared for a sixth successive weekly rise in loans, and at that one raising the total for that brief period by $809,000,000. This phenomenon of falling stock prices and rising brokers' loans has the market at sea in its effort to explain the diverse movements.

Shift to Investment Trusts.

"The public's shift into investment trust stocks explains partly the continued expansion in brokers' loans at a time when the market in many sections of the list is crumbling. Many investors too were unwilling to buy even the quality stocks at their late summer levels turned into investment trusts, holding company or financial issues with the belief that in so puzzling a market their interests would be better served if left to the judgment of one of the institutions. By selling industrial and railroad stocks to buy these new descriptions investors may have improved their chances for protection over a period but to the extent that the shifts were financed through banks and brokerage houses the operation involved a substitution of collateral inferior in character. That is to say houses picking up these new investment trust issues for customers usually write down the customer's equity by the full amount of payment required. To the extent that the purchase thus is not offset by sales the banking firm must increase its own borrowings.

Several Explanations.

"A second plausible explanation for the perplexing rise in brokers loans is found in a possible transfer of the loan burden from non-bank to banking shoulders. Light on this question doubtless will come with publication of the stock exchange's monthly figures next week. If the margin in the expansion of stock exchange loans over brokers loans is cut down the evidence will be convincing. What this will suggest is that large non-bank lenders perhaps from abroad have withdrawn their funds in volume and left the burden to the banks. For a time it appeared that the rise in brokers loans was held down by a shift in the burden to non-banking sources revealed in the stock exchange figures. Now it is possible that the load has been turned back again to the banks and thus reflected in brokers loans. The third and more obvious explanation for the phenomenon is that stocks have been passing in recent weeks into weaker hands.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review says:

"Business all through the week was closely connected with the emergency steps taken by the Bank of England to protect its gold holdings. Heavy buying came into sterling after cables sold at $4.84⅝ on Monday and an advance was in progress until after the announcement of the increase in the Bank of England rate to 6½ per cent. This news was followed by an advance in sterling cables to $4.85⅝ but there was no demand in this market at around that level and the rate fell back again, sterling cables being in supply yesterday at $4.85¼.

"Nearly all the other leading exchange groups followed sterling in its movements. Dutch exchange had an advance of seven points to 40.15 for cables and Scandinavian rose from 4 to 6 points. Swiss had a gain of three points at its high on Thursday, but these advances were materially reduced in the trading in the past two days. French held strong toward the end of the week when it sold at its highest level for some time. Spanish exchange was in continued demand, advancing seven points to [illegible]. German was a special feature, [illegible] up six points to 23.85. While these advances occurred in the New York market there was no change in favor of England in the markets in Paris and Berlin and the exchange rate in Paris especially indicate continued gold withdrawals from London.

"South America moved up also on Thursday, but the gains were not maintained yesterday. Japan was in steady demand all through the week, yen cables selling yesterday at 48 cents, an advance of one-half cent. Canada after selling at a new low for recent years at 98.87, rallied to 99.28.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK STOCK UP 90 POINTS TO 550

One of Features of Week's Trade — St. Louis Union Trust Also Has Sharp Range.

First National Bank stock, which advanced 90 points to a new peak level of 550, and Hussmann-Ligonier, which changed hands to extent of more than 2600 shares between 27 and 30¼, were the individual features of the week's trade on the St. Louis Stock Exchange. About 400 shares of the bank stock sold. The Executive Committee of the bank has proposed a 10 per cent stock dividend and also that subsequently the par value of the stock be reduced from $100 to $20, each stockholder to receive five new shares for each share of old held. The directors will consider the proposal Oct. 8.

A small lot of St. Louis Union Trust sold at 565, an advance of 30 points over last previous sale, made Sept. 17. Mercantile-Commerce was up 4½ points on 489 shares. Most of the gain was made at Saturday's session.

Wagner Electric, Ely-Walker and Moloney Electric, among the more active shares of the period, closed on lower basis. International Shoe, National Candy and Missouri Portland also showed recessions at the close. American Investment "B" declined.

Consolidated Lead was lower, as was also Laclede Steel. National Bearing Metals rose 5 points. Nicholas Beazley was unchanged to lower. Scullin Steel preference closed higher.

DOMESTIC MORTGAGE LIST REMAINS HEAVY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Although bond prices were a shade steadier in today's short session, the tone of the domestic mortgage list remained heavy, ending a week in which the prevailing trend has been downward.

Convertibles followed an irregular course, selling off soon at the opening but recovering most or all of their losses as stocks did an about face. Trading in bonds of this type was light. American Telephone 4½s, showing a somewhat reduced volume, closed 1⅜ higher. International Telephone 4½s sold down to the new low for the movement of 188 but then went up to 192 for a net gain of 2 points. American I. G. Chemical 5½s, after a firm opening, lost gruond and showed a net decline of one point. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s suffered from the weakness of the stock at the outset, but managed to finish more than 2 points above the last Friday quotation. Richfield Oil 6s lost 1½ on a substantial turnover.

Railroad, utility and industrial bonds displayed little life. A few utilities improved a point or so on small transactions, but changes in the other two groups were narrow.

Foreign bonds eased. United Kingdom 4s made another new low of 79⅞ on a small fractional decline, while minimums for the year or longer also appeared in Rio de Janerio 8s, North German Lloyd 6s and Montecatini 7s with warrants.

United States Government Securities sold slightly lower.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Cotton goods closed the week steady. More inquiry for spot deliveries of wool goods is noted. All-silk satins are in better demand and the finer qualities of silks are selling. Knit goods are being bought steadily. More business is reported on fine prints.

DOMESTIC MORTGAGE LIST REMAINS HEAVY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Although bond prices were a shade steadier in today's short session, the tone of the domestic mortgage list remained heavy, ending a week in which the prevailing trend has been downward.

Convertibles followed an irregular course, selling off soon at the opening but recovering most or all of their losses as stocks did an about face. Trading in bonds of this type was light. American Telephone 4½s, showing a somewhat reduced volume, closed 1¾ higher. International Telephone 4½s sold down to the new low for the movement of 188 but then went up to 192 for a net gain of 2 points. American I. G. Chemical 5½s, after a firm opening, lost gruond and showed a net decline of one point. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s suffered from the weakness of the stock at the outset, but managed to finish more than 2 points above the last Friday quotation. Richfield Oil 6s lost 1½ on a substantial turnover.

Railroad, utility and industrial bonds displayed little life. A few utilities improved a point or so on small transactions, but changes in the other two groups were narrow.

Foreign bonds eased. United Kingdom 4s made another new low of 79⅞ on a small fractional decline, while minimums for the year or longer also appeared in Rio de Janerio 8s, North German Lloyd 6s and Montecatini 7s with warrants.

United States Government Securities sold slightly lower.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Cotton goods closed the week steady. More inquiry for spot deliveries of wool goods is noted. All-silk satins are in better demand and the finer qualities of silks are selling. Knit goods are being bought steadily. [illegible] business is reported on fine prints.

TRANSACTIONS ON NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Total bond sales amounted to $5,017,000, compared with $8,478,000 yesterday, $4,176,000 a week ago and $4,872,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,093,264,000, compared with $2,260,672,000 last year and $1,952,382,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar, that is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and twenty-four thirty-seconds of a dollar and not $99.24.

SWIFT COMEBACK TO STOCKS AFTER FURTHER SELLING

Closing Prices Irregularly Higher but Rally Does Little Toward Reducing Friday's Severe Losses.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. — The stock market was washed by another huge wave of selling in today's short session, but the flood subsided before the close, and a rush to cover short commitments, together with some bargain-hunter buying, in a measure repaired the damage to the price structure. Closing quotations were irregularly higher, but the rally did little toward reducing yesterday's severe losses. Trading was active, the day's turnover totaling 2,205,260 shares.

Commission house clerks worked late last night sending out margin calls, and much distress selling was manifest during the first hour of trading. Several leading issues were depressed from 2 to 8 points, but when the weakened margin accounts were generally dumped overboard and disposed of, many traders felt that the technical position of the market had been considerably strengthened, and that stocks had reached attractive buying levels. Most of the days losses were more than canceled before the close.

Gloom Not Entirely Dissipated.

Although the markets swift comeback did much to repair speculative confidence, so severely shaken by the $192,000,000 brokers loan increase, on the heels of the higher Bank of England rate, the gloom was not entirely dissipated. Some commission houses expressed the opinion that the decline must go even further before the markets top heavy position is fully rectified, and the credit situation was still regarded as ominous.

Yesterday's 9 per cent call money rate carried over the week end and bankers are inclined to the opinion that indications are for higher rather than lower money next week. The month-end payment checks will return to the banks for payment, and the autumn commercial requirements for funds is heavy in early October. Furthermore, the effects of the higher Bank of England rate remain to be seen. Further shipments of gold from London to Paris were reported today, and it was felt that the Bank of England may have to raise its rate even higher.

News Largely Satisfactory.

The day's news was meager, but largely satisfactory. A compilation of the August net operating income for the first 49 railroads to report disclosed a gain or more than 10 per cent over August, 1928. Allis Chalmers placed its new stock on a $2 annual dividend basis, equal to $8 on the old, which paid $7. Crocker Wheeler announced payment of back preferred dividends. Week-end business and trade reviews generally pointed to satisfactory wholesale and retail trade, and were not inclined to find anything alarming about the let-up in steel and automobile production.

U. S. Steel again showed disappointing weakness, dropping 4 points, to 222, a new low for the movement, and closing at 225. Motors were still under considerable pressure, General Motors touching a new 1929 low at 66. Studebaker, Marmon and Nash again reached new lows for the year, but rallied slightly in the late trading. Auburn Auto dropped 25 points and rallied 24 from the bottom.

Most of the leading industrials closed somewhat higher, after sagging considerably in th first hour. General Electric dropped about 5 points, then shot up 12, closing with a net gain of 7. National Biscuit was a strong feature, rising more than 6 points to a new peak. American Telephone, Eastman Kodak and American Can sagged moderately, then urned upward and closed 2 or 3 points higher net. American Rolling Mills shot up 11 points, and Pullman reached new high ground. Columbian Carbon dropped to 268¼, then rebounded to 283½, a net gain of nearly 7 points.

Atchison Rises 6½ Points.

A few of the rails responded to the good August earnings, notably Atchison, which rose 6½ points. Utilities wre under considerable pressure for a time, but rallied and several closed higher.

Standard Gas and Electric shot up 6 points, then lost some of its gain. The Pacific Coast issues were again strong, Pacific Lighting reaching a new eak. American and Foreign Power, Public Service of New Jersey, and Consolidated Gas regained early losses and closed a little higher.

Among stocks to close lowe. were American Water Works, Beechnut Packing, Bush Terminal, Delaware & Hudson and Otis Elevator, which lost 2 or 3 points. Ingersoll Rand dropped 6 points in a small turnover.

In the commodity markets, grains sagged, wheat losing between 1 and 2 cents a bushel on the railroad embargo in Canada and weak cables, and corn ugging a cent or so. Cotton closed steady.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and fairly steady, with Sterling Cables a shade higher at $5.85¾.

Losses of 25 to 100 Points.

The flood of liquidation in latter part of this week carried many issues from 25 to 100 points below their record prices for the year, most of which were recorded but a few weeks ago. The Standard Statistics Co., Associated Press price index of 50 industrials recorded a net loss of 7.2 points during the week, of 20 rails, 5 points, and of 20 utilities, 12.3 points. The industrial index was carried about 16 points below its peak for the year, and the others more than 12.

The weekly brokers' loans figures were particularly disbursing, showing an increase of $192,000,000, the largest since early in January. During the past six weeks more than $300,000,000 has been added to the loan total.

LIST GENERALLY LOWER SOME GAINS BUT CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The curb market was submitted to renewed pressure today, and while marked rallying tendencies developed in several of the utilities and oils in the late trading, the list generally closed lower, with more than a dozen issues as new lows for the year or longer.

In the utilities, Electric Investors tumbled nine points, but regained about half its loss before the close. Standard Power & Light dropped 8 points and Northern States A and Commonwealth Utilities "B" lost four points. American Superpower sagged a little, but Electric Bond & Share held steady, and Niagara Hudson was firm. Southern Cities Utilities A was a strong point, jumping 8 points to a new peak, and Hydro Electric Securities was in good demand. The Insull stocks were steady to firm.

Some of the oils firmed up considerably. Cosden and Gulf closed 2 or 3 points higher, and Lion Refining more than four. In the industrials, the Crocker Wheeler stocks were buoyant in response to announcement of clearing up of back preferred dividends. The old stock shot up 45 points to a new peak at 771. Dow Chemical was again buoyant, jumping 21 points to a new peak. Aviation Corp. of the Americans rallied more than 10 points, regaining more than half of yesterday's loss, but air stocks were generally soft.

Aluminum Co. dropped 15 points. Among issues reaching new lows for the year or longer were Foltis Fisher, which dropped 8 points to 15, Gold Seal Electric, which tumbled 6 points to 10, Hygrade Food, Cream of Wheat and National Aviation, which declined moderately.

Investment trusts were irregular. Lehman Corp. held steady and trans-America was firm. The Shenandoah issues, however, ranged to new lows, as did Blue Ridge common.

Are investment principles changing?

New types of securities merely complicate the investment problem. Inducements to prospective investors depend for their value upon what underlies the securities offered.

Changing investment styles cannot alter the never-varying principle that investments should be made only on authoritative and timely information.

Never before was it so necessary as it is now, to have complete daily financial information such as The Wall Street Journal gives.

For every security market, The Wall Street Journal gives a clear digest of current happenings, and in addition, the underlying events indicating trends that may become news sensations.

STOCK MARKET SLUMP REFLECTED IN WHEAT

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 28.—The wheat market was affected by the action of stocks, report of slack foreign demand as well as Australian and Argentine reports and closed lower. Comment that wheat afloat for Europe might show falling off Monday was a late sustaining factor. Corn was influenced by action of wheat and report of generally favorable weather in belt.

In the cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was 1c and 2c lower. Purchasing was limited to a few selections. Starchy types No. 2 went on orders at $1.33 to $1.34, ⅜c below to ¼c above the Chicago December figure. Good No. 2 sold at $1.31, with some 57-pound wheat offered at $1.30. Hard wheat was down 1½c and 2c. The demand was fair. The best prices were paid for light colored blending types and yellow varieties. No. 2 sold on track on a basis 6¾c to 7¾c below the Chicago December figure. The bulk of No. 3 and No. 4 wheat went to elevators. Offerings were light. Corn was 1½c lower. Movement was slow. Elevators and shippers furnished a little demand for the white. Mills and glucose plants took supplies sparingly. Oats were 1c to 2c lower. Buying was slow early in the day, but some shipping demand came through late and offerings cleared closely.

Wheat opened more than cent lower but December regained part of setback early. Winnipeg also was down more than cent early. Liverpool closed 1 to 1⅜d lower. Corn opened a cent lower. Rain report from Australia, weakness of stock market and better Argentine convenient were factors in early decline.

December wheat opened at $1.32¾. May wheat $143 and December corn 96½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 81,-900 bushels, compared with 60,200 a week ago and 242,200 a year ago, included 30 cars local and 28 through. Corn receipts, which were 119,000 bushels, compared with 61,600 a week ago and 92,400 a year ago, included 74 cars local and 11 through. Oats receipts, which were 48,400 bushels, compared with 44,000 a week ago and 126,000 a year ago, included 20 cars local and 2 through. Hay receipts were 17 cars local and 5 through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the Exchange Saturday were as follows:

No. 1 red winter wheat, $1.34; No. [illegible] red winter wheat, $1.31; sample grade red winter wheat $1.18; No. 2 hard wheat, $1.26; No. 3 hard winter, $1.22; No. 4 hard winter, $1.20; No. 5 hard winter, $1.18; No. 2 yellow hard winter, $1.29; No. 4 yellow hard winter, $1.23; sample grade yellow hard $1.11; No. 3 mixed wheat, $1.29.

CORN.

No. 1 yellow corn, 98c; No. 2 yellow corn, 97½c; No. 4 yellow corn, 96c; No. 2 white corn, 99c.

OATS.

No. 2 white oats, 49c; No. 3 white oats, 48c; No. 2 mixed oats, 49c.

WHEAT CLOSES NERVOUS AFTER PRICE DECLINE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Numerous speculative holders of wheat sold out today partly because of stock market unsettlement, but price declines were checked through aggressive buying from important sources. Houses with foreign and Northwest connections bought most of the wheat for future delivery. Export business in wheat from North America, however, continued slack in most quarters.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous ¾c to 2c under yesterday's finish, corn closed ⅝c to 1¾c down, oats ¼c to ½c off and provisions unchanged to a setback of 20c.

On the whole, liquidating sales today from owners of wheat future delivery contracts proved to be of less volume than expected. The chief selling pressure associated with stock market weakness came in the first part of the day, but to a less extent was again in evidence during the final hour. Meanwhile, reports of rains in Australia and of better field conditions in Argentina were also notable bearish factors, together with announcement of a railroad embargo on wheat shipments from the Canadian prairie provinces to ports on the Great Lakes.

Helpful in rallying Chicago wheat values today at times were advices that the amount of wheat aflot for Europe was likely to show a substantial falling off Monday. Furthermore, Winnipeg messages said the big marketings of Canadian wheat this season were ended, and that the country today was actively buying future deliveries. On the other hand, sellers of wheat in Europe were reported offering grain at prices below the cost of replacement. A late bearish influence, too, was selling here from sources that earlier were buyers, Northwest houses in particular.

Corn and oats received their downward impulse today largely from the action of wheat. Weather conditions over the corn belt were regarded as generally auspicious from a crop standpoint.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the cereal markets.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The cottonseed oil market was dull and barely steady at [illegible] 5 points decline. Liquidation of October subsided entirely and generally the undertone was featureless. Cotton was steady, but its effect was overshadowed by the heaviness of grains and lard, as well as a lowering of bids for crude oil. Sales 600 barrels. Prime crude, $7.62½; prime summer yellow, spot, $9; October $9.10; December, $9.37; January, [illegible]; March, $9.58; May, $9.70.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The copper market remained quiet with demand from both domestic and foreign consumers light. A slight improvement in buying from abroad occurred late in the week but purchases from this source were generally of a hand-to-mouth character. Reports of recessions in the steel, automotive and building industres in this country may have restricted demand and domestic fabricators who have covered into October are awaiting further developments. In the meantime producers are holding steady with the quotation for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley remaining at 18 cents.

Tin was easier and the market here and at London was upset somewhat by the advance in the Bank of England discount rate. A better business was reported done for prompt and October positions.

Lead was steady and was featured largely by a fair demand for September, October, November shipment.

A better demand prevailed for zinc, although the price situation was irregular with the understanding that some fourth-quarter business was closed at slight concessions. London was weak with prices lowest since 1921.

Antimony continued dull. Far Eastern markets were steadier late in the week due to renewal of disturbed political conditions.

WEATHER UNCERTAINTY LATE FACTOR IN COTTON

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Some early selling was absorbed by trade buying in the cotton market today and prices steadied up later on week-end covering which was probably promoted by uncertainty as to weather developments over the week-end. December contracts advanced from $18.52 to $18.62 and closed to $18.60 compared with $18.55 at the close of Saturday. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 8 points higher.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 2 points, with the market paying very little attention to the relatively steady showing of Liverpool. There was considerable Southern selling and prices soon showed net losses of 1 to 4 points on the active months with October easing off to $18.43 and March to $18.80. Trade buying was quite active on the declin to $18.52 for December, however, and the market steaded up later in the morning. After the early offerings had been absorbed selling was light and toward the close covering for over the week-end sent prices up to $18.52 for October and $18.88 for March or about 4 to 11 points net higher on the general list.

Closing quotations were slightly off from the best under realizing. There seemed to be considerable uncertainty as to the further course of the tropical storm which appeared to be entering the gulf. Some thought that it would bring rains in the Southeast, while others were of the opinion that it might be pushed southward.

The week-end weather forecast was for considerable cloudiness with rather general rains the first part of the week in Central and East Gulf states. Rumors that there were trade buying orders in the market for execution around $18.50 for December contracts were circulating on the early declines, and probably promoted some of the covering later in the morning.

Liverpool cable reported that trade calling had absorbed hedge selling and liquidation in the market there and said there was a fair demand for cotton cloths from nearly all outlets.

Spot quiet, mills $18.75. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 160,000 bales against 102,000 last year.

SHOOTS IN NEIGHBOR'S HOUSE, GETS 6 MONTHS

W. D. Woolsey of Glencoe Also Fined $200—Seeks New Trial.

W. D. Woolsey, 57 years old, superintendent of the Alpha Portland Cement Co. of Glencoe, was sentenced to six months in jail and ordered to pay a fine of $200 by a jury in Circuit Judge Nolte's court at Clayton yesterday, for firing a shotgun into the windows of a dwelling.

Woolsey was charged with firing through a window of residence quarters occupied by Charles W. Haub, Glencoe merchant who resides over his store on the main street of the town. Woolsey lives across the street. Mrs. Haub testified she saw Woolsey stand on his own porch on the night of May 27, last, and fire several shots with a shotgun, one charge shattering a window of her home and the others lodging in the front wall. Other witnesses also testified they saw Woolsey on his porch with the weapon.

Woolsey denied the charge and produced one witness who said he saw a short, slender man fire the shots. Woolsey is a large man. Another defense witness said Haub had once told him that Woolsey was trying to run the town and that he (Haub) intended to drive him out of Glencoe "even if I have to frame him."

Woolsey was released on $1500 bond pending hearing on a motion for a new trial.

$50,000 ROBBERY OF CHICAGO RACE TRACK IS FRUSTRATED

Treasurer Kidnaped and Forced to Promise to Open Vault, But Police Frighten Holdup Man.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A plot to rob William Wingate, treasurer of the Linocln Fields Race Track, of $50,000 purse money, was frustrated last night by information which came to the police of Joliet. The money was in a steel vault in the club house. At 7 p. m. Wingate and his assistants, John Molter and Edward Lindeman, were seized near Crete by 10 men just after leaving the track. The robbers had two cars. Lindeman and Molter were driven to Lockport, Ill., where they were held prisoners until 4 a. m. Wingate was taken to an abandoned house near the Indiana State line.

"We know you have the combination of the vault and we want you to open it when we take you back," the leader said. "If you don't it will be bad for you." Wingate told them that there were six men guarding the vault. "We don't care about that," was the reply. "We will get them and the vault too." The track is guarded by 12 policemen, six at the vault and six around the track. Wingate agreed to open the vault to escape death. At 11 p. m. six robbers with Wingate drove back to the track. They stopped near the club house. They saw two cars with a dozen policemen in front of the structure. The robbers released Wingate and escaped in their car.

NEGRO STABBED TO DEATH IN ROW OVER 25 CENTS

William Hayner Had Interfered in Altercation Over Loan to Harry Howell.

William Hayner, 26-year-old Negro, was stabbed to death last night in an altercation over the loan of a quarter. Harry Howell, 2926 (rear) Carr street, who according to police admitted killing Hayner, had tried to borrow 25 cents from a friend of Hayner's at Hayner's home, 1620 (rear) Wash street and the friend demurred at getting a $1 bill changed.

Hayner got into the altercation, Howell said, and threatened him. Howell produced a knife and stabbed the other Negro in the heart, police said.

WOMAN STOPPED IN LEAP FROM BRIDGE WITH SON IN ARMS

A woman apparently ready to leap from near the center of the Free Bridge with a small boy in her arms was dragged back to safety last night by Detective Sergt. Frank Dempsey.

At City Hospital, where she was taken for observation, the woman said she was Mrs. Elizabeth Becker of 1728 South Eleventh street and that the boy was her 5-year-old son, Henry Becker Jr.

HI-JACK IS SECOND; 17 2-YEAR-OLDS IN RICH RACE

By the Associated Press.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 28.—Dedicate, son of Dodge-On Time, that races for the Everglades Stable, won the rich Eastern Shore Handicap, when he came from behind in the stretch to fight it out with George D. Widener's Hi-Jack and to beat the latter out a nose.

Another length away followed W. J. Salmon's Swinfield, half a length in front of the Rancocas Stable's Khara. The Eastern Shore was run as the fifth race and it brought a field of 17 of the best 2-year-olds now in training to the post.

Several of the lot were fractious at the barrier and when the start came Dedicate, Packy H and Try Too were first to show, but before they had gone a sixteenth Capture was out in front and racing head and head with Black Majesty. Hi Jack was third and running well within himself.

They raced in their order to the top of the home stretch, where McAtee sent Hi-Jack up with a rush and at the furlong pole opened up a lead of a length. Once in front, Hi-Jack began to pin his ears back and sulk. Dedicate, which had been close up from the start, then made his bid and moving up with determination, caught and passed Hi-Jack inside the sixteenth pole. Both colts were under punishment. In the last 20 yards, Hi-Jack came again but he failed to make it and was beaten by the smallest of margins.

The fractional time of the race was :22 1-5, :46, 1:13.

The net value of the stage to the winner was $24,250.

INDIANA DEFEATS WABASH COLLEGE BY SCORE OF 19 TO 2

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 28.—Indiana University scored a 19-to-2 victory over Wabash College here today to open its 1929 football schedule. The Cavemen, outclassed for three-quarters of the game, unleashed a running attack in the final period to come within a yard of a touchdown, and then made a safety when Wood blocked Balay's attempt to punt from behind the goal.

Ross, Todd and Brubaker led the Indiana attack, which netted touchdowns in each of the first three periods. The Indiana line showed well on defense, but failed to open up properly when Indiana was rushing the ball.

Mendenhall, Wabash guard, was carried from the field with a broken ankle in the third period.

Coaches Page and Vaughan substituted frequently. Play was ragged, perhaps because of the summer weather which prevailed.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 28.—Scoring a touchdown in each of the first three periods and seeing its substitutes hold South Dakota State even the last quarter, Wisconsin won its opening football game here today. The final score was: Wisconsin 21; South Dakota State 0.

Dedicate well up with the leaders from the start, moved up with good courage when called on in the stretch run and running straight and true, wore Hi-Jack down to outlast the latter in the final drive. Hi-Jack, a keen factor from the start, moved into an easy lead entering the stretch, drew away at the furlong pole but pinned his ears back after taking the lead. He came again the last few strides. Swinfield ran to his top form. He was well up all the way, out-gamed Khara at the end. Capture and Black Majesty showed early speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Dedicate, win $9.70, place $6.60, show $6.30; Hi-Jack, place $4.60, show $3.50; Swinfield, show $20.90.

ARMY TEAM SMOTHERS BOSTON IN FIRST GAME

By the Associated Press.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Army's big guns were too powerful today for a game little Boston University eleven, and the Cadets started their season with a 26-to-0 victory. Early in the blistering hot afternoon it seemed that the count would be much smaller. A crowd of approximately 12,000 saw the football curtain run up.

After the first two minutes of play when Army scored its first touchdown through excellent cooperation by Captain Keener Cagle and Hertz Murrell in advancing the ball, the rest of the first half developed into a ding-dong fight with no advantage in the draw.

The second half had much more army activity, the home team counting three times, twice through the same Murrell-Cagle combination so effective at the start, and the last by the medium of a 35-yard pass tossed by Hutchinson, the Army's most versatile athlete, to mall a rangy end.

Boston University fought through to the final whistle, Marino playing a great defensive game, Hootstein was the Hub's best offensive threat until forced out in the third period by injuries.

Army did not escape representation in the casualty list, Carl Mark, Perry and Piper suffering hurts, Carl Mark on the second play of the game.

Capt. Biff Jones relieved his shock troops by the dozen and late in the second period and through most of the last session had substitutes filling most of the places his first string men occupied at the start. Captain Cagle played only two periods but gained consistently while he was active.

Army's more or less green line played well although suffering many penalties through overanxiety to be up and at the opposition. Miller, who started at center, gave a good account of himself as did Hillsinger, a new guard.

Lineups:

Army.	Position.	Boston U.
Carlmark	L. E.	Carnie
Parham	L. T.	Cataldo
Humber	L. G.	Quinn
Miller	C.	Barrett
Hillsinger	R. G.	Dincolo
Perry	R. T.	Stone
Messinger	R. E.	McCollough
Gibner	Q. B.	Marino
Cagle	L. H. B.	Thurman
O'Keefe	R. H. B.	Hootstein
Murrel	F. B.	Walke

Referee—E. J. O'Brien, Tufts. Umpire—H. G. Cann, N. Y. U.. Linesman—H. E. Von Kersberg, Harvard.

Score by periods:

Army	7	0	13	6—26

Army scoring—Touchdowns, Murrell 2, Cagle, Malloy (substitute for Kenny). Points after touchdown—Hillberg (substitute for Carl Mark), pass from Cagle; Cagle (drop kick).

MILLER HUGGINS WILL BE BURIED TOMORROW

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—Miller Huggins will be buried in Spring Grove Cemetery here beside his father and mother, on Monday. Relatives of the manager of the New York Yankees, who originally planned burial for tomorrow, changed arrangements after the body arrived here this morning and announced a public funeral service would be held Sunday and private burial Monday.

Three hundred friends met the train which brought Huggins home for the last time. The body was taken to a funeral home, where it lay in state this afternoon. Hundreds of boyhood friends and baseball acquaintances viewed the body during the afternoon. It will remain in state until noon tomorrow.

Pallbearers Monday will be Robert Connery, owner of the St. Paul American Association club; Mike Kelly, manager of the Minneapolis team of the same circuit, who was Huggins' first minor league pilot; William Anderson, Sheriff of Hamilton County, Ohio; Christy Walsh, New York sports writer, and Bert Cunningham, Morris Isaacs, John Allman and Clifford Martin, all of Cincinnati.

St. Louis U. Varsity Trounces Freshmen Team by 30-6 Score

By James M. Gould

Playing under the conditions that prevail in a regular game, the St. Louis University Varsity yesterday defeated a strong Freshman eleven, 30-6. Despite the heat of the day, four 15-minute quarters were played. Head Coach Anderson used two teams for the alternate periods and substitutions were frequent on the Freshman side.

The Varsity team that started proved the stronger of the two combinations and scored 24 of the 30 points. The only Freshman touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Podelwiz, Freshman guard, intercepted a forward pass and ran 80 yards for the score. The Varsity touchdowns were made by Lintzenich, Eaton, Ford, Brown and Gazelle Lintzenich scoring twice.

At the start of the game, the Varsity kicked off. The Freshmen started a rushing attack and then tried some lateral passes. A fumble gave the Varsity the ball well in Freshman territory but, after making one first down, they lost the ball and the Freshmen kicked to midfield. Eaton tore off 10 yards and Lintzenich made it a first down. Kimmell completed a forward pass to Ford Brown and a seven-yard run by Eaton put the ball within two yards of the line. The Varsity fumbled but recovered, after which Lintzenich went over for the first score just as the quarter ended.

Freshmen Hold Varsity in Second.

A new varsity faced the Freshmen in the second quarter and were held scoreless. The Freshmen kicked off and Salinski returned 25 yards. De Christofero gained eight and Joyce made it first down. Joyce then threw a pretty pass to De Cristofero for a 30-yard gain but a fumble then gave the Freshmen the ball. Holding the first-year men, the Varsity forced a kick and again started

DALLAS WINS THIRD GAME OF DIXIE SERIES FROM BIRMINGHAM, 4-2

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 28.—Dallas won the third game of the Dixie series 4 to 2 here today after Birmingham had threatened to stampede the steers in a hectic eighth inning rally.

Whitey Glazner, who started on the mound for Dallas kept the game well in hand until the eighth inning when he walked Black to fill the bases with only one down. Connally then took the box, fanned Clabaugh and made Weis force Black at second to nip the rally. The victory leaves Birmingham with an advantage of two victories to one in the seven game series. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sep. 28.—Clarke Morse, the young pro at the Forest Park municipal links in St. Louis retained his Missouri open golf crown here today.

The title play was decided on the seventy-second green in the flare of automobile headlights after dusk, with Morse sinking an eight-foot putt for par four to defeat Ole Clark, runner-up pro and course record holder here on his home grounds

Playing with Harold McSpadin, professional at the Victory Hills Club, Kansas City, who finished in a three-way tie for fourth with 290, the two were all even on the last tee after the hard hitting Hickory Hills instructor took par 4, with a powerful drive, a short approach and two putts. Morse's longer approach was over and his next bounced across the cup. The St. Louis youth missed his putt by a fraction, took five and the score was tied.

PIRATES POUND JOHNSON, HAINES AND SHERDEL; BARTELL LEADS ATTACK

By J. Roy Stockton

After winning six consecutive games, largely through the brilliant pitching of young mound artists, the Cardinals used three older hurlers yesterday afternoon, and the Pittsburg Pirates broke the St. Louis string of victories, pounding Sylvester Johnson, Bill Sherdel and Jess Haines for 18 hits and bagging the third game of the series, 8 to 5.

Burleigh Grimes started for the visitors, but the Red Birds bunched four hits with two errors in the fifth inning and tied the score, knocking Burleigh out of the box. Swetonic relieved him and was credited with the victory. The defeat was charged to Sherdel, as the Pirates regained the lead while Bill was on the firing line.

The quail season will open Nov. 10, and farmers in Missouri and Illinois report large coveys of the birds, more coveys than usual.

Bartell Leads Attack.

Dick Bartell with two singles, a double and a triple, was the batting hero for the Pirates, while Ernesto Rudolpho Orsatti set the pace for the Red Birds, with three singles in four official trips to the plate. Ernie also drew a pass.

The turkey season in Missouri will not open until Dec. 1, and unfortunately each hunter will be allowed only one bird this year. And you have to find the turkey before you can get it.

The Pirates scored on run in the first inning, Sylvester Johnson being punched for singles by Bartell, Lloyd Waner and Brickell.

Grimes Scores Two With Triple.

Then, in the second, Sheely and Hargreaves singled and Grimes tripled to left center. When Bartell doubled to right, scoring Grimes, Johnson was taken out and Sherdel went to the hill. Bill stopped the rally, aided by a double play.

Nine balloons could be seen on the horizon to the north just before the game ended. They looked like oranges hung up in the sky.

Sherdel started the big fifth inning for the Cardinals with a single off Clark's glove and Douthit popped out, but Orsatti singled to left and High singled to center, scoring Sherdel and sending Orsatti to third. Hafey singled to left, scoring Orsatti and putting High on second. Roettger then hit to Grimes and the pitcher, trying to start a double play at second threw into center field and High scored. Lloyd Waner's throw to third, trying for Hafey, bounced past Traynor and Hafey was safe at third and Roettger reached second. Butler walked, filling the bases, and Grimes walked to the dugout, Swetonic taking up the pitching job. Gelbert's sacrifice fly to Brickell scored Hafey with the tieing run.

When you go quail hunting No. 7 or 8 shot will do, but for ducks you need some No. 6s. You can bag turkeys with No. 4, but No. 2 is better, as one slug of the No. 2 will do the work sometimes.

Pirates Resume Lead.

Sherdel held the Pirates until the sixth inning when they regained the lead. Clarke walked. Sheely singled to right and Hargreaves singled to center, scoring Clark. Swetonic bunted but forced Sheely at third after which Bartell tripled to left center scoring Hargreaves and Swetonic. Sherdel got the next two men to prevent further scoring.

Must remember to get some scatter-shot loads for the quail. When you're a rotten shot the straight loads aren't so good.

Hargreaves Out at Plate.

In the eighth the Pirates added their eighth and final run off Jess Haines. Sheely and Hargreaves singled and Swetonic again bunting, forced Sheely at third. DAVIS-ELKINS ELEVEN BEATS WEST VIRGINIA MOUNTAINEERS, 14 TO 6

VICTORS GRAB PASS TO SCORE SECOND GOAL IN LAST MINUTE

DAVIS ELKINS WILL PLAY ST. LOUIS U. HERE SATURDAY

THE Davis Elkins eleven, which defeated West Virginia University yesterday at Morgantown, W. Va., will travel westward this week to play the St. Louis University team at Public School Stadium, next Saturday. The game will open the Billikens' season.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 28.—For the second successive year the Davis-Elkins eleven conquered the University of West Virginia. The final score was 14—6.

The battle was one of the most thrilling and hard-fought that has ever been witnessed on Mountaineer Field.

The second largest early-season crowd on record stayed in the stadium until the final second of play, despite a blazing sun which caused the 12,000 spectators almost as much discomfort as the players.

Early in the first quarter Davis-Elkins took the ball at midfield and were never stopped until they had registered a touchdown. Rengle fumbled going though the line, but Wagner recovered for a 15-yard gain. Two plunges at the line by Rengle netted only four yards and then two forward passes were batted down, while West Virginia drew a five-yard off-side penalty. A third pass from Rengle to Mitchell was good for 26 yards and a touchdown.

Pass Brings Touchdown.

Neither eleven was able to gain consistently again until the middle of the second quarter, when Eddie Stumpp of West Virginia personally conducted a 71-yard advance which netted a touchdown. The diminutive Stumpp gained 17 yards through the Senators' line on two drives at tackle and then the Senators drew a five-yard penalty. Stumpp then tossed a pretty pass to Bartrug, who raced half the length of the field for a touchdown. Capt. Glenn missed the try for point via the place-kick route.

During the rest of the game the Mountaineers held the upper hand and early in the fourth quarter Stumpp engineered another parade which wound up on the Davis-Elkins two-yard line, where the Senators made a determined stand. On the fourth down, Capt. Glenn dropped back to the 15-yard line and attempted a placement kick which hit the upright, bounced off and went outside the post. This march was good for 42 yards.

Intercepts Pass to Score.

In the closing minutes of the final quarter, Boxcar Bus Larue, who had replaced Stumpp shot a flock of forward passes and forced back deep in his own territory, in the final play of the game Kepner broke through, partially blocked an attempted pass as it left Larue's hand, caught the ball and trotted over the goal line for the final touchdown and the pistol sounded.

Smith converted both tries for points via the placement kick route.

Horton Smith and Hagen Meet Local Golf Stars in Exhibition Here Today

Horton Smith, Missouri's leading contribution to golf, and Walter Hagen, the outstanding "money player" in the game, will oppose two local stars, John Manion, Sunset Hill pro, and Chris Kenney, veteran amateur, here this afternoon in an 18-hole exhibition match at the Sunset Hill Country Club. The match will start at 2 o'clock.

Smith and Hagen were scheduled to arrive at 7:30 o'clock this morning from Kansas City. They are on an exhibition tour that has taken them throughout the North and Middle West, in which they have played more than 50 matches, winning all but four.

Manion and Kenney have been shooting fine golf lately, and are expected to give the visitors a stiff battle. Manion twice in the last week shot 68 in practice, once in a match in which Clarence Wolff had 66, tying Manion's own course record.

The Sunset Hill Club is on Gravois road.

It was stated early in the week that more than 1000 tickets had been sold, and a good crowd is expected. Admission is $2.

E. Anheuser will referee, with Sid Le Gear as master of ceremonies. The following committee will assist at the match:

S. J. Boehm, L. H. Josties, W. T. Mellow, E. J. Medart, J. R. Fiorita, J. C. Stiles, H. A. Earnett, J. C. Phelan, Theo. Lucks, A. C. Wray's COLUMN

The Heavyweight Situation.

MR. JACK SHARKEY, born Josef Coccoske, is again nearing the coveted championship of the world. His surprising knockout of Tommy Loughran did much to rehabilitate this erratic celebrity. Today, it is announced, he will be saved for the next "battle of the century" at Miami, next February. That fight will bring Sharkey a step nearer to the title than he has ever been.

Once, three years ago, Sharkey made a noise like a coming champion. There was a moment when it seemed that the fame of knocking out Dempsey and the right to fight Tunney for the crown, would be his.

That was in the first round and for part of the second of their fight in New York. The mighty Dempsey was bloody and groggy, heavy-footed and dead-armed. The former champion had taken a terrible beating, in the first three minutes.

Sharkey's sun rose above the horizon—and then it set with a bang.

Sharkey Had No Punch.

For Dempsey, dazed in the second, and still sluggish in the fifth, refused to go down under Sharkey's blows but doggedly plodded in—to finally win by a knockout!

Sharkey mussed his one great chance, then. But here he is again, three years later, sitting prettier than ever, with only a Max Schmeling or a Phil Scott between him and the gladsome harvest that goes with the championship.

For a fighter who cannot hit or fight consistently, this "break" can be counted a great streak of fortune. From a lowly "gob" at $30 a month to a near millionaire is a climb not often accomplished outside of Horatio Alger's books.

More Funny Business.

THE moment that the National Boxing Board took Walker's middleweight crown from him he arranged a match with Ace Hudkins, his most formidable rival.

That's putting it over on the commission. If Mickey wins from Hudkins the fans all will hold that Walker is champion, no matter what the National Board says.

This situation would not be possible if ALL the commissions of the country co-operated, each observing the penalties of the National Board. Today New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, California and a few others are halting progress and compounding with the offenders by refusing to join the national association.

Fighters and their managers can not be made to behave until ALL the states work under the same agreement.

THE Cubs are on top in all the popular comment among the world series fans; but if we believe the reports of betting commissioners the Athletics are getting all the play. Tom Kearney, local commissioner, told the Post-Dispatch that even Chicago bettors were sending commissions to him on the Athletics, who have been made favorites in the East.

Kearney is carrying both teams at 4 to 5 and take your pick—which is even money, with a commission out for the broker.

The betting fraternity must have the idea that the National League is weaker than the American. They might base this on the fact that seemingly hopeless combinations like Philadelphia and Brooklyn were able to make headway against leading National League clubs this year; and also, they may remember the drubbings given to the Pirates and Cardinals by the Yankees in the last two world series.

Two successive duplications of a feat accomplished only once before in world series history—namely winning in four successive victories—have helped the impression of American League superiority.

In any case, at this time the Athletics are favorites and daily becoming more pronounced choices.

The average discriminating person, however, finds it hard to believe that one league as a whole can be materially weaker than the other, when working under the same conditions.

A more sane opinion is that the two teams are approximately equal and that no odds are justified. Probably the coming contests will see it work out that way.

End of the Trail.

JOHNNY DUNDEE was knocked out, Wednesday night. There is plenty of professional tragedy in that, to those who have followed the career of this once-famous protege of Scotty Monteith.

Dundee is far along in years, pugilistically. He has been champion in two classes—junior lightweight and featherweight. He has fought, under weight handicap, the super-champion of the lightweight world, several times. That was Benny Leonard. And in these bouts Johnny was never disgraced.

But now he is knocked out. Father Time and doubtless a broken spirit, helped beat him. Al Foreman, lightweight champion of Canada, turned the trick.

Dundee is not fighting, today, because he loves it. Nor is he fighting because he expects to come back again. He is in there because he needs the bread and butter, although at one time he was really rich. He had plenty of surplus. He even had turf ambitions. He bought himself a racing stable.

And that was the beginning of the finish. The touts did what the fighters never could—they "took" him.

And today finds Johnny scrambling for three squares when he could have been clipping coupons. A pretty tough chapter to add to a real champion's story. But there may be even a tougher to follow—the finish.

That may prove like the one enacted just before the finish of William Rothwell, who as "Young Corbett" once had the boys making the welkin ring, whenever his name was mentioned.

Decision or No Decision?

WISCONSIN has just amended its boxing law to make decisions legal. That State was one of the pioneers in commission government. It was one of the best regulated boxing States in the country and today still is that. That this conservative community has decided to change, indicates experience has taught it that decisions are best.

Missouri has a no-decision law and one wonders if it is for the best. Many supporters of the "no decision" bout say that it permits promoters to sign champions or near-champions who would not consent to fight to a decision for the same pay.

They say that sometimes a fighter, fearing to be outpointed by a man whom he believes he could knock out in a long fight, will not engage in a short decision bout. If outpointed that would go into the record against him.

Under no-decision conditions he might be outpointed but not hurt. His defeat would not show on the books.

Possibly that works out now and then. But too frequently it results in a half-hearted fight not of the sort that the public likes.

OK For a Dempsey

IT IS true that several fights have been fought for world championships under no-decision conditions. But that was all right because there was a man like Jack Dempsey in there fighting.

And the world knows what Jack Dempsey once said: "There is no reason for any fight lasting 10 rounds if both men in there really want to FIGHT."

The no-decision is pie for men who do NOT want to fight and therefore is not so good. For there is only a willing man like Dempsey here and there along the championship highway. One a decade, perhaps.

Besides, the public likes that little dramatic climax at the end—naming the winner. A referee's decision will always be desired by the public. And after all the fans should have what they pay for.

MALONE OFF FORM AND REDS BEAT CUBS, 5-3

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Pitching for a chance to open the world's series against the Athletics, Pat Malone was off form today and Cincinnati beat the champion Chicago Cubs by 5 to 3.

Malone had one bad inning, the fifth, when five straight hits cost him three runs. Those markers were enough for Pete Donohue and he protected his lead the rest of the way. Cuyler drove in all of the Cub runs. He got a freak home run in the fourth to score Hornsby ahead of him and his single in the ninth drove Hornsby over the plate.

Ford and Sukeforth led the Cincinnati attack. Each got three hits.

Donohue and Malone each allowed 10 safeties, but the Cubs could not hit in the pinches.

Riggs Stephenson, injured Cub outfielder, returned to the lineup after an absence of two weeks. Charley Grimm worked out for a short time and announced that he would be ready to play in a few days.

Miss Helen Hicks, 18, Becomes Youngest Golf Champion of Canada

LANCASTER, Ont., Sept. 28.—Helen Hicks, stocky little player from Hewlett, N. Y., who represents the Inwood Country Club, today won the 24th annual Canadian Women's Open Golf championship by overwhelming Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., by a 7 and 6 margin in the 36-hole final.

The victory gave Miss Hicks possession of the Duchess of Devonshire gold cup.

The 18-year-old "Helen of Hewlett" climaxed a week of triumphs with the one sided victory that made her the fifth player from the United States to win the championship and the youngest of all the title holders. Glenna Collett, whom Miss Hicks eliminated in yesterday's thrilling semi-final, won the title twice, while Helen Payson, Virginia Wilson and Cecil Alexa Sterling, now a resident of Canada, each have scored one victory.

In contrast to yesterday's record round of 72, Miss Hicks had 80, one over par, for the first round today, while Miss Quier scored 89.

In the afternoon round, Miss Hicks started off smartly, increasing her lead to seven up on the fourth hole of the round and the twenty-second of the match. The Pennsylvanian showed some improvement, but could not maintain the pace. She won only one hole of the nine and was eight down at the 27-hole mark. Miss Hicks was out in 38 to Miss Quier's 41.

Coming in, Miss Hicks became dormie eight with a half on the tenth hole, but cracked on the next to prolong the match for a few moments. She sent three balls off the tee and required nine strokes for the hole. She rallied on the next hole, however, to gain a half and end the match on the thirtieth green.

PHILLIES GAIN 69TH VICTORY IN BEATING BOSTON BRAVES TWICE

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Burt Shotton's Phillies defeated Boston in both games of today's double-header, 9-8 and 8-6, and retained their slender grip on one game on fifth place.

By getting three hits in five times up in the second contest Lefty O'Doul helped his average which slumped a bit in the opening game when he got only one hit in four times up. He still holds a good lead over Babe Herman, his nearest rival.

The opening game victory was the sixty-ninth of the year for the Bakermen and the best record a Phillie team has made since 1925. The 1925 team won 68 games.

KOZELUH BEATS RICHARDS FOR PRO NET TITLE

By the Associated Press.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Karel Kozeluh, icy-nerved little tennis marvel from Czecho-Slovakia, now rules the professional courts of the world in undisputed sway. In two and one-half hours of the finest tennis seen in the United States this year, "Karel the Great" dethroned Vincent Richards as national professional singles champion before an excited gallery of 5000 at the West Side Stadium today. The scores were 6—4, 6—4, 4—6, 4—6, 7—5.

The brilliant Richards, volleying and smashing with all the devastating effectiveness of his amateur heyday, fought his way into the lead in a hair-raising final set and three different times was only a single point from victory. Twice in the crisis his shots hit the top of the net, and the third time Kozeluh took a new lease on life by sending one of his hair-splitting drives past Richards down the side lines.

The diminutive, swarthy Kozeluh played as if made of rawhide and steel. Lobbing calmly and playing his back-court game in the teeth of the most deadly volleying in the world, he finally gained his due reward, although it was by only the slimmest of hair-line margins that Richards' great bid failed.

By his victory, Kozeluh gained possession of the Ralph A. Gushee Trophy, a big bronze chanticleer, which was presented by Richards' father-in-law, and would have become Vinnie's personal property, as he has won this tournament since 1927, when it was inaugurated. The European expert evened matters for the defeat Richards handed him in the rain in last year's final, and also received a cash prize of about $850.

Kozeluh is rated by authorities on a par with Henri Cochet of France, the world's leading amateur, and fully vindicated that reputation by the quality of his play today.

BEARS WORK ON SIGNAL CODE IN TWO-HOUR DRILL

By Henry L. Freund.

Two complete teams ran through a two-hour signal drill yesterday afternoon at Liggett Field as the Washington Bears began tuning up for the first game of the season next Saturday. Dr. Sharpe had originally hoped to have a short scrimmage, but the hot weather caused him to change his plans as he was afraid the squad would take off too much weight in a severe scrimmage.

There was no work on fundamentals yesterday, merely a brushing up on old plays and the introduction of some new ones. Prospects looked better at the Hilltop yesterday than they have in many days, as the two teams raced through a snappy signal drill. Scott Hornsby again got off some beautiful punts and seems set for a great season.

Stocke Comes Out.

Another source of joy to Washington grid followers was the unexpected appearance of Rolla Stocke. Stocke is a varsity letter man from last year and earned his "W" as a tackle and guard. He will be a valuable addition to the line as first-class linemen are scarce at Washington. Stocke weighed in yesterday at 198, which is close to his normal weight. He had not planned on returning to school this year, but changed his mind and registered late, this accounting for his late appearance.

Capt. Jablonsky, at guard, should prove to one of the outstanding linemen on the team. He is charging and tackling better than he has ever done before and is unquestionably the hardest worker on the field. He is on the practice field 15 minutes before anyone else reports and is never idle. Yesterday he practiced kicking off and showed proficiency in this department.

Dr. Sharpe again used the same first team with which he has been working. Blake was at center in place of Butz, who missed yesterday's practice, and Jablonsky and Senn at guard, with Paris and Glazer at tackle. Paris has gained ten pounds since he has been out for football, and now weighs 195. According to the weights of these five players yesterday, using Butz at center, the line from tackle to tackle will average exactly 201 pounds a man. Glaser, Butz and Senn are all over 200. Jablonsky is the lightest in the line, weighing 188.

On the Ends.

Ralph Kurz has been using Wientge and Coover as his first string ends, these boys averaging 180 pounds. The backfield with Springer Waid, Sauselle and Hornsby averages 175 pounds. The combined weights of these eleven players who appear to be the ones that will open against Illinois College amounts to an average of 187 pounds.

Line Coach Bullman missed yesterday's practice as he left for Jacksonville, Ill., to watch the Illinois eleven in their first game of the season last night. Head Coach Sharpe, who was in Jacksonville on Friday did not get an opportunity to see the team in action as the game scheduled for Friday night was postponed until last night.

A large crew of workmen were busy yesterday stenciling numbers on the 10,000 new seats in the recently built grandstand. The grandstand will have only reserved seats after the first game of the year, the students using the wooden bleachers in front of the stands.

STANFORD DEFEATS OLYMPIC CLUB, 6-0

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Sept. 28.—Smothering their opponents' attack, Stanford University's football team today edged out the Olympic Club of San Francisco in a hard fought contest, 6 to 0. The only score of the contest came in the second quarter when Rothert, Stanford halfback, took a pass from Smalling and dashed across the goal line.

LOMBARD DEFEATS UPPER IOWA, 41-6

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 28.—Lombard opened its season with an impressive 41 to 6 victory over Upper Iowa University here today. Coach Harry Bell used three teams, his sophomore players doing most of the scoring. Iowa's touchdown was made on a trick play.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 28.—The Browns dropped three full games behind the Cleveland Indians in their battle to regain third place, by losing today's game, 4 to 1. The Indians wore their batting togs and drove Walter Stewart from the mound in the third, and also benefited against the pitching of Sam Gray, who worked through the seventh.

Walter Miller, the Indians' educated southpaw, was Cleveland's workman, and although he was blasted for 11 hits and tapped in every round, he was able to keep the Browns away from the plate until the eighth inning. It was Miller's fourteenth victory of the season, and the Browns must face him again in St. Louis next week.

Schang and Manush were the only Browns able to take liberties with Miller's baffling curve ball and change of pace. Each of these Brownie warriors made two hits, and it was Schang who scored the only St. Louis run.

Fonseca Hits Three Times.

Lew Fonseca, the Indian first baseman, who is giving Al Simmons a great race for the American League batting championship, made three hits and held his own with the Mackmen. Joe Sewell also made three safeties and twice drove runners home. Aside from those two, the Indians did nothing startling against Stewart, Gray and Rip Collins.

A freak play enlivened the game in the eighth, when Morgan hit to Melillo, with Luke Sewell on first. Oscar made a wild throw to Kress that Ralph nipped with his gloved hand and then returned to Melillo at second in time for the forceout.

Frank O'Rourke starred in the field for the Browns and but for several of his fine stops and throws at third base, the Tribe might have chalked up some additional runs. Averill played a sensational game in center field for the Indians.

Stewart Routed Early.

Cleveland attacked Stewart for a pair of runs in the first inning, after two were out. Gardner walked and advanced to second on Averill's bounder in front of the plate that was fielded by Schang. Fonseca put a dent in the center-field concrete with a two-bagger that sent Gardner racing home. Falk rapped a hard drive off the right-field wall that went for a single because of the speed of its rebound, and Lew scored.

Stewart was hammered from the box in the third, after he had escaped a second-inning assault that consisted of Hodapp's double and a pass to Morgan. Averill and Fonseca both lashed singles to right to open the third and Sam Gray was called in from the bull pen to furnish the Brown ammunition.

Gray Fails to Stop Scoring.

Falk, the first man to face Gray, bunted and forced Averill at third when O'Rourke made a remarkable pickup of Sam's low throw. But Joe Sewell punched a single to right that scored Fonseca. McNeely made a great leap for the drive but was able only to knock it down.

The Indians picked up another run in the fifth when Averill and Falk drew passes and Joe Sewell blasted a single to center. Fonseca made a strong bid for his third straight hit but Gray knocked down a line drive and recovered the ball in time to throw out Lew. Cleveland missed a good chance to get more runs in the seventh when Fonseca and Joe Sewell singled, but Gray made Hodapp hit into O'Rourke's paws for the third out.

St. Louis, after hitting safely in every inning, finally ushered over a run in the eighth. Schang sin-

Line Coach Bullman missed yesterday's practice as he left for Jacksonville, Ill., to watch the Illinois eleven in their first game of the season last night. Head Coach Sharpe, who was in Jacksonville on Friday did not get an opportunity to see the team in action as the gam scheduled for Friday night was postponed until last night.

A large crew of workmen were busy yesterday stenciling numbers on the 10,000 new seats in the recently built grandstand. The grandstand will have only reserved seats after the first game of the year, the students using the wooden bleachers in front of the stands.

STANFORD DEFEATS OLYMPIC CLUB, 6-0

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Sept. 28.—Smothering their opponents' attack, Stanford University's football team today edged out the Olympic Club of San Francisco in a hard fought contest, 6 to 0. The only score of the contest came in the second quarter when Rothert, Stanford halfback, took a pass from Smalling and dashed across the goal line.

LOMBARD DEFEATS UPPER IOWA, 41-6

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 28.—Lombard opened its season with an impressive 41 to 6 victory over Upper Iowa University here today. Coach Harry Bell used three teams, his sophomore players doing most of the scoring. Iowa's touchdown was made on a trick play.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 28.—The Browns dropped three full games behind the Cleveland Indians in their battle to regain third place, by losing today's game, 4 to 1. The Indians wore their batting togs and drove Walter Stewart from the mound in the third, and also benefited against the pitching of Sam Gray, who worked through the seventh.

Walter Miller, the Indians' educated southpaw, was Cleveland's workman, and although he was blasted for 11 hits and tapped in every round, he was able to keep the Browns away from the plate until the eighth inning. It was Miller's fourteenth victory of the season; and the Browns must face him again in St. Louis next week.

Schang and Manush were the only Browns able to take liberties with Miller's baffling curve ball and change of pace. Each of these Brownie warriors made two hits, and it was Schang who scored the only St. Louis run.

Fonseca Hits Three Times.

Lew Fonseca, the Indian first baseman, who is giving Al Simmons a great race for the American League batting championship, made three hits and held his own with the Mackmen. Joe Sewell also made three safeties and twice drove runners home. Aside from those two, the Indians did nothing startling against Stewart, Gray and Rip Collins.

A freak play enlivened the game in the eighth, when Morgan hit to Melillo, with Luke Sewell on first. Oscar made a wild throw to Kress that Ralph nipped with his gloved hand and then returned to Melillo at second in time for the forceout.

Frank O'Rourke starred in the field for the Browns and but for several of his fine stops and throws at third base, the Tribe might have chalked up some additional runs. Averill played a sensational game in center field for the Indians.

Stewart Routed Early.

Cleveland attacked Stewart for a pair of runs in the first inning, after two were out. Gardner walked and advanced to second on Averill's bounder in front of the plate that was fielded by Schang. Fonseca put a dent in the center-field concrete with a two-bagger that sent Gardner racing home. Falk rapped a hard drive off the right-field wall that went for a single because of the speed of its rebound, and Lew scored.

Stewart was hammered from the box in the third, after he had escaped a second-inning assault that consisted of Hodapp's double and a pass to Morgan. Averill and Fonseca both lashed singles to right to open the third and Sam Gray was called in from the bull pen to furnish the Brown ammunition.

Gray Fails to Stop Scoring.

Falk, the first man to face Gray, bunted and forced Averill at third when O'Rourke made a remarkable pickup of Sam's low throw. But Joe Sewell punched a single to right that scored Fonseca. McNeely made a great leap for the drive but was able only to knock it down.

The Indians picked up another run in the fifth when Averill and Falk drew passes and Joe Sewell blasted a single to center. Fonseca made a strong bid for his third straight hit but Gray knocked down a line drive and recovered the ball in time to throw out Lew. Cleveland missed a good chance to get more runs in the seventh when Fonseca and Joe Sewell singled, but Gray made Hodapp hit into O'Rourke's paws for the third out.

St. Louis, after hitting safely in every inning, finally ushered over a run in the eighth. Schang singled and advanced when Blue was passed and scored on McNeely's buzzing single to left.

Crowder Due Today.

Fifteen Browns were left stranded on the bases and in the sixth the runways were packed when McNeely shot a long fly to Falk for the third out. The Browns did not hit into any double plays but 18 of them hoisted to the outfielders and nearly always the side was retired by that route. Lew Fonseca had an easy afternoon at first with only four putouts.

In Sunday's game, the Indians' last home contest of the year, Wes Ferrell will shoot for his twentieth victory of the season, with Al Crowder working for the Browns.

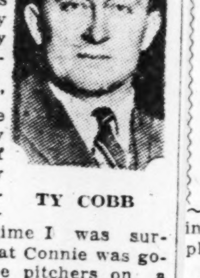
Mack Plays Percentage More Than Any Manager In Baseball, Writes Ty Cobb

Second Guessing Athletics' Leader Is Dangerous Pastime, Declares Former Great Outfielder.

Georgia Peach Says Worst Days of His Career Were Those When He Was Forced to Sit on Bench.

CHAPTER NO. 6.

By Ty Cobb.



TY COBB

CONNIE MACK has been labeled in my hearing as a "manager who plays hunches." I recall that a few years when the Detroit team, which was then under my leadership, was about to start a series with the Athletics. Something was said about pitchers.

"I heard Connie Mack say he probably would start his three H's," a newspaper friend of mine told me. "Connie says they have been doing good work for him lately and he has a hunch that they will be lucky against the Tigers."

The "three H's" referred to were Harriss, Hasty and Heimach, if my memory serves me correctly. I do recall that at the time I was surprised to learn that Connie was going to start three pitchers on a hunch. I do not remember whether or not he went through with his hunch.

Later on when I had a chance to watch Mack closely and study his methods as a player on his team, I discovered that what apparently are hunches are what we prefer to call percentage plays. Maybe there is not a very wide gap between playing a hunch and playing percentage.

One day I was sitting on the bench when a situation came up where a pinch hitter was to be sent in to wing at the offerings of a right-hand pitcher. Now there were several left-hand batters who might have been put in there. That was the natural thing to do.

Used Right-Hand Batter.

BUT Connie, greatly to my surprise, called on a right-hand hitter. I think it was Sammy Hale or Jimmy Dykes. "I guess that must be a Connie Mack hunch," I said to myself. The player delivered a hit. Then I did some thinking. I recalled that the same player had hit that pitcher hard in a game between the teams several weeks earlier.

Mack, with his uncanny memory for such baseball matters, had that previous success of the hitter catalogued in his mind. He felt certain the athlete would have a good supply of confidence when he stepped into the batter's box. Connie was playing percentage.

The A's manager has a wonderful knowledge of just what a particular player will do or where he will hit a particular pitcher. One pitcher a player hits to one field; another curver that same player may hit to the opposite field.

I think Mack is a genius on this doping the outcome of a certain contest between a pitcher and hitter. He does it better than any other man in baseball—the percentage system based on previous performance, I mean.

Hunches Backed by Facts.

THEREFORE, I saw that Mack's so-called hunches always are backed by a knowledge of all angles. Percentage enters into it largely, but he is uncanny in figuring out the kind of a ball that will be pitched in one of those tight spots.

If a player should be brave enough to say he could hit in a pinch, I think Connie would grab that as a hunch and send the batter up there. Of course he would be making due allowance for the confidence the athlete had expressed.

In my own case, I never in all my life liked to say what I could do or was going to do in any situation. In the fall of 1928, when we lost the pennant by one and one-half games, I was sitting on the bench just dying to get into the game.

Perhaps Mack was listening for me to pop off something about my confidence at hitting. I had the confidence, all right, but I did not want to boast about it. So it may have been my silence that kept me on the bench.

One of the most severe punishments I ever experienced was to sit on the bench, in good condition and most eager to play, and see the pennant slip away. I never liked to crowd close to the manager.

I had played big league baseball for 24 seasons. I felt that my record spoke for itself. I had been in many close spots and was used to fire.

As I look back over that, for me, most distressing period, I can arrive at only one conclusion. That is, Mack must have been playing a hunch when he did not call on me.

This may sound like boasting and second-guessing. I do not intend it that way. I merely offer my bench warming last fall when I felt so keen about entering the fight as one time when I think Connie Mack played a hunch.

Second Guessing Dangerous.

I WILL add here that second guessing Manager Mack is poor business. Surely, he has his misses. He may occasionally call on the wrong relief pitcher or send up the wrong pinch batter.

But in my judgment, whether he plays a hunch or figures out the percentage, Mack has a sound reason for every move he makes. That is why he is so hale and, at his age, a marvel in the matter of taking punishment, and continuing alert and enthusiastic.

When Connie decides that a certain thing is the right thing to do, founding his decision on percentage, he does no second guessing with himself. Whether the move succeeds or fails, the A's manager does neither cheering nor crying. He does, I presume, make a mental reservation about what to do under similar conditions the next time.

To me, as a baseball manager, Connie Mack is more of a "form player" than he is a follower of hunches. Any managerial move on the diamond is more or less a guess, because the human element enters into it.

But a guess founded on the "form" of the athletes involved is likely to come out right more often than it will be wrong. I wish the fans who second guess Manager Mack could know all the genius of figuring percentages and confidence that are behind his strategical moves.

If Connie senses that a player is devoid of confidence to do a certain thing, he will not ask that player to try it. At least, he will wait for the ideal spot when success is likely to be achieved. That will build of the athlete's confidence again.

Finally, if all managers played hunches as Connie Mack usually plays his—if they may be called that—we would have to find a new name for the tactical moves made on the diamond.

Tomorrow: Connie Mack and his likes and dislikes.

Earnshaw Likely To Prove Mack's World Series Ace

A PITCHER, who as late as May 1928, was pitching in the minor leagues, may prove the hero for the Athletics in the coming world series with the Chicago Cubs. This hurler is none other than George Earnshaw, purchased from Baltimore by Connie Mack for $50,000 and two players.

Earnshaw has been one of Mack's stars all season. He has won 22 games, more than any other hurler in the big leagues, while he has dropped but eight decisions for a winning percentage of .733. There are many who consider Earnshaw a better twirler than Grove or Walberg, who are generally regarded as the aces of Mack's staff.

Earnshaw's first season in the majors did not prove a howling success, inasmuch as he finished with a record of seven victories against seven defeats.

Mack was disappointed in his early showing as he figured when he purchased him that he would win the 1928 pennant. But Earnshaw has more than come through this year.

BENEFIT BASEBALL GAME FOR SANITORIUM IS SCHEDULED TODAY

The benefit baseball game for the Mount St. Rose Sanitorium, between the University City Knights of Columbus and the University City Clubs will be played at the St. Louis Stars' Park, Compton and Market street, today, starting at 2:30 o'clock. The Knights of Columbus Club, under the management of Martin O'Rourke, had a successful season in the University City Muny League, while the U-City Cubs, under the management of Byrnard Egan, played independent ball, meeting teams in surrounding Missouri and Illinois towns.

All holders of tickets for the benefit game reading Sept. 22 at the Public School Stadium, 3133 North Kingshighway, will be admitted to the game today.

NAVY SHOWS POWER DEFEATING DENISON

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Sept. 28.—Navy unleashed a powerful running attack which Denison University was powerless to stop and smashed over the Ohioans for a 47 to 0 victory to start its quest for 1929 football honors before 10,000 spectators today.

A backfield, untried as a whole, but with experience as individuals, and a line practically intact from last season enabled Navy to score almost at will and not until the last half did the visitors make their single first down.

ST. LOUIS U. VARSITY TROUNCES FRESHMAN ELEVEN, 30 TO 6

down the field, Salinski, Joyce and De Cristofero making long gains. Joyce threw a pass which was intercepted by the Freshmen just as a touchdown seemed inevitable. Two Freshmen passes were completed but line-play failed and the youngsters kicked to Nadorf who was spilled on his three-yard mark. This quarter ended with no scoring by either side.

Regular Varsity Returns.

After the intermission, the first varsity went back into action and showed the best sustained attack of the afternoon.

In this quarter, the Varsity kicked off and, after failing to gain on four tries, the Freshmen punted McKinney gained two on the ensuing play and then Eaton completed a pass to Lintzenich. The Freshmen then held and Lintzenich kicked, the Varsity legally recovering a fumble. Lintzenich reeled off six yards and then fumbled, the Freshmen taking the ball.

They kicked out of bounds to midfield. A Varsity forward pass was intercepted but a penalty pulled the Freshman runner back after he had cleared his field.

An Orgy of Scoring.

Lintzenich then crashed the line for his and the Varsity's second touchdown. Varsity kicked and Tierney, right end of the Varsity intercepted a Freshman forward pass and ran over the line for a third score. After one play, the Freshmen kicked and the Varsity tried a line-play, after which a splendid pass by Eaton to Ford Brown scored again for the Varsity.

With the "second" Varsity in action, the fourth quarter saw both teams score. Fumbles prevented the Varsity combination from counting more than six points, though they outgained the Freshmen consistently. Shortly after this quarter started the Varsity fumbled on a line play and Podelwitz of the Freshmen raced 80 yards for a touchdown. The Varsity then settled down and "Snakes" Gazelle crashed over for the fifth Varsity touchdown just before the final whistle sounded.

"First Team" to Face Elkins.

As the Varsity teams were made up, it is likely that the Saturday "first team" will, with two exceptions, be the one to battle Davis-Elkins Saturday. Yesterday, Ford Brown and Tierney started at the flanks with Drury and Daubner on the "second" team. This order probably will be reversed. The starting backfield of the campaign probably will include McKinney at quarter, Kimmell and Eaton at halves with Captain Joe Lintzenich at fullback. On the line will be Muellerleile at center, Schwarz and either Newton or Eddie Brown at guards, Cornell and Joseph at tackles.

Newton, with an attack of indigestion and Davidson, with a slight cold, were out of action yesterday but both will be available for duty in practice tomorrow.

MACKS EQUAL THEIR RECORD OF 102 VICTORIES MADE IN 1910

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The Athletics by defeating the Red Sox by 6 to 3 at Braves Field this afternoon, equaled their own mark of 102 victories in a season, made back in 1910. To beat that mark, the Mackmen needed only one victory in their five remaining games. They have no chance, however, to equal the league mark of the Yankees of 110 games won in a year.

Bing Miller was the top hitter today. His triple to right in the sixth with the bases loaded drove in three runs. George Haas made three singles but did not chase in a run. The hitting leaders of the new champions Al Simmons and Jim Foxx failed to break into the hit column.

The scene of the game was changed to Braves Field to enable Boston College to play a football game against Catholic University at Fenway Park.

CARDINALS ROUT GRIMES BUT LOSE TO PIRATES, 8-5

on it. Lloyd Waner then singled to center, scoring Swetonic.

There still is time for some trout fishing. Last month at Montauk, Jim Baum of Salem caught one that weighed almost seven pounds.

Swetonic held the Cardinals hitless in the eighth and ninth. The Pirates failed to score on a single and a pass in the ninth.

Last year we traveled 130 miles to Salem and 130 miles back. From Salem we motored 30 miles to the turkey country. Three of us tramped countless miles and in the two-day hunt only two shots were fired. But we got two turkeys. Wonder how the luck will be this winter.

Red Bird Notes.

The Cardinals will close the National League season in St. Louis this afternoon, meeting the Pirates in a doubleheader, the first game to start at 1:15 o'clock.

Bill Hallahan and Al Grabowski will pitch for the Red Birds and Heine Meine, a St. Louis boy and Larry French, are due for the Pirates.

Acting Manager Gabby Street announced that Hallahan would hurl yesterday's game but he received orders from the front office to save Bill for the Sunday fans. This wasn't interference. It was just an order.

About 200 girls took advantage of the Saturday free gate. The paid attendance was 2130.

The Cardinals will be idle after today until Friday when they open a two-game series in Pittsburg. Next Sunday they will ring down the curtain on the league season, playing a single game at Cincinnati.

Gelbert threw out the three batters in the seventh, making a great stop of Clark's grounder over second to end the inning.

Umpire Quigley made his decision on a play at the plate in the eighth inning so unostentatiously that the hard working newspaper men in the press box didn't know whether the runner was safe or out.

GOLDEN PRINCE EQUALS LINCOLN FIELDS RECORD, WINNING HANDICAP

KARL EITEL RUNS SECOND IN CLOSING DAY FEATURE

By the Associated Press.

CRETE, Ill., Sept. 28.—Lincoln Fields concluded a successful 30 days race meeting today with the running of the Marquette Handicap as the outstanding attraction.

This event was a gallop of a mile and an eighth for 3-year-olds and up, with $10,000 added money, and drew six straters, Flat Iron, the seventh entrant, having been scratched.

Golden Prince, a 5-year-old chestnut gelding from Bartelston and Unna's String, under an excelent ride by Jockey J. Parmalee, was first under the wire, but he had to equal the track record of 1:50 to win. Karl Eithel, Alderman J. J. Coughlin's consistent 3-year-old chestnut colt, was second, with Montanaro, from H. Deatherage's stable third, while Blackwood, from Mrs. E. Denemark's stable, took the small end of the purse.

The race was worth $8640 to the winner, $2000 to the second, $1000 to the third and $120 to the fourth.

Golden Prince, away well and under a well-judged ride, was rated along in third position but close to the leaders up to the stretch, where he came strongly to overhaul the leaders and win by a length and a half.

Karl Eitel was rated along in closest contention to the home stretch turn, where he went into a lead but having been much used up in forcing the early pace, tired in the stretch drive, but lasted to take the place by half a length. Montanaro, away last and outrun to the stretch, closed gamely to take third money by five lengths.

HOCKEY RULES ARE CHANGED TO SPEED UP GAME

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The club owners of the National Hockey League, the "big league" of professional hockey, in semiannual session today, adopted the 1929-30 schedule and approved a series of changes in the playing rules designed to speed up the game and produce freer scoring.

The season will open Nov. 14, with the following game scheduled:

Montreal Canadiens at Ottawa, New York Rangers vs. Maroons at Montreal, Boston at Detroit, Chicago at Toronto. The New York Americans will open at Ottawa on Nov. 16, and Pittsburg will start at home against the Maroons on the same date.

The old off-side rule was changed to read as follows:

"The ice shall be divided into three sections known as the defending zone. The neutral zone, and the attacking zone. It is permitted to pass the puck forward by one player to another of the same side in each of these three zones, but it shall not be permitted to pass the puck by a player from one zone to a player of the same side in any other zone unless the player taking the pass crosses the zone line behind the puck."

Defense Rule Changed.

The old anti-defense rule was changed as follows:

"Not more than three players, including the goalkeeper of the defending side, may be in their defending zone when the puck is in any other zone. Should a team violate this rule, it shall incur a minor penalty for each offense, the penalty to be awarded to the fourth player entering the zone. If more than one player offends at the same time, the offending player nearest the play shall get the penalty."

The goalkeeper is not permitted to hold the puck. If he should, a face-off between two players of the opposing sides shall take place 10 feet out from the goal, with no one between the face-off and the goal but the goalkeeper.

COMPROMISE AVERTS HAWTHORNE "STRIKE"

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A strike by members of the thoroughbread Horse Association, which threatened to delay the opening of the autumn meeting at Hawthorne Park Monday, was averted today.

The Chicago Business Men's Racing Association, which will operate the meeting, agreed to raise minimum purse money from $1200 to $1500 for the last six days of the 12-day meeting.

The horsemen had threatened to strike unless the minimum purse was set at $1500 for the whole meeting. A conference between turfmen and the racing association resulted in the compromise, and entries for the opening card were filled.

PAPE, ELIGIBLE, BUT 12 OTHER HAWEYE PLAYERS ARE BARRED

IOWA CITY, Ia., Sept. 28.—Oran Pape, fleet University of Iowa halfback, escaped the ineligibility axe in time to play against Carroll College today, but a dozen other Hawkeye football players, already in uniform, were barred from competition by action of the Athletic Board Eligibility Committee this afternoon.

HERMAN INCREASES AVERAGE TO .385; O'DOUL STILL AT .394

By the Associated Press.

Babe Herman lifted his average 1 point to .385 by hitting for two out of four in the first half of the Brooklyn-New York double header yesterday, and felt so well satisfied with himself that he took the rest of the afternoon off. Frank O'Doul refused, however, to yield ground, gettting four out of 10 in two games against Boston and holding his average stationary at .394 to retain a fine lead for the championship of the National League and the Big Six.

A non-Big Six player, Lew Fonseca, lifted his mark to .370 and passed both Simmons and Foxx in the American League race. Fonseca got three out of four.

Babe Ruth got four out of seven, gaining three points to .349.

DOWN the STRETCH

By Melvin D. Fulcher

A. C. Irwin, assistant to Joe Cattaranich at Fairmount in the operation of the mutuels, says that the "build-up" at Dorval in the race won by Supwana was one of the largest ever known. This was the race where Supwana, a good thing shipped to Canada from Saratoga, was an odds-on choice going to the post, but due to the large sums wagered on other starters, after the final odds were posted, his pay-off price was better than 6 to 1. He won easily.

Irwin says $31,000 was thrown into the mutuel pool at the very last minute to establish the big price and so unnatural did the pay-off price of $14.60 appear to be that the man at the pay-off board immediately asked for verification before he put it up. St. Louis layers as well as those throughout the country lost heavily to the race, due to the carefully planned maneuver.

Bill Snyder Missed Out.

It has been announced that Harry Morrisey will be the starter at the Waggoner's track at Arlington, Tex., where racing will be conducted from Nov. 6 to 16, with a possibility of an extension. Other officals also announced are Admiral Cary T. Grayson and A. B. Hancock, who will serve as stewards; Francis Dunne, clerk of the scales and associate Judge and William Dondas, racing secretary and general manager.

In six different seasons horses trained by Sam Hildreth headed the list of money winners on the turf with a total of more than $1,000,000. In 1909, 1910 and 1911, three consecutive years, he headed the list of money winners, his horses racing under his own name. Again for three consecutive years, beginning with 1921, with the Rancocas stable he was at the top of the list. It is estimated that horses trained by this eminent horseman have won in America and abroad the sum of $5,000,000.

It is reported that Eddie Haughton, trainer for the George Collins stable, will handle a division of the Greentree stable's horses this winter, beginning Nov. 1, and that Jockey Verlyn Smith, the clever apprentice, would accompany the trainer. The Collins horses are to be rested in Kentucky until the Arlington, Tex., meeting, after which they are said to be destined for New Orleans.

Dedicate Comes Back.

John S. Ward gave Dedicate a long rest and a careful prep for the Eastern Shore, the $20,000 juvnile feature at Havre de Grace yesterday and the colt triumphed over one of the best fields that has been seen this season. He carried 121 pounds and beat Hi-Jack and Swinfield for first money. Dedicate had won four straight races in the West before going to Saratoga, where he failed to be a starter.

NEW YORK U. HAS EASY TIME WINNING OVER VERMONT, 77-0

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Another massive New York University eleven opened the 1929 season today with a crushing victory over Vermont, 77 to 0. The impotent New England team could count only one first down and that with the aid of a penalty against the Violets' mighty array.

Beryl Follet, blonde halfback, filling the shoes of Ken Strong, last year's All-American, scored five touchdowns with runs varying from 5 to 50 yards and kicked four points after the scores. "Jinx" Cherin, quarterback, and Henry Hormel, midget halfback, scored a pair of touchdowns apiece.

*Field.

Blue Canopy began fast, had most speed from start and continuing much the best, easily won all the way. Bill Looney raced close up on outside, saved much ground, raced Curtain Call into defeat and held on well. Caluta worked her way up gradually on the outside and moved fast at end, blocked Jean and outgamed Curtain Call. Curtain Call had early speed but was forced to race on the outside, losing ground and tired. Flying Ambassador began slowly and closed much ground after interference. Jean went well to the stretch, where she was knocked about badly on the outside. King Pal quit.

$2 mutuels paid: Blue Canopy, win, $66.04; place, $24.94; show, $10.86. Bill Looney, place, $9.06; show, $5.26. Saluta, show, $5.18.

GALLANT FOX WINS STAKE AT AQUEDUCT

By the Associated Press.

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Amid the rousing chers of 15,000 race fans, Gallant Fox, carrying the silks of the Belair Stud, owned by William Woodward, scored an impressive victory in the Junior Champion Stakes here this afternono. The race was over the mile route and the colt carried 118 pounds and went the distance in 1:38. By his victroy the colt becomes a prominent contender for the $60,000 Pimlico Futurity, which will be run at Pimlico in November.

Gallant Fox was ridden by Johnny Maiben and the boy rode his usual waiting race. Gallant Fox was last as they turned into the stretch, but Maiben got an opening on the rail when the field swung a bit wide. Gallant Fox closed gamely and taking the lead at the eighth pole, drew away to win easily by two lengths. Desert Light was second, eight lengths before Sir Johren, with Dark Sea fourth and last.

The race was worth $3000 to the winner.

Diavolo, the four-year-old "iron horse" from the Wheatley stable, met his first defeat in five starts today when W. S. Kilmer's Sun Beau won the Aqueduct handicap. Diavolo was a length back of Sun Beau at the end of the mile and an eighth journey, while Live Oak was third and last. The time was 1:50.

the dog leg eighteenth. Clark's second was 30 feet from the cup and Morse was short with his first approach.

Clark's long putt rolled 10 feet past the hole, his next was over and his third putt wouldn't sink.

Morse deliberated several minutes, studying the angles and finally dropped his fourth and claimed first money, $150.

Clark held a two-stroke advantage at the outset today as result of a new record 65, coupled with 73 yesterday, but he was one stroke down at the 54-hole mark and two down at 63.

Morse shot his afternoon 18 in 36—38——74, and the morning 18 in 69, one under par, adding it to even par 70 made yesterday for a 72-hole medal total of 282.

Bennie Richter, left-handed pro from Triple A Club, St. Louis, was third with 289.

H. E. Kellman of Forest Park course, St. Louis, finishing fifteenth, was the low amateur. He had 302 blows over the 72-hole grind of the fifth annual tournament, held under auspices of the Missouri Professional Golfers' Association.

The diminutive Forest Park pro won his first State open title at the Midland Valey Club, St. Louis, when he was 21 years old. He consistently shoots near par and had the better of Clark by one stroke until his final 18.

Leonard Dodson, professional at the Glenstone muny links here, turned in a card of 32-34—66 for the day's low and second best of the tourney, as Clark's 65 yesterday broke his own course record of 66.

McGRAW

PITCHING WILL DECIDE WINNER OF TITLE SAYS GIANT MANAGER

By John J. McGraw,
Manager, New York Giants.
(Copyright, 1929.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. — It is possible that we baseball people of the National League, in our eagerness to see the Cubs win over the Athletics, may be influenced in our judgment to a certain degree. Desire and loyalty have a lot to do with predictions in baseball as well as politics.

Even so, I have threshed over the probabilities and possibilities as carefully and unbiased as I can and I agree with a great many practical baseball men in giving the Cubs a slight edge over the A's to win the championship.

There is no doubt in my mind, however, that the two teams are the most evenly matched we have had since that fight between the Pirates and the Senators. If we consider the cold statistical records, this one is even closer to a toss-up.

The influencing thought that has shoved my opinion over to the Cubs is the experience of a few of the Cub players in comparison with youngsters of the A's, who have never been in one of these world series affairs.

Have Beep Through Fire.

On the Cubs, Rogers Hornsby, Kiki Cuyler and Hack Wilson all have had their bath of world series fire, while not one of the A's has had such experience.

Remember, however, that while veterans like Hornsby and Cuyler know what it is all about and will have a calming effect on the younger players, the Athletics also have some of the best baseball generals and lieutenants in the world sitting in with their players. Eddie Collins and Kid Gleason can tell the boys a lot while the experienced Connie Mack is directing them. The handicap to these veterans is that they will not be actually on the field handling ground balls and up at that bat swinging for base hits.

Despite the rivalry in the two leagues, there is a deep sympathy everywhere for Connie Mack. He has been through all this time and time again and you can be sure he won't get excited. He has brought his outfit along from a nursing bottle and probably knows more about the individual characteristics of his youngsters than they do themselves. If they have weaknesses, Connie detected them long before anybody else.

The world series, on the other hand, is a new racket to Joe McCarthy. He is a cool, daring, knowing baseball man, though, and is not likely to make many mistakes. McCarthy has shown high qualities of field leadership in the pennant fight and the National League feels pretty sure that he will justify the confidence placed in him. Joe will be aided greatly by veterans on the bench—players like Hornsby, Nehf, Cuyler and Wilson — and Jimmy Burke, his wise assistant.

Pitching Will Decide Series.

In the long run this series—like all others—will be decided by the pitchers. We all know, or feel, that the Cubs will give those left-handers of the A's a tough time. Nobody understands this any better than Mack, and undoubtedly he has planned accordingly. He may cross all experts by shifting in a most unexpected way. If the Cubs have such an advantage Connie is too smart to let them run away with it. They'll get nothing handed to them on a silver platter. You may rest assured of that.

The general impression that the A's are a superior slugging club to the Cubs is erroneous if we dig down into the cold facts and figures. As a team and as individuals the Cubs have outhit the A's this season. Hornsby has a better average than Simmons, and Stephenson is tied with Jimmy Foxx.

The team hitting averages, up to a few days ago, gave the Cubs .305 against .297 for the A's.

For me there is a lot of sentiment in this series. It seems funny to me to be experting on Mack's chances now when I recall that 24 years ago he and I played the first world series under the present National agreement rules. You can easily understand how overjoyed all of us old timers were to see Connie come back and win a championship in his league after years of disappointment.

Leagues Friendlier Now.

The feeling between the two leagues nowadays is not so bitter. In that first series, which the Giants won, Mack and myself were considered violent enemies. The same feeling spread through players and fans.

I will never forget my feelings two years ago when on my silver jubilee celebration in Florida, Connie Mack made the speech presenting me with a silver service.

Regardless of how this series comes out, the acquaintances formed even as enemy or friend, create these lasting sentiments that make baseball what it is. Most any man of feeling admires an honorable opponent.

Williams to Box Quirk Thursday at South Broadway

Johnny Quirk and Woodrow Williams, two outstanding contenders for Western A. A. U. bantamweight title honors, will meet Thursday night in one of four special bouts topping the program Matchmaker Willie Miller is arranging for the South Broadway A. C. opening amateur boxing show. Quirk won all his bouts in local tourney competition last season, but the failure of the South Broadway club to place a team in the senior district tourney deprived him of the chance to annex title honors.

Williams fought his way to the senior flyweight finals and later captured the junior bantam championship of the local district, qualifying for the national junior championship at Chicago, where he again reached the final, only to drop a decision in the deciding battle. He boxed last year as a member of the Flori Olympian A. C., but is now competing unattached.

Another special bout on Thursday night's card will bring together Edgar Terry, a former teammate of Williams on the Flori Olympian squad, and Carl Shafer of the South Broadway club, in a featherweight event. Terry dropped only two decisions last year, although he was pitted against virtually every boxer of his weight competing in local ring tourneys. Shafer also compiled an enviable record, scoring kayo victories over George Tomazzi, Red Moore and Melvin Barton and earning decisions over Johnny Leary and Thomas Chiarilo.

The tourney has attracted a total of 16 entries for the open events to be contested as preliminaries.

Kirkwood Loses Practice Game to Belleville, 12 to 6

Coach Lyon's Kirkwood High School eleven were defeated in their opening contest of the year yesterday, when Belleville High triumphed in a hard fought game on the county school's field before 400 fans. The score was 13-6.

Kirkwood saved itself from a shutout through an exchange of punts which placed the ball in the East Siders' possession on their own 15-yard line. Patterson punted but the ball was called back and given to Kirkwood when Belleville was guilty of holding while the ball was in air. Kirkwood then exhibited the best football they had tried all afternoon and in three plays planted the ball on the 6-yard line from where Irwin shot over the line on an off-tackle buck.

All of Belleville's scoring came in the second period when Kirkwood seemed to lose heart after the gruelling first period. Capt. Harsh of Kirkwood at center made a bad pass to Parks and "Reno" Hahn of Belleville dropped on the ball on the opponents' 21-yard line. After two line bucks failed Patterson tossed a pass to Stiehl, who scored standing up. Aufdenspring's toe accounted for the extra point via the place kick.

The lineup and summary:

BELLEVILLE.	POS.	KIRKWOOD
Meyer	L. E.	Hahn
Ehret	L. T.	Hager
Becker	L. G.	Berger

INJURIES CAUSE CODASCO COACH TO ALTER LINEUP

By Robert W. Herr

If anyone is entitled to melancholy musings on the whims of Dame Fortune that person is Coach R. P. Hughes of Country Day School. Hughes returned from the Codasco football training camp last week with 35 players who were in excellent condition; the squad included eight lettermen of last year's championship eleven and the scintillating backfield of 1928 was intact, with one exception. In a football way, Country Day seemed set for one of the biggest years in its history.

And then, with practice resumed on the home field, things began to happen. The greatest blow fell first, when Husch, star halfback of last year and one of the best broken field runners in the district, suffered a leg injury which will put him out for the remainder of the season. While running a simple formation, no one being within several feet of him, Husch's knee gave way, and with it went part of Codasco's hopes.

Tupper Out for Few Days.

The next to fall was Tupper, plunging quarterback. Tupper has been indisposed for the past few days, but is expected back early this week. Steinwedell, a promising guard, who weighs 180 pounds, suffered an injury two days ago which will keep him on the bench for the season, and Meyer, another candidate who had been doing well, is out for an indefinite period. With these two men whole and intact, the Country Day line, from tackle to tackle would have averaged close to 180 pounds, and would have been the heaviest forward wall in the Prep League.

With these misfortunes Hughes can only rebuild his team, shifting men from positions at which they have been working, in an effort to fill the vacanacies. Lehman, a back whose excellent blocking was in a measure responsible for the success of the Codasco backfield last season, will be shifted to Husch's post, and another back will have to be found to take the place thus vacated by Lehman. Experiment with the other positions is being carried on daily.

The schedule:

Oct. 5—Principia at Country Day.
Oct. 12—Country Day at Western.
Oct. 18—Country Day at McBride.
Nov. 2—Milwaukee, Wis., Country Day at Country Day.
Nov. 9—C. B. C. at Country Day.
Nov. 22—Country Day at St. Louis U. H.

WISCONSIN SQUAD WINS TWO CONTESTS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 28.—Using only fundamental plays, the University of Wisconsin football team, divided into two squads, opened its season here today by defeating South Dakota State College, Brookings, 21 to 0, and Ripon (Wis.) College, 22 to 0.

The games, played in an intermittent drizzle on a wet gridiron, saw the Badgers easily master two collegiate leaders. More than 10,000 persons, the largest crowd for a Wisconsin opener with one exception, witnessed the contests.

The Badgers used simple football plays, running them from punt formation. They featured only off-tackle drives, line bucks and wide pass plays.

FAIRMOUNT ALL SET TO LAUNCH FALL MEETING NEXT FRIDAY

With the arrival of additional horses from Chicago, Kentucky, Kansas City and Canada, Fairmount Park is assuming that bustle and activity that characterizes an up-to-date race track in advance of its opening, which, for Fairmount will be next Friday. A 14-day fall meeting will be inaugurated then.

Extensive improvements have been under way during the past summer and, according to Robert S. Eddy Jr., the new general manager of the Fairmount Jockey Club, several innovations are in store for racing fans.

Under Track Superintendent Placide Frigerio, the Fairmount oval has been completely rehabilitated. Through a process of scraping the entire track has been freed of the waves and sinks complained of by the horsemen at the spring meeting. The running surface is now level and firm. Frigerio said yesterday that with the work planned for Monday that the track would be in ideal condition. Its condition will be benifited by a good hard rain, he said, otherwise its needed soaking will be done artificially.

Many Good Workouts.

Private clockers have reported several fast works over the track during the morning work periods of the past week. Among the horses that have shown well in their preparatory works are Marabou, Fortunate Man, Essie, My Lava, Frank Hawley, Sturdy Stella, Chief Sabbatus, Hattie Seth, Yargee, Try Again, Endor, Tempter, Eloise, Col. Grage, Cristar, Lucky Drift and Sly Polly.

Yesterday's arrivals included the stable of C. Irby, well known to the patrons of former meetings at Fairmount Park. Irby shipped from Lincoln Fields from which track a special train of six cars of horses will leave tonight to arrive at Fairmount Park tomorrow morning.

Horses Coming from Cheyenne.

Secretary Julius G. Reeder was advised yesterday that Charles B. Irwin is shipping 14 fresh horses from his home near Cheyenne, Wyo. One of the leading trainers at Tijuana, this will be the first meeting at Fairmount Park that he has attended. Included in the 14 good horses Mr. Irwin is shipping here are Cellini, Musketeer, Nose Dive, Under Wraps, Conquistador, Shampoo, Macbeth and Rip Rap.

Another new stable for Fairmount Park will be that of Mrs. H. D. Cox, which will arrive Monday from Woodbine Park, Toronto, Canada. Heading the 12 head in the Cox stable will be the good, consistent mare, Dear Lady, the winner of several races in Canada this season. Others in this establishment include Wandering Minstrel, Fair Jimmie, Runolathe and Harbarton.

Backbone Will Race Here.

Backbone, the good son of Whisk Broom II-Stamina, will head the shipment of Stuart Polk due to arrive here Monday morning.

Others in the Polk stable will be the consistent Cobra, Saddle Skirts, Nonenicer, Billiken and Gracious Me. Jockey Cecil Lyons is the Polk stable jockey and will accompany Mr. Polk here.

The racing secretary's office will be opened tomorrow morning with Secretary Reeder in charge. He will be assisted by Charles Campau, Eugene Burry and Wallace Simpson. Starter G. R. Wingfield will arrive Tuesday and will immediately open a starting school for uneducated 2-year-olds and other horses whose behavior at the post can be benefitted by schooling.

The opening day of the meeting, Friday, has been designated as "ladies' day," and General Manager Eddy has extended an invitation to all ladies to attend as the guests of the management on this day. Continuing for 14 racing days, the fall meeting will conclude Saturday, Oct. 19.

NEXT COLISEUM FIGHT PROGRAM TO BE HELD EITHER OCT. 14 OR 15

Undismayed by the financial loss which greeted his first boxing card as matchmaker for the Stocknam Post of the American Legion, Tommy Sullivan will go to Chicago tomorrow night to sign up fighters for his next program at the New Coliseum, to be held either Oct. 14 or 15.

The words "sign up" are used advisedly, for that is just what Sulivan intends to do after his experiences in connection with his card of last Thursday night. He made the mistake of taking the word of the managers without getting the names of the fighters on the dotted line, for his show here. Consequently, when better offers were received by these fighters they suddenly forgot all about Sullivan and St. Louis.

As a result, Sullivan had to make several substitutions only three or four days ahead of his card. It happened that the substitutes made as good or better showings than the fighters originally chosen would have made. However, the public didn't know that would be the case and only a small crowd turned out to watch the efforts of the substitutes.

Has Intersectional Schedule.

Six of Notre Dame's nine games are with intersectional foes. The nearby games are with Indiana, Wisconsin and Northwestern.

Local Bike Star Who Will Ride To Los Angeles

LOUIS STOCK.

IT'S a long way to Los Angeles but Louis Stock of 4452A Virginia avenue likes to ride a bicycle and so he will set out from here Wednesday with the California city as his goal, in an effort to get his name in another place among the records for bicycle riding.

Stock is a member of the St. Louis Cycling Club and a veteran rider. He holds records for rides from St. Louis to Chicago, 302 miles in 22 hours, and from St. Louis to Kansas City, 275 miles in 25 hours, and expects to make the trip to the coast in 14 days or less.

There is no established record for riding a bicycle from this city to Los Angeles.

ENGINEERS WIN FIRST GAME IN CINCINNATI, 7-4

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—The St. Louis Engineers baseball team of St. Louis won the first game of the five-game intercity series with Purcell club, Class A open group champions of the Municipal Baseball Association of Cincinnati, 7 to 4, here today before several hundred enthusiastic baseball fans. The Engineers bunched six hits in the sixth and eighth innings to score their runs. Four of the hits were of the extra base variety. The hard hitting Engineers cracked a double, two triples and a home run, which made up for their lack of other hits.

The St. Louisans were held scoreless and hitless in the first five innings by the brilliant hurling of Bill Hunter, right-handed pitcher of the losers.

Engineers Score.

In the sixth, however, Floyd Roberson, hefty Engineer second sacker, cracked a mighty triple over the head of Ransick, left fielder of Purcell. Bob Rigby and Joe Gangley were easy outs, but Jinx Mayer, short field artist, caught one of Hunter's speedy balls on the nose and rode it far out in center, where Cianciola lost it in the sun and it went for a home run.

St. Louis sewed the game up in the eighth. Hobbs was safe on an error. Roberson bunted to Hunter who threw to second too late to catch Hobbs. Rigsby sent a single to center, scoring Hobbs and Roberson and Rigsby followed on Frain's long triple to left center after Mayer had fanned. Olly Stuckel then singled to score Frain.

Rigsby hurled a creditable game for the Engineers, holding the Purcell team to eight safeties, only one of which went for an extra base. Rigsby was unusually wild and walked six men. He was tight, however, in the pinches and fanned four batsmen. Purcell was held without a run for the first five frames, and made their first in the sixth on two bits and an error.

In the eighth Purcell scored three runs on one hit. Rigsby walked two. Hebbs erred on Brocker's grounder and Bill Hunter cleared the bases with a double.

Great Fielding.

Although three errors were made by the Engineers, they displayed some sensational fielding at times and some sparkling plays by the infield cut down three runs at home plate.

The second game of the series will be played tomorrow afternoon at Deer Creek No. 6 diamond.

ROCKNE CALLS "EARLY WORK" RULE UNFAIR

By Knute Rockne.
(Member All America Football Board)
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

To prevent unfair advantages, abuses and tendencies toward inequalities of opportunity, we must have rules in order to play a complicated game such as football. The Football Rules Committee has done a pretty fair job, in fact, a mighty fine job when everything is considered. Teams that are coached according to the spirit and the letter of the rules play the game without any unpleasantries, friction or misunderstandings.

Rockne.

But how about some other rules mind particularly a rule now the vogue in a few schools in the East, most schools in the Middlewest and Pacific Coast. This rule does not allow any organized practice or coaching until Sept. 15.

Is the Rule Fair?

To the casual observer the rule would seem to be fair. But is it? Let's take for example, two schools in the Big Ten. We will take Purdue, where classes resume about Sept. 10. We will take for the other school "X," which classes start about Oct. 2. When the Purdue boy returns to his school about Sept. 9 or 10 he remembers that his coach has told him to work out every day and get himself into shape so that he will be ready to get off with a bang on the fifteenth. But he finds that he cannot even use the school gym and that he can't go out and work with the local high school squad. The only thing he can do is put on some old clothes and jog across country until the fifteenth, when practice begins. At the same time the boys from the school where classes do not begin until Oct. 2 are back home. They can borrow equipment from the local high school coach and they can kick, run, pass and even scrimmage with the local high school squad. Certainly there is no rule against the boy playing around in his home town. Some of these lads even go to football camps with the home town team and scrimmage against other high school teams. This is also considered O. K. But don't forget that the boy from Purdue where school started the ninth of September can do nothing until the fifteenth. Then what happens after Sept. 15? At Purdue and one or two schools in the Big Ten where school is in session they are allowed to practice once a day for two hours. But at school "X" and several other Big Ten schools where school does not begin until Oct. 2, they are practicing twice a day for two weeks, getting in about 25 or 30 hours more of football practice by Oct. 2, than the others. This is not only unfair but the severe driving of these young lads, physically, mentally and emotionally is not particularly constructive of anything good in the long run.

It seems to me that this rule prohibiting organized practice or coaching until Sept. 15 is very unfair to the coaches of the schools where classes begin early. It is mighty hard on the players who have to work twice a day because their school work does not start until October.

Practically every boy has finished his summer work or vacation by the Tuesday after Labor day. Why not allow each team to begin practice on the Tuesday after Labor day and permit one practice period a day of two hours duration from them on regardless of whether school is in session or not. This would eliminate any unfairness which certainly now exists to a marked degree. It would also prevent the terrific pressure which is now being put on a lot of the young boys by these arduous two-a-day practices. Furthermore, by the time the first game rolls around the boys will be in physical condition to play the game. It is questionable whether they are in shape for the first games under the present rule.

Rockne's Aim.

As our aim in athletics is equality of opportunity and a sensible routine of work for the young men here is a chance for the faculty representatives to do something really constructive without in any way bringing along that mysterious bugaboo called "over-emphasis." Over-emphasis is a condition of the mind, not an actual state of fact.

BABE RUTH CHOOSES "ROOKIE" TEAM OF 1929 BASEBALL STARS

RICK FERRELL PLACED BEHIND THE PLATE BY YANKEE STAR

By Babe Ruth

Chairman, All-America Board of Baseball.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—I have known all along that there were a lot of good looking youngsters breaking into the league this season, but a little discussion in the clubhouse the other day made me appreciate more, just how many there were and how good.

BABE RUTH.

It happened on an off day with the White Sox and the boys of both clubs were sitting around punching the bag the way players do. Someone said something about young Wes Ferrell of Cleveland being a whale of a pitcher and that started things. Other fellows were suggested and the first thing we knew we had named a team of first year men.

And what a team—not one to win a pennant, of course, for the kids lack experience, but a team that would be in there battling every minute and one that certainly has pennant possibilities in a few years.

Suggested Lineup.

Here's a lineup that one of the boys suggested. It's a little top-heavy with American Leaguers, but you must remember that it was American League players who picked this one. Naturally we don't know so much about the other league. No doubt the National League players could pick one from their own outfits that would be just as good.

For catchers we've got Bill Dickey of the Yankees and young Ferrell of the Browns. On first base there's Alexander of the Tigers.

At second base there's Bartell of the Pirates or Johnny Kerr of the White Sox.

Shortstop would be pretty well handled by Durocher of the Yankees or Cronin of Washington.

Third base could be taken care of by McMillan of the Cubs or Hayes of Washington with McMillan probably getting the call.

In the outfield there's Chick Fullis of the Giants, Johnny Frederick of the Dodgers, Johnson of Detroit and Averill of Cleveland. Not forgetting Hoffman of the White Sox, Byrd of the Yankees, Klein of the Phillies and a lot of others. Seems as though there are more outfielders than you can shake a stick at this year.

In the Box.

Pitching is a tough spot. Very few pitchers come up and make good in their first year. But Wes Ferrell of the Cleveland Indians is one fellow who did. So did Roy Sherid of the Yankees, and Heine Meine of the Pirates. Brown of the Senators isn't so bad either. Of course he was owned by the Senators last year but this is really the first year he's been in there working.

Quite a team sure enough.

Not a champion outfit, you understand, and I'm not advancing it as the best kid team that could be picked. Probably we've overlooked some fellows who really ought to be there. But that one will serve to illustrate the point I'm trying to make. That there have been a flock of real ball players come up during the past season—a lot of ball players who are good enough for real fast company and who will be stars in another year or two.

MRS. HYNES CAPTURES WOMEN'S GOLF MEET

Mrs. I. S. Hynes of Normandie, district women's champion, captured low gross honors in the women's district tournament Friday at the St. Louis Country Club, with a score of 80. The lowest net score, 76, was made by Miss Elizabeth Cuendet of the Country Club. Mrs. M. J. Wallace Jr., Country Club, had the fewest putts in the first flight.

DICK SCHIKAT DUE TODAY FOR COLISEUM BOUT

Dick Schikat, the German grappler, whose triumphs over Hannes Steinke and Jimmy Loudos at Philadelphia during the summer earned him a diamond-studded belt, emblematic of world's championship honors — in Pennsylvania — is scheduled to report in St. Louis today to prepare for his coming match with Frank Brunowiecz, the Boston Pole, whom he meets Tuesday night in a one-fall finish bout featuring the opening show of the New Coliseum mat season.

The belt captured by Schikat in his Quaker City bouts was placed in competition by Promoter Ray Fabiani as the trophy for finalist honors in an elimination tourney which was open to all heavyweight grapplers. Gus Sonnenberg, who spurned invitations to enter the tourney, was subsequently barred from competition in Pennsylvania for disregarding Schikat's challenge for a match to definitely settle their controversy over titular honors.

Tuesday night's bout will bring Schikat against a wrestler who displayed unusual strength, skill and agility on the mat in his local debut last summer when he went one hour to a draw with Jim McMillan of Chicago, a former Illini football star, who has achieved considerable renown in the catch-as-catch-can sport through his prowess with flying tackle holds and other leverages borrowed from the gridiron sport.

Brunowiecz in Training.

Brunowiecz has been in town since last Thursday and is following a strenuous training grind at the National Gymnasium, where he engages in practice bouts every afternoon with George McDowell and Joe Sanderson. The Polish matman appears to be in top shape and ready to begin tapering off his preparatory work.

Paul Jones, Los Angeles scissor specialist, meets Jim McMillan in the semi-final of the New Coliseum card, while another heavyweight prelim brings Jack Washburn, veteran California headlock artist, against Matros Kirilenko, a recent arrival from Russia. The show opens with a middleweight setto between Billy Scharbert of East St. Louis, and Charley Fisher, wrestling instructor at Missouri University. The usual time restrictions will govern all the prelim attractions.

Prep League's Net Schedule Opens Friday

Four of the five Preparatory League tennis teams will get into action Friday, when the opening of the league season brings together C. B. C. and Westrn, with St. Louis U. High playing on th Country Day courts. McBride, the defending champion, does not play until the following Tuesday, when the Colonnaders meet C. B. C. on the McBride courts. This season marks the first since the organization of the circuit that the tennis schedule has been played off in the fall instead of in the spring.

While other schools are hastily endeavoring to build teams from green material, McBride, with its championship squad of last season intact, is the favorite to win the title again this fall. Keaney, Poelker and Kelly, stars of last year, will be available in the singles, while the doubles teams will very likely include the veteran combinations of Keaney and Parker as first team, and Kelly and Kathman as second team. All the men have been playing regularly during the summer.

C. B. C. is fairly well supplied with veterans, Capt. Houlihan and McConnell having played last season. The remainder of the team, however, will have to be found from among a large squad of green players. St. Louis U. High has one letter man of last spring, Sharp, and the Junior Billikens' prospects seem to be just ordinary. Upon whether four men of Sharp's caliber can be found among the candidates will depend St. Louis' chances of success.

Country Day and Western are both conducting tournaments to determine the personnel of their respective teams. Both lost most of their veterans, Western suffering the greatest loss in Smiley, one of the stars of the league during the past few years.

The schedule:

Oct. 4—C. B. C. at Western; St. Louis U. High at Country Day.
Oct. 8—C. B. C. at McBride.
Oct. 10—McBride at Country Day; C. B. C. at St. Louis U. High.
Oct. 12—McBride at Western.
Oct. 15—St. Louis U. High at McBride.
Oct. 17—C. B. C. at Country Day.
Oct. 19—St. Louis U. High at Western.

Joplin Led in 1920 Attendance Gear Announces

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Sept. 28. — Western Association baseball enlivened by the enthusiasm and energy of youth is in prospect for next season.

Dale Gear, president of the association, who presided yesterday at a meeting of club owners and their representatives in Kansas City, said today that association officials and members plan to put more life in the circuit games next season by drawing upon the ranks of youthful baseball players to fill their club rosters.

"American Legion junior baseball tournaments conducted throughout the country," Mr. Gear said, "are aiding in developing likely youngsters into good professional baseball material.

Mr. Gear said the Western Association owners desired to give young ball players a chance and by this means lend more vitality and interest to association games.

There will be no changes, Mr. Gear said, in association club ownerships or franchises in 1930. The annual meeting to elect officers and draw the 1930 schedule will be held in January, the president said, but the meeting place was not decided upon.

A plan to leave the last eight days of each half season open to allow the first and second team club to play eight games for final positions and the other teams to place was received favorably by club owners, Mr. Gear said.

The association head said that Joplin led the association in attendance last year with a total of approximately 42,000. Springfield was second with 40,000.

MARION 20, M'LEANSBORO 0.

MARION, Ill., Sept. 28.—Marion High scored a 20-0 victory over McLeansboro at football here this afternoon, scoring in all but the second period. Harris made one touchdown and Clark two.

McKENDREE COLLEGE MAKES CHANGES IN FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEBANON, Ill., Sept. 29.—McKendree College announces two changes in its football schedule. Another game has been added to the card. On the night of Nov. 15 the Purple will engage Illinois Normal on the local gridiron. This brings the total conference games to five, and the number of home games to four.

Elaborate Ceremony For Veiled Prophet

THE forthcoming Veiled Prophet ball, to be given at the Coliseum Wednesday evening, Oct. 9, will be preceded by one of most elaborate programs in the history of se ceremonials. The program will start rly an hour earlier than ever before with oncert by a symphony orchestra under direction of an internationally famous nductor. The orchestra will occupy a part the floor instead of the balcony as in rmer years. The symphony concert will be llowed by the entrance of the Court of onor, the matrons first, then the maids, ch escorted by a member of the floor committee.

The parade this year will present the his y and traditions of St. Louis. His majes has decreed that those who portray the rious personages on the floats in the pa de shall take their places in the entrance arch into the ball room in the order in hich they appeared the previous evening on e floats and that there shall be a suffi nt pause between the entrance of each oup to make it possible to keep the episode y are representing distinct from those hich precede and follow it.

The Prophet's guard of honor will present informal spectacle and will then form in o lines to escort his majesty into the ball om. The Veiled Prophet will be escorted the chairman of the reception committee, d will be accompanied by his first and sec d high priests, his almoner, his herald and keeper of the crown jewels. After he ascended his throne the Prophet will give rs for the summoning of the special ds of honor who will enter in reverse or , the fourth maid will enter first, then third maid, then the second and lastly first and chief lady in waiting to the en. When they have made obeisance to majesty and have received their coronets his hands, the young woman who is to be wned Queen of Love and Beauty will be mmoned, and will become Queen consort his majesty in a coronation ceremony.

A ballet will be presented by Ruth Page, miere danseuse of the Metropolitan Op , New York, after which will come the nd promenade of the Prophet and his en and the entire court. The royal dance the Queen's reception will last about an r. The Veiled Prophet will disappear to seen no more in St. Louis for another r, and the Queen and her court will re r to partake of the Queen's supper.

Elaborate Ceremony For Veiled Prophet

THE forthcoming Veiled Prophet ball, to be given at the Coliseum Wednesday evening, Oct. 9, will be preceded by one of the most elaborate programs in the history of these ceremonials. The program will start nearly an hour earlier than ever before with a concert by a symphony orchestra under the direction of an internationally famous conductor. The orchestra will occupy a part of the floor instead of the balcony as in former years. The symphony concert will be followed by the entrance of the Court of Honor, the matrons first, then the maids, each escorted by a member of the floor committee.

The parade this year will present the history and traditions of St. Louis. His majesty has decreed that those who portray the various personages on the floats in the parade shall take their places in the entrance march into the ball room in the order in which they appeared the previous evening on the floats and that there shall be a sufficient pause between the entrance of each group to make it possible to keep the episode they are representing distinct from those which precede and follow it.

The Prophet's guard of honor will present an informal spectacle and will then form in two lines to escort his majesty into the ballroom. The Veiled Prophet will be escorted by the chairman of the reception committee, and will be accompanied by his first and second high priests, his almoner, his herald and the keeper of the crown jewels. After he has ascended his throne the Prophet will give orders for the summoning of the special maids of honor who will enter in reverse order, the fourth maid will enter first, then the third maid, then the second and lastly the first and chief lady in waiting to the Queen. When they have made obeisance to his majesty and have received their coronets from his hands, the young woman who is to be crowned Queen of Love and Beauty will be summoned, and will become Queen consort of his majesty in a coronation ceremony.

A ballet will be presented by Ruth Page, premiere danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera, New York, after which will come the grand promenade of the Prophet and his Queen and the entire court. The royal dance and the Queen's reception will last about an hour. The Veiled Prophet will disappear to be seen no more in St. Louis for another year, and the Queen and her court will retire to partake of the Queen's supper.

Susan M. Boogher Bride of C. E. Bryan At Strafford, Pa.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Mrs. Susan Meriwether Boogher of Apple Tree Cottage, Strafford, Pa., formerly of St. Louis, and Charles E. Bryan of Mount Pleasant, Havre de Grace, Md., which took place at noon yesterday at Sleepy Hollow, the residence of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Roosevelt McLure, in Strafford.

Moncure Biddle of Philadelphia, served Mr. Bryan as best man, and was the only attendant. Mr. Bryan is a graduate of Harvard University, class of 1896.

Mrs. Bryan is a daughter of Mrs. Thomas Crane Young of Hotel Chase, who went East for the ceremony. She is a member of an old St. Louis family, and is a descendant of Meriwether Lewis of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. She is a niece of Lee Meriwether, and is a granddaughter of Elizabeth Meriwether who wrote a number of novels from the Southern point of view on ante-bellum days. She made her debut in St. Louis, and became a member of the St. Louis Junior League, of which she was president prior to moving East several years ago.

As Susan Meriwether Boogher the bride has achieved much success in the literary field. Her first distinction of moment was having one of her stories included in the annual publication of "Best Short Stories" compiled by Edward J. O'Brien, a number of years ago. It was a brief fantasy called "The Unknown Warrior" and first appeared in the Junior League Bulletin. She has specialized in short stories which have frequently been published in current periodicals, and recently has written successful plays, the latest, call "Flight," having been produced last season on Broadway in New York.

Bridlespur Club Plans Steeplechase

A POINT-TO-POINT steeplechase, to be held on a Saturday afternoon during the latter part of November, will be an interesting innovation on the program of sports during the autumn and winter season. The race will be sponsored by the Bridlespur Club and will be held on property adjoining the club grounds at Huntleigh Village. It will be open to the public.

Entry blanks will be sent out within the next two weeks. Louis A. Hager Jr., is secretary and treasurer of the Point-to-Point committee.

The marriage of Miss Nancy Hampton Rabenau and Arthur Wright Neilson took place informally Saturday, Sept. 21, at 9 o'clock in the evening at the home of the bride's brother, A. D. Rabinau, 6063 Clemens avenue, where the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Rabenau, have been residing since their recent return from a Western trip. The Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe of Kingshighway Presbyterian Church officiated; and the guests were limited to only members of the immediate families.

The bride wore a gown of flesh tinted chiffon and carried an armful of American Beauty roses. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. R. S. Miles.

The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute and Ward-Belmont in Nashville. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Mr. Neilson is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Neilson. He was educated at Washington University and Ohio Wesleyan, and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Mr. and Mrs. Neilson will make their home at 5545 Cabanne avenue.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Margaret Roberts, daughter of Mrs. Eugenia Bakewell Roberts, 780 Madison avenue, New York, formerly of St. Louis, and William J. Griffin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Griffin of Pelham, N. Y., which took place Friday afternoon at St. Ignatius Church in New York. The Rev. Father Delahant officiated. The bride's sister, Miss Fifi Roberts, served as maid of honor and Gilbert Griffin was his brother's best man.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bakewell of the Kings-Way Hotel. She was educated at the Sacred Heart Convent at Maryville. Mr. Girffin is in the advertising business.

MISS VERONICA LEE, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lee, 4657 Farlin avenue, and William A. Tait, son of Mrs. John Lohrmeyer, 3716 Maffitt avenue, were married yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Holy Rosary Church. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Lee as maid of honor and Mrs. George Myers as bridesmaid. Harry G. Mallory was best man and Irwin Lee, brother of the bride was groomsman. A wedding dinner was served at the Elks' Club.

The bride wore a gown of white transparent velvet with a veil of tulle held in place by orange blossoms. She carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore orchid satin and carried pink roses. The bridesmaid wore honeydew satin and carried roses of the same shade.

Mr. Tait and his bride will make their home in St. Louis following the honeymoon in Havana.

The marriage of Miss Catherine Coulson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Coulson of Richmond Heights, to Warren W. Wassall, son of Mrs. K. B. Wassall of St. Louis, took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Luther E. Todd officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin made with a tight bodice to which was attached the circular skirt. The back was long, forming a circular train. Her veil of tulle was held close at the back with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Ruth Coulson, sister of the bride, was the only bridesmaid and wore pink satin and tulle, carrying pink rose buds. The bridegroom was atended by his broher, John B. Wassall, as best mon.

After a motor trip through Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Wassall will be at home to their friends at 7239 Bruno avenue, Richmond Heights.

Charming
Mrs. Albert Smith Bigelow chose the silver for her new home in Gorham Sterling

ARISTOCRATIC—piquant—fastidious is Mrs. Albert Smith Bigelow, the former Miss Josephine Noyes Rotch of Boston. Her wedding in the historical little church at Old Lyme was charming in every detail. Naturally, the appointments of this dainty young bride's new home, too, will reflect her exquisite taste. And for her table she has chosen Gorham flatware of Sterling Silver in a design of smart simplicity.

We now have on display flatware of Gorham Sterling in a number of designs selected by prominent brides and distinguished hostesses. It will give us great pleasure to have you examine these in our store . . . to note for yourself the imperial artistry of every piece that bears the famous Gorham name. In many patterns you may choose hollow ware to match . . . all at a moderate cost.

Washington Awaits Premier MacDonald

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.

NO women were present at most of the social affairs given in honor of members of the Japanese training squadron, consisting of the Asama and the Iwate, anchored off Cape Henry, Md. Even the dinner party entertained by the Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi, which included Secretary of the Navy Adams, was womanless.

It was a womanless dinner party which Felix Cordova Davila, resident commissioner of Porto Rico, gave for Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the newly appointed Governor of Porto Rico. Secretary of War Good, Senator Bingham of Connecticut and Representative Kiess of Pennsylvania, members of the joint commission on Insular affairs were among the 50 guests.

Parties for British Premier MacDonald in most cases will include both men and women, because the Minister's daughter, Miss Ishbel MacDonald, will accompany him to this country.

Lady Isabella Howard, with her husband, the Ambassador of Great Britain, will accompany Mr. MacDonald and his daughter when, on the day of their arrival in Washington, Oct. 4, they go to the White House to pay their respects to the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Catholic Alumnae To Meet Oct. 19-20

THE fifteenth annual convention of the Missouri Chapter, International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, will be held Oct. 19 and 20 at Columbian Circle, the new headquarters of the Knights of Columbus on Lindell boulevard and Vandeventer avenues.

Missouri Chapter, which is made up of representatives of all Catholic alumnae associations in the State, has Mrs. A. B. Harrington of St. Louis as governor. Other officers are vice governor, Miss Grace Lovett, Kansas City; treasurer, Mrs. Robert H. Miller, St. Louis; recording secretary, Mrs. J. C. Miller, St. Louis; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John L. Boland, St. Louis; historian, Miss Frances Helm, St. Louis. The trustees are Mrs. Paul Robyn, Miss Pearl Green, Miss Adele Gruender, Miss Catherine Smith, Mrs. A. A. Goessling and Miss Josephine Dockery. Miss Stella Gillick is parliamentarian of the Chapter.

The City Circle, composed of the alumnae associations of the local Catholic girls' high schools, academies and colleges, will be hostess for the meeting. Mrs. Joseph C. Darst is regent of the City Circle.

An interesting program has been arranged for the convention. The business meeting will be conducted in the forenoon. At 1 p. m. a formal luncheon will be srved to which all former pupils of local Catholic schools are welcome to attend.

The guests of honor at the luncheon will be Archbishop Glennon; Mrs. A. B. Finan, of Chicago, Ill., president of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae and Miss Dorothy Willman, governor of the New York Chapter. Reservations for the luncheon may be made through Mrs. Paul Robyn Tea at Church This Evening.

There will be a tea at the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, for the young people of the church at 6:15 o'clock this evening. The Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will tell of his recent trip to Palestine.

Biennial Meeting Of Women's Clubs State Federation

THE biennial meeting of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs will open at 9:30 a. m. Friday, Hotel Chase, with the President, Mrs. Charles A. Houts, presiding. Mrs. George W. Coffman, will have charge of the music and Dr. Arnold Hilmer Lowe, pastor of the Kingshighway Presbyterian church, will give the invocation. Among the speakers and guests of honor will be: Mrs. Phillip North Moore, honorary president of the General Federation; Mrs. Edwin Bevens, Helena, Ark., National Junior Chairman; Mrs. Luella St. Clair Moss, state president; Mrs. David S. Long, Harrisonville, Mo., first state vice president; Mrs. Forest H. Tisdale, Sweet Springs, state junior chairman; Mrs. D. C. Chastain, Butler, state treasurer; Mrs. Frederick B. Catholic Women Buy Second Nursery Building

THE Catholic Woman's League has reorganized, Mrs. John Ring Jr., president, announces. The League was organized during the war and when the armistice was declared continued to do social service work. It established a babies' day nursery and lunch room for undernourished school children. A residence was purchased at 1023 Selby Place, where small children of working mothers were taken care of for a small fee and where lunches were served to children who attended the neighborhood schools.

The reorganization program calls for development of the day nursery and the lunch room. A letter campaign for $15,000 to expand the nursery work has netted $5900. This amount was expended for a three-story residence at 1019 Selby Place, adjoining the original nursery property.

Both houses have been renovated and remodeled. New heating plants have been installed in both buildings. Kindergarten equipment has been provided. As a result of these improvements attendance at the nursery has nearly doubled as has also the lunchroom attendance.

Requests were sent out yesterday to members and friends of the League asking for rummage for the sale on Oct. 16, 17 and 18 in the vacant storeroom on the southeast corner of Eleventh street and Lucas avenue. Persons having articles to contribute are asked to send them to 1923 Selby Place or to notify Central 7600.

Ten New Courses At Y. W. C. A. School

THROUGH enlargement of the Educational Department of the Young Women's Christian Association, 23 courses will be offered to girls and women wishing to continue studies or to better fit themselves for certain lines of work. Ten of these subjects were not given last year. Open house will be held at the Central building, 1411 Locust street, Friday evening, from 8 to 9:30 o'clock, by this department.

A course in home care for the sick will be taught by Miss Minerva Cooper, Superintendent of Nurses at the dispensary of Barnes Hospital and an instructor in home hygiene for the American Red Cross. Satisfactory completion of this course will entitle the student to a certificate from the American Red Cross.

The Home Economics Department will be directed by Miss Emily B. Snively, graduate in home economics at University of Illinois.

Miss Ruth Israel of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts will instruct a class in hand-wrought jewelry.

Miss Elizabeth Morse, director of the Morse School of Expression, will supervise classes in public speaking and assist in organizing a dramatic club.

Miss Mabel Henderson, who is expected to return tomorrow from Europe, where she has been studying, will again have charge of the classes in voice.

Among other subjects offered are: Typewriting, stenography, speedwriting, bookkeeping, business English, pleasing speech, great books of the world, English historical novels, French, German, Spanish, commercial art, gypsy dye work, interior decorating, piano. Lectures on safe driving will be given by members of the St. Louis Safety Council under the direction of Robert E. Lee.

Mrs. Mary Jane Randolph, new educational director of the Y. W. C. A., succeeding Miss Helen Ann Wiedey, who resigned, is a graduate of the University of Missouri, has taught in St. Louis schools six years and been engaged in social service work. No more reason to have GRAY HAIR than Colorless lips
It used to be a tragedy when a woman turned gray before 30. Today women add a touch of color to gray hair as easily and confidently as a touch of color to their lips; both are harmless.
Farr's Gray Hair Color Restorer, harmless to hair and scalp, restores the NATURAL, attractive color to your hair without a trace of gray. The faded look gives place to soft, glossy, lustrous hair, sparkling with girlhood color, so entirely like the original shade no one in your family can detect its use. Don't experiment with preparations that are noticeable. Farr's is easy to use; a few moments in the privacy of your room is enough; neither sticky nor greasy. Can be washed, curled or waved without affecting the color.

KING BORIS' BETROTHAL STORY PERSISTS IN SPITE OF DENIAL

BUCHAREST, Sept. 28.—Despite the Bulgarian denial, Rumanian Government sources insisted today that negotiations are proceeding to arrange a nuptial betrothal between King Boris of Bulgaria and Princess Ileana, youngest daughter of Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania.

It is reported that Princess Ileana herself opposes the proposed match because she wants to marry Prince von Hohenlohe of Germany.

U. S. ARMY BAND TO PLAY TWO CONCERTS HERE OCT. 14

Afternoon Program at the Odeon Will Be Especially for Children.

The United States Army Band will give two concerts at the Odeon, Oct. 14, at 3 and 8:15 p. m., the afternoon event being especially for children. Several public school bands are expected to join the afternoon program and perhaps in the evening.

The Army band will come here under auspices of the local chapter of the Sojourners, an organization of army, navy and marine officers, and various patriotic organizations.

The band was formed at the order of Gen. Pershing at the close of the World War from A. E. F. units. It was at the exposition at Seville, Spain, this summer under authority of an act of Congress. Capt. William J. Stannard is the leader.

THREE-DAY FLOWER SHOW

Awards to Be Made For Display at Famous-Barr.

Exhibition in the St. Louis Horticultural Society's flower show which will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the exhibition hall of the Famous-Barr Co., is open to all. Awards will be given for the best displays.

The American Dahlia Society will give a bronze medal to the best amateur dahlia exhibit and a silver medal to the best display from a commercial grower. Dahlia growers in other cities have entered displays, in the "airplane mail class," the winner of which will receive a loving cup offered by Morton May, president of the Famous-Barr company.

The Ensee Study Circle was entertained at luncheon at the Kingsway Hotel Monday with Mrs. Fred Armstrong as hostess. Mrs. C. W. Nystrom, Mrs. Virginia Kerr and Mrs. Hollis March were appointed delegates to the biennial convention at Hotel Chase, Friday. Mrs. A. E. Wright will serve as one of the ushers.

Mrs. D. A. Nylander was elected chairman of the program committee for the Circle with Mrs. O. T. Johnson and Mrs. M. L. Olsen as members of this committee.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 14.

The Webster Groves Child Study Class will hold its annual opening tea at the Woodlawn Club, Kirkwood, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. G. R. Dodson will be the speaker.

The first meeting of the season of the St. Louis Alumnae Club of Alpha Gamma Delta will be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. George Morrison, 5042 Winona avenue. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock. Miss Helen Bishop will be the assistant hostess.

The Past Matrons' and Past Patrons' Club of the Fifty-seventh and Third-third districts will hold its meeting Tuesday at the new Masonic Temple.

The St. Louis Council of the National Council of Parents and Teachers will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday at 1:30 p. m. in the Grand-Leader Auditorium, Mrs. L. Hubele presiding. A meeting of convention chairmen will be held at the same place at 10 a. m.

The Forethought Club will meet at a luncheon at Hotel Chase at noon. Following the luncheon a brief business session will be held Thursday with Mrs. George Owens, 6012 Cates avenue. The answer to roll call will be from Sir Walter Scott.

The St. Louis Dante Club will open its eighth season Wednesday with the president, Mrs. Edward T. Card presiding. Mrs. Mary E. Kickham will have charge of the program. Mrs. Frederick M. Harrington and Mrs. O. S. Ledman will read Cantos XI and XII of the Paradiso.

LOCAL SPEAKERS THIS YEAR FOR THE INDUSTRIAL CLUB

First Meeting Will Be Held Oct. 17 With Talk by Preston B. Postlethwaite.

Monthly meetings of the Industrial Club will be featured by addresses by members on subjects related to industries of the St. Louis district, Harold M. Bixby, president, announced yesterday. In the past many speakers at the club's meetings have been out-of-town executive whose addresses have covered broader subjects not specifically touching on problems of the St. Louis district.

The Industrial Club was organized a little more than two years ago with a $1,000,000 fund to be used over a four-year period in attracting industries to St. Louis and sponsoring a municipal advertising campaign. Two of its activities are the Industrial Bureau, headed by George C. Smith and engaged in a fact-finding industrial acquisition campaign, and the St. Louis News Service, which disseminates news of the district throughout the country.

The new form of program will be inaugurated by Preston B. Postlethwaite, president of the Wagner Electric Corporation, who will speak on "The Development of the Electrical Industry in St. Louis" at the Industrial Club's first fall meeting on Oct. 17. Place of the meeting has not yet been chosen.

Among the guests will be officers and directors of the National Dairy Association, as well as a number of exhibitors.

RANKIN TRADE SCHOOL NIGHT CLASSES BEGIN TOMORROW

Registration is Expected to Exceed Last Year's Record Enrollment of 3553.

Night school will begin tomorrow at the David Rankin School of Mechanical Trades and Thursday at Washington University, where registration for evening and Saturday classes is expected to exceed the record enrollment of 3553 last year.

Last year 15 per cent of the evening students at the university had graduated from college. A three-year evening course in general business, leading to a certificate, is offered, and another new course is in insurance.

More than 800 persons have applied for evening registration at Rankin trade school. New classes in radio and in heating and ventilating are offered in co-operation with the Radio Trades Association and the Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

Mexico as a new country in process of formation is not disposed toward imposing material and legal recourses in order to carry on a movement in behalf of abstention.

Taking all this into account, I began my anti-liquor drive by feeling first of all the urgent need of initiating a work of this nature. I called on all organizations, official and non-official, to co-operate and I can say with considerable satisfaction that the results in the first few months have been highly beneficial.

The conviction came to me that in order to make the undertaking successful, it would be necessary to enlist all possible forces throughout the country, especially the unofficial ones. I asked, therefore, the aid of the Agrarian Communities, the Workers' Organizations, Parents' League, Mutual Societies, Masonic Associations and political parties as well as state and city governments. I wanted each member of these organizations to realize the urgent need of battling a vice which has brought such misery to mankind.

It would not be out of place here for me to devote a special paragraph to the collaboration of Mexican women. For I also invited the help of women and women's organizations. As everyone knows, it is chiefly the woman who suffers the saddest consequences in seeing this evil wreck her home.

Details of Program.

In synthesis, the program which I hope will be brought to a fruitful end contained the following points:

1. State and City governments, effective at the opening date of the campaign, prohibited the opening of new saloons. All such places which were closed for any excuse were not to be permitted to reopen.

2. All of the organizations I have named were exhorted to give a major impulse to sport—in schools, in the farm guilds and all similar groups.

3. The people of the entire republic were exhorted to attend on special days cultural representations consisting of theatrical acts and public meetings which would be devoted to attacks against liquor.

4. Anti-alcohol instruction, it is planned, will be obligatory in both Federal and private schools. The last hour of the school week was set aside for special meetings among the teachers in order that the duty of carrying out his part of the project might be impressed on each individual teacher.

5. Graphic instruction is proposed through posters calling attention to the ill-effects of liquor and placed on display in all public theaters, schools and parks.

6. A Women's Anti-Alcohol League was planned to second the general campaign.

No Coercive Tinge.

As can be seen, our efforts, projected through the assistance of the country's organizations, do not have a coercive tinge. On the contrary, we are going directly to the heart of the people through educational means. Such a procedure should be enough to convince everyone that we will be able to unify our collective forces for the most effective carrying out of the social work of the Mexican Revolution.

Thus established, our campaign required a directing head and for this purpose there was designated National Commission. On this ommission are representatives of

Anti-Alcohol Campaign Based On Collaboration, Not Coercion

Last Article in a Series of Three.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.

THE anti-alcohol campaign drafted by the provisional government in April of this year is not based in any form on repressive measures. On the contrary, it is an invitation for the collaboration of all social and political organizations in the country.

Mexico as a new country in process of formation is not disposed toward imposing material and legal recourses in order to carry on a movement in behalf of abstention.

Taking all this into account, I began my anti-liquor drive by feeling first of all the urgent need of initiating a work of this nature. I called on all organizations, official and non-official, to co-operate and I can say with considerable satisfaction that the results in the first few months have been highly beneficial.

The conviction came to me that in order to make the undertaking successful, it would be necessary to enlist all possible forces throughout the country, especially the unofficial ones. I asked, therefore, the aid of the Agrarian Communities, the Workers' Organizations, Parents' League, Mutual Societies, Masonic Associations and political parties as well as state and city governments. I wanted each member of these organizations to realize the urgent need of battling a vice which has brought such misery to mankind.

It would not be out of place here for me to devote a special paragraph to the collaboration of Mexican women. For I also invited the help of women and women's organizations. As everyone knows, it is chiefly the woman who suffers the saddest consequences in seeing this evil wreck her home.

Details of Program.

In synthesis, the program which I hope will be brought to a fruitful end contained the following points:

1. State and City governments, effective at the opening date of the campaign, prohibited the opening of new saloons. All such places which were closed for any excuse were not to be permitted to reopen.

2. All of the organizations I have named were exhorted to give a major impulse to sport—in schools, in the farm guilds and all similar groups.

3. The people of the entire republic were exhorted to attend on special days cultural representations consisting of theatrical acts and public meetings which would be devoted to attacks against liquor.

4. Anti-alcohol instruction, it is planned, will be obligatory in both Federal and private schools. The last hour of the school week was set aside for special meetings among the teachers in order that the duty of carrying out his part of the project might be impressed on each individual teacher.

5. Graphic instruction is proposed through posters calling attention to the ill-effects of liquor and placed on display in all public theaters, schools and parks.

6. A Women's Anti-Alcohol League was planned to second the general campaign.

No Coercive Tinge.

As can be seen, our efforts, projected through the assistance of the country's organizations, do not have a coercive tinge. On the contrary, we are going directly to the heart of the people through educational means. Such a procedure should be enough to convince everyone that we will be able to unify our collective forces for the most effective carrying out of the social work of the Mexican Revolution.

Thus established, our campaign required a directing head and for this purpose there was designated a National Commission. On this commission are representatives of the ministries and departments dependent on the Federal executive as well as the distinct organizations already listed. The commission or committee has ramifications in all states, cities, villages, communities and ranches. In each of these localities, there are sub-committees which are seconding the work of the National Commission.

In general, the drive was organized in two parts, one for children and one for adults. In the school realm, the work was again divided and first attention given to children in active attendance at school. This program which was mapped out for them includes: obligatory anti-liquor instruction in all educational establishments, official or private; the publication of an anti-liquor textbook through the aid of the Health and Education Departments; the formation of school children's leagues against alcohol, in which members of these organizations with the consent of their parents could promise on their honor not to consume intoxicating beverages; prizes would be awarded to members of these children's organizations who carried out their promises and instructions in ethics would be given those who failed to comply with their promises; expositions to illustrate the effects of alcohol; annual anti-liquor expositions organized by school children with prizes to be awarded to groups organizing the best expositions; printing of anti-alcohol texts on the first page of textbooks; formation of anti-liquor leagues of teachers; formation of anti-liquor leagues of mothers (both these latter organizations would be used to aid the campaign among school children) and encouragement of physical education with the idea of developing a liking for sport among children.

Work Outside the Schools.

A second plan was worked out for children not in active attendance at school; and the program for their benefit follows: Organized means whereby they will be able to be sent to school; children's meetings organized through the co-operation of workers' and farmers' groups; matinees and theatrical representations where moving pictures containing propaganda against liquor would be exhibited; formation of juvenile Anti-Alcohol Leagues; and creation of parks and children's playgrounds.

The campaign among adults was just as far-reaching in its scope, as the program for them shows: Anti-Liquor meetings in the syndicates, agrarian communities, factories and all social centers; outdoor sessions in parks, gardens, football parks, etc., matinees in moving pictures houses and theaters with the object of disseminating anti-alcohol propaganda; use of posters in public places, distribution of handbills; use of moving pictures for propaganda in public cinemas in parks, etc.; obligatory exhibition of these propaganda films in the regular moving picture theaters; formation of anti-liquor league among workers, farm laborers and others on the same basis as for school children (these groups could likewise be allowed to participate in the spare time classes of the Department of Education); women's leagues to combat alcoholism in the home and to co-operate with the other anti-liquor organizations; utilization of

A Boy Who Became President

The Autobiography of Calvin Coolidge

Started Schooling When 5 Years Old and Qualified as a Teacher at 13—Learned First Lesson in Governmental Economy as Companion of Father on Tax-Collecting Rounds.

By CALVIN COOLIDGE.

CHAPTER II.

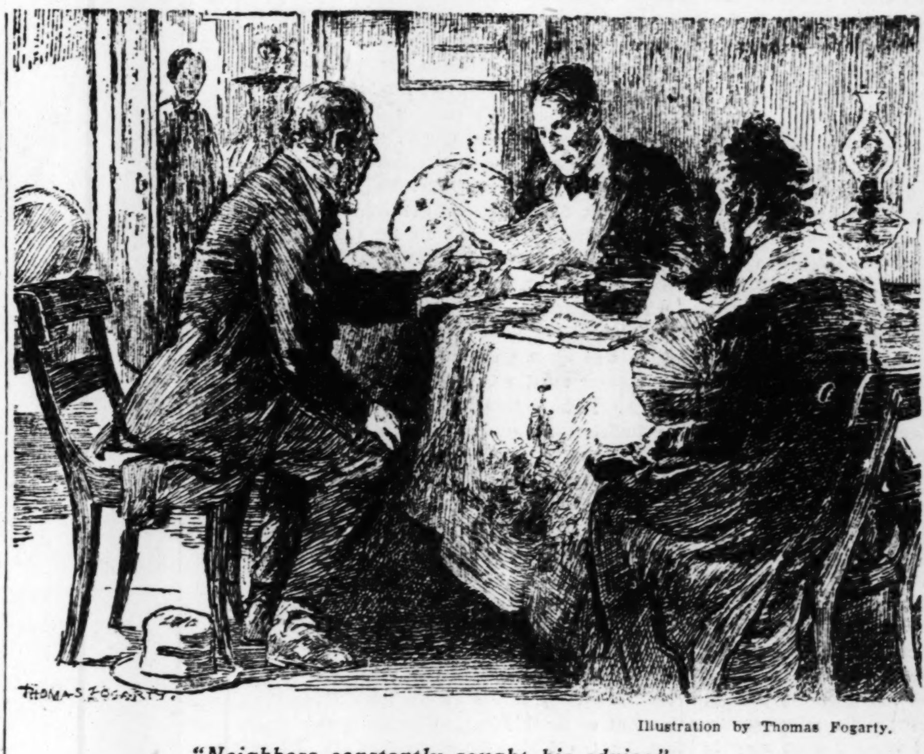

Illustration by Thomas Fogarty.

"Neighbors constantly sought his advice."

WHILE the form of government under which the Plymouth people lived was that of a republic, it had a strong democratic trend. The smallest unit was then the school district. Early in my boyhood the women were given a vote on school questions in both the district and town meetings.

The district meeting was held in the evening at the school house each year. The officers were chosen and the rate of the school tax was fixed by popular vote. The board and room of the teacher for two-week periods was then assigned to the lowest bidders. The rates ran from about 50 cents each week in the summer to as high as $1.25 in the winter.

The town officers were chosen annually at the March meeting. Here again the taxes were fixed by popular vote. The bonded debt was rather large, coming down, as I was told, from expenses during the war and the costs of reconstructing roads and bridges after the disastrous freshet of 1869.

The more substantial farmers wanted to raise a large tax to reduce the debt. I noticed my father did not vote on this subject and I inquired his reason. He said that while he could afford to pay a high rate, he did not wish to place so large a burden on those who were less able, and so was leaving them to make their own decision.

In those days there were about 250 qualified voters, not over 25 of whom were Democrats and the rest Republicans. They had their spirited contests in their elections, but not along party lines.

How Old Vizley, the Town Moderator, Got His Name.

One of the patriarchs of the town, who was a Democrat, served many years as Moderator by unanimous choice. He was a man of sound common sense and an excellent presiding officer, but without much book learning.

When he read that part of the call for the meeting which recited that it was to act "on the following question, viz.," he always read it "to act upon the following questions, vizley." This caused him to be referred to at times by the irreverent as Old Vizley.

I was accustomed to carry apples and popcorn balls to the town meeting to sell, mainly because my grandmother said my father had done so when he was a boy, and I was exceedingly anxious to grow up to be like him.

On the even years in September came the Freemen's meeting. This was a State election, at which the Town Representative to the Legislature was chosen. They also voted for County and State officers and for a Representative to the Congress, and on each fourth year for Presidential electors. I attended all of these meetings until I left home and followed them with interest for many of the succeeding years.

Careful provision was made for the administration of justice through local authorities. Those charged with petty crimes and misdemeanors were brought before one of the five Justices of the Peace, who had power to try and sentence with or without calling a jury. He also had a like jurisdiction in civil matters of a small amount.

Visited Courts With Father, Who Was a Deputy Sheriff.

The more important cases, criminal and civil, went to the County Court, which sat in the neighboring town of Woodstock in May and December. My father was nearly all his life a constable or a deputy sheriff, and sometimes both, with power to serve civil and criminal process, so that he arrested those charged with crime and brought them before the Justice for trial.

Unless it would keep me out of school, he would take me with him when attending before the local justices, or when he went to the opening session of the County Court. Before him my grandfather had held the same positions, so that together they were the peace officers most of the time in our town for nearly 75 years, settled the estates of deceased persons, and acted as guardian of minors. This business was transacted in the Probate Court, where I often went.

My father was at times a Justice of the Peace, and always had a commission as Notary Public. This enabled him to take the acknowledgment of deeds, which he knew how to draw, and administer oaths necessary to pension papers, which he filled out for old soldiers, usually without charge, or to take affidavits required on any other instruments.

In my youth he was also always engaged in the transaction of all kinds of town business, being constantly elected for that purpose. He was painstaking, precise and very accurate, and had such wide experience that the lawyers of the region knew they could rely on him to serve papers in difficult cases and make returns that would be upheld by the courts.

How He Obtained Practical Knowledge of Government.

This work gave him such a broad knowledge of the practical side of the law that the people of the neighborhood were constantly seeking his advice, to which I always listened with great interest. He always counseled them to resist injustice and avoid unfair dealing, but to keep their agreements, meet their obligations and observe strict obedience to the law.

By reason of what I saw and heard in my early life, I came to have a good working knowledge of the practical side of government. I understood that it consisted of restraints which the people had imposed upon themselves in order to promote the common welfare.

As I went about with my father when he collected taxes, I knew that when taxes were laid someone had to work to earn the money to pay them. I saw that a public debt was a burden on all of the people in a community, and while it was necessary to meet the needs of disaster it cost much in interest and ought to be retired as soon as possible.

After the winter work of laying in a supply of wood had been done, the farm year began about the first of April with the opening of the maple sugar season. This was the most interesting of all the farm operations to me.

With the coming of the first warm days we broke a road through the deep snow into the sugar lot, tapped the trees, set the buckets, and brought the sap to the sugar house, where in a heater and pans it was boiled down into syrup to be taken to the house for sugaring off. We made 800 to 2000 pounds, according to the season.

After that the fences had to be repaired where they had been broken down by the snow, the cattle turned out to pasture, and the spring planting done. Then came sheep shearing time, which was followed by getting in the hay, harvesting and threshing of the grain, cutting and husking the corn, digging the potatoes and picking the apples.

Just before Thanksgiving the poultry had to be dressed for market, and a little later the fattened hogs were butchered and the meat salted down. Early in the winter a beef creature was slaughtered.

The work of the farm was done by the oxen, except running the mowing machine and horse rake. I early learned to drive oxen and used to plow with them alone when I was 12 years old.

Of course, there was the constant care of the domestic animals, the milking of the cows, and taking them to and from pasture, which was especially my responsibility.

Not Allowed to Attend Dances, but Had Plenty of Diversion.

We had husking bees, apple paring bees and singing schools in the winter. There were parties for the young folks and an occasional dramatic exhibition by local talent. Not far away there were some public dances, which I was never permitted to attend.

Some time during the summer we usually went to the circus, often rising by 3 o'clock so as to get there early. In the autumn we visited the county fair. The holidays were all celebrated in some fashion.

Of course, the Fourth of July meant a great deal to me, because it was my birthday. The first one I can remember was when I was four years old. My father took me fishing in the meadow brook in the morning. I recall that I fell in the water, after which we had a heavy thundershower, so that we both came home very wet. Usually there was a picnic celebration on that day.

Thanksgiving was a feast day for family reunions at the home of the grandparents. Christmas was a sacrament observed with the exchange of gifts, when the stockings were hung, and the spruce tree was lighted in the symbol of Christmas faith and love.

While there was plenty of hard work, there was no lack of pleasurable diversion.

At the Country Store Where He Saw John G. Sargent.

When the work was done for the day, it was customary to drop into the store to get the evening mail and exchange views on topics of interest. A few times I saw there Attorney-General John G. Sargent with his father, who was a much respected man.

A number of those who came had followed Sheridan, been with Meade at Gettysburg, and served under Grant, but they seldom volunteered any information about it. They were talkative and took their military service in a matter of fact way, not as anything to brag about but merely as something they did because it ought to be done.

They drew no class distinctions except towards those who assumed superior airs. Those they held in contempt. They held strongly to the doctrine of equality. Whenever the hired man or the hired girl wanted to go anywhere they were always understood to be entitled to my place in the wagon, in which case I remained at home. This gave me a very early training in democratic ideas and impressed upon me very forcibly the dignity and power, if not the superiority, of labor.

It was all a fine atmosphere in which to raise a boy. As I look back on it I constantly think how clean it was. There was little about it that was artificial. It was all close to nature and in accordance with the ways of nature. The streams ran clear. The roads, the woods, the fields, the people—all were clean. Even when I try to divest it of the halo which I know always surrounds the past, I am unable to create any other impression than that it was fresh and clean.

Getting an Education, Which Is Not Yet Finished.

We had some books, but not many. Mother liked poetry and read some novels. Father had no taste for books, but always took and read a daily paper. My grandfather Moor read books and papers, so that he was a well-informed man.

My grandmother Coolidge liked books and besides a daily chapter in the Bible read aloud to me "The Rangers or The Tory's Daughter" and "The Green Mountain Boys," which were both stories of the early settlers of Vermont during the Revolutionary period. She also had two volumes entitled "Washington and His Generals," and other

Old World Desires Peace But Still Puts Its Faith In Guns, Lloyd George Says

Has No Doubts About Anglo-American Accord, But Calls Attention to Continent Armed to the Teeth.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War Time Premier of England.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

THE evacuation of the Rhineland by foreign troops is the first practical step taken by the Powers towards the establishment of world peace since the Washington Naval Conference in 1921. There have been pacts, treaties and reports of a most startling character all proclaiming the advent of a new reign of peace and brotherhood. But they were followed by no appropriate action as a guarantee of sincerity. The Rhineland was still occupied by 70,000 foreign troops.

Ten years after peace a territory of 25,000 square miles with a German population of 5,000,000 remained in occupation of a foreign army. Six months ago there was no indication that they had any real intention of relinquishing their grip on German soil even at the end of periods stipulated in the Treaty of Versailles. An attempt was being made by the Poincare Government to introduce new conditions as to continued military control which were never contemplated by the Peace Treaty. Before determining its attitude towards evacuation, the conservative government in Britain simply awaited orders from Quai Dorsay.

Meanwhile it kept British troops at Wiesbaden and showed no inclination to shift them elsewhere. The disarmament obligations of the Treaty of Versailles were set openly at defiance. So far from carrying out the solemn undertaking given by this treaty to follow the example imposed upon Germany and her allies by reducing their armies, navies and air forces to the lowest proportions compatible with safety, military and naval forces of conquering nations were being strengthened and improved year by year.

No Cognizance Taken.

The Governments took no cognizance in this vital respect of either the protocol of Versailles, the covenant of the League, the Locarno Treaty or Kellogg Pact. The Washington conference of 1921 achieved the only effective substantial and real reduction in armaments (except the abolition of British conscription and reduction of the peace establishment of the British Army) which to 1929 had been effected since demobilization. It looked as if the genuine peace sentiment which exists amongst the peoples of all nations was to be bought off with pompous and high sounding phrases while the equally genuine aspirations of militarist elements which also still exist in all lands was to be satiated with costlier, more perfect and more destructive war machines.

When it came to the realties—to use a theological phrase—the old man who in his heart still believes in the inevitability of war conquered the new man of peace all along the line.

It is gratifying to note the real change that has occurred in this environment during the last few months or weeks. Evacuation of the Rhineland may not be an accomplished fact but all arrangements for carrying it out are in the course of being made and nothing but unforeseen circumstances can prevent it from being completed within nine months from this date. Today there are 70,000 foreign soldiers quartered in German towns—horse, foot and artillery. But by this time next year there will not be one left.

U. S. Accord Assured.

That is translation of the terms of the Kellogg Pact into actuality. I assume also that negotiations which are being and for some months now, have been conducted between British Prime Ministers and Secretary Stimson will achieve a real reduction in naval armaments. I cannot believe that a question of 10,000 tons one way or the other will stand in the way of agreement between two great communities who for centuries have banished from their hearts and minds every thought of armed conflict against each other. An Anglo-American naval agreement may therefore be regarded as an assured result of the conference that will be arranged at Washington.

What accounts for the change which has taken place recently in diplomatic action? A public opinion of the world has asserted itself at last. This is a gratifying fact. Had it been due to the initiative of one or two outstanding figures in the political world there would have been no assurance of the continuity or perseverance for the policy of peace. But the knowledge that hundreds of millions of men and women who constitute these great nations have made up their minds that there must be no repetition of the catastrophe of 1914 is at last having its influence on the policy of governments.

Battlefield Memories.

I am not surprised at the activity and universality of sentiment, and resolve for peace. I have just returned from a short trip on the continent and here I once again visited some of the most famous battlefields of the war. I had the good fortune to be taken around the scenes of conflict and carnage by men who had actually taken part in the fight. The horrors of Paschandale, the Somme, Chemin des Dames and Verdun were brought vividly to my mind. In these terrible battles about 2,000,000 young men were killed and many more millions wounded, myriads of them mutilated beyond repair and often beyond recognition. The race in its long and varied record of savagery has never attained the depths of destructive fury which broke out over these battlefields. On the Plateau of Verdun 700,000 Frenchmen and Germans were killed. Paschendale will ever remain a monument to military insanity and incompetence.

This generation has had enough of this madness. Hence the cheering facts that Governments of the leading nations of the world are more pacifist in their composition and attitude of mind than they have been at any time since the Armistice. The British electorate turned out the late Tory Government largely because it suspected that it had no real sympathy with the essentials of peace. Briand is certainly an improvement over Poincare. President Hoover is well known to be a man of peace. Stresemann, has run great risks on behalf of his policy of conciliation. In Britain, America, France and Germany public opinion is behind the statesmanship of peace. Hence let us not be over-sanguine, otherwise we shall be satisfied with inadequate results. In disarmament the road to realities is going to be much more difficult and dangerous to travel and here we are a long way off from the outlawry of war. The clash of arms between America and Britain is not one of the dangers that the world has any need to apprehend. I wish it were possible to speak so hopefully of the prospects of peace in other quarters.

Armed to Teeth.

The European nations are still armed to the teeth. To put it more accurately the conquerors in the late war are more formidably equipped for the renewal of struggle than they ever were in the whole of their troubled and san-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Missouri's Loan Office Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I THINK your readers would be interested in the following facts which illustrate the farm relief experiment now being tried by the administration.

In the year 1821 an act entitled "An act for the establishment of loan offices" was passed by the Legislature of the State of Missouri, which authorized certain commissioners of the State to make loans of certificates of indebtedness of the State to citizens residing within their districts, secured by mortgages on real property, livestock, etc. The act was passed to relieve the farmers from the distress resulting from the panic of 1819 and the collapse of the wildcat notes of the adjoining states, etc.

In his first message to the Legislature of Missouri, Gov. McNair said that the act had been put in operation but a sufficient time had not elapsed to test its efficiency. He suggested that should such a currency be given to the certificates as would make them receivable in payment for public lands, their credit would be put upon a solid basis and we might confidently rely upon their exemption from fluctuation and debasement.

Five years later, Gov. Miller in his first biennial address to the Legislature, said, "I regret that I cannot count among the resources of the State the debt which is due to her, nominally amounting to about $76,796, which together with the interest that is accrued would not fall short of $100,000. Were all of this sum available, it would go far toward extinguishing the debt of the State which grew out of the law called the Loan Office law. The insufficiency of the securities taken and various other causes will occasion the loss of a large part of the debt."

In a subsequent message, Gov. Miller informs the Legislature that under the law establishing loan offices, paper issued by the State amounts to $184,000, and that it had been redeemed except $1142. He adds:

"This unfortunate transaction, so injurious in its results to the State and its citizens, may be considered, so far as it has been chargeable as a debt against the State, as closed. The debt due to the State from borrowers of this paper amounts to about $50,000 exclusive of interest, the greater part of which is lost."

I may add that the act was repealed in 1825 and that subsequently the Supreme Court of the United States held the certificates to be bills of credit and therefore unconstitutional. To me it is significant that after a century the Federal Government should embark upon an experiment tried so long ago by us.

I. H. LIONBERGER.

Mr. Lionberger's discussion of the ill-starred Missouri loan law is very interesting, but it does not present a perfect analogy to the present farm relief system. The Federal Farm Board's revolving fund is not lent to individuals, but to farmers' co-operative associations It is designed, not so much to afford emergency relief, but to encourage the organization of such associations and to promote orderly marketing. By the use of it, it is hoped to revolutionize the economics of agriculture, substituting for the old individualistic marketing methods a system more in keeping with the demands of a new age. (Editor's note).

Birds and Bittersweet.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

HOW many people, I wonder, realize that when they gather or buy bittersweet clusters, they are depriving wild birds of their winter food? Grown on a vine which carries its fruit to the tops of trees, over fences and other heights, the bright berries can be seen even with snow on the ground by the little feathered hunters searching for food. Wise Nature has planned it so. Among the species of birds who stay with us all winter is the cheery and beautiful cardinal. Must he starve because of our thoughtlessness? Cease to buy and the vendors will cease offering for sale.

KATHARINE STAN.

A Missouri Witticism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE been thinking for months that I would send in this little boost for our good old State, Missouri, and I have neglected it, but since everyone seems to try to advance aviation I am sending it in.

Last winter I was in Canada and while talking to the superintendent of General Motors of Canada and one of his assistants, the question was asked me what part of Missouri I lived. Well, the conversation was as follows:

"Jack, what part of Missouri do you live?"

"I live in St. Louis."

"St. Louis," he replied, "I never heard of it."

And I said, "You should know where St. Louis is. It leads the world in aviation. Think about it. St. Louis is the home of our noted Col. Charles A. Lindbergh."

Then they laughed and the next day as I walked by they called me and then the superintendent said to his friend, "I learned where St. Louis is and I notice the population decreased 50,000 just recently," and then turned to me and asked the reason for it, and I said, "That's easy, there were 50,000 pilots in the air when they took the last census."

IS THE HARRISON ACT A FAILURE?

The time is ripe for a thorough inquiry into the operation of the Harrison act. This statute was designed and enacted by Congress more than 14 years ago for the very laudable purpose of ending or drastically curtailing the habitual use of narcotic drugs. That it has not been entirely successful is generally known, but the extent to which it has failed probably is understood only by those who are directly concerned with its enforcement. If we are to accept the testimony of a large number of these officials, the attempt to prohibit the use of drugs has resulted in a more ignominious fiasco than the attempt to prohibit the use of intoxicating liquor. It is charged, and widely admitted, that the actual effect of the law has been to increase the number of drug addicts, and to create two new classes of criminals, namely, the peddlers of drugs and those who turn to crime in order to pay the extortionate prices which the peddlers demand.

Perhaps the strongest corroboration for this view is that found in the Government's own statistics on the subject. For example, the number of convictions under the law in 1922 was 3104, whereas in 1928 it was 4738. In 1922 the Government accepted compromises in 515 cases, whereas in 1928 it compromised 1221 cases. In 1926 the Federal courts adopted a new policy toward offenders. Since it had become obvious that fines did not act as deterrent to violators, the Government adopted the policy of accepting compromises in cases of doubtful strength, and insisting upon severe prison sentences in others. The effect was soon apparent. While the total amount collected in fines decreased, there was a tremendous increase in the total years imposed in prison sentences, and also an increase in the number of compromised cases. Thus, in 1925 there were 5600 convictions and 1105 compromises, a total of $453,300 was collected in fines, and a total of 6361 years in prison sentences was imposed, while in 1928, there were 4738 convictions and 1221 compromises, and only $184,200 in fines was collected, but prison sentences totaled 8786 years. The total of prison years was the largest in history. In other words, the Government and the courts had "put teeth" into the enforcement of the act. Yet notwithstanding this rigorous policy, it is now estimated by some competent authorities that there are at least five times as many drug addicts in the country as there were in 1915, the year the act became effective.

Various reasons are advanced for this shocking condition. First, it is pointed out that the passage of the act created a new illicit traffic, with tremendous profits. The amount of these profits may be estimated. The wholesale price of cocaine or morphine for legitimate purposes is about $12.50 an ounce. An ounce contains 437 1-2 apothecary grains, and the standard price of the dope peddlers to addicts is $1 a grain, or $437.50 an ounce.

This huge margin of profit lures many desperate characters into the traffic, and it makes them hungry for more customers. The illicit supply of drugs appears to be abundant, so abundant, in fact, that there are numerous authenticated instances in which peddlers were detected in the practice of cultivating drug addiction among young people, in order to create new markets for their wares. Despite the severe penalties imposed by the courts for the sale of narcotics, the number of sentences for peddling has continued to multiply. This is partly explained by the fact that a large majority of those who are sentenced are not professional peddlers, but are addicts who have been inveigled or entrapped into making sales out of their own personal supplies. Federal Judges are aware of this, but they defend the practice of sentencing addicts as peddlers on the admittedly persuasive ground that addicts can be cured only under prolonged confinement.

Prior to the passage of the law, drug addicts were known to the police generally as a harmless class of unfortunates. Their native timidity and weakness, in fact, usually is responsible for their surrender to the habit. Before the sale of narcotics was prohibited, the large majority of addicts had jobs, usually of a light menial character, by which they earned enough to enable them to satisfy their cravings. When the Harrison act outlawed the sale of drugs, thus enabling the illicit peddlers to charge fantastic prices, many of the addicts turned to crime as the only means of getting the money to buy what they craved. Now they are constantly detected in property crimes, ranging all the way from stealing automobile accessories to robbing banks. Such crimes among addicts were almost unknown prior to the passage of the act. They are a product of its operation.

When President Hoover made inquiries preliminary to appointing his Commission on Law Enforcement, he discovered that 33 per cent of the inmates of Federal prisons were persons sentenced for violating the Harrison act. At the present time, the Government is negotiating for the purchase of two large farms, one in the Middle West and another in the Far West, to which some of these prisoners may be transferred, thus relieving the present prison congestion. It may be said, of course, that the increasing number of arrests and convictions under the law merely prove that enforcement has become more effective. But such a contention is contrary to the experience of all those who are connected with it. As a matter of fact, enforcement of the Harrison act has become less efficient in recent years, due to the transfer of experienced narcotic agents to the prohibition unit.

It is plain that the Harrison act has not accomplished the worthy purpose for which it was intended. Some of its results have been thoroughly unhappy ones. Whether that is due to the act or to the enforcement methods, the Post-Dispatch does not pretend to say. But we do say that the situation urgently needs investigating, so that the fault may be located, and proper remedies adopted. Obviously, such an inquiry is precisely in line with the purpose for which President Hoover appointed the Law Enforcement Commission. In Judge Kenyon the commission possesses a member with a vast amount of first-hand knowledge of the subject. To President Hoover and Chairman Wickersham we earnestly recommend that the Commission undertake this serious task.

HOMECOMING OF THE BLUEFISH.

The bluefish have returned to the waters around Nantucket, Mass., for the first time in 15 years, and the gentlemen who write the press dispatches say the reason for their return is as mysterious as that of the sudden departure.

Possibly it is that news travels slowly in the marine regions. All of us know, for instance, that Sacco and Vanzetti have been executed, that the bookstores have been made safe for Puritans through censorship, that an ambitiously modern play hasn't a chance in Boston. But the bluefish are just finding out. Hence the return. Everything is safe. It won't be long before the bluefish, top hats and all, will be zipping joyfully through the Cape Cod Canal and up the Charles River.

MR. HOOVER'S DILEMMA.

Mr. Hoover is in an embarrassing position in connection with the tariff bill. The embarrassment is of his own making. He had a choice of two courses in the premises: complete silence until the bill reached his desk, or an early expression of his disapproval, if such were his attitude. He followed neither course. He remained silent long enough to leave the inference that the bill as being drawn was satisfactory to him, but finally intervened when controversy threatened the flexible provision of the measure.

That intervention, in our opinion, entirely warranted Senator Borah in requesting the President to state his views on other aspects of the pending act. What about the industrial schedules—the piling up of additional protection for manufacturing enterprises that have prospered mightily—some of them fabulously—under the present law? What of the transfer from the free list to the dutiable lists of commodities which will bear heavily on the farmer? Finally, does the President believe that the bill, in its present form, fulfills the campaign pledges of the Republican party and its candidate?

Those are the questions which Mr. Borah puts squarely to Mr. Hoover. Those same questions have been on the tongue and in the heart of the American people since the work of the Ways and Means Committee was made public. They are questions which Mr. Hoover must ultimately answer. They can't be dodged. If he vetoes the bill he will have indorsed the indictment returned against it by Mr. Borah, and will, of course, be chargeable with having marked time when considerations of public welfare and party fidelity urged action. Should he sign the the bill as it stands today, he will have said to the American people that this is the measure of farm relief and limited revision which he and his party promised the country.

Such is Mr. Hoover's dilemma.

WHEN FARM CO-OPERATIVES WERE OUTLAWS.

That William F. Schilling, Federal Farm Board member from Northfield, Minn., has a broad sense of humor is shown by his article on the tribulations of a Farm Board member printed on this page. No doubt Mr. Schilling enjoys many a hearty retrospective chuckle at meetings of that body when he hears discussions of the aid to be received from farmers' co-operatives, for his experiences date back to the days when such organizations were outlaws. In fact, he was once arrested with a group of other men and stood trial for organizing one.

It wasn't so far back, either—only 13 years ago. The Twin City Milk Producers' Association came under fire for violation of the Minnesota antitrust law, and all the directors were arrested. Excited farmers thronged the courtroom at the trial, heard the iniquities of the organization detailed, then cheered when the defendants were freed by the jury.

After a hard fight the co-operatives got the Government on their side, a few years later, and Congress passed the Capper-Volstead co-operative marketing act, hailed as the "co-operators' bill of rights." Now there is a division of co-operative marketing in the Department of Agriculture for the exchange of crop and market information, and the co-operative has been accepted by the Farm Board as one of the principal means of bringing economic equality to the farmer. It is a far cry back to the days when a member of the present board was threatened with jail for helping form a co-operative.

THEY'RE STILL AFTER THE ROBIN'S RECORD.

At the time it was set the endurance flight record of the St. Louis Robin seemed a passing thing, something that another pair of young men in a good plane might shatter in a few weeks. But a glance at the attempts in progress when the Robin was fluttering around Lambert Field and those made since then point to the belief that O'Brine and Jackson had something on the ball besides the cover.

We note herewith the failures, in chronological order, with particularly ecstatic whoops over the three tries of the "Chicago We Will":

July 28—Billion Dollar City (Loomis and Glass), lands at Houston, Tex., 233 hours 12 minutes.

July 29—The Minneapolis (Crichton and Haugland), crashes at Minneapolis, killing both men; 154h. 45m.

July 30—St. Louis Robin lands, 420h. 30m.

Aug. 15—Chicago We Will (Mossman, Steele and Herron), lands at Chicago, 3h 35m.

Aug. 16—Chicago We Will (Mossman, Steele and Herron), lands at Chicago; 4h. 28m.

Sept. 2—Empire State Standard (Pangborn and Dillon); lands at Syracuse, N. Y.; 175h. 40m.

Sept. 4—Chicago We Will (Mossman, Steele and Herron), lands at Chicago; 293h.

Sept. 17—Indianapolis Flamingo (Peck and Genaro), lands at Indianapolis; 78h. 25m.

Sept. 19—Buffalo Evening News (Little and Moltrup), lands at Buffalo; 198h.

Sept. 26—Indianapolis Flamingo (Peck and Genaro), lands at Indianapolis; 149h. 36m.

As will be seen, none of them was even close. Careful preparation, determination and even the indomitable spirit of Chicago could not approach what Red and Obie did as casually as taking up a new plane in a test flight and stunting it to see if it will hold together. Aided by a St. Louis plane, St. Louis weather and a tradition that gets to Paris or busts, the Robin crew was able to hang up a splendid record. The weather angle was not the least important, as many of the failures were attributable to the difficulty of maintaining refueling contacts in the fog.

We may slip up in population now and then, we may not win a pennant every year, we may not be the center of the universe in regard to handling of traffic, but in many things, Fiorello, we have a way.

Free Advice Deluges the Farm Board

Volunteers offer all sorts of plans, including Pharaoh's storehouse method and suggestion for exterminating dogs, cats and English sparrows, says member; many willing helpers apply for jobs in passing out relief; pamphlets and letters pour in by thousands; group keeps right on at task of analyzing agriculture's troubles.

W. F. Schilling of the Federal Farm Board, in the Minnesota Farmer.

WELL, it does beat all what a real honest-to-goodness Farm Relief Board can accomplish in a few weeks' time. Just a little while ago the terminal elevators were bulging out with last year's wheat crop and the prices were so low that a chinch bug would have to stoop down to find them and the farmers were so discouraged that they were not sure whether they should purchase binder twine to harvest the crop that was looming up almost within their reach. But the Farm Board went into session on July 15 and on the very first day the price of wheat made the unprecedented jump of 8 cents a bushel while the board was getting its pictures taken and Bertillon experts were busy printing their fingers and the tailors were taking their measurements for "Tux" clothes to doll up for the first evening on parade.

I don't know who told the world that the Farm Board was to need just about 10,000 employes in the first month of its operation. But somehow it got circulated about and over 9000 persons actually registered to help the Farm Board save the farmers. There were experts in the banking game who wanted to help count out the $500,000,000 and distribute the same to themselves and others.

Then there was a bunch of fellows who wanted to go into the field where they could be at home nights and tell the farmers to hurry up and co-operate and get into a mood to be saved. But the job that scores actually wanted was to be secretary to the board members. I received no less than 50 very appealing, beseeching not to say bewildering applications from folks in every walk in life who knew just how to be secretary to a Farm Board member. I asked a few how much farm experience they had and if they ever had officiated as secretary to a farmer before.

Then there were about as many stenographers as there are in the world, and all of them wanted a job with the Farm Board. This was really nice, for it takes a lot of stenographers to write to the thousands of others that you didn't need.

The first stabilization corporation that will be set up will be to stabilize the employment situation of the country, and when this is well done then the board will get down to actual relieving. Here in Washington they have what is known as Government hours and they are very similar to farm hours, and this will not be very hard for the Farm Board members to become accustomed to. Back home on the farm our hours are from 4:30 in the morning to 9 at night, and here they have it just reversed. It is from 9 in the morning until 4:30 in the afternoon. When the farmers get as wise as the Government employes and adopt their hours for work, then the farm problem will be solved and the Farm Board can dissolve itself and go back to the sticks.

Now the world knows that there is a Federal Farm Board and, more than that, this board is expected to do the things that others have failed at. One Congressman has already written in asking why it is that such and such things cannot be attended to at once, and our splendid Scotch chairman, who has a vein of humor running down the right side of his spinal column and good co-operative horse-sense down the other side, answered him by saying: "You fellows have been wrestling with 'farm relief' for eight years and have gotten no place, and yet you expect this board to solve everything that went over your heads in eight days." He never even came back for his hat.

But the Congressman was only one among 120,000,000 people and each and every one of these has a remedy, and these respective remedies are being forwarded to the Farm Board members to digest and try on the unsuspecting farmer in allopathic doses whether he wants them or not, so that Congressmen, Senators and Cabinet members can sleep nights.

One fellow has sent in the method that Pharaoh used to take care of the "lean and fat" years. He maintains that the board should tell the farmers of the country to produce for a period of years, and when we had a sufficiency garnered in our barns to last for a given period, then to give the farmers a chance to go to Europe, or to, Coney Island or to Hollywood and let the populace eat up the fat of the land and the farm laborers could build roads and the farms could have a much needed rest. He wants the Government to put a profitable price on this production so that the farmer could take a vacation and not have to carry his lunch in a shoe box or a red bandanna. He is hitting on all six cylinders, this guy is, and I hope he will be buried in one of the Washington parks.

The next fellow to show up was an individual who wanted the members of the board to get busy and try to exterminate all the farmers' dogs and cats and all the English sparrows, so that the song birds might multiply and make this old world worth living in once more. As there is no Stabilization Committee for the purpose of taking care of the canine and feline species, it was decided to lay the matter before Congress.

Then we have books, especially written and autographed for the members of the board, telling us how to do the trick of bringing the farmer out of the picture that he is in. We have pamphlets and letters by the thousands all written with the very best intent, and there are members of the board who are beginning to feel that Congress has attempted to create a body composed of superhumans, men who can order on or off at will the locusts, grasshoppers, Florida fruit fly, chinch bugs, corn borers; men who can squirt oxygen into or give blood transfusions to a dying co-operative and resuscitate it while you wait. There are people who have an idea that the Federal Farm Board can cure corns and bunions, varicose veins, hare lips and club feet and then there are others, who are of the opinion that the board cannot do very much.

Between the various kinds the board is going right on and doing what it was intended that it should do, and that was to analyze the problems of the farmer from the standpoint of co-operative marketing and give such advice and assistance as it deems wise and for the best interests of all. And in the final analysis to help farmers to help themselves.

Country life does not always have breadth, but it has depth. It is neither artificial nor superficial, but is kept close to the realities.

While I can think of many niceties of culture with which we were unfamiliar, yet if I had the power to order my life anew I would not dare to change that period of it. If it did not afford me the best that there was, it abundantly provided the best that there was for me.

guinary history. They are engaged incessantly and strenuously in perfecting the machinery of war. Each year their destructive efficiency becomes more redoubtable. This more urgent aspect of the problem of disarmament seems to be completly overlooked in America. The fact that there are on the continent of Europe over 15,000,000 of men trained to the use of arms and that their arms are of the most modern and therefore of the most scientific and devasting type and that in power they exceed the equipments that provoked the Great War does not seem to concern American statesmanship. As long as this condition of things prevails world peace must remain precarious. Lord Cecil's gallant fight at Geneva to expose these hidden bombs which one day may explode and destroy civilization has aroused no sympathetic interest either in the Old or the New World. In the Old World it has aroused feelings of deep anger and resentment among the old gang who still believe that security can only be found in military ascendency.

The Old World passionately desires peace but trust of those who guide its destinies is still in guns. The New World has not yet learned all the lesson that the world as a whole is much smaller than it was and that a conflagration in one sphere is bound to light up a fire in the other end.

Trotzky Tells of Soviet Fleet's Night Trip Down Volga and Raid on Kazan

Capture of City Turns Tide Against White Army and Laggards Return to Lines of Bolsheviks.

By LEON TROTZKY.
CHAPTER XIV.
(Copyright, 1929.)

ONE night at Swiyazhsk—about 3 a. m.—I was strolling about the Staff Building, in the operations section, when I heard a familiar voice saying: "He will go on with this game until he is captured, and then we, too, shall be lost; that's my prediction."

I stopped short on the threshold. Two young general staff officers were seated there, bent over a map. The speaker was leaning over them, with his back toward me. He must have read something in the faces of the others, because suddenly he wheeled about.

It was Blagonravov, a young bolshevik, formerly Lieutenant in the Tsar's army. His face went livid with terror and shame. He was at a critical moment instigating them against me, provoking desertion, and I had caught him in the act. I could scarcely believe my ears.

Blagonravov had proved himself a fighting revolutionary in 1917. In the very first days of the coup d'etat he had participated in suppressing the revolt of the military cadets. I gave him responsible commission, in the first days of Smolny. He handled them well.

His Comment to Lenin.

"This sort of Lieutenant," I once remarked jokingly to Lenin, "is of the stuff of Napoleon—he even has the name."

(Blago in Russian means "good;" nrav, in one sense signifies "parts.")

Lenin laughed at first, then becoming serious and setting his jaws, said sternly:

"Well, we shall know how to deal with the Bonaparte."

"As to that," I answered, "time will tell"—the Russian words having another punning significance which cannot be rendered in other languages.

So it was this same Blagonravov that I had sent to the Eastern front when the leaders had fallen under the influence of the traitor Muraviev.

When I explained to him what his task would be he replied listlessly:

"The whole point is that the revolution is on the wane."

That was in the middle of 1918. I retorted sharply: "Have you spent yourself so soon?" Blagonravov pulled himself together and promised to do wat was necessary.

His Hand at Salute.

And now I had caught him at Swiyazhsk, at a most critical time, doing something that bordered on treason. He went out into the corridor. Blagonravov was pale and trembling, his hand at salute.

"Don't courtmartial me," he stammered over and over again. "I'll make good. Let me enlist as a private in the ranks, with a rifle on my shoulder."

My prophecy had not come true: my "Bonaparte" was nothing but a poltroon. He was dismissed from his post and given a less responsible job.

Revolution is a great devourer of men and characters. It brings the most courageous to destruction. it rides rough-shod over the weak; advancement is bought at a high price. Today Blagonravov is a member of the GPU, and one of the pillars of the Moscow regime. He must have acquired a hatred for "permanent rtvolution" back in the days of Swiyazhsk.

Only One Way to Retreat.

The situation continued to be most serious. We had no retreat except into the Volga. The Revolutionary Army Council declared that the problem of my safety was interfering with their freedom, of action. They insisted that I should go aboard a vessel on the Volga.

They were entitled to make this demand. I had set down from the outset that my presence at Swiyazhsk was not to interfere in any way with the action of the commanders. I stuck to this rule throughout my sojourn on the front.

Therefore, I submitted and went to the Volga, but not aboard the passenger steamer that had been made ready for me. I chose a torpedo-boat. Four of these torpedo-boats had been brought down to the Volga by way of the Marlinsk canal system. Several of the river steamers were armed with guns and machine guns.

The flotilla was planning to attack Kazan that night. We had to pass high defenses behind which the White batteries were concealed. Beyond those defenses the river took a bend and became much wider. There the enemy flotilla lay, Kazan spread out on the opposite shore.

With Lights Out.

The plan was to pass the defenses silently, under cover of darkness, attack the enemy flotilla and the shore batteries and then to attack the town itself. The flotilla set forth, in battle formation, with lights out, like a thief in the night.

Two old Volga pilots stood beside the captain. They had been impressed into service by force, hated us thoroughly and cursed the day they were born to do this work, but at the same time they were mortally afraid and trembled like aspen leaves. The captain reminded them from time to time that they would be shot on the spot if the boat ran on a sandbank.

When we were opposite the defenses, a rifle shot lashed across the river like a whip. A gun shot from the top of the hill followed, and other shots answered from our rear. Several bullets struck the sheet-iron that protected us up to the waist, on the captain's bridge. We went on in silence. The hilly shore close by could be discerned in the semidarkness.

Turns the Bend.

We turned the bend where the defenses were, and immediately came into the broad expanse of the river. The lights of Kazan were visible on the opposite shore.

Shooting continued behind us. Not more than 200 paces away, on our right, stood the enemy flotilla, under cover of the hilly shore. The boats, huddled together, formed a misty mass.

Raskolnikov opened fire on the boats. The metal hull of our torpedo boat howled and screeched at the first shot of its own gun. We proceeded jerkily, the boat seeming to writhe in pain as its guns discharged their metal toward the enemy.

Suddenly the darkness was torn apart by an immense flare, one of our shells having struck a naptha barge. The Volga was illuminated by an unexpected and unwanted, but nevertheless magnificent, torch.

Now our shots were aimed at the wharves. There was no reply from them. The gunners, apparently, had fled. The river was now illuminated over its entire width, and we perceived that there was nobody behind us.

Cut Off From Rest.

We were quite alone. Apparently the enemy artillery on top of the hill had cut off the rest of the flotilla from following us. Our torpedo boat stuck close to the near shore and in the brilliant glare was as visible as a fly on a plate. In a moment we should be under crossfire from the wharf and from the forts. It was an uncomfortable feeling.

Moreover we had lost control of our boat. The rudder-chain was broken—probably had been hit by a shot. We tried to turn the rudder by hand, but the broken chain was wound about the tiller and could not be budged.

We had to stop the engines and we drifted slowly toward the Kazan shore until the boat stopped, having jammed up against an old half-submerged barge. The shooting ceased; it was light as day, but still as night.

Caught in Trap.

There we were, caught in a trap; our situation seemed hopeless.

What we could not understand was why they did not fire upon us. Finally we determined to get off the barge by working the two engines alternately, and the scheme succeeded. The naptha torch continued to blaze, we went on drifting, and nobody molested us.

Again behind the hill, and we were once more in darkness. A stoker who had fainted was carried out of the engine room. The battery on the hill did not fire a single shot. Obviously, no one was after us. Perhaps there was nobody there. We were saved.

The word "saved" is easy to write. What was left of one of our improvised gunboats was taken ashore. Several men were wounded on board the others. Only now did we discover that our bow had a neat three-inch hole in it. It was just before dawn, and everybody felt as if he were just being reborn.

Aviator Has News.

An aviator came to me with good news. A detachment of the Second Army was approaching Kazan from the northeast, under command of the Cossack leader, Azin. The aviator immediately took off again with orders and exhortations.

Kazan was falling into our clutches. Our night raid, as we learned subsequently from our intelligence men, had broken the resistance of the Whites. The enemy flotilla was almost completely destroyed, the shore batteries were reduced to silence.

The words "torpedo boat" had the same effect on the Whites of the Volga as the word "tanks" had, later on, upon the young Reds near Petrograd. The bourgeois began to flee in terror from Kazan. Our troops became imbued with a strong attacking spirit.

First Contact With War.

Alarming episodes filled that month at Swiyazhsk. Something happened every day, and not infrequently at night. It was my first intimate acquaintance with war. It was a small war; not more than 25,000 or 30,000 men were engaged on our side. But it differed from the Great War only in scale; it was, so to speak, a working model of the Great War. That is why one felt all its surprises and fluctuations so keenly. That little war was a great school.

The situation before Kazan was now entirely changed. The motley detachments gradually fell into line and became strong and self-reliant regular units. Our artillery was evidently getting the upper hand. Our aviators were masters of the air. I no longer doubted that we should take Kazan.

Suddenly, on Sept. 1, I received a code telegram from Moscow:

"Come at once. Lenin has been wounded, how seriously not yet known. Strictly confidential. Sverdlov."

Heavy, Sullen Attitude.

I left immediately. The state of mind among the members of the party in Moscow was heavy and sullen, but unshakable. The best expression of that firm resolution was Sverdlov.

The doctors found that Lenin's life was not in danger, and promised a speedy recovery. I was able to hold out the prospect of success on the Eastern front, and returned at once to Swiyazhsk.

aazan was taken on Sept. 10. Next day the Whites evacuated Sintbirsk. Lenin was recovering. Things were improving all along the line.

One good worker found other good workers, under fire men found their worth in a week; the army was pulling itself together splendidly. The lowest ebb of the revolution—the fall of Kazan—was behind us. During the next seven months the Red Army cleared a territory of nearly 400,000 square miles, with a population of 40,000,000. The revolution was once more on the march.

MEMORIAL SERVICES TODAY FOR ARTIST TOM P. BARNETT

Exercises to Be Held at 2 P. M. at Artists' Guild, 812 Union Boulevard.

Public memorial services in honor of Tom P. Barnett, widely known St. Louis architect and artist, will be held at the Artists' Guild, 812 Union boulevard, at 2 p. m. today. E. M. Grossman, a lawyer friend of Mr. Barnett, will deliver the memorial address.

Mr. Barnett's ashes were interred privately yesterday at Oak Grove Cemetery, having been brought here from Cambridge, Mass., where his body was cremated Thursday. Mr. Barnett, who lived at 3832 Lindell boulevard, was at his summer home at Rockport, Mass., when he succumbed to diabetes with which he had suffered for about a year. He is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

Neun to Address Ad Women.

Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, and Ben Brinkman, promoter of the Arena will address a luncheon meeting of the Women's Advetising Club at Hotel Statler tomorrow.

Portes Gil Tells of Mexico's Campaign Against Alcohol

workers' free time by the establishment of parks and playgrounds, theaters ,musical societies—in general all kinds of activities designed to direct the people to cultural centers and away from the saloons; and propaganda among the military element in which the military schools will be utilized and through the extension of military laws and discipline, precepts against the use of alcohol could be further enforced.

"Realistic" Measures.

Finally, there were the more "realistic" measures of restriction. These included:

1. The regulation of the sale of liquor was placed under these conditions: prohibition of the sale of intoxicating drinks except in authorized places; limitation of the number of bars in accordance with the size of the city and in conformity with a basis established by the commission; fulfillment of the requirements prescribed in the Sanitary Code with respect to the location of saloons in the vicinity of schools, factories, garrisons, etc.; prevention of persons with liquor habits or police antecedents from working in cantinas; restriction of the retail sale of beverages of high alcohol content (these would be sold only in sealed containers); permission for retail sale and consumption would be limited exclusively to liquor of small alcohol content; prohibition of the sale of such liquors in cantinas to women and minors; prohibition of the sale of edibles of any character in saloons; and regulation of cabarets, dance halls and vice centers whereby the opening of new places would be prohibited and licenses for any that closed would not be renewed.

2. Prohibition of the manufacture, sale and consumption of distilled liquor of excessive alcoholic content and great intoxicating power (absinthe, gin, whisky, etc.);

3. Tariff protection and other kinds of facilities would be extended to all manufacturers of liquor that transformed themselves into manufacturers of other products.

4. The encouragement of all sorts of scientific studies destined to combat alcoholism.

5. A policy of high restrictive duties for the importation of beverages of high alcohol content.

6. Betterment of living conditions among the poor through the foundation and encouragement of leagues and associations against unhealthy habitations, fiscal aid for the construction of cheap and sanitary houses, financial help for the rebuilding and hygienization of unhealthy dwellings, hygienization and reconstruction of present neighborhoods the construction of city gardens for workers the encouragement of workers' savings through the creation of popular savings societies, the establishment of social insurance, a Foundation of Social Assistance through the creation of a body of social workers, the establishment of medical centers for alcoholic patients, cooperation of the police for the gathering of statistics on inebriates so that the campaign against drink could be intensified and the creation of asylums for sufferers of the liquor habit.

Results Incalculable.

These last measures will be applied gradually and prudently in accordance with the requirements of the situation.

At the moment we are preparing also a program which will be brought to a head on Nov. 20, the nineteenth anniversary of the revolution, by which the entire body of school children will appeal to the 15,000,000 inhabitants of the nation for their support in this drive.

Results obtained up to now are incalculable. Such has been the enthusiasm with which the immense majority has responded to this call that I believe, with absolute impartiality, that in one or two years the cantina, which has been one of the best forms of enterprise, will cease to be.

This then is an outline of the program and efforts which we have undertaken up to the present in our battle against alcohol. I consider that if we continue at the present rate—and I hope we can go on with even greater intensity in the future—this campaign in a very few years will have succeeded in defeating definitely this great social disease.

RUTH PAGE TO DANCE AT VEILED PROPHET BALL

Former Premiere Danseuse With Metropolitan Opera Company to Head Troupe.

Ruth Page has been engaged to head the troupe of dancers at the Veiled Prophet ball to be held at the Coliseum Wednesday evening, Oct. 9, the committee in charge announced last night. A program of novelty numbers in addition to the conventional ensemble dancing is planned.

The Prophet's ball will be the second phase of the fifty-first Veiled Prophet's carnival. The street parade will be held the preceding evening, Tuesday, Oct. 8, with the history of St. Louis from Laclede to Lindbergh as the general theme.

Miss Page will be assisted in the dance program by Jorg Fasting, Elise Rieman and Mary Ann Stone. Their program, in the order of presentation, will be: "Pas de Trois" (Chopin); "Russian Doll" (Liadow); "Gavotte" (Csibulka); "Militarismus" (Prokofieff)' and "The Flapper and the Quarterback" (Loomis), the latter number an original dance fantasy presented for the first time.

Miss Page, a native of Indianapolis, began her career with Pavlowa, and has been premiere danseuse at the Metropolitan Opera, and a member of the Chicago opera ballet and the Diaghlieff Russian Ballet.

PEERLESS

Phil Brockman Changes His Mind!

HE'S back on Motor Row, back with the New Peerless Six, back with his friends who number legion—Phil Brockman has changed his mind.

Re-establishing himself at the head of his own and larger Company, his own business on the New Delmar Motor Way, Colonel Brockman again picks Peerless—we quote him verbatim—"Peerless bridges the gap between fine-car quality and low price. The New Six 61-A is the car everyone has been waiting for. I predict that 1930 is a Peerless year, for it belongs to Peerless—the product proves it. In value, the New Peerless Six is easily a year ahead of the field. I have tried it out, and I know what the car will do. Give it gas, oil and water and like 'Ol Man River, it jes keeps rollin' along'."

In awarding the Peerless Franchise again to Colonel Phil Brockman we have taken full cognizance of his splendid record in the automobile business. With the hundreds of owners in "the 49th State" whose opinion we value, we concede our St. Louis Distributor one of the fairest, squarest and most ethical of merchants. The Peerless factory is glad to make use of the advertising columns of the press to broadcast this sentiment. Colonel Brockman, we welcome you back to your new location, back to Peerless.

LIQUIDATING a business after seventeen years . . . that's not so easy as it sounds. Two months ago I saw nothing to prevent my retirement to a less strenuous life. Then I found three paramount difficulties in the way. One, the vastly changed and improved Peerless product. Another, the constructive and inspiring relationship I was to enjoy with the New Management of the Peerless factory, and third, [and to me the most important] the duty I owed to hundreds of loyal and true friends and owners of Peerless cars. Friends who have persistently urged that I continue to serve them as Peerless distributor, automotive friend, philosopher and guide. That is why I have re-entered the automobile business with an enthusiastic optimism.

INCOME TAX LEVIED ON PROPERTY U. S. SEIZED

St. Louisan Ordered to Pay Amount Due for Five Years She Lived in Germany.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Delinquent Federal income tax returns filed by the deputy collector at St. Louis for Adele Kahle, a citizen of the United States, who was resident in Germany from 1918 to 1923, have been approved by the Federal Board of Tax Appeals. The amount ordered paid into the Federal Treasury was $65,143.05. No penalty was imposed for delinquency.

In a decision Thursday, the board rejected the arguments of the taxpayer's attorney, John F. McCarron, who contended that the deputy collector was without authority to file the delinquent returns. The Alien Property Custodian, who held the Kahle property from 1918 to 1923, should have paid the Federal taxes as they became due, McCarron declared.

The decision revealed an apparent lack of co-ordination between two branches of the Federal Government, namely the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Alien Property Custodian.

Her Attorney Explains.

From 1918 to 1923, the taxpayer was a resident of Germany and although she was an American citizen her property was seized by the Alien Property Custodian, who held it until January, 1924. In that month the custodian returned all the property, consisting mostly of stocks, bonds and other securities, together with the interest accrued, while the property was impounded. No income tax returns on the income were ever made by the taxpayer, or by her attorney-in-fact, John J. Brennan, who has offices in the Title Guaranty Building.

In December, 1925, a deputy collector, acting under instructions of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, prepared income tax returns for the years 1918 to 1923 inclusive, from data supplied by the Alien Property Custodian.

Before filing the returns, the Deputy Collector called the matter to the attention of Brennan, who said that he did not have the necessary records and could not himself file the returns for his client.

McCarron, as counsel for the taxpayer, appealed to the Tax Board against the Deputy Collector's action, declaring that in view of the fact that the Alien Property Custodian was authorized to pay the taxes during the time the property was in his possession, the Deputy Collector had exceeded his authority. The board held that by an opinion of the Attorney-General in 1920, the Alien Property Custodian was authorized but not required to pay the income taxes yearly.

Ruling by Tax Board.

"Whether or not the Attorney-General," the decision said, "has properly ruled that the duty of filing income tax returns in respect of income from property held by the Alien Property Custodian did not rest upon that official, we do not see that a contrary conclusion would justify the taxpayer's contention that the so-called delinquent returns made and filed by the Deputy Collector are invalid.

"The Revenue Act of 1924 provides that 'if any person, corporation, company or association' fails to make and file any return or list at the time prescribed by law, the collector or deputy collector shall make the return or list from his own knowledge and from such information as he can obtain through testimony or otherwise.

"Whoever may have been responsible for the filing of the returns in respect of the income in question, whether the Alien Property Custodian, the petitioner, or her attorneys-in-fact, their failure to do so authorized the collector or deputy collector to make the returns as provided in the revenue act of 1924. No exception to the general provisions of the statutes for reporting income is to be found in either the revenue act of 1918 or 1921 with respect to the income from property held by the Alien Property Custodian.

"Under these circumstances we think that the returns prepared and filed by the deputy collector on behalf of the petitioner for the years before us comply with the requirements of the statute, and since the petitioner has not shown that the taxes proposed for assessment thereon are incorrect the deficiencies determined by the respondent are approved."

JAMES B. ROBINSON DIES

Former St. Louisan Succumbs in Chicago at Age of 54.

James B. Robinson, 54 years old, brother of Harry M. Robinson, 5154 Waterman avenue, former general freight agent for the Frisco Railroad, and son of the late Daniel B. Robinson, president of the Santa Fe Railroad, died of heart disease at his home in Chicago Friday, according to word received here yesterday.

Robinson, who was a salesman, formerly lived at 4460 Lindell boulevard. He is survived by his brother and a sister, Mrs. Gale Thompson of Chicago. Funeral services will be held in Chicago tomorrow afternoon.

St. Louisan's Father Dies in Texas.

Robert Elster, 74 years old, a resident of San Antonio, Tex., for more than 45 years, died there Friday, according to word received here yesterday by his daughter, Mrs. Howard A. Copelard, 7124 Forsythe boulevard. He was born in Germany and came to this country 48 years ago. Only his daughter survives him, his wife having died Aug. 16. Funeral services will be held at San Antonio this afternoon.

Textile Tag Day Planned.

Plans for a tag day to raise funds for the defenses of imprisoned textile mill strikers at Gastonia, N. C., will be considered at a joint International Labor Defense and Workers' International Relief conference this morning at 10 o'clock at the Labor Lyceum, 1243 Garrison avenue. All those interested in the release of the strike leaders are invited.

Hessi Admitted to Exchange.

William Hessi, doing business under the name of William R. Hessi Agency in the Shaw Bank Building, Grand and Park avenues, has been admitted to active membership in the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. Hessi, who is also a director in the Shaw Bank, has been engaged in the real estate and general insurance business for the last six years.

Monday Is Positively the Last Day!!

By Far the Most Stupendous and Most Successful Event in the Retailing Annals of St. Louis Will Be Brought to a Dramatic Climax Monday at 5:30 P. M.

FAMOUS-BARR CO.'S Jubilee Sales again very conclusively have demonstrated the dynamic merchandising and value-giving force of St. Louis' Dominant Store. After months of scientific preparation, on Sept. 9th, in response to our spectacular announcements that "Values to rival St. Louis Day" would be awaiting you in every section, the Jubilee Sales were ushered in with tremendous crowds. Such an announcement coming from Famous-Barr Co. naturally stirred all St. Louis to the highest pitch of expectancy and the first day's response was a masterful manifestation of that public confidence which a store can only merit as a result of the most faithful performance of the service it is expected to render in its community.

Each day brought new surprises and record crowds—each day saw new selling records established in many departments, and now as this extraordinary selling campaign is drawing to a close, we proudly announce that September, 1929, will record the largest September in volume of sales in the enviable history of this institution.

We want to express our sincerest appreciation and thanks to the thousands and tens of thousands of our patrons for their magnificent support, and for their patience and co-operation during these extremely busy days.

And for Monday, the last day of the Jubilee Sales, there are still countless saving opportunities on the very things most needed for Fall and Winter personal and home use . . . . . .

Values That Truly Rival "St. Louis Day"

With such advantageous buying opportunities in every section, Monday will doubtless be one of the month's busiest shopping days. Remember, at 5:30 P. M. Monday, the curtain will be rung down on the most extraordinary retailing event known in St. Louis.

ST. LOUISAN'S SLAYER DIES IN PENITENTIARY

Harold F. Henwood Killed Sylvester (Tony) Von Phul in Denver in 1911.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 28.—Harold F. Henwood, serving a life term in the Colorado State Penitentiary at Canyon City for the murder of Sylvester (Tony) Von Phul, St. Louis balloonist, and George E. Copeland, Cripple Creek mining man, in Denver in 1911, died at the prison today.

Henwood was paroled in 1922 by Gov. O. H. Shoup, but was returned a year later to serve out his sentence when it was disclosed that he had threatened a young woman who had refused to marry him.

The killing of Von Phul and Copeland, which took place in the barroom of the Brown Palace Hotel here, was one of the most startling cases of the time. It followed a quarrel between Henwood and Von Phul over Mrs. John W. Springer, wife of a Denver banker and social leader who was locally famous for her beauty.

Three men fell in the affray. Copeland, who was a bystander, was killed, Von Phul was fatally wounded and James W. Atkinson, Colorado Springs contractor and hotel man, also a bystander, was hit and crippled for life.

It was brought out in evidence at the trial that Henwood and Von Phul had quarreled at a dinner party given by Mrs. Springer on the night of the shooting and continued their quarrel in the barroom. Testimony was given that Henwood's relations with Mrs. Springer had irritated Von Phul, who had known her in St. Louis before her marriage to Springer. Springer later obtained a divorce from his wife as a result of disclosures at the trial.

HEART DISEASE, NOT BLOW, KILLED HOTEL MANAGER

Father and Son Held Following Death of Frank Stewart, Exonerated at Inquest.

A Coroner's verdict of death from chronic heart disease was returned yesterday in the case of Frank Stewart, 55 years old, hotel manager, who was found dead with a cut on his head in his room at the Stag Hotel, 819A Market street, Friday.

Two men, father and son, who had been held by police in connection with the death, were released. They were arrested for the Coroner when a clerk at the hotel reported that Stewart had been injured in an altercation with them last Monday. The father admitted he had struck Stewart on the head with a cane after Stewart had attacked his son and himself with a rubber "billy."

At the inquest, Dr. L. T. Carriere, who performed an autopsy, testified that the cut was not of a serious nature and that death had been due to chronic myocarditis.

Colin Selph Operated On.

Colin M. Selph of 319 North Taylor avenue, attorney and former Postmaster of St. Louis, was operated on yesterday at St. Johns Hospital for abdominal trouble. His condition is reported to be favorable.

LE BAUME LEADS MOVE FOR CIVIC THEATER

Would Take Over Plaza Theater Under Direction of Peter Greig.

A new movement for a civic theater in St. Louis was organized last week under the leadership of Louis LeBaume, one of the five sponsors of the St. Louis Pageant and Masque of 1914.

Plans are to be discussed this week for taking over the Plaza Theater, formerly the Gayety, for fall opening at the earliest possible date. The theater is being renovated and decorated by Peter Greig of the Theater Society of St. Louis.

"What we thought would require two or three years in St. Louis has been accomplished by one nine-week summer season," Greig commented. He said that the group headed by LeBaume, if its plans were carried out, would consummate immediately the aspirations which the Theater Society had considered a matter of years.

As now contemplated, the new civic movement would be threefold. It would establish a wholly professional theater to produce plays of valid and general dramatic appeal. In addition it would conduct a dramatic school and a little theater.

The little theater would be a laboratory for students of the stage, and a place for St. Louisans to see unusual plays, of an appeal too restricted for the larger all-professional theater. The Theater Society has been swamped by applications from young St. Louisans who wish to learn to act. Students who attained professional stature would have opportunity in the professional theater, but otherwise its patrons would be protected from amateur acting.

LeBaume, who has been dividing his time between St. Louis and Pasadena, cited the Pasadena Community Playhouse, with which he is actively associated, as an example for the proposed community theater. He said that similar organizations in Cincinnati and Detroit have become solidly established in their respective communities.

He urged that the civic enterprise should justify its name by the highest type of actors and plays. For that purpose, he said, it would be necessary to have a community organization with various classes of membership, each having a proprietary interest in the theater. He would have the personnel, including the director, accountable to a board of control whose members would hold no financial interest in the project.

For assurance of success he cited summer opera in St. Louis, and he emphasized that this enterprise for a winter dramatic season would in no manner compete with Municipal Opera.

JUDSON, GREEN, HENRY AND REMMERS NEW YAW FIRM

Two Old Firms Quit; Will Occupy Present Office of Green and Remmers.

Announcement was made yesterday of the consolidation, effective Oct. 1, of the law offices of Judson, Green & Henry, and Ernest A. Green & Oliver T. Remmers, and the formation of a partnership for the general practice of law under the firm name of Judson, Green, Henry & Remmers, with offices in the enlarged suite of Green & Remmers in Boatmen's Bank Building.

The members of the new firm are John F. Green, for many years a law partner of the late F. N. Judson; Judge Ernest A. Green, one time Prosecuting Attorney of Butler County, former Assistant Attorney General of this state, and past President of both the Missouri and St. Louis Bar Associations; J. Porter Henry, for many years associated with the firm of Judson & Green; Oliver T. Remmers, twice a member of the Missouri Legislature, former President of the St Louis Safety Council, recently chairman of the Republican City Central Committee, and now chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners; and John Raeburn Green, son of John F. Green, who Special Investigator, War Trade Intelligence Unit at Washington, a member of the Legal Section Secretariat of the League of Nations, Geneva, 1920-1921, and Democratic nominee for Congress in the Tenth District at the last general election.

Associated with the firm will be Robert D. Evans.

CHARGED WITH TAKING HUSH MONEY FROM HOME BREWER

Earl J. Bold Said to Have Pretended He Had "Pull"; Told Sheriff He Kept $60.

Upon complaint that he had taken $15 a week hush money from a home brewer under false pretenses of "pull," Earl J. Bold, 25 years old, 1077 North Pennsylvania avenue, was held yesterday at Clayton under warrant charging compounding a felony.

He was arrested Thursday when Deputies Fleming and Delaney, summoned to the home of Thornton Moss, 6325 Ella avenue, concealed themselves in a coal bin and reported they watched Moss hand Bold $15 in marked bills. Moss, who said he had engaged in trifling home brew operations, told the officers he had paid Bold $60 in four weeks.

Sheriff Lill questioned Bold for two hours to ascertain whether any of the money had gone to his deputies and announced that Bold said he kept it all. The Sheriff said Moss had not made any home brew since the deputies' visit.

BOY SENTENCED FOR THEFT

William Henning, 17, Gets Two Years in Reformatory.

William Henning, 17 years old, 3707 Delmar boulevard, was sentenced to two years in the reformatory by Circuit Judge Nolte at Clayton yesterday on a plea of guilty of taking $115 and $2.25 in stamps from a drug store at 18 West Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves.

James Andrews, 18, is awaiting trial at Clayton under a like charge.

EDWARDS AND BARTELSMEYER ON POLICE PENSION BOARD

Mayor Appoints Two, Three Are Elected From Police Ranks, Two Ex-Officio.

John B. Edwards, an attorney and former chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners, and Elmer E. Bartlesmeyer, secretary of the Police Board, were appointed by Mayor Miller yesterday to serve as members of the Board of Trustees of the police pension system, Edwards for two years and Bartlesmeyer for one. The system goes into effect Tuesday.

The police pension law, enacted by the last Legislature to provide a retirement pension for police, provides that the Mayor shall appoint two members of the Board of Trustees, and that three members shall be elected from the police ranks. The City Comptroller and president of the Police Board automatically become members, making a total of seven trustees to administer the system.

As secretary of the Police Board, Bartlesmeyer will not benefit by the pension system, which embraces only active police officers.

Transmission Changes Make Auto Owners 'Gear-Minded'

Radical Innovations Made as Manufacturers Seek Quicker Acceleration and Hill-Pulling Ability.

By FREDERICK C. RUSSELL.

What is the significance of motordom becoming "transmission-minded"?

Millions of automobile owners are trying out the various new types of gearsets and are pondering this question. Many are frankly nonplussed. Why all this concentration on gears at a time when the transmission was thought to be headed for the discard?

Few realize the radical and unexpected change that has come over motoring and that now elevates the transmission to supremacy among chassis units. Not even many persons closely identified with the automobile industry itself.

Two years ago virtually every make of car was showing capable performance on hills and in traffic. There was such an abundance of power in high the transmission seemed superfluous. Today many of the high powered, multi-cylinder cars seem actually sluggish on get-away and no longer take the lead on the upgrade. Cars with special transmissions are bossing the road.

How?

Merely by providing a gearset with a quiet secondary high gear than can be shifted with no risk of gear clash, any car is provided with an extra amount of power for acceleration in traffic and performance on hills. A feature not yet fully stressed by manufacturers who have gone on this basis is the increased stopping ability of cars with secondary high gears.

Never before in the history of the automobile has there been such concentration on transmission types. At a time when the automobile is supposed to be "standardized" there is such a wide assortment of gearsets that even the trade has not had a chance to get the whole story. New versions are appearing at a surprising rate.

The simplest of the newer types is the "three forward speed" internal gear arrangement. High and second are in constant mesh as opposed to selective spur gears in such a manner that "shifting" from one gear to the other is accomplished merely by pressing the clutch pedal to the floor and moving the gear shift lever. Since the gears are in constant mesh they are not actually shifted but merely engage by the shifting of an internal shaft.

Internal gears of this sort are also used in the "four forward speed" transmission of several leading makes of cars. The arrangement is the same except that there is a low "low" gear for emergency use. In this version the top high is higher than in the three speed arrangement because of a higher rear axle ratio.

One of the latest gearsets is of the "silent second" type, but is unique in that it uses herringbone gears for the contant mesh and second speed gear train. Since the herringbone gears cannot be shifted, a dog clutch is used for engagement of the second gear. The dog clutch moves backward in such a way that its internal teeth mesh with the external teeth on the main shaft second gear. This locks the gear to the shaft. It is claimed by the manufacturer that a driver can shift to second from high up to car speeds of 40 miles per hour without clashing of gears.

Still another popular transmission type of the newer order is one of conventional gearing, but so equipped with clutches that gear speeds are regulated for perfect shift in the hands of unskilled drivers.

All of these transmissions shift in the regular manner with the exception of a latched out or offset low "low" in the case of the "four forward speed" varieties. There is nothing new to learn and even if the driver makes no use of the transmissions for faster getaway, hill climbing and better control, he is unable to shift other than expertly for the two top speeds. Low in the three-speed gearsets and low and second in the four-speed type are still of the spur-gear variety and conventional in arrangement.

The picture with respect to the front drive cars is entirely different but further emphasizes the fact that the motor world is "transmission conscious" as never before. Here the shift control is mounted on the instrument board with positions different from what is known as "standard shift."

One of the newest front-drive cars carries a split transmission, one-half being in front of the axle with the other half behind it. A worm for the final drive is placed in the center. These gearsets are of the conventional spur gear order, however, being different largely because of their installation. A

A feature not yet fully stressed by manufacturers who have gone on this basis is the increased stopping ability of cars with secondary high gears.

Never before in the history of the automobile has there been such concentration on transmission types. At a time when the automobile is supposed to be "standardized" there is such a wide assortment of gearsets that even the trade has not had a chance to get the whole story. New versions are appearing at a surprising rate.

The simplest of the newer types is the "three forward speed" internal gear arrangement. High and second are in constant mesh as opposed to selective spur gears in such a manner that "shifting" from one gear to the other is accomplished merely by pressing the clutch pedal to the floor and moving the gear shift lever. Since the gears are in constant mesh they are not actually shifted but merely engage by the shifting of an internal shaft.

Internal gears of this sort are also used in the "four forward speed" transmission of several leading makes of cars. The arrangement is the same except that there is a low "low" gear for emergency use. In this version the top high is higher than in the three speed arrangement because of a higher rear axle ratio.

One of the latest gearsets is of the "silent second" type, but is unique in that it uses herringbone gears for the contant mesh and second speed gear train. Since the herringbone gears cannot be shifted, a dog clutch is used for engagement of the second gear. The dog clutch moves backward in such a way that its internal teeth mesh with the external teeth on the main shaft second gear. This locks the gear to the shaft. It is claimed by the manufacturer that a driver can shift to second from high up to car speeds of 40 miles per hour without clashing of gear.s

Still another popular transmission type of the newer order is one of conventional gearing, but so equipped with clutches that gear speeds are regulated for perfect shift in the hands of unskilled drivers.

All of these transmissions shift in the regular manner with the exception of a latched out or offset low "low" in the case of the "four forward speed" varieties. There is nothing new to learn and even if the driver makes no use of the transmissions for faster getaway, hill climbing and better control, he is unable to shift other than expertly for the two top speeds. Low in the three-speed gearsets and low and second in the four-speed type are still of the spur-gear variety and conventional in arrangement.

The picture with respect to the front drive cars is entirely different but further emphasizes the fact that the motor world is "transmission conscious" as never before. Here the shift control is mounted on the instrument board with positions different from what is known as "standard shift."

One of the newest front-drive cars carries a split transmission, one-half being in front of the axle with the other half behind it. A worm for the final drive is placed in the center. These gearsets are of the conventional spur gear order, however, being different largely because of their installation. A

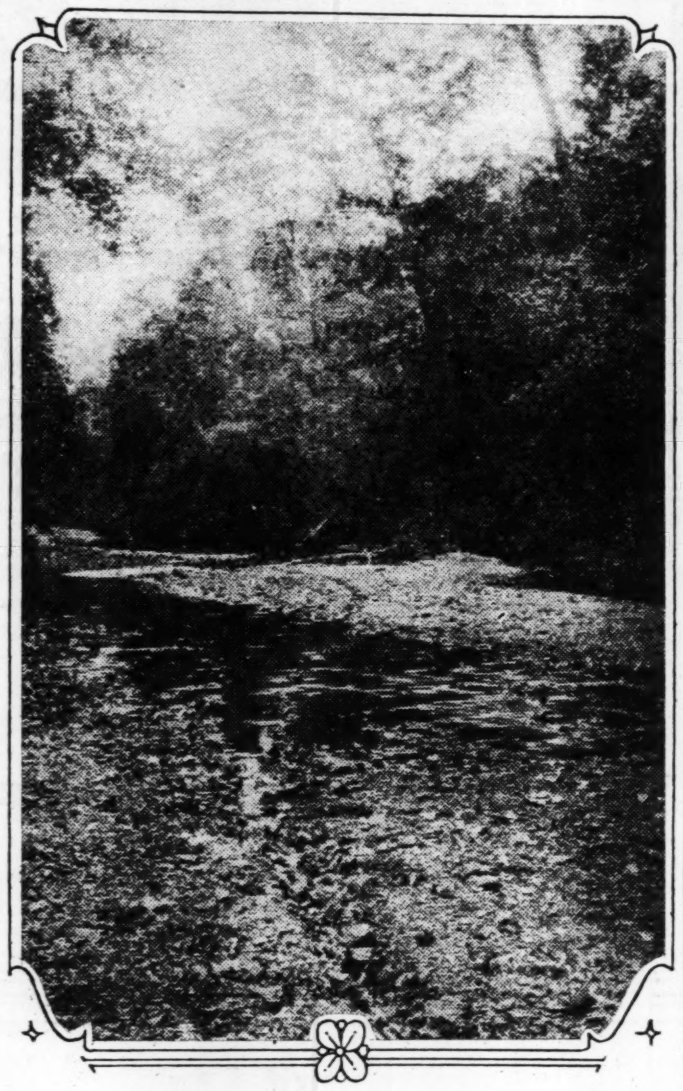
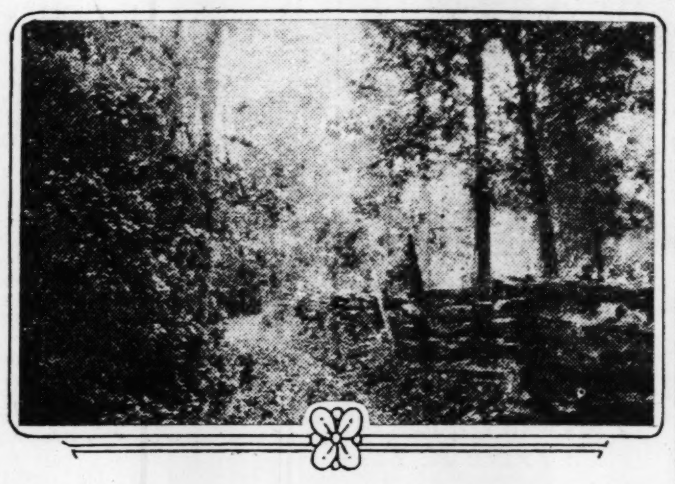
Scenic Tour Leads to Country South of St. Clair, Mo.



A SCENE along a Meramec tributary near "The Outlook."



HIKERS will find many such spots on their rambles along the river.

Trip May Be Made in Day

Relatively Unknown to St. Louisans, This Section Is Comparable to Ozarks.

COMPARATIVELY unknown to St. Louisans, but with scenery that compares favorably with that of the Southern Missouri Ozarks, is a section of country bordering the Meramec River south of St. Clair, Mo. An abundance of quail in the woods and thickets along the river banks will make this trip particularly popular with hunters when the quail season opens, Nov. 10.

The motor trip may be made easily in one day. St. Clair is approximately 54 miles from the center of the city. Since the concrete on Hanley road, leading from Clayton road to Manchester, was recently opened up, motorists are using this route from the city to get onto Manchester road. This eliminates the bumpy stretch through Maplewood, which occasions a great deal of inconvenience.

St. Clair lies on U. S. 66, a continuation of Manchester road, and at this season of the year, with the trees beginning to take on their autumnal colors, the ride is very enjoyable.

At St. Clair, one should turn to the left and look for the road leading to the Meramec. It is a county dirt road with rock bottom, and has been plainly marked with signs of The Outlook, a summer resort.

The river is about six and one-half miles from St. Clair.

Beautiful woodland trails wind along the river, affording many a surprising view of the stream. Hikers and nature-lovers may spend several delightful hours wandering among the forests and exploring the stream.

The fact that very few persons go there, lends a further appeal to this section.

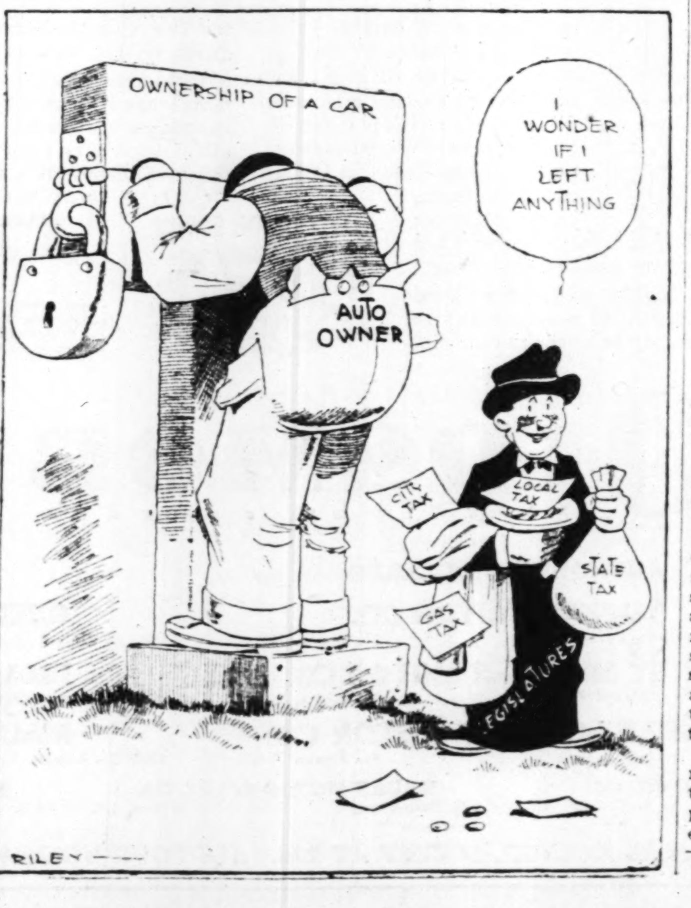
Fishing is good in the Meramec and the small streams that feed it nearby.

Or, if the motorists do not care to linger here, they may return to St. Clair and continue on U. S. 66 to Sullivan for an inspection of Meramec State Park, always popular with tourists. Sullivan is 62 miles from St. Louis, and the park a few miles south.

Motorists Must Be Careful.

Although Filipinos are inveterate jaywalkers, an operator of a motor vehicle in the Philippines who injures a pedestrian is arrested and sent to prison until he can prove without question that he is not to blame. For this reason, most of the automobile owners do not drive their own cars. They hire a $25 or $30 a month chauffeur to take the prison risk.

The Modern Stocks



No Indication of Seasonal Decline In Auto Industry

Sales in Mississippi Valley and South Continue to Hold Up.

By FRED KINGSBURY,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 28.—Automobile manufacturers in the Michigan area have been giving a great deal of study to the various markets throughout the United States and have reached the decision that business will be good for the balance of the year. There are no indications at the present time of a decline in the motor car business other than the usual seasonal decline.

The Far West is taking automobiles in goodly numbers. This also is true of the Mississippi Valley and the South. Much of this business is in the small towns and agricultural districts.

In former years motor car manufacturers looked to the agricultural districts for an increase in business during the fall months. However, with the up-to-date method of purchasing motor cars, farmers are filling their needs all the year round. The payment plan has been a great aid to farmers as well as industrial workers..

Factories have started preparations for the big automobile shows. Practically every manufacturer will show models at the Paris and London expositions. Due to the heavy gain in exports, American manufacturers are especially active and they are making further bids for foreign trade with the expectation of still greater gains in export business during 1929.

It is not generally known but a great many of the manufacturers have arranged credit systems for foreign sales the same as used in the United States, and this, of course, has resulted in great good for the industry.

A large number of new models remain to be announced and these undoubtedly will not be forthcoming until the first of the year or, until the national automobile shows in New York and Chicago.

The trend this year seems to be towards four-speed transmissions and slightly wider wheelbases on the rear wheels. The last to announce a four-speed transmission was Packard and, while no announcements to the effect have been made, it is fully expected four or five more companies will fall in line as far as four-speed is concerned.

For a number of years there did not seem to be much improvement in shackles. This year, however, a number of refined types have appeared and much progress is being made. A great deal of attention is being given to springs and spring protection. To this end, one company has made standard a flexible metal spring cover. Heretofore, spring covers, as factory equipment, have been confined to leather or fabric of some kind.

There is a great demand for wire wheel equipment on new cars. Such equipment, and the fact that owners like the idea of mounting spare wheels at the front of the car in fender wells, has brought attention to the appearance of the rear of motor cars, and they are much more beautiful than ever before.

Of course, disc wheels are still popular and a great many wood spoke wheels are used. An inspection of the new cars equipped with wood wheels will disclose that most of these wood wheels have 10 spokes. In former years the 12-spoke wheel appeared to be standard. At the present time, however, manufacturers are making the 10-spoke wheel just as strong, if not stronger, than the old type. There are some makers, who still prefer the 12-spoke wheel, but these seem to be in the minority.

There has been a gain in the number of straight eights offered this year, and further gains are expected, although a number of makers anticipate going ahead with

Give Dealer a Chance.

Modern cars are more free from "bugs" than their predecessors. However, sometimes one develops. The owner may notice it in the form of, say, an ignition difficulty or, perhaps, a steering defect. Within recent years these two have been found in certain cars. In such a case it pays to ask the dealer what the factory has done about such troubles. In both cases cited a special part was developed that overcame the defect.

Give Hints for Cold-Weather Care of Autos

Engineering Bulletin Lists Repairs Necessary After Summer Driving.

With winter "just around the corner," the motorist can take advantage of the pleasant fall weather to check over his car or have his service station do so in order that it will be in proper condition to withstand the rigors of winter driving.

The following recommendations on putting the car in shape for winter are gleaned from an AC Spark Plug Co. engineering bulletin:

The first step in the procedure is to clean the chassis, engine and body as dirt can hide many defects.

Tighten all bolts and nuts.

Check front wheels for proper alignment; remove caps and regrease; adjust wheel bearings and replace hub caps.

Check steering gear for proper adjustment.

Drain the old oil from the transmission and differential and pour into both about a quart of kerosene. At the same time put in the radiator a few handsful of sal soda

Travel Bureau Gives Valued Service to Hunters, Fishermen

A NEW set of maps of value to the fisherman and hunter has been prepared by the Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. It consists of a St. Louis and vicinity map, a Missouri Game and Fish Department chart and a map showing all rivers and creeks in the Missouri Ozarks. The set costs 25 cents at the bureau and 30 cents mailed.

In addition, a 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada sells for 50 cents at the Post-Dispatch and 60 cents mailed.

Small sized individual State road maps cost 10 and 12 cents. City guides sell at 25 and 30 cents and maps of Greater St. Louis cost 40 and 45 cents mailed.

Reckless Drivers Must Pay.

An increase in insurance premiums is to be levied against auto owners and operators in New York State who commit serious violations of traffic laws. The traffic violations for which an operator or owner of an automobile must show financial responsibility for future accidents are reckless driving, where injury to person or property results therefrom; speeding, where injury to person or property results; driving without an operator's license; driving while intoxicated, and leaving the scene of an accident without stopping.

Dealers Tender Farewell Dinner To Frank R. Tate

He Was Charter Member and Former Head of Local Body.

Frank R. Tate, former president of the Tate Motor Co., and a director of the St. Lous Automobile Dealers' Association, was tendered a testimonial dinner by the directors of the St Louis Automobile Dealers at the Coronado Hotel Thursday noon. Present at the dinner were E. A. Hatfield of the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., president of the association; P. H. Brockman of the Phil Brockman Automobile Co.; F. C. McDonald of the Southwest Nash Co.; G. W. Oliver of the Oliver Cadillac Co.; George Weber of the Weber Implement & Auto Co.; Robert E. Lee, manager of the association; R. C. Frampton of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co.; H. F. Fahrenkrog of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co., and Tate.

Tate's resignation as a director of the association was accepted with expressions of regret and good wishes and he was unanimously elected an honorary member of the Individuality—Built for those who want beauty and style well away from the commonplace, bearing a name that is universally respected among fine cars.

Straight-eight Power—A genuine Marmon-built straight-eight engine provides the power—smooth, effortless, abundant.

Remarkable Comfort—A quality of all Marmons that people never forget.

Performance in Town—Marmon straight-eight power reduces gear shifting a full half. Never jumpy at low traffic speeds. The speedometer can drop to 3 or 4—press the throttle—no need to wait—no need to shift. Smooth, alert power is always there. Easy to steer. Easy to park.

Performance in the Country—Here's a car that doesn't require stiff-arm driving. Head a Marmon down the road, measure off the speed wanted, give the car its head and the job of driving is no job at all.

Long-Lived—This Marmon is not a car to be "traded" every year or eighteen months. It's built for long life—the same period of service you would expect from the most expensive cars. Straight-eight power is easy power—easy on the bearings and all working parts.

Economical to Run—Marmon owner records prove that Marmon straight-eights are thrifty cars to operate. It's power delivered, not the number of cylinders, that regulates gas consumption.

Costs Nothing to Try—Many people go back year after year and buy the same make of car. Others try the whole field before deciding. To both classes we issue a friendly challenge to try a Marmon and let the car itself do the selling.

A MARMON-BUILT STRAIGHT-EIGHT FOR EVERY PURSE

The Marmon 68 (illustrated) is only $1465. The Marmon 78 is $1965. In addition, there is the Roosevelt 8 at $995. (Prices at factory. De Luxe equipment at moderate extra cost).

New Nash Models Will Be Given Showing Oct. 6

Will Contribute New Influence to Fine Car Field, Factory States.

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 28.—Widespread rumors that the Nash Motors Co. is preparing to introduce an entirely new and revolutionary line of the famous "400" series Nash cars were confirmed here today by President C. W. Nash.

Company officials, who for weeks past have been intensively engaged in the carefully guarded activities at the Nash plants in Kenosha, Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., have completed final inspections of the new cars, it was learned this morning, and have approved the host of important engineering advancements which are said to be the result of more than three years of experimental work and practical development by the celebrated Nash engineering department and salon coachmakers.

While no details concerning the many mechanical advancements and new driving features of the forthcoming cars were revealed, it was intimated that they will contribute a completely new influence to the fine motor car field and will add something definitely finer to the efficiency and enjoyment of motoring. Following, as it does, the universal approval accorded the advanced design and performance attributes of the original "400" models, introduction of this new Nash group is considered one of the most important events of the automobile year, and one eagerly anticipated by all motorists.

Public announcement and display of the new Nash cars will take place Oct. 6, Nash declared today. At that time Nash dealers and distributers in all parts of the country will raise their showroom curtains on the glittering array of brand-new and epic-making cars.

Engineering Bulletin Gives Servicing Hints For Winter Driving and then drive the car two or three miles. The kerosene should then be drained from the transmission and differential and water drained from the radiator. A winter grade lubricant recommended by the car manufacturer should then be put in the transmission and differential.

Inspect the rubber hose connections, replacing if necessary, after which the radiator should be filled with clean water, and at the first anti-freeze solution should be added.

Next, drain oil from the engine; flush crankcase and put in a winter grade of oil.

If the oil filter has been in use for 10,000 miles install a new cartridge.

Inspect wiring and clean contacts; oil generator and starting motor and clean the armatures and brushes; set generator charging rate ahead for winter driving; check breaker points for proper spacing; replace spark plugs if used more than 10,000 miles; if used less than this, clean them; adjust gaps; clean battery with ammonia water solution; tighten terminals and grease with vaseline; inspect water level and if gravity reading is low, recharge.

Oil and grease all parts that require it.

Adjust brakes and reline if necessary.

The motorist should also examine the top of his car and will do much to preserve it if he will spend a few minutes in going over the top with a good grade of top dressing.

Many car manufacturers are now equipping cars with a summer and winter driving adjustment on the carburetors and the proper adjustment to the carburetor should be made at this time. The fuel and carburetor strainers should also be taken out and cleaned.

With these simple but highly essential adjustments, a winter of carefree driving should be enjoyed.

Touring Forts.

The Police Department of Chicago has added 17 large orange-colored, seven-passenger cruising cars to battle gangs. They are to be radio-equipped. Gun racks, tear gas bomb pockets, special mountings for alarms and searchlights are other features of the cars.

St. Louisan's Baby Auto, Built in Spare Time

Indications Point to Continued Demand In Auto Industry

their six-cylinder type, refining the motor wherever possible.

There has been an absence of freak body designs this year and it is believed the automotive industry has managed to get away from this type.

Strange as it may seem, there has been a considerable gain during 1929 in the number of open type cars that have been sold. Roadsters are in great demand, especially among the younger set. However, there has been an increase in phaetons, especially in the so-called higher priced class, and body engineers are giving a great deal of attention to refining these types of open cars.

This, it is believed, has been brought about by the great increase in the number of two-car families. This increase is born out by reports from the building interests, who say that the call for two-car garages is increasing daily. No more does the car owner want a one-car garage. He is planning on buying his second car.

Attention has been drawn to the motor truck during the last few months. The truck is coming into its own and sales this year have every indication of being greater than for the past several years. There are several reasons for this. Demand for light trucks on farms has been very heavy. Then, too, merchants have come into the market in large numbers for light commercial vehicles. More and more commercial cars are being exported.

Great gains have been made in heavy duty trucks in all sections of the world. These are great money savers, according to reports, and great strides have been made in economical operation of large trucks.

Bus chassis sales have increased at rapid rates. Many of the manufacturers of bus chassis do not make bodies and this has resulted in a rush of business to those plants who make commercial body types.

Many new bus lines have been installed and this, of course, has resulted in large sales for equipment.

Production at all the plants at the present time is going ahead at a good rate. There has been a seasonal decline in output but no slump.

Pipe Welding Course

A new course in pipe welding has been added to the curriculum of the American School of Welding, 3033 Locust boulevard. Increased demand from the heating and building trades, as well as from the operators of large gas adn oil pipe lines for skilled craftsmen of this type, was the factor responsible for inaugurating this separate branch of training, according to W. D. Patterson, general manager.

School for Stripping Cars.

Police in Philadelphia recently discovered a school for thieves, consisting of seven boys and a man, specializing chiefly in stripping parked automobiles. The school traveled in three automobiles, each containing a half-dozen spotlights, radiator cap ornaments, tires and fancy horns.

'Transmission-Minded' Are Busy Figuring Out New Gears

point to be observed in this connection is the fact that they lie on their sides.

With such an array of gears the average motorist may be justified in demanding an explanation of the significance of all this attention to a part which everyone anticipated would sooner or later become unnecessary. From all indications it appears that the modern transmission is the keynote of the new type of performance.

The underlying idea of the new transmissions is the public's demand for faster acceleration and power reserve. The man with a 90-horsepower engine finds that while he has a tremendous amount of power at his command he cannot get past the car ahead because the other fellow also handles a powerful car. He may need to get by, and so to him the manufacturers are offering the convenience of shifting to a lower high or to a high second gearing, which changes the actual gear ratio. Being able to rotate faster in proportion to the rotation of the rear wheels the engine develops more power. This gives the flash pickup.

By no means agreed as to how all this shall be accomplished the industry, nevertheless, recognizes that the ordinary noisy second gear with its much too low gearing is out of the picture. Drivers find that its top range is a car speed of a little over 25 miles per hour for comfort even though it is possible to run up to 40. With the newer transmission quiet, gear operation is obtained up to 50 or 55 in the low "high" or semidirect gear combination.

Properly used, it is believed that these newer transmissions will give their owners unusual performance as well as increased economy. It is a well-known fact that climbing hills in high gear is often more wasteful than in a gear that gives the engine more opportunity to develop power.

In some of the four forward speed gearsets the direct drive ratio is 3.65 to 1 as against 4.40 to 1 for high in conventional three speed cars. This, of course, offers economy of gas, oil and engine life, provided the driver will shift to semidirect for genuine hills and for fast traffic work even though the car climbs well enough without this co-operation on his part.

It begins to look like a new era for the gears. Instead of being cast aside, they are being pressed into the new service of helping the already large engine meet the new demands for power and acceleration.

Auto Duties Increased.

The existing high customs duties levied by Brazil on imported automobiles is raised higher by a recent Government interpretation. In the future the customs duties and other charges for importing an automobile will be about $475 on a car worth $1200 at Rio de Janeiro.

Parking on the Roof.

Because traffic congestion is costing Baltimore, Md., $14,000,000 annually, it has been suggested that roofs of buildings be utilized for parking cars. Engineers of national prominence may be summoned to that city to discuss the development of its parking facilities.

Presidents who have served during the 22 subsequent years, according to Lee, were O. L. Halsey, H. B. Krenning, F. R. Tate, Samuel Breadon, F. W. A. Vesper, Joseph A. Schlecht, P. H. Brockman, R. C. Frampton, H. F. Fahrenkrog, F. C. McDonald, George Weber, P. H. Brockman for the second time, and E. A. Hatfield, the incumbent.

Builds Midget Automobile at Outlay of $185

George S. Brauks Devotes Spare Time to His Unusual Hobby.

A midget automobile, with an 86-inch wheelbase and a tread of but 46 inches, has been built by George S. Brauks of 2846 Arlington avenue, employed in the repair shop of the Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co.

It is capable of making 60 miles an hour, will average 35 miles on a gallon of gasoline and has a 1927 Whippet four-cylinder motor.

Brauks started work on the machine last Christmas and completed it a month ago, working in his spare time. He estimates it cost him $185 for material and parts. The chassis and body are entirely homemade, even to the wheels, which carry 27x4.40-inch tires.

Wherever Brauks drives the machine, and he has made several trips, including one to Kansas City, Mo., he is surrounded by crowds of curious persons, who ask him innumerable questions. Their favorite query, he says, is, "Is that the new $200 car?"

A little less than five feet in height, the body yet has ample room for two passengers. It is so short that it can easily be turned in a narrow street and its parking performance is amazing.

"People might think I am foolish for spending so much time and money on this," Brauks said. "But I enjoy it, and what money I spend I save by not going to movies and other places of entertainment."

OLDSMOBILE PROVIDES PRESSURE LUBRICATED
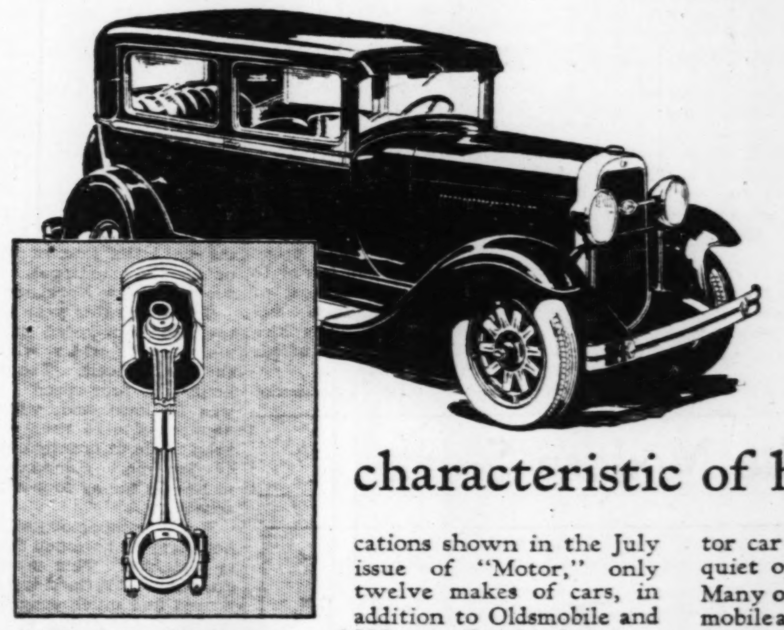
PISTON PINS



Here the piston wall has been cut away to show the piston pin. To this vital point of wrist-like action, where reciprocating parts move thousands of times a minute, Oldsmobile forces oil through the rifle-drilled connecting rod.

A feature characteristic of high-priced cars

Incorporated in the construction of Oldsmobile's big 62-horsepower engine are many features which have long been considered marks of high quality in automobile power plants.

Piston pins, for example, are pressure lubricated through connecting rods which are rifle-drilled throughout their entire length. Serving as connections between rods and pistons, the pins act constantly as bearing surfaces under great strain. The stress imposed by compression and combustion is enormous, and, to assure smoothness and long life, piston pins must be perfectly lubricated. And the only positive method of lubrication is by direct pressure from the oil pump through crankshaft and connecting rods. According to specifications shown in the July issue of "Motor," only twelve makes of cars, in addition to Oldsmobile and Viking, offer this feature—and the majority of these are priced above $2000. In Oldsmobile, all main, connecting rod, and camshaft bearings are also lubricated under pressure. This highly efficient method of lubrication is important to the buyer who seeks real motor car value—because it contributes to quiet operation and long life.

Many other advantages characterize Oldsmobile as a thoroughly fine motor car. Come in today and examine the car. Drive it yourself. Discover to your own satisfaction how much Oldsmobile's fine-car construction contributes to the excellence of Oldsmobile's performance.

Gross-Butler to Hold Showing of Graham-Paiges

Autumnal Display of Cars Ranging in Price From $970 to $4700.

A fall showing of the complete line of Graham-Peige cars will take place next Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the display rooms of the Gross-Butler Motor Co., 1817 Locust street, distrbuter.

Three lines of six-cylinder cars and two lines of eights, will be shown, according to Sol W. Gross, president. All have the four-speed transmission except the model 612, which lists for $970, delivered. The most expensive car in the exhibit sells for $4700, delivered.

Features of the showing will be several cars equipped with radio receiving sets, which cost $200 extra.

The showrooms will be appropriately decorated for autumn.

Due to the increasing popularity of roadsters and phaetons, these models will be shown, as well as coupes, coaches and sedans.

Due to the increasing popularity of roadsters and phaetons, these models will be shown, as well as coupes, coaches and sedans.

Too Many Street Noises.

England is to try the experiment of eliminating by Government regulation the nerve-racking street noises caused by motor horns, blattering trucks, cut-outs and roaring motor cycles.

A Dirty Trick.

Because answers to questions had been written in code on their finger nails, all applicants for automobile drivers' licenses in Ventura, Cal., must now wash their hands before undergoing the examination.

Fender and Body dents, both removable so easily these days, are most often responsible for the early acquisition of that "old car" look which so many new cars acquire quickly.

Federal Bureau Studies How to Re-refine Oil

Takes Up Task of Removing Foreign Substances; to Use Lubricant Again.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — Whether it is practical to re-refine oil drained from the crankcase of an automobile is the problem to which the Bureau of Standards has set its investigators. The investigation started when several Government departments requested the bureau to study devices already available. There have been devices for this purpose on the market for eight or 10 years, but the Government, as an operator of fleets of trucks, has had its attention engaged by the possibility of using crankcase oil over and over, just as other operators, and this puts the question into the hands of bureau investigators. The purpose is not to investigate devices as such, but merely to study re-finishing as a problem.

The purpose of such a device would be to make it possible for a fleet operator to refine his own oil. The scientists studying the problem are giving some attention to the method of collecting the oil. Frequently it is mixed with greases of varying quality, soap, and other dilutents that cause difficulty in the re-refinement process. This is a phase they feel is important since so much depends on it as a factor in the successful refining of the old oil.

Bureau scientists do not hesitate to say that re-refinement, if properly done, produces a lubricant that is at least the equal of the original oil. When the car owner changes his crankcase oil every 500 miles or so, he drains off a substance that is contaminated with dirt, unburned fuel and a quantity of carbon. These are the substances that must be removed by the re-refinement process. If it is successful, the resulting lubricant may even in some respects be improved to the extent that it has lost some of its less stable compounds. At least, it will not be any the worse for the harsh treatment it has had in the motor and later in the hands of the refiner.

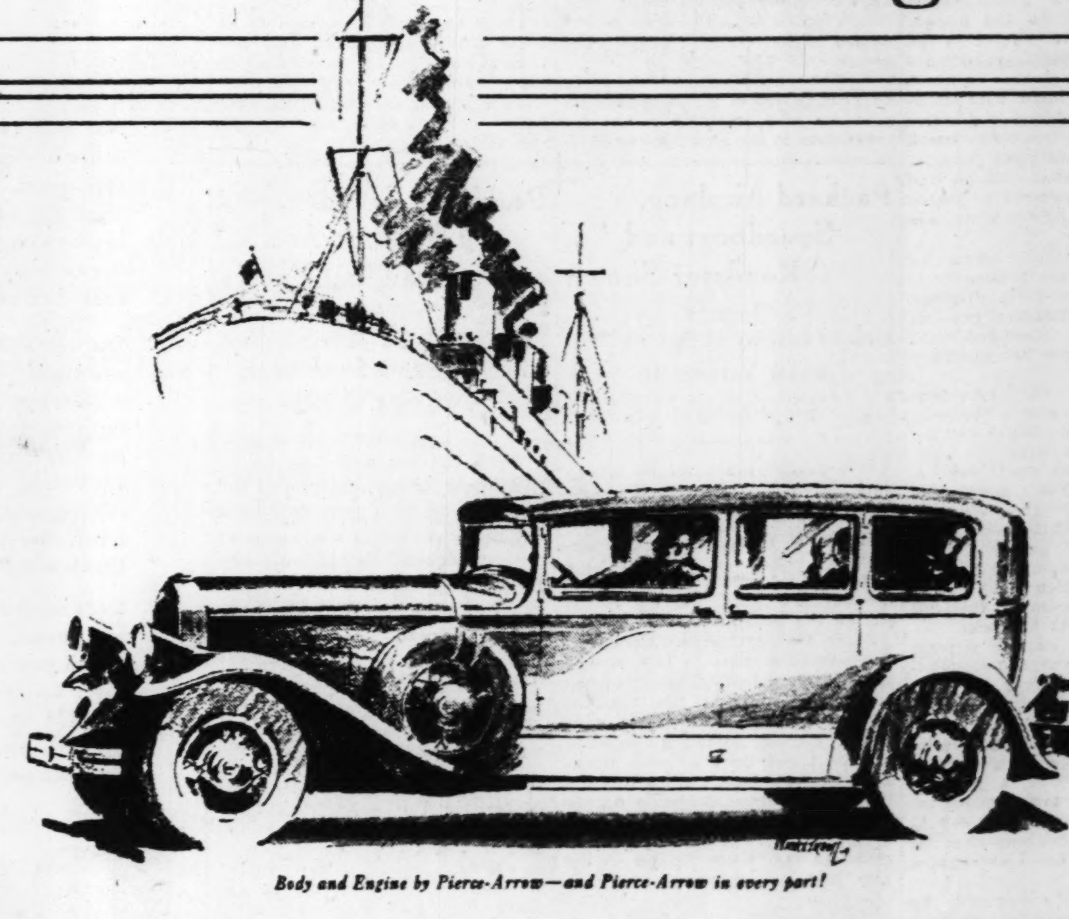
The season's most exclusive colorings



Body and Engine by Pierce-Arrow—and Pierce-Arrow in every part!

$2775 TO $8200
AT BUFFALO
In purchasing a car from income the average allowance on a good used car usually more than covers the initial Pierce-Arrow payment

The mode of the hour is of course consulted in the selection of new colorings by Pierce-Arrow. But there is an artistry employed in the process which is rare among automobiles.

The blending of certain shades and tones . . . the choice of fine fabrics to match . . . the development of combinations which exclude the commonplace . . . the harmonizing of interiors with exteriors. All are the concern of artists who are masters of decoration and guardians, as well, of the tradition that is Pierce-Arrow.

The result is a quality that sets this distinguished line apart. Also there is a definite limit to the number of Pierce-Arrows possible of creation each season—governed by certain fine processes of manufacture. And so today's exhibit of the new Pierce-Arrow colorings is one to be attended without delay.

De Luxe Models Of Pierce-Arrow Are Displayed

Equipment Like That on Custom Cars; 133-Inch Wheelbase.

Pierce-Arrow is displaying nationally this week examples of the new de luxe straight eight models which have just been announced by the factory. The new cars are being exhibited in most of the larger centers of the country.

Luxury has been carried to new heights in the new special cars, which represent the latest expression of the straight eight design introduced by Pierce-Arrow this year. Fitments and equipment ordinarily found only in the highest-priced custom cars are present in the new de luxe group, which likewise introduce striking fall colorings.

"The Pierce-Arrow straight eight is a completely new car in that the general exterior and interior design, every unit and every part is new and is not a modification or refinement of the design which preceded it," says George E. Willis, vice president in charge of sales. "In the straight eight is found every device of proved character known to the engineering of fine motor cars.

"The special de luxe models, just announced, represent a further development of our straight eight design which has met with such widespread success that Pierce-Arrow sales this year have been doubled."

The two new special models are the de luxe five-passenger sedan and the de luxe club sedan. Each is on the 133-inch wheelbase.

With unusual colorings, and special smart exterior equipment, the new cars present the most striking appearance of any of the straight eight group.

Wire wheels, distinguished by the large chrome Pierce-Arrow hubs, lend swank to the design. The two spares are carried in the fenders. Wood wheels are offered also at a slightly lower cost. A special design of hood with door-type ventilators adds a distinctive note. At the rear a handsome trunk containing three suitcases provides ample luggage space. Trunk and spare tires are lacquered to match the body color. Tire rims are chrome-plated.

The famous fender lamps of Pierce-Arrow, which reduce traffic hazards, are standard, although the conventional bracket type of lamp is optional. Grouped with the fender lamps are two auxiliary parking lamps.

Always famed for luxurious coachwork, Pierce-Arrow has outdone itself in the design of the interiors. The cushioning in appearance resembles that of a Cogswell chair. The finest of broadcloth, exquisitely tailored, with special beading, is used. Thick carpets of velvet, padded with ozite and lined with waterproof duck, provides a rich floor covering. Instead of ordinary foot-rail there are individual hassocks.

When only one or two persons are seated in the rear, a disappearing center arm rest is unfolded from the back, which ordinarily seats three.

An instrument panel of special custom design carries the usual dials, besides a clock, a gasoline gauge and engine temperature indicator. Lighters are provided in front and rear. Tiffany-like fitments and vanity cases distinguish the setting.

The new cars are powered by Pierce-Arrow's new eight-cylinder engine, which develops 125 horsepower and is credited with the fastest acceleration of any car on the market today. Built by the traditional Pierce-Arrow methods in Pierce-Arrow shops at Buffalo, N. Y., each engine undergoes a series of individual laboratory and road tests—a practice that has no parallel in the industry.

The prices of the de luxe models range from $3350 to $3590 at Buffalo, depending upon style and equipment. Other standard Pierce-Arrow models may be had for as low as $2775 at Buffalo.

Kentucky Covered With Network of Motor Bus Lines

By the Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 28.—Through extensions of present bus routes, and additions of new routes, Kentucky today is practically covered by a network of bus lines that connect the cities, towns and villages of the State with each other, as well as making connections at terminal points with bus lines going to other states.

The increase in the number of bus lines operating in and through Kentucky is shown in statistics prepared by . L. Henry, Commissioner of Motor Transportation. A total of 228 bus permits have been issued thus far this year. Of this number, 175 were renewals and 43 new permits. Nineteen interstate bus lines are now operating through Kentucky.

Blue Still Favorite Car Color, With Brown and Black Next

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 28.—Blue, with the dual personality of energizing or tranquilizing, depending upon the emotion of the beholder, continues to be the favorite garb of the well dressed automobile with the coming of fall.

Brown-beige, green, black, gray and maroon, according to a lacquer manufacturer follow as favorites.

The brighter blues, such as topgallant, circe and seafoam blue, are the strong favorites, said the statement, which added that all blue sexcept the lighter tints carry an association of darkness and this, coupled with the demand for darker shades for fall, adds to the prestige of blue.

Brown and beige, which carry an atmosphere of newness because of their comparatively recent introduction in the automobile industry, continue to be popular. Brown definitely outlines the contours of the automobile and suggests rugged stability and worth.

Such colors as thorne brown, rich loam, dryed brown, Lackawanna brown, Huguenot brown and zircon brown are named as among the popular shades for fall, and combinations of these shades are suggested to furnish a pleasing finish.

Green, which was the leading production color in the spring of 1928, has dropped to third place among the favorites, due probably, the statement pointed out, to the difficulty of employing it artistically.

Black and gray were said to be more firmly established this fall than at any time for many months. Some automobile manufacturers were reported experimenting with body colors of blue-black and green-black.

Packard Airplane, Speedboat and Roadster Shown

Unique Display at Detroit Illustrates Various Activities.

One of the most unique receptions ever held to introduce a new model car to the public was that with which Detroit was made acquainted with the new Packard eights. It depicted activities of the Packard Motor Car Co. in the air, on the land and on the water.

Some 6000 invitations were sent to Packard owners in Detroit and vicinity to attend the reception which was held at the Packard proving grounds. All of the wide variety of body models which make up the three lines of new Packards, the standard, custom and de luxe eights, were exhibited on the lawns which border the double driveway from the proving grounds lodge to the judges' stand at the two and one-half mile concrete speedway.

Midway along the driveway was Miss America VIII, fastest speedboat in the world—so placed that an opportunity was given for close inspection of its two 1100 horsepower Packard engines.

On the landing field inside the great concrete oval track was a Packard test airplane powered with the Packard Diesel type airplane motor. On the track itself was one of Packard's stock speedster cars which many times during the afternoon circled the oval at a speed of 114 miles an hour.

The Packard Diesel-engined plane made frequent flights demonstrating its power and general ability in the air before the crowd which at one time numbered 4000. At the end of each flight it was brought to the judges' stand on the track and left there for an interval so that it might be closely inspected by the public. Each time a crowd was packed about it.

Six Artists Give Color Advice to Studebaker Co.

Colors, finish, and appointments of current Studebaker cars, including the new Dictator eights and sixes recently announced, reflect the artistic judgment of six of the leading artists, designers and decorators in the United States, according to an announcement made by the Studebaker Corporation.

The style committee which has been acting in an advisory capacity to the corporation includes Helen Dryden, Mrs. Lee Simonson, Majorie Oelrichs, Neysa McMein, Rose O'Neill and Marion C. Taylor, women whose talents for true harmony in colors, in textures, in lines, curves and planes are world recognized.

Pan-American Rules.

A project for uniform regulation of international automobile traffic within the American republics was approved by the Second Pan-American Highway Congress during its recent meeting in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. The project includes provisions for right-hand traffic control, passing on the right on overtaking another vehicle, all vehicles approaching from the right have the right of way.

Problems Faced By Builders Are Changing Yearly

Plymouth Sales Manager Says Public Realizes Experiments Are Thing of Past.

"With the increased building of good roads in all portions of the country, and with motorists more and more extending the range of their automobile riding, many new problems in design and construction are presented to automobile engineers, according to A. Van Der Zee, general sales manager of the Plymouth Motor Corporation.

"In the early days of the automobile when it was still a novelty, the question asked by the prospective purchaser was 'Will it run?'" he says. "The real problem that confronted the automobile engineers then was to build the car so that it would run. Such features as comfort, economy of operation, dependability, stamina, speed and roadability were unthought of as qualities to be desired in an automobile. The public was skeptical and the engineers had to build their cars so that they would operate at least sufficiently to prove to the public that it could be done.

"Each new step in the development of the automobile through the years to the present time, however, has brought new realization to the motoring public that the automobile is no longer in the experimental stage. In mechanical construction it has been developed remarkably in its comparatively short existence, and new features and new qualities to be desired have been added from time to time until now, throughout the world, the automobile is considered a necessity."

C. C. Winningham, Inc., Made Advertising Agent for McCord

The McCord Radiator & Manufacturing Co., pioneer makers of automotive gaskets and the largest independent manufacturers of automobile, truck and tractor radiators in the field, has appointed C. C. Winningham, Inc., as its advertising and merchandising counsel. The McCord company, which developed the first cylinder head gaskets for motor cars, also manufactures all types of copper asbestos gaskets, industrial radiators, industrial and domestic heating radiators and refrigeration condensers, mechanical force feed lubricators for Diesel, oil and gas engines and Barlow fuel pumps for all automotive engines. It has plants in Detroit, Wyandotte, Plymouth, Ind., and Walkerville, Ontario.

Army Motor School.

The Quartermaster Corps of the regular army of the United States, in addition to maintaining and operating most of the motor transportation and equipment of the military establishment, conducts at Camp Holabird, Maryland, just outside the city of Baltimore, an institution known as the Motor Transport School. To this school each year come officers and enlisted men not only from the regular army but from the National Guard, organized reserves and United States Marine Corps as well.

Struck Train.

Because his car tore three steps from the train and endangered the lives of passengers, Louis O. Odder of Oyster Bay, Long Island, was found guilty of reckless driving. He was fined $25 for crashing into a Long Island Railroad train.

Interest Grows In Cord and Auburn Cars

C. E. Graves Reports Orders Cannot Be Filled; Big Waiting List.

The Auburn Graves Motor Co., Inc., newly appointed distributer for Auburn and Cord front drive automobiles in this territory, has been enjoying a tremendously large volume of business on both Auburn and Cord cars since they have taken over this new distributership. According to C. E Graves, president, orders for both Auburns and Cords have been coming in at least twice as fast as the company had anticipated and consequently they have had to keep customers on the waiting list.

During the first 20 days of September the company sold 41 new Auburn and Cord cars in their territory, the majority of which were retail sales out of the St Louis headquarters, and on Sept. 23 the company had six Cord orders for immediate delivery, unfilled, and over 10 Auburn car orders for immediate delivery, unfilled.

The Cord front drive has been creating great interest among automobile purchasers in St. Louis. Two St. Louisians who purchased Cord cars also purchased Auburn cars for other members of their families.

Indications are that all records for deliveries of Auburn cars in St. Louis will be broken this month.

Shackling the Shackles.

On a majority of the older cars, the spring shackles are adjustable. Some motorists entirely overlook this fact when protesting about the poor spring action of their cars. Others, going to the other extreme, take too much advantage of it. Getting the shackles too tight is an excellent way to shackle spring movement. That is just as uncomfortable as too much movement.

Outperforming all other low-priced sixes at lower cost than ever . .

Not only is the Pontiac Big Six outperforming all other low-priced sixes. Not only is it offering higher top speed, faster acceleration and greater power than any other six of its price. But, in addition, it is providing this unrivaled performance with amazing economy. Today's Pontiac is operating at lower cost than ever.

During 1928, a large public utilities corporation operated 996 automobiles of 33 different makes. And according to its own accurately recorded cost figures, its Pontiacs cost one cent less per mile to operate than any other low-priced six in the field at that time. Yet even that great record of economy is being surpassed by the Pontiac Big Six because of a number of refinements and advancements which this latest Pontiac includes.

Even with all its big car qualities—even with its big car power, pick-up and speed—the Pontiac Big Six offers you an actual dollars-and-cents saving. It gives you more of everything you want in an automobile. And does it—if you equal the average annual travel of 10,000 miles—at a saving of $100 or more per year.

FASTER Today's Pontiac Big Six offers the highest top speed and the fastest acceleration to be found in any low-priced six. Proved by the "fifth wheel"—the most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers.

SMOOTHER Because of the Harmonic Balancer which eliminates torsional crankshaft vibration—full pressure oiling which assures correct engine lubrication at any speed—crankcase ventilation which maintains the quality of engine oil—and many additional features.

MORE POWERFUL Sixty brake horsepower at 3,000 revolutions per minute. The greatest power offered by any car as low in price as Pontiac . . . developed at the moderate engine speed which assures dependability.

SAFER Because it carries two completely independent braking systems—internal-expanding four-wheel service brakes with non-squeak linings and a separate emergency brake acting on the transmission—because its bodies are of sturdy hardwood and steel construction—because it has full tread axles, front and rear.

MORE RELIABLE Because of its basic design, which includes moderate engine speed for any given road speed. Because of its greater smoothness which results in less wear and tear on mechanical parts. Because of the generous dimensions characteristic of all parts subject to stresses.

LONGER-LIVED Every Pontiac since the first has been famous for endurance and long life. And those features of design which gave early Pontiacs their unprecedented long life have been retained and emphasized in this greatest of all Pontiacs—today's Pontiac Big Six.

The Pontiac Big Six is available today in a variety of the season's most popular shades of Duco, enhancing the style and beauty of its Fisher bodies. AMERICA'S FINEST MEDIUM-PRICED AUTOMOBILE

New Company is Organized to Be Reo Distributer

Steiner - Fahrenkrog Company Will Have Two Places of Business.

The important events in the business career of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co., located at 4000 Page avenue for the past five years, occurred yesterday. One was the presentation to each of the members of the firm by the Reo Motor Car Co. of Lansing, Mich., of a diamond-studded button, each of the two diamonds in the button indicating dealer connection with that company for a period of 10 years or a total of 20 years of Reo selling for H. F. Fahrenkrog and Harry Steiner.

The other and still more important event was the appointment of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co. as distributer of the Reo lines in Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, including in Missouri such cities as Mexico, Moberly, Jefferson City, Columbia and communities in Southeastern Missouri such as Cape Girardeau, and in Illinois, southward from Macoupin County.

This appointment is consequent upon the retirement from the distribution of the Reo in St. Louis of the Reo Distributing Co., the partners of that company having important business interests in other cities enough to justify them in turning over the St. Louis distribution territory to the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co.

The new distributors have taken over the building of the Reo Distributing Co. at 2921-27 Locust street. For the present this building will be used exclusively for sales and emergency service work. The present location of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co., at 4000 Page boulevard, which it has occupied for the past five years, will be used for used car sales and for greatly improved service on Reo passenger cars and the Reo speedwagon truck line and Reo busses. The parts department will also be maintained there.

Eventually, it is expected that the company will lease or build a building probably on Locust or Washington boulevard better suited to house all of its interests and providing adequate service facilities for the heavy requirements of Reo trucks, Reo busses as well as the passenger car line. Leases on the present building on Locust and Page have from six to eight months yet to run.

The company i installing at the Locust street location a telephone exchange which is FRanklin 4100 to serve both establishments.

Twenty years' representation of a single line of automobiles is unusual in the automobile industry. Fahrenkrog began his connection with Reo sales in 1908 and Steiner joined the St. Louis Reo organization in 1909.

For many years Steiner has been known as one of the most productive salesmen in Automobile Row. All of his automotive experience has been with the Reo car and he has built a clientele of Reo buyers that is city-wide. His partnership in the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co. was formed five years ago. In the new setup he will have charge of the management with some attention given to service, efficient service being the outstanding desire of both members of the company.

Fahrenkrog was for many years secretary of the corporation of a previous Reo distributer in St. Louis even when the early location of the company was on Main street. He will be in charge of sales at the new location. He has been prominent in civic and political life in St. Louis. Some years back he was appointed by Mayor Kiel as a member of the St. Louis School Board, to fill out an unexpired term, and at the subsequent election he was elected a member of the School Board for a term of four years. He served one year as president of the board. Fahrenkrog was also president for two terms of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association and served half a dozen terms as director of that association and twice has been a member of the Automobile Show Committee of the association.

An extension program for Reo distribution of considerable importance is in contemplation and plans are for the appointment of many new dealers in the Missouri and Illinois territory under the control of the company. Included in this is greater attention to the sale of Reo busses complete with bodies and of the Reo speedwagon.

Curtiss Produces "Carrier Pigeon 2" To Haul Air Mail

A new air mail plane, capable of transporting heavier loads at higher speeds than any plane of its type yet tested and flown, has been developed by the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. This plane, named the Carrier Pigeon II, has carried a pay load of 2000 pounds at a maximum speed of 151 miles an hour in flight tests conducted at the Curtiss company's experimental plant at Garden City, L. I.

Another feature of the new plane is the provision of exceptional comfort for pilots under the arduous conditions encountered in maintaining United States air mail schedules.

The Carrier Pigeon II will be presented to operating companies holding air mail contracts and to the public for the first time when it takes off at Dearborn, Mich., Oct. 5, as one of the Curtiss company's three entries in the fifth national air tour for the Edsel B. Ford Reliability Trophy.

AUTOMOBILE

New Company is Organized to Be Reo Distributer

Steiner-Fahrenkrog Company Will Have Two Places of Business.

The important events in the business career of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co., located at 4000 Page avenue for the past five years, occurred yesterday. One was the presentation to each of the members of the firm by the Reo Motor Car Co. of Lansing, Mich., of a diamond-studded button, each of the two diamonds in the button indicating dealer connection with that company for a period of 10 years or a total of 20 years of Reo selling for H. F. Fahrenkrog and Harry Steiner.

The other and still more important event was the appointment of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co. as distributer of the Reo lines in Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, including in Missouri such cities as Mexico, Moberly, Jefferson City, Columbia and communities in Southeastern Missouri such as Cape Girardeau, and in Illinois, southward from Macoupin County.

This appointment is consequent upon the retirement from the distribution of the Reo in St. Louis of the Reo Distributing Co., the partners of that company having important business interests in other cities enough to justify them in turning over the St. Louis distribution territory to the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co.

The new distributors have taken over the building of the Reo Distributing Co. at 2921-27 Locust street. For the present this building will be used exclusively for sales and emergency service work. The present location of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co., at 4000 Page boulevard, which it has occupied for the past five years, will be used for used car sales and for greatly improved service on Reo passenger cars and the Reo speedwagon truck line and Reo busses. The parts department will also be maintained there.

Eventually, it is expected that the company will lease of build a building probably on Locust or Washington boulevard better suited to house all of its interests and providing adequate service facilities for the heavy requirements of Reo trucks, Reo busses as well as the passenger car line. Leases on the present building on Locust and Page have from six to eight months yet to run.

The company i installing at the Locust street location a telephone exchange which is FRanklin 4100 to serve both establishments.

Twenty years' representation of a single line of automobiles is unusual in the automobile industry. Fahrenkrog began his connection with Reo sales in 1908 and Steiner joined the St. Louis Reo organization in 1909.

For many years Steiner has been known as one of the most productive salesmen in Automobile Row. All of his automotive experience has been with the Reo car and he has built a clientele of Reo buyers that is city-wide. His partnership in the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co. was formed five years ago. In the new setup he will have charge of the management with some attention given to service, efficient service being the outstanding desire of both members of the company.

Fahrenkrog was for many years secretary of the corporation of a previous Reo distributer in St. Louis even when the early location of the company was on Main street. He will be in charge of sales at the new location. He has been prominent in civic and political life in St. Louis. Some years back he was appointed by Mayor Kiel as a member of the St. Louis School Board, to fill out an unexpired term, and at the subsequent election he was elected a member of the School Board for a term of four years. He served one year as president of the board. Fahrenkrog was also president for two terms of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association and served half a dozen terms as director of that association and twice has been a member of the Automobile Show Committee of the association.

An extension program for Reo distribution of considerable importance is in contemplation and plans are for the appointment of many new dealers in the Missouri and Illinois territory under the control of the company. Included in this is greater attention to the sale of Reo busses complete with bodies and of the Reo speedwagon.

Curtiss Produces "Carrier Pigeon 2" To Haul Air Mail

A new air mail plane, capable of transporting heavier loads at higher speeds than any plane of its type yet tested and flown, has been developed by the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. This plane, named the Carrier Pigeon II, has carried a pay load of 2000 pounds at a maximum speed of 151 miles an hour in flight tests conducted at the Curtiss company's experimental plant at Garden City, L. I.

Another feature of the new plane is the provision of exceptional comfort for pilots under the arduous conditions encountered in maintaining United States air mail schedules.

The Carrier Pigeon II will be presented to operating companies holding air mail contracts and to the public for the first time when it takes off at Dearborn, Mich., Oct. 5, as one of the Curtiss company's three entries in the fifth national air tour for the Edsel B. Ford Reliability Trophy.

Peerless Demand Greatest in 29 Years of History

"The demand for the new Peerless model 61A is greater than those for any developed in the 29 years of Peerless Motor Car Corporation history," Ralph B. Nettleton, general sales manager at the factory at Cleveland, states.

"This new car is the embodiment of Peerless style, prestige and performance of all time.

"We attribute its success to the fact that our engineers have designed for us a car with plenty of room, with the latest of mechanical innovations, furnished to meet the most fastidious tastes—at a popular price."

F. W. Slack, Peerless chief engineer, believes that the roominess and riding comfort of the new six-passenger sedan, model 61A, compares favorably with cars much higher in price than the Peerless.

"We are especially pleased with our designing of the 61A six-passenger sedan," he said. "Automotive engineers hav been trying for a long time to perfect a body large enough for an average American family without the use of auxiliary seats, and yet not too bulky in appearance. We feel we've attained that success in our new 61A six-passenger sedan. This model is streamline in every detail, and can comfortably accommodate six persons."

The car is luxuriously upholstered in the finest French mohair fabrics. The interior hardware furnishings are the latest patterns in silver.

Tire "Tuning" Prevents Wear On Balloon Tires

Tire "tuning" that will make car "shoes" run in perfect harmony with the road, is the latest novelty in auto service offered by the Meyer Tire Co., local distributer of Seiberling balloon tires.

Inflation pressure, tread cuts, brake and wheel alignment and adjustment—all these things, if neglected, may cause serious difficulties. By spending 10 minutes in a shop every month, it is pointed out, car owners can dismiss any thought of tire trouble from their minds.

Further Expansion Of U. S. Rubber Co.

Further expansion of the tire executive personnel of the United States Rubber Co. is announced by L. D. Tompkins, vice president and general manager of the tire department, with the appointment of two asssitants to the general manager. The appointees are Earle L Bryant, manager of the United States tire factory at Detroit, and Joseph F. O'Shaughnessy, who for the last five years has been director of sales of the articles division of the du Pont Viscoloid Co.

Cause of Traffic Jams.

There is one motor vehicle for every 85 feet of highway in the United States. Give each car a speed of 60 feet a second and the cars in this procession are less than one and one-half seconds apart when all are in motion.

Millions in Tax.

The gasoline tax revenues in the United States for next year are estimated at $100,000,000, as compared with $400,000,000 this year and slightly more than $300,000,000 in 1928.

Chrysler Talks To Dodge Men On Anniversary

Points to Achievements Since His Organization Took Over This Car.

"The restoration of Dodge Brothers Prestige" was the subject of a recent talk by Walter P. Chrysler to the executives of the Dodge Brothers organization on the occasion of the completion of the first year of Chrysler ownership of the vast Dodge properties.

Chrysler pointed out that under the management of the Chrysler organization, the Dodge Brothers six has shown a gain in sales 57 per cent greater than that of the former Victory six in the year before Chrysler acquired Dodge. The increase in Dodge Brothers truck, bus and coach business for the same period has also been substanital, Chrysler added.

In this first year of Chrysler ownership of Dodge Brothers, plant efficiency has been greatly increased under the direction of K. T. Keller, vice-president in charge of all Chrysler Motors manufacturing and general manager of Dodge Brothers. Engineering design, quality of materials and craftsmanship has been further improved with a corresponding increase in the value of the product. The great Dodge Brothers dealer organization, always one of the strongest in the industry has grown still stronger.

Much of this growth in volume and in prestige Chrysler attributes to the restoration of the policies established in the business 15 years ago by John and Horace Dodge, and to the re-establishment of the name of Dodge Brothers in the motor car markets of the world.

"Under the ownership which preceded Chrysler, there appeared a tendency to get away from the name of Dodge Brothers, and from the prestige for value, dependability and mechanical excellence which that name had so long carried," Chrysler said. "While the company was still known as Dodge Brothers, its cars were known as the Victory six, the standard and the Senior six. The trucks, busses and motor coaches manufactured by the company were sold under the name of Graham Brothers.

"To the Chrysler organization, our purchase of these great properties brought three assets of incalculable value—the vast and fine manufacturing facilities in these splendid plants, the soundly established and aggressive organization of Dodge dealers, and the name of Dodge Brothers."

American Exports To Europe Growing, Hudson Director Says

"American motor manufacturers can look forward to continued prosperity so far as Great Britain and Continental Europe are concerned," said Courtney Johnson, general sales manager and a director of the Hudson Motor Car Co., who has just returned from an extended tour of these countries.

"Our own Hudson and Essex cars are enjoying a real tribute. We are selling more six-cylinder cars in the European countries than any other American manufacturer, and more than a third of all passenger cars imported to England are Essexes.

"The British, French and Germans are mechanically minded. They are shrewd judges of value because money is not so easy to get and they cannot be extravagant; also, they are keenly critical of the appearance of their cars.

"It is therefore a significant tribute to American mechanical genius that we can produce automobiles that come up to these high standards on a production basis and at a volume price.

"There is now a wide appreciation of American manufacturing methods. There was a time in the not distant past when the Europeans were inclined to doubt the value of a product which was produced in such quantities. However, American automobiles have been tested many years in rough going on European roads and they have not only stood up but have retained the distinctive beauty which commends them throughout the world."

Cramer Brothers Named Service And Sales Agent

Cramer Brothers, Inc., 2616 N. Thirteenth street, has been made an authorized sales and service station for ignition and speedometer equipment of the Northeast Electric Co. of Rochester, N. Y.

John Schalk, who has had 15 years' experience in automobile electrical repair work with Cramer Brothers, will be in charge of this department. The necessary servicing equipment has been installed and a complete stock of replacement parts will be kept on hand.

Texas Leads.

Of the 29,252 miles of highway improvement by the 48 states in the Union during 1928, Texas led with 2356 miles. Kansas, with 1785 miles, ranked second; Arkansas, with 1673, was third. Iowa improved 1345 miles, and Illinois 1344, ranking fourth and fifth, respectively.

3,220,000 New Cars.

Upwards of 3,220,000 new passenger automobiles were purchased in the United States in 1928, and 2,213,000 old cars were scrapped. New York, with 304,800 new cars, headed the list. Pennsylvania, with 222,600, and Ohio, with 215,000, were second and third.

Auburn-Graves Co. Adds Two Men To Sales Force

Fred Henseick, formerly president of the Henseick-Nash Co., and William Schreiber, formerly owner of his own used car company, joined the selling organization of the Auburn-Graves Motor Co., Inc., during the past week. Both are extremely well known in automobile circles, having been in the automobile business during the greater part of the last 20 years.

Among some of the other well-known men in the selling organization of the Auburn-Graves company are George Walde, formerly vice president of the Mound City Automobile Co; Bruce Armstrong, formerly head of another automobile dealership in St. Louis; Lloyd Graf and J. H. Sotherlin, formerly with the Southwest Nash Co.

Auto Thieves Active.

A total of 3711 automobiles, representing a value of $2,514,832, have been stolen in Philadelphia, Pa., during the past eight months. So far 623 more cars have been stolen this year than in the same period of 1928.

Readjustment of Air Mail Rates to Be Considered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Air mail rates, readjustment of which has become the announced policy of the United States Post Office Department, will be the subject of a conference Monday. Standard accounting sheets on which contract operators have made detailed reports of their enterprises during the past six months have given the Department more effective operating cost data than in the past.

At a conference on the same subject last spring, it was decided to defer further action on the rate question until more effective and complete cost data was compiled. This has been done and contract operators have been summoned to discuss the subject more actively with Department officials.

Extension of contracts for a 10-year period from the beginning of operation is one of the objectives of the negotiations. The question, of course, is closely related to the future of effective rates.

National Battery Owners Given Protection Bond

One of the contributing factors to the popularity of National batteries in St. Louis is the protection offered to the battery owner in the form of a bond posted with the National Surety Co. of New York, guarantying perfect performance for from one to three years, depending on the type of battery.

In less than two years' operation in the St. Louis territory, more than 70 official National battery stations have been established, according to B. P. Rollet, district sales manager.

Graham-Paige Wins Argentina Road Race

Road racing is becoming more and more popular to Argentina, and the present season has brought out some remarkable performances by stock models. American cares largely predominate.

A typical road event was the 350-kilometer race at Venado-Turto for stock cars, in which all but three of the entries were of American make. The course was 20 kilometers around an irregular circuit of dirt roads, with four bad corners.

A most remarkable performance at the turns was a factor in the victory of the four-speed Graham-Paige, which finished well in the lead. Its pilot approached each corner at high speed, then shifted to third. By thus utilizing the superior acceleration of the lower gear, he passed the cars that were obliged to remain in high power.

Only a few more dollars for its Top Quality
Top Performance
Top Value!

Only a few dollars more per month than the lowest-priced cars on the market to own and enjoy this fine and beautiful Essex Super-Six.

That little difference buys the top quality, top performance and top value of this field. Instead of a lesser car you have the unquestioned leader. Instead of a compromise you have the best—a big Super-Six, fine appearance, rich upholstery and appointment, outstanding performance and riding ease, and foremost reliability of the year. For any car at all comparable to Essex you must pay a much higher price.

Those who want roomy cars—room for five adults in the five-passenger cars—find that kind of generous roominess. There is plenty of head and leg room, too. There is unexpected quality in the hardware and upholstery. Such fineness is not limited to things that can be seen. The seat springs are made to give lasting service. The doors and windows are made to give protection and stay in condition.

These are but a few of the 76 advantages you will find in Essex the Challenger. Go inspect the others and let your judgment of values decide.

At St. Louis Airfields

THE addition of a new assembly building and dope plant and the installation of several of the latest milling and stamping machines makes the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co. plant one of the most complete and modern aircraft factories in the United States.

With the addition of milling and stamping machines and a heat treating process in charge of an expert, wing spars and other metal parts, previously manufactured at the Curtiss plant at Buffalo, N. Y., are now made here. The new assembly building has an area equal to that of the original plant and is required to handle the production of the Curtiss Thrush, six-place cabin monoplane. The first Thrush fuselage made here came off the jig Thursday. Unlike most metal fuselages, the Thrush frame has rivited joints, used in military pursuit ships. The production schedule for the Thrush has not been completed, but it is expected it will equal that of Robin planes, which are turned out at the rate of 18 a week.

Lambert Field Grandstand.

Lambert-St. Louis Field is to have a grandstand. An area 120 feet long by 12 feet wide on the roof of the Robertson Airplane Service Co., at the center of the building group on the west side of the airport, is to be fitted up with seats and a canopy. It is estimated that 250 chairs can be installed on the roof, which is ideally situated as a judges' stand for air races and similar events.

To Attempt Free-Fall Record.

Corp. Phil Brennan, Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, is preparing for an attempt to break the record of 9600 feet for a free fall before opening a parachute. He plans to go to an altitude of 15,000 feet before jumping. In order that the attempt may be official, a sealed barograph is being obtained from Washington.

Curtiss School Registrations.

Registrations are being received for the second term of the special ground school course conducted by the Curtiss Flying School in the Syndicate Trust Building.

The course, comprising 25 lectures, covers the aviation industry generally. Instruction is made realistic through the use of a wind tunnel in which students operate a model plane. Rodger F. Becker, author of texts on aircraft engines, is in charge of the ground instruction. The second term will start Oct. 15.

Another Ryan to Pickwick.

The Ryan Aircraft Corporation delivered the ninth Ryan brougham to the Pickwick Latin-American Airways Co. last week. The planes are used in passenger service between Guatemala City and Los Angeles. In the last 18 months the Ryan company has sold 31 planes and spare parts, valued at $400,000, in foreign countries. Nine of the planes are now operating in China and 10 in Mexico.

28 in Von Hoffmann Class.

A class of 28 students started work at the Von Hoffmann Flying School last week. Twenty are taking the mechanics' course.

Approval of Barling Planes.

Approved type certificates have been issued by the Department of Commerce for the Velie and Genet powered Barling NB-3 planes, made at Marshall, Mo.

Dirigible Pioneer a Visitor.

Jean Nazely, who flew the first dirigible over the Cleveland (O.) public square in 1911, was a visitor in St. Louis last week. Nazely is connected with the Wright Engine Co.

Curtiss Robin Sales.

Two Curtiss Robins powered with Wright J-6 engines, were sold through Curtiss Flying Service to Dr. W. B. Dallas, Jefferson City, and Frank Peck, California, Mo. Peck, who is head of the Germanic Woolen Mills, and Dr. Dallas, president of the Mutual Insurance Association, both made solo flights recently.

New Airport Near Nashville.

Interstate Airlines, Inc., operating a feeder air mail line out of St. Louis, will open a new airport 28 miles from Nashville, Tenn., on Oct. 14. The field is lighted for night landings.

Capt. Young in Ford Tour.

Capt. Russell Young, commander of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service and test pilot for the Ryan Aircraft Corporation, will fly a Ryan brougham in the Ford reliability tour, which starts from Detroit, Mich., next Saturday. Other St. Louisans participating in the tour will be Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, endurance flight champions, who will fly Robins.

Ray Fortner a Visitor.

Ray Fortner, former St. Louis-Chicago air mail pilot, was a visitor at Lambert Field during the week. Fortner was taken off the air mail route and placed in charge of one of the tri-motored planes operated by Universal between Cleveland, O., and Garden City, Kan., last spring. He recently was transferred from Kansas City to Cleveland.

R. D. Newton, who flew the air mail with Fortner, is now operating manager for the Universal System at Garden City, Kan.

S. A. F. E. Ticket Agencies.

Southwest Air Fast Express, operating from St. Louis to Dallas and Sweetwater, Tex., has established ticket agencies at Detroit, Mich., and Cleveland and Cincinnati, O., through the automobile clubs at those cities.

Night Air Mail Service.

The first night air mail service from St. Louis will be inaugurated next Tuesday to Kansas City and Omaha.

The service will be operated by the Universal Aviation Corporation, holding the St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha mail contracts. Boeing biplanes, with an open cockpit for the pilot and an inclosed cabin for four passengers, will be used. Planes from St. Louis will reach Omaha about midnight, making connection with the trans-continental line to the west coast. From Omaha planes will arrive at St. Louis at 7:30 a. m.

Students' Barracks Nearly Ready.

The addition to the students' barracks at the Von Hoffmann Flying School is nearing completion. The new building will have accommodations for 50 students. It is a one-story structure and will be finished in cream colored stucco.

Ensign Revisits St. Louis.

Ensign Clarence M. Ellicock, formerly of St. Louis, visited officers of the local Naval Reserve aviation section recently. Ensign Ellicock now resides in Detroit, Mich., and is a student at the University of Michigan.

Ensign Emerson A. Austin of the local unit has completed 20 days' active duty at the Great Lakes aviation base.

Runway Nearing Completion.

Construction of the new asphalt runway at Lambert-St. Louis Field has placed a temporary limitation on the landing area. The work is progressing rapidly.

Airport Board Luncheon.

The Municipal Airport Commission will hold its next meeting Thursday at Lambert Field and will be entertained at luncheon in the Robertson Service Co. hangar. Means of deriving revenue from the operation of the airport will be discussed.

Part of Lindberg's Ford in Use.

Col. Lindbergh's old Ford car is still in use. After his trans-Atlantic flight Lindbergh donated the coupe to members of the Thirty-fifth Division air unit. Someone had an accident with the machine and it did not run so well. Recently Staff Sergt. Jim Bothne purchased a Ford chassis and installed the body of the Lindbergh Ford on it.

Two Condors in Service.

Two 18-passenger Condors are now in regular service through St. Louis over the T. A. T. route. The big ships land as slowly as an old type Standard.

Cardinal 90-H. P. Ready Soon.

The first Cardinal monoplane with 90-horsepower engine is about ready to come off the assembly line at the St. Louis Car Co. The Cardinal is now being offered with both 60 and 90 horsepower engines.

Special Robin Delivered.

A special Robin monoplane, painted in blue and yellow, was delivered yesterday to the Goodyear Rubber Co. The plane has the Goodyear emblem on the fuselage.

Sight-Seeing Flights.

Larry Fritz and R. W. Cantwell, officials of Southwest Air Fast Express, who have headquarters at Tulsa, Ok., visited the local office of the line during the week. The line will resume sight-seeing passenger service at Lamber Field this afternoon.

H. B. Weeks Joins Curtiss.

Herbert B. Weeks, a graduate of the aerial photography course at Scott Field, has joined Curtiss Flying Service here.

Takes First Plane Rise at 83.

Lee Tlapek, 83 years old, president of the Cape Girardeau (Mo.) Telephone Co., and Mrs. S. E. Thory, 75 years old, of St. Louis, took their first airplane rides last week. Tlapek flew from his home to St. Louis with E. B. Gray, salesman for Curtiss Flying service.

Brakes on Airplanes.

Joe Read, airplane sales manager for the Universal Aviation Corporation, who is credited with the first practical application of brakes on an airplane, addressed the Society of Automotive Engineers at the Engineers' Club last week on the use of brakes on planes.

Stribling's Brother Flying.

Herbert Stribling, brother of "Young" Stribling, heavyweight pugilist, visited officers of the Von Hoffmann Flying School during the week. Stribling took some flying instruction here last spring and plans to complete his course following a trip to Europe. His brother is a transport pilot, owning two planes.

Qualified as Pilots.

The following graduates of Parks Air College qualified as limited commercial pilots following examination by Inspector Wiggs: Millard Rothwell, Breckenridge, Minn.; Chester Sawicki, 1544 North Ninth street, St. Louis; Graydon Ballard, Willow Springs, Mo.; Thomas Livermore Jr., Sarasota, Fla., and Verne Pape, Dubuque, Iowa.

To Handle Travel-Air.

Curtiss Flying Service is arranging to take over the sale of travel-air planes in the St. Louis territory.

Flyer Hurt on Cycle.

"Howdy" Wilhelmj, veteran Lambert Field pilot, returned home from Champaign, Ill., where he spent the summer, with a resolution to stay off motor cycles., Wilhelmj says he was aboard a cycle that was traveling at the rate of 86 miles an hour when a tire blew out, sending him to the hospital for eight weeks.

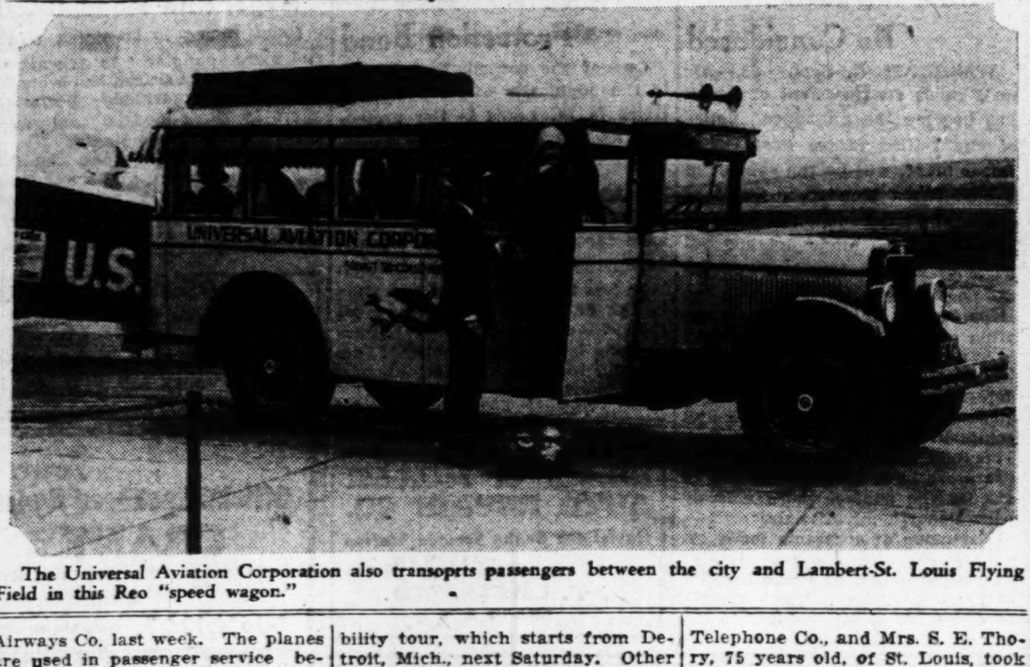
Inspect Von Hoffmann.

The Von Hoffmann Aircraft School is again being inspected by the Government inspectors, Leonard Jurden and George Marriott. The reason for this second inspection is because the first inspection was stopped when it was discovered that the Lambert-St. Louis flying field was inadequate to meet Government requirements. Now that this has been corrected and the field is up to the minute, the inspection of the Von Hoffmann Aircraft School is again in order.

Donated Programs.

The Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co. donated the printing of 10,000 official souvenir programs for the Gordon Bennett International Balloon Race. These balloon races are sponsored by the Air Board of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and will attract an unusually large crowd of people to view this unusual event.

Universal Runs 12-Passenger Observation Bus



The Universal Aviation Corporation also transoprts passengers between the city and Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field in this Reo "speed wagon."

RAY W. BROWN

R. W. Brown Made Sales Manager for Parks Air College

Ray W. Brown, one of the most widely known executives in the aviation industry, has been appointed general sales manager of Parks Air College, Inc., and will be in entire charge of the sale of the Parks line of airplanes, it is announced by Harry P. Mammen, president of Parks Air College.

To take the new position Brown resigned last week as general sales manager of the Travel-Air Manufacturing Co., a position he has held during the past four years. Under his guidance, the sales direction of the Wichita airplane company has become one of the largest airplane manufacturing concerns in the United States. Brown himself is a pilot and as general sales manager of the Travel-Air company has made all his sales calls by airplane. He is a graduate of the army flying school and served as a flying officer during the World War. He will take up his duties with Parks Air College, Inc., at once, according to Mammen.

Brown is the first new executive to be retained by Parks Air College since it was purchased by the Detroit Aircraft Corporation two weeks ago for more than $1,000,000.

A CURTISS Flying Course!
Within the Reach of Everyone

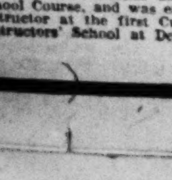
No matter what your present occupation may be—from office boy to president—the Curtiss Flying Course opens up a new field—a new interest—new and greater opportunities! The Curtiss Flying Course is conducted on Tuesday and Friday evenings in our class rooms in the Syndicate Trust Building—young men, women and business men of prominence are enrolled—study in aviation from the ground up—an easy to understand course, yet thorough in every detail.

THESE PROMINENT MEN WILL DIRECT YOUR STUDIES

Major C. Ray Wassal is a war-time flyer who continued to apply his unusual war experiences to commercial flying after the war.

Later he became Commanding Officer of the Thirty-fifth Division Aviation of Missouri National Guard.

Major Wassal was chief pilot of the refueling crew of the victorious Curtiss Robin on its endurance flight of Jackson and O'Brine.



Roger F. Becker

Mr. Becker is a graduate from the University of Michigan.

His later years have been devoted to aeronautical teaching and educational work. He is co-author with Dr. Gerhardt of the present Curtiss Ground School Course, and was engine instructor at the first Curtiss Instructors' School at Detroit.

Here's What the Course Contains:

The airplane—and parts. How the airplane lifts. How the airplane is propelled. How the airplane is stabilized and controlled. Maneuvering the airplane in safe flying. Performance of aircraft. Giving the airplane proper strength. Materials used in airplane construction. The airplane engine. Carburetion. Valves and Valve Gear. Ignition. Lubrication. Trouble shooting and field repair. Proper airplane maintenance. How engines and accessories are produced, and many other pertinent subjects for business men—mechanics—advertising men—salesmen, etc.

A Free Folder for You—Brimful of Interest

Pierce-Arrow Adds Convertible Sedan To Customs Group

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 28. — A convertible sedan which introduces a number of innovations in body design is announced by Pierce-Arrow as an addition to its custom de luxe group of straight eight models. This new body creation, by Dietrich, resembles in many respects the work of some of Europe's most notable designers.

A striking feature of this new body is that it can be easily converted into four distinct body types; an enclosed drive limousine, or a sedan, or a phaeton, or a sport phaeton with a tonneau windshield The change to any of these types can be quickly made. The top is so constructed that it folds back into a neat, compact form behind the rear seat. Patented lock-joints hold all movable parts rigid when the car is used as a sedan or limousine.

The new convertible sedan is mounted on the 143-inch wheelbase chassis and is powered by the new 125-horsepower straight eight engine. It is offered in an unlimited range of striking color combinations, with upholstery in rich, hand-buffed leather of colorings to match. It is equipped throughout with Duplate laminated nonshatterable glass.

Essex Designed To Give Easier Riding Qualities

Improved Road Conditions Permit Advances in Engineering.

Comfort producing features of lower priced cars have led the way in crystallizing public opinion of automobile riding qualities. All cars have shown an enormous improvement from a riding standpoint in response to this public demand. Motorists are no longer content to ride around behind so many horsepower.

Cars are lower and springs are softer, but these improvements would not be possible but for improved road conditions over the country. It cannot be denied that on certain types of roads, care has to be taken over the rough spots or the springs will bottom more than they should. But, according to the chassis engineers, why design a car for rough roads when more than 90 per cent of the travel is on smooth roads.

This is very true. It is the direct reverse of the spring suspension situation compared to what it was a few years ago. At that time so much of the travel was over roads that were bad that if the car were not primarily designed for rough roads it would be generally unsatisfactory. The result was that the fine riding qualities that we have today over the average road did not exist.

Today there are practically no towns in the United States of over 5000 population that are not located on the hard road system. It is easy to see why the car should be designed for smooth roads. In other words, a greater amount of spring flexibility can be allowed under minor road shocks. When the springs are backed up with good shock absorbing devices that prevent excess jar or recoil under bad conditions, an almost perfect combination exists.

For instance, features not ordinarily found in medium priced cars are standard practice in Essex the Challenger. Starting with the power plant, we find the famous super-six principle employed. This involves the balancing, within strict limits, of each working part, thus eliminating at the source, vibrations inherent in any internal combustion engine.

Body construction of a type usually found only in the higher priced cars is used. Seats and back cushions are extra wide and deep. The springs used in these seats and cushions embody the latest engineering design and assure riding comfort. An exhaustive research was conducted by Hudson engineers to determine comfortable seat posture and this research resulted in the adoption of adjustable seats that provide an easeful ride for the passenger though he be tall or short.

In the chassis, splayed springs of extra length and strength make for easy riding over even the roughest roads, and this riding ease is further controlled and enhanced by the use of hydraulic shock absorbers of an efficient type.

Fokker Building $300,000 Plant At Los Angeles

The Fokker Aircraft Corporation will erect a $300,000 unit factory at Los Angeles for the construction of the new Fokker F-32, the largest passenger transport plane in America. The move is one of the first steps of expansion under the Fokker company's affiliation with General Motors Corporation.

The new factory will be constructed on a 33-acre tract adjoining the Alhambra Airport of the Western Air Express. The factory will employ 500 men at the start and expand its force as other factory units are added.

As soon as the factory is completed, it will go into production, producing one of the big transport Fokker F-32 ships every week. It is probable that htis schedule will be doubled within 18 months.

New Car for King.

A six-wheeled automobile, with detachable rubber caterpillar treads, which can travel 60 miles an hour on the open road, has been built for King George of England. It is designed to travel over the roughest moors and broken ground, and even over ploughed land.

Sale of Eights In Missouri in 1929 Doubled

Studebaker Survey Reveals Increase of 76 Per Cent Above $1000 Class.

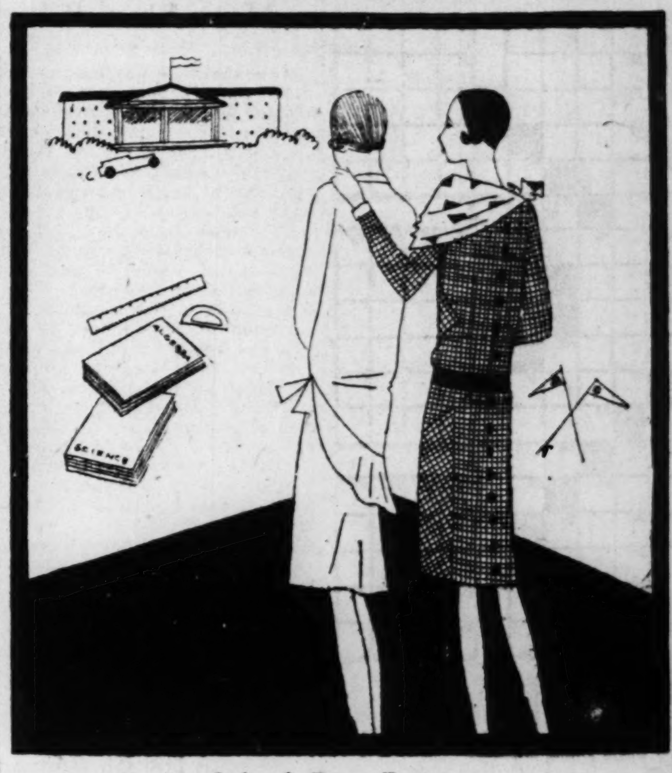
The rising tide of popularity for the eight-cylinder car is revealed in an interesting survey of passenger car registrations just made public by the Studebaker Corporation of America through Al Lurie of the Lurie Motor Car Co., Studebaker-Erskine distributer here.

During the first seven months of 1929 Missouri motorists purchased nearly twice as many eights as they did during the same period last year. Registrations of eight-cylinder cars above $1000 increased 76 per cent, while six-cylinder cars in the same price class showed a decrease of 16 per cent.

The growing preference for the eight, and the corresponding decline in six-cylinder registrations is brought out by registration figures throughout the country. In the 43 States where the statistics were available, total registrations of cars above $1000 show an increase of 94 per cent for eights compared to a decrease of 18 per cent for sixes Registration figures for five States and the District of Columbia do not classify cars by motor types, and were therefore not included in the survey.

All but two States of the 43 showed a decline in the registration of sixes above $1000. In Nevada and New Mexico six-cylinder registrations in this price field increased 38 per cent and 2 per cent respectively, while eight-cylinder registrations gained 138 per cent and 107 per cent. The only State where eight-cylinder registrations failed to increase during this seven-month period is Mississippi, where sales of both eights and sixes fell off.

Motor Modes



School Day Dresses.

SCHOOLS do have a habit of opening in the fall in the most provoking manner, but it really is exciting, there's no getting around it and there's always the fun of seeing new faces, greeting the familiar ones, finding out the name of the new roommate, etc. Two suitable school dresses are sketched above. The dress at the left is dark blue wool with the fulness all concentrated on the right side. The circular flounce ties in a small bow on the left hip. The collar and cuffs are white organdy. The youthful model at the right is blue and white checked silk wtih large blue buttons down the back. The wide belt is blue suede and the triangular scarf is blue and red in harmonizing shades. A dark blue leather jacket and red beret or a blue wool coat trimmed with fur and a velvet turban might complete these costumes.

Franklin Custom Models Will Be Shown Abroad

Following the wide acclaim that met the air-cooled Franklin cars at the International Salons in Paris and London last year, the Franklin Automobile Co. of Syracuse, N. Y., will again be among the exhibitors at the 1929 salons in those two capitals of the Old World.

At the Paris show, which opens on Oct. 3, Franklin will display two of its newest designs: a speedster model, close coupled and seating four, and a model 130 convertible coupe, just introduced. In addition to the two cars there will also be on exhibit the latest type of Franklin air-cooled engine. A supplementary exhibition will be maintained in the Rue de Belles Feuilles.

At the Olympia show in London, which follows shortly after the Paris salon, Franklin will exhibit two chassis with English-built custom bodies designated as "sportsman's coupe." These models are four-passenger types with a single door on each side.

In addition, various standard types of Franklin cars also will be shown at both of the international exhibits.

is more than "miles per gallon"

Owners tell you the Dodge Six is unusually economical on gas and oil. They emphasize, too, that this constitutes only one item in its economy. Big, durable, oversize tires mean higher mileage. Body construction is such that utmost strength and rigidity are secured with a minimum of weight. The extra-large clutch—massive 7-bearing crankshaft—8-bearing rear axle—8-inch frame—permanently efficient internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—together with a score of unseen but all-important mechanical superiorities, insure that never-failing dependability which is the foundation of Dodge Six economy.

Learn From New Ones.

One of the latest points to which engineers have given their attention is better differential lubrication. It should suggest to owners of older cars that extra precautions are necessary in the maintenance of this vital part. If there is room for improvement, then naturally there is room for greater attention before those improvements arrive.

Neuwoehner Made Sales Manager of Moon Retail Branch

Announcement has been made by C. W. Burst, president of the Moon Motor Car Co., that Hi Neuwoehner, who formerly had charge of the northwest district for the factory, has been made general sales manager of the retail organization at 3114 Washington avenue.

The Moon Motor sales is a separately incorporated company which handles the wholesale and retail distribution of Windsor White Prince cars in this territory. The elevation of Neuwoehner to his new post was brought about by the fact that A. H. Rederer, president of the retail organization, will in the future devote the major portion of his time to the development of the firm's wholesale business.

"Hi," as Neuwoehner is familiarly known along automobile row, has had wide experience in the automotive field. Several years ago he was employed at the Moon factory and held several important positions with them, the last of which was the post of northwest district manager with offices in Minneapolis.

Pennzoil Co. Is Improving Its Equipment

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 28.—Many improvements to equipment are now under way at the two plants of the Pennzoil Co., which, when completed, will make motor oil output of this large refiner and marketer considerably greater than it is now.

Additions to the filter department and boiler plant, more Sharples machines and special chilling equipment for making low cold test oils, an enlarged water works and complete new laboratory are being added. A complete new vacuum distillation unit also will soon be placed in operation.

Most of this expansion program was made necessary by the tremendous increase in demand for Pennzoil for lubrication of automobiles and airplanes.

South Penn Oil Co., the largest producers in the Pennsylvania field, are now drilling 500 new wells which are coming in daily and assure an adequate supply of Pennsylvania crude for the future needs of the refining and marketing company—Pennzoil.

Oakland Service School to Open Soon for Year

PONTIAC, Mich., Sept. 28.—The Oakland-Pontiac Dealers' Service Mechanics Training School—one of the many safeguards by which the Oakland Motor Car Co. protects the investment of its car owners—will reopen here soon it is announced by R. A. Armstrong, service manager.

The school, whose students are selected from among the 20,000 Oakland-Pontiac mechanics in all parts of the United States, proved highly successful after its opening last spring, but was closed during the busy season because many of the dealers could not spare their service men at that time.

Viking Motors Given Severe Tests Before Going on Chassis

Tests and inspections which prove quality and performance ability are given every Viking engine before it is placed in a chassis and shipped from the Oldsmobile-Viking factories. This method insures that every engine leaving the plant meets the high requirements called for by the engineers and manufacturers.

As each Viking engine leaves the assembly line it is carried on overhead tracks to the test and dynamometer department where expert mechanics check its capabilities. First the engine is placed on a test stand and is driven slowly—at about 200 revolutions per minute—by another engine. This is done to run in the new mechanism, which is closely fitted to limits as fine as one ten-thousandths of an inch.

After being run in for an hour the engine is started under its own power and it, in turn, runs in another engine. As the two engines are connected through the reverse gear of the engine running under its own power, this latter engine runs at a sped ranging from 500 to 1000 revolutions per minute.

During this period of its initial operation the engine is carefully inspected by experts. The valves are checked and set to a clearance of eight-thousandths of an inch for the intake valves and twelve-thousandths of an inch for the exhaust. Oil pressure is checked at various speds and must show from 15 to 45 pounds depending on the speed of the engine. The carburetor is properly adjusted, the head bolts tightened while the engine is hot and other details checked.

Ford Company Is Host to 500,000 Visitors Annually

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 28.—An average taken during recent months indicates that the Ford Motor Co. plays host during the year to approximately 500,000 visitors, or a throng nearly equal in numbers to the population of Washington.

These visitors reach Detroit not only from all sections of the United States, but from Canada, Europe and the farthest reaches of the earth. Checks taken by guides show that the number of visitors this summer has ben between 1300 and 1600 a day. The largest number of persons ever to visit the big Rouge Plant of the company in a single day was 8000.

Special equipment and a sizeable force of employees care for the daily stream of men, women and children drawn to the Detroit area by the spectacle of the world's largest manufacturing establishment. Two large busses and a force of 35 trained guides are busy from 8:30 o'clock in the morning until the closing of the administration offices conducting tours through the Ford industries. In addition, busses operated by sightseeing companies bring many visitors to the plants.

Owners' Problem, Too.

The fact that self-energizing brakes, although they compensate for it in another way, are prone to cause drum scoring has given automotive engineers a problem. It is a problem for the car owner, too. He should recognize the possibility of the drums being out of round when he figures the car needs a brake relining.

Chrysler's Use of Rubber on Shackles Cuts Down Noise

Every experienced motorist knows that one of the hardest problems to meet on an automobile, is that of the noisy shackle. For years it was necessary to do a complete overhaul job on the shackles after every few thousand miles if silence was to be maintained. Regardless of advice from the dealers and factories, motorists neglected oiling the shackles with the result that they were nearly always noisy after the car was a few months old.

Of the various methods employed to overcome this trouble, one of the most interesting as well as successful is that used on the new Chrysler "66," in which the molecular displacement of rubber compensates for the spring action, with a consequent elimination of all metal-to-metal contact in the shackle assembly.

The use of rubber here is the immediate answer to the problem of the neglectful motorist who will not attend to lubrication. It cannot be neglected because there is nothing to do, and it also defeats the usual effects of normal wear because it absorbs shocks and is self-adjusting and self-compensating.

The construction of the "66" shackle is so arranged that rubber is interposed between the spring and the shackle. Shocks on the wheel are transmitted to the vehicle through the resilient rubber sleeve which is the key member in the assembly.

To be Up-to-Date Means to be Up-to-Chrysler

When anything new is produced, there are always those who create and those who follow.

In the change to balloon tires, some makers asserted the new type would never succeed. Four-wheel brakes found some who disastrously supported the two-wheel design. And today, there are engineers who decry the Multi-Range Gear Shift and the Down-Draft carburetor.

Chrysler has never been among those who shun new things—if the new be better than the old.

The public acclaim for Chrysler, instead, has been based on Chrysler's pioneering or ready acceptance of those new creations which have made motoring safer, more comfortable, surer and more economical.

To be always ahead of or abreast of the times, but never to experiment on the public is the real foundation of Chrysler success.

You who prefer the latest, the most advanced, the best, have made Chrysler the most copied car in the world.

Because Chrysler has built the kind of cars you up-to-the-minute people want, you have given Chrysler the greatest success in the history of automobile building.

Selfishly, therefore—because we want our shining success to continue—we have built into the newest Chryslers, the greatest performance, the finest design, the highest luxury, the greatest safety and the most extraordinary value in our history.

Sincerely, we commend to you the new Chryslers which are again setting the pace for the entire industry.

We invite your most critical inspection. We want you to be our guests in a test run which shall prove that Chrysler, now more than ever before, is far, far ahead of all other motor cars.

BOY SCOUTS TO GIVE JAMBOREE PAGEANT

Activities of English Camp to Be Reproduced at Court of Honor Tomorrow.

A pageant reproducing scenes from the International Boy Scout Jamboree held at Birkenhead, England, last month, will be given at the fall Court of Honor at the Scottish Rite Temple tomorrow evening.

Methods of communication between scouts of different nationalities through the Indian sign language adopted as the official tongue at the Jamboree, customs of foreign scouts, games played by scouts in Africa, Asia and Europe, will be shown. An explanation of the purpose of the Jamboree will be made by Col. H. D. McBride, local Scout Commissioner, who headed the St. Louis delegation at Birkenhead. The costumes and flags used in the pageant will be those obtained in trade and brought home by the St. Louis participants in the Jamboree.

More than 1800 awards will be presented at the court to scouts who during the summer advanced to the rank of first class, Star, Life, Eagle, palm, or Eagle Scouts, while 1430 merit badges will be given to 625 others. Merit badges are awarded for proficiency in scout subjects.

The first Scoutmaster's key—emblematic of five years' leadership training along rigidly prescribed lines—ever to be presented in St. Louis will be awarded to Scoutmaster Lester M. Hall of Troop 46, 69 years old, the oldest scoutmaster in the city. Hall is also one of the oldest leaders in point of service, having organized a troop of his own long before the local Boy Scout Council was formed. Chrysler's Use of Rubber on Shackles Cuts Down Noise

Every experienced motorist knows that one of the hardest problems to meet on an automobile, is that of the noisy shackle. For years it was necessary to do a complete overhaul job on the shackles after every few thousand miles if silence was to be maintained. Regardless of advice from the dealers and factories, motorists neglected oiling the shackles with the result that they were nearly always noisy after the car was a few months old.

Of the various methods employed to overcome this trouble, one of the most interesting as well as successful is that used on the new Chrysler "66," in which the molecular displacement of rubber compensates for the spring action, with a consequent elimination of all metal-to-metal contact in the shackle assembly.

The use of rubber here is the immediate answer to the problem of the neglectful motorist who will not attend to lubrication. It cannot be neglected because there is nothing to do, and it also defeats the usual effects of normal wear, because it absorbs shocks and is self-adjusting and self-compensating.

The construction of the "66" shackle is so arranged that rubber is interposed between the spring and the shackle. Shocks on the wheel are transmitted to the vehicle through the resilient rubber sleeve which is the key member in the assembly.

"Nothing rolls like a ball," says the manufacturer of ball bearings. However, if the owners of automobiles allow the bearings to go under-lubricated and poorly adjusted, the balls cease to be round and become all sorts of shapes. That, of course, is no way to keep the ball rolling.

Hall is also one of the oldest leaders in point of service, having organized a troop of his own long before the local Boy Scout Council was formed. He has been leader of Troop 46, which meets at Immanuel Baptist Church, since its organization 15 years ago.

Another unusual award, that of the standard troop insignia, will be given to Troop 198, of St. Mark's Church, in recognition of its meeting specified high requirements in scouting activities during the last year. L. John Lewis is scoutmaster of Troop 198.

Troop Notes

West District.

Plans for a firemanship exhibit at the Merit Badge Exposition were made at an officers' meeting of Troop 113 of the Church of Messiah last week. A model program for troop meetings also was discussed. The following attended: Assistant Scoutmaster Austen, Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Hannel, Senior Patrol Leader Miller and Patrol Leaders Williams and Hemker. Fifteen members of the troop, with Assistant Scoutmaster Austen and Hahnel, hiked to Pattonville, where one of the troop members lives. Results of the hike will be reported at the next meeting.

Regular meetings have been resumed by Troop 246 of the B'nai Amoona Temple, under the following new officers: Abe Gallant, junior assistant scoutmaster; Harvery Rudolph, senior patrol leader; Bernard Larner, scribe; Mervin Castle, quartermaster; Daniel Mandel, Gordon Sherman and Nathan Cherrick, patrol leaders. Scoutmaster Charles Fischlowitz has returned to the troop, after an illness of six weeks. Fifteen scouts passed more than 25 tests on a hike to Forest Park last Sunday. A special eight-mile hike for the seven officers and Scouts Abe Lipschitz and Louis Millman will be taken with Assistant Scoutmaster Simon Becker today. The troop has entered the Merit Badge Show and will have a booth on Bird Study.

A series of patrol projects were planned at the second meeting of the fall season for Troop 2, of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, at which 54 Scouts attended. The projects outlined: First patrol, basketry; second patrol, first aid; third patrol, leather; fourth patrol, totem pole; fifth patrol, nature; sixth patrol, metal work. Six Scouts received badges from the City Court of Honor from this troop.

Camping in the wilds of Montana was the subject of a talk given by Deputy Commissioner Chapman before Troop 124 of the Lane Tabernacle Methodist Church. The senior patrol leader announced plans for a stunt night Nov. 1 in which the entire troop is to take part.

William Smith, Troop 96 of the Gates Funeral establishment, has met a blind man at his home every morning this week. He takes him to the Missouri School for the Blind where he is receiving vocational training. After school Smith calls for the man and takes him home.

Al Gillman of the Metropolitan Police Department, gave a talk on safety methods at the meeting of Troop 87 at the United Hebrew Temple last week. Leo Shakofsky and Richard Smith are candidates for membership in the troop.

North District.

Reorganization of Troop 206 of Ames School was announced at last week's meeting as follows: Edward Godt, senior patrol leader; Millard Hemholt, Ernest Grote, George Tubbesing and Harold Cameron, patrol leaders. Scoutmaster Herzog gave a short talk on basketry and A. Knott complimented the boys for bringing new scouts.

Discussion of merit badge camping featured the program of Troop 3 of Grace Holy Cross Church, last week. Herbert Wolberg arranged the program. Herman Mast was appointed as the new troop scribe.

Scoutmaster Edgar Kennedy was formally installed as the new leader of the reorganized Troop 207 of St. James Evangelical Church last week. Kennedy formerly was scoutmaster of Troop 226. Committeeman Ruhl gave a talk on safety first methods and Field Executive Hotchkiss told some of his experiences on the World-Wide Jamboree.

Plans for a party to be held soon by Troop 148 were discussed at last week's meeting. Edgar Thierry, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 224 of the South District, and L. L. Hotchkiss, field executive, were visitors.

Fall reorganization of Troop 196 of the Tabernacle Baptist Church is in progress. The first meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

The sculpture merit badge booth at the Merit Badge Exposition, to be held Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 2, has been reserved by Troop 84. Regular meetings, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Dilphey, have been resumed after a short summer vacation. George Wilson, assistant scoutmaster, is to rejoin the troop.

Preparatory organization of the troop committee of Troop 42 has been arranged to make plans for the annual entertainment program. Elaborate preparations are being made for the event.

G. W. Hartman has been selected chairman of the troop committee of Troop 55 of the Cote Brilliante Presbyterian Church. Reorganization of the troop will be completed this month with Scoutmaster Kelso remaining in charge. The scouts are working on four handicraft projects: Airplane building, metal working, leather working and tincancraft.

George M. Aldrich is the new scoutmaster of reorganized Troop 72. Troop meetings are being held in the headquarters cabin in the basement of the Neighborhood House, Nineteenth street and Wash streets, each Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

South District.

Ten scouts, two troop committeemen and Scoutmaster Fichtel of Troop 57 of the Wyman School, made a trip to Meramec State Park last week. The troop is preparing to exhibit athletic merit badges at the Merit Badge Show.

Scouts of Troop 198 of St. John's Episcopal Church arrived at the scene of an automobile accident in time to practice some of their first aid while on a hike to Kenwood Springs last Sunday. An automobile was seen to plow through the rough woods road and crash through a rustic bridge which it attempted to cross. As the car reeled, two of its four passengers were thrown out. One of the scouts who saw the accident immediately summoned his comrades and the entire troop assisted in getting the car back on its four wheels and into the road. First aid was rendered for minor scratches and bruises, and the bridge was repaired.

Suburban District.

Using Roving Camp equipment, Webster Groves scouts are planning a trip to Columbia to be the guests of the University of Missouri at a football game between the Missouri and Drake Scouts who want to make the trip have been asked to talk to their scoutmasters.

By delivering blue books for the Church Federation scouts of Troop 7, of the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, performed a good turn last week. A. Ross Blackford is scoutmaster of this troop.

Stories of a campfire, a treasure hunt, an exploring expedition and scout-cooked food were told at the last meeting of Troop 3 of the Webster Groves Methodist Church. One of the patrols with D. H. Nicholson, assistant scoutmaster, spent the week-end in camp about 15 miles west of Webster Groves. Bob Dawson of Webster Groves Troop 1, gave an account of the World Jamboree. Committeeman Goodenough complimented the scouts on their merit badge work, stressing the value of this training in life. Stewart O'Byrne gave 30 minutes instruction on astronomy. Committeeman W. A. Doettger taught the scouts a number of new games.

Plans for the coming year were outlined by the Troop Committee of St. Charles Troop 1 of the St. John's Hall at last week's meeting. The troop is sponsored by the St. John's Brotherhood.

T. H. Cushman is to be the new Scoutmaster of Troop Rock Hill 1, of the Rock Hill School. The troop will start its regular meetings soon.

FATHER OF 30 AND IS JOBLESS

By the Associated Press.

NOTTINGHAM, England, Sept. 28.—William Robinson, 61 years old, who has been unemployed since 1919, has registered the birth of his thirtfeth child.

By his first wife he had 24 children, and by his second wife, six. He has known what it is to have one child born and another die on the same day. Robinson was gassed in the World War and has been on the industrial disability list since his discharge from the army.

HUNGARIAN REFORM LEAGUE TO FIGHT CRAZE FOR RUMMY

Popularity of Game Sweeping Country; Cause of Several Divorces.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Sept 28.—A Hungarian Reform League has been organized to combat, among other things, the craze for the game of "rummy," which has swept the Capital and is spreading to other sections of the monarchy. The league seeks to restore the old Magyar tradition of chivalry and love for the family and the home.

Every member takes an oath not to play cards, smoke, drink or indulge in practices which degrade the reputation of Hungarians.

The craze for rummy has spread until it has overshadowed other pastimes. Every one of Budapest's 1500 cafes has its rummy parlor and among society folk the game has taken the place of the 5 o'clock tea parties which used to mark social life.

Newspapers have warned the Government that Hungarians are becoming a race of gamblers. One publication says that even the stock exchange suffers from the "rummy mania" because players make more money at cards than by dealing in stocks. Several divorces have been granted because husband or wife showed more interest in the game than in the home.

Count Johann Berennyi is head of the new reform league He is assisted by his wife, the former operatic star Irma Foeroeck, and by such famous personages as Count Apponyi, Countess Andrassi and Prince Esterhazy.

OWNS PISTOLS ONCE PROPERTY OF GEN. LEE

F. E. Ellis, Webster Groves, Has Assembled More Than 100 Weapons in 33 Years.

Two tiny, percussion-cap, silver-mounted pistols which were once the property of Gen. Robert E. Lee are part of the collection of more than 100 firearms owned by F. E. Ellis, 30 Elms place, Webster Groves. A silver shield on the butt of each pistol is engraved "R. E. Lee, Va."

"Your true Virginian proudly considered the name of his State as a sufficient address," Ellis explained. "Virginians even registered in hotels in this way."

While there is no accurate history of the pistols, the date of purchase has been approximately fixed as 1838. They are Derringers made by the Philadelphia firm for the dealers, Wolf & Derringer, in Louisville, Ky., the stamps on the barrel show. Lee, then a Lieutenant of Engineers, returned East by the customary river route about that time after spending a period in St. Louis in connection with improvements on Jefferson Barracks begun in 1837. He is thought to have purchased the weapons en route home for personal protection. As they fired only one shot without reloading, two pistols were customary for more complete protection.

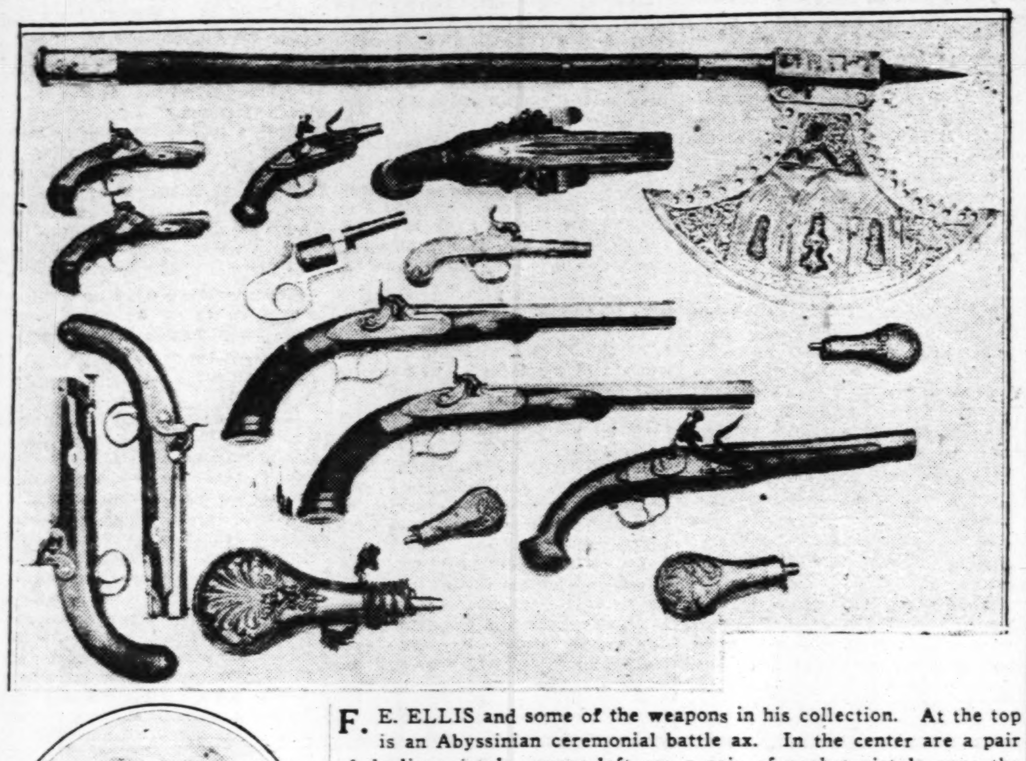
Many types of flintlock, percussion-cap and cartridge-firing pistols are included in Ellis' collection which he has assembled over a period of 33 years in travels over this country, Canada, Mexico and Europe. One American revolver in the collection has a nickeled butt that could be used also as brass knuckles. Its name, "My Friend," was given it by the inventor because his financial circumstances were greatly improved through its widespread sales about 1860. "My Friend" was one of the earliest cartridge-firing pistols. Very few of this type are available today, Ellis said.

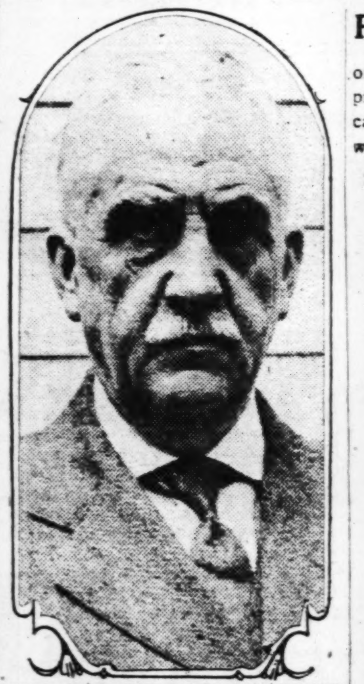
Valuable because of their excellent state of preservation and rarity are a pair of American-made dueling pistols approximately 15 inches long. The same qualities are found in a shorter pair of English carriage pistols intended for protection against highwaymen. Both sets are in walnut boxes lined with red plush and containing powder horns and ramrods.

The majority of the flintlock pistols in the collection are, on an average, about 150 years old. Percussion types, more varied in the range of sizes, average about half that age. In the group may be found pistols with folding triggers, horse pistols, double and quadruple barreled pistols and still another with a revolving hammer which successively fires cartridges in four chambers. One German type is equipped with four barrels, one above the other. It has a double action mechanism which moves the barrels upward until the four cartridges have been struck by the hammer.

Ellis also owns an Abyssinian ceremonial battle ax which was carried as a symbol of the King's authority. The head is made of steel, elaborately engraved and ornamented with raised human figures of brass.

Strange Weapons in Webster Groves Collection





F. E. ELLIS and some of the weapons in his collection. At the top is an Abyssinian ceremonial battle ax. In the center are a pair of dueling pistols; upper left are a pair of pocket pistols once the property of Gen. Robert E. Lee. With the exception of the early cartridge-firing revolver, the rest are flintrock and percussion type weapons. Powder flasks are also shown.

AUSTRALIA SEEKS TO REDUCE IMPORT OF AMERICAN AUTOS

Prime Minister Urges Home Manufacture in Calling Attention to Trade Balance.

SYDNEY.—With 1928 figures showing a trade balance in favor of the United States of approximately $165,000,000, Australia is trying to find means for importing less from America.

Several weeks before his Cabinet came a a political cropper over the law to repeal Federal industrial arbitration, Stanley M. Bruce, Prime Minister, warned the country that a flood of cheap articles might be expected to result from the manufacturing acceleration in the United States. He appealed especially for Australian automobile manufacture, saying that if the home industrialists would undertake to make parts, and gradually work up to the production of complete cars, the Government would stop the importation of cars containing parts that could be obtained here.

A goodly portion of Australia's imports consists of American automobiles. Now plans are being made for home production and one Melbourne company has announced the early appearance of a car cheaper than, but as good as, any American car offered in Australia.

WORN-OUT GUNBOATS TO BE USED AS TARGETS

Gen. Alava Already Sunk and Palos, Monocacy and Helena Will Follow.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 28.—After almost three decades of service in guarding American shipping on the Yangtsze River, four gunboats of the United States Asiatic fleet have been doomed to end their careers as targets for the destroyer squadrans in Chinese waters.

One of the there, the General Alava, has already been sunk as a target by the guns of the fleet of which she was for so many years a part. The three others, the Palos, the Monocacy and the Helena have been reduced to a reserve commission status. When taken off the river they were anchored in the Wangpoo River fronting Shanghai to await the orders of the Commander-in-Chief.

The Gen. Alava was the most famous of the four vessels. She was built in Scotland 40 years ago for the Spanish Government by A. McMilan and Sons, Ltd., of Dumbarton. Her commander did not learn of the capture of Manila by Admiral George Dewey until he sailed into the bay, carrying supplies and soldiers from Spain.

As the General Alava steamed past Corregidor Island, the captain ordered a salute to be fired in honor of the Spanish cmmander in Manila. Ten minutes later, the vessel was taken by the Americans and two years later was turned over to the Navy for duty as an auxiliary to the Asiatic fleet.

The Helena is another vessel of the four that has witnessed many years of usefulness. She is one of the largest vessels ever placed on the Yangtse River patrol, being 251 feet over-all. She has a beam of 40 feet and a displacement of 1400 tons.

Though the Helena is a third of a century old, she still has the main engines that were built for her at the time of her commission. Most of her original auxiliary machinery is also intact. Until she becomes a target for destroyer target practice, her last days will be spent as a replacement ship for sailors being transferred to and from the Asiatic station.

The Palos and Monocacy are sister ships built especially for service on the Yangtse River. They are smaller than the Helena although larger than the new vessels that replaced them.

Hamsun Refuses Birthday Honors.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Sept. 28.—The seventieth birthday of Knut Hamsun, famous Norwegian author, was celebrated in literary circles throughout Europe but he retired to a secluded spot near Oslo where he could not be found to be congratulated or interviewed. The Association of Norwegian Authors subscribed to an immense silver loving cup for Hamsun, but the author stated beforehand that he would refuse to accept the gift, wishing to be under obligation to nobody.

TOULON, Sept. 26. — In the destroyer Fougueux the French Navy again claims to have the fastest warship. The craft, which is 330 feet long and of 30 feet beam, made 36.33 knots on her trial runs. She is armed with four five-inch guns and six torpedo tubes.

POPE RESTORES ICELAND SEE

Had Been Decadent Since Beheading in 1550.

By the Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland. — After 379 years the Pope has reconstituted the See of Iceland which became decadent when Danish reformers in 1550 beheaded Bishop John Arason.

The ceremonial of the consecration of Msgr. Martin Meullenberg as Bishop of Iceland, in direct succession to Bishop John Arason, began with the reading of an edict by Pope Pius reconstituting the See of Iceland. At the same time a new Roman Catholic cathedral, built of concrete but in Gothic style, was consecrated. It is the first time that concrete has been used as material for an entire building in Iceland. The Pope has sent a crucifix, carved out of cedar by a Spanish artist, and many other gifts have been received for the cathedral from all over the world. The cathedral is the work of Icelandic architects and is one of the most imposing edifices on the island.

Ethyl Alcohol Anesthesia.

HAVANA, Sept. 28.—The use of ethyl alcohol as an anesthetic in surgical operations, recently demonstrated before the Medical Society of France, passed equally successful tests at the Federal hospital here. Discovered by two youthful Mexican doctors, Garcia Marin and Francisco Ortoz, the ethyl alcohol anesthesia is declared to hold advantages over chloroform and ether because of its more rapid effect and ease of handling.

Reo is happy to announce the appointment of

ST. LOUIS DISTRIBUTOR

Effective October 1, the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Company will become St. Louis Distributors for Reo Pleasure Cars and Speed Wagons.

This step is the culmination of their close association in the sales and servicing of Reo Pleasure Cars and Speed Wagons, dating back to 1908. In succeeding the Reo Distributing Company, the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Company is building upon the solid foundation established by the former company under the able direction of L. B. McEwing and G. S. Clayton. In their merit of public confidence and their capacity for service, the new distributors are singularly characteristic of the motor car which they represent.

For the greater convenience of Reo owners, the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Company will continue to operate the present location of the Reo Distributing Company, in addition to their own at 4000 Page Boulevard.

Power of 50,000 Watts, Sought by KNX, Hollywood

WTIC Heard Strongly in This Region—WFAA Building 50,000-Watt Plant — Darragh Says Super Power KMOX Transmitter Surely Will Be Erected.

KNX, Hollywood, Cal., has applied to the Federal Radio Commission for permission to change its transmitter and to increase power from 5000 to 50,000 watts. More than a year ago a new transmitter was installed for KNX, and at the time it was stated that the apparatus was so designed that within 24 hours it could be fitted to use 50,000 watts.

KNX's broadcasting apparatus is on the Paramount lot in Hollywood. It is operated by the Western Broadcasting Corporation.

Signals from the new 50,000 transmitter recently put into operation for WTIC at Hartford, Conn., are being received strongly in and around St. Louis. WTIC shares time with WBAL, a 10,000 watt station at Baltimore, Md., on the 1060 kilocycle cleared channel. That is, it is the third station above KMOX.

Listeners in Europe and on ships on the Atlantic Ocean also are reporting reception of WTIC. Letters indicate that it has been heard as far West as the Hawaiian Islands.

A new $270,000 plant is being erected for WFAA, 18 miles from Dallas, Tex., and that station is expected to get a 50,000 watt transmitter on the air by Jan. 1, next. The new station will be housed in a building of classic lines set in an Italian garden.

Two 300-foot towers, 700 feet apart, are being raised. Each foot of the towers will rest directly on a porcelain insulator. Only one wire will be strung from the towers, engineers holding that it makes for better control and richer tone. Copper screening, to eliminate interference, will cover the building. A glass-enclosed room is to house all machinery.

The plant's first unit, 5000 watts is expected to be ready by mid-October, while the second section, to bring WFAA up to its allotted maximum of 50,000 watts, will be completed by January 1.

WFAA, in operation seven years, was a 500-watt station until last June, when it was changed to 10,000.

Approval by the Radio Commission of KMOX's application for the right tc change location of its transmitter has made it possible to go ahead with plans to erect a 50,000 watt plant on a site on the Baumgartner road, near the Lemay Ferry road, in St. Louis County, according to Nelson R. Darragh, president of the company operating that station.

"We are ready to go ahead," Darragh said. "We are getting estimates from architects and builders and are figuring on the new transmitter. There is no doubt that we will build the 50,000-watt station. We absolutely will. We should be under way within 30 days or so, and should have the new watt station ready to operate by Jan. 1 or Feb. 1, at the latest."

The new site for KMOX is about seven and a half miles from the St. Louis city limits. As is generally known, the present KMOX transmitter has 5000 watts power.

Early next year, the new transmitter for KDKA, Pittsburg, Pa., should be in operation, using, probably, 50,000 watts. Much better, and more consistent reception of KDKA in this region should result, especially as the transmitter is to be erected on a new site.

Also, interference from the short wave transmitters operated by the Westinghouse Co. near Pittsburg should be eliminated. These short wave stations are: W8XAV, experimental visual broadcasting set; W8XK, relay broadcasting set, known for its broadcasting to Commander Byrd and the Far North; W8XS, an experimental station, and W8XP, experimental portable set.

Betty Crocker Back on KSD for Two Weekly Talks

Betty Crocker, dean of radio home service experts, will return to the air Tuesday to begin the fifth year of her cooking school. She may be heard over KSD.

For the first time since she began broadcasting in 1924, Betty Crocker's programs will include music. The strains of "Highways Are Happy When They Lead to Home, Sweet Home," will open the program Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 9:45.

In addition to suggesting recipes, Miss Crocker will give short talks on meal planning and menu building in her Tuesday morning broadcasts.

The cookery expert spent most of her vacation gathering material for the broadcasts, which will continue on the semiweekly basis for 52 weeks.

The Betty Crocker series, sponsored by the Washburn Crosby Co., will become part of the National Home Hour.

POPE RESTORES ICELAND SEE

Had Been Decadent Since Beheading in 1550.

By the Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland. — After 379 years the Pope has reconstituted the See of Iceland which became decadent when Danish reformers in 1550 beheaded Bishop John Arason.

The ceremonial of the consecration of Msgr. Martin Meullenberg as Bishop of Iceland, in direct succession to Bishop John Arason, began with the reading of an edict by Pope Pius reconstituting the See of Iceland. At the same time a new Roman Catholic cathedral, built of concrete but in Gothic style, was consecrated. It is the first time that concrete has been used as material for an entire building in Iceland. The Pope has sent a crucifix, carved out of cedar by a Spanish artist, and many other gifts have been received for the cathedral from all over the world. The cathedral is the work of Icelandic architects and is one of the most imposing edifices on the island.

Jesse Crawford Is Called 'Poet of the Organ'

Lad Who Pounded Out Piano Lessons in Orphanage Becomes One of Radio's Most Popular Artists, Playing Twice Weekly Over Columbia Chain.

JESSE CRAWFORD, known to radio listeners as "The Poet of the Organ," has become one of the most popular of broadcast artists because of his weekly recitals over the Columbia chain.

Crawford's organ recitals this week are scheduled for 10 o'clock Tuesday night and 9:30 Friday night. His Tuesday night recital may be heard over WBBM, as KMOX is not broadcasting it. The Friday night concert will be broadcast over KMOX.

Seen at the console of his organ in the Paramount Theater, New York—said to be the largest of theater organs—Crawford seems almost out of place before the towering gold and ivory keyboard. His slight figure is dwarfed by the banks of keys before him, and he seems still a little country boy, boldly aping his elders. Yet when he plays, the title given him by a friend of long standing proves its fitness, for Crawford is truly a poet, playing upon his instrument not merely as an organ, and realizing that the feeling given to music by the organist finds its echo in the hearts of the audience.

Stresses Feeling.

"Feeling cannot be too strongly stressed by motion picture theater and radio organists," he says. "At a formal concert, where the audience is for the most part composed of people with trained musical minds capable of appreciating faultless technical virtuosity, a certain amount of success may be obtained by sheer brilliance of execution. This is not true of radio and the picture theater, for the number of trained musical lovers in these audiences is not in the majority. These audiences do not, primarily, understand music, they 'feel' it, and it is through their feelings, rather than their intellect, that the organist should appeal to them."

Never happier than when composing or improvising, Crawford shows the value of his early days of practice and investigation, for from experiment and research he has developed a technique all his own. Under his skilled touch the

Network Farm Broadcasts Will Be Added by KSD

A new agricultural network, designed to reach more than 7,000,000 farmers, is to include KSD and will have WLS, Chicago, as its key station, according to announcement by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co. It is planned primarily to "cover" the great rural audience of the Mississippi and Missouri valleys more thoroughly than is possible with only the present agricultural chain, which includes KWK.

For the past year the NBC, working with the Federal Department of Agriculture, has broadcast a farm program for listeners in the central part of the United States. A few months ago this service was extended to the East. While this "National Farm and Home" program will be broadcast through the new network, it will be continued over the present chain of 31 stations, among which is KWK.

Supplementing WLS as the key station, will be the following other stations, all associated with the NBC: KSD, St. Louis; WDAF, Kansas City; WOW, Omaha; WHO, Des Moines and WOC, Davenport (on alternating days); WTMJ, Milwaukee; KSTP, St. Paul-Minneapolis, and WEBC, Superior-Duluth.

Southwestern and Rocky Mountain states stations, as far west as Salt Lake City may also be added to the basic network on demand. These are: KVOO, Tulsa; WFAA, Dallas; WBAP, Ft. Worth; KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio; WKY, Oklahoma City; KTHS, Hot

Chain Programs an Hour Later on St. Louis Stations

Change From Daylight Saving Time in New York Causes Shift in Schedules—KSD Adds Six Sunday Features and Weekday Noon and Afternoon NBC Broadcasts.

Beginning today, all network broadcasts over St. Louis stations will move up an hour, due to change in New York City, where the key stations are located, from daylight saving to Eastern standard time. Also KSD has made 27 additions and changes in its broadcasting schedule. Six of these new features over KSD are to be broadcast today.

The first five days of the week will bring concerts by the Palais d'Or and Pennsylvania Hotel luncheon orchestra over KSD. These broadcasts are to begin at 11:45 in the forenoon and continue for half an hour, until 12:15 o'clock. On Saturday, the luncheon concerts will be by an NBC orchestra, and will begin at 11:30 a. m.

There will also be KSD programs from 1:45 to 3 o'clock the first five afternoons of the week. These will come from the New York studios of the NBC.

New programs today on KSD will begin at 12:30 this afternoon and continue for two hours and a half. They will include a violin recital by Godfrey Ludlow, at 12:30 noon; a Troika Bells concert, at 1 o'clock; a Milady's Musicians program, at 1:30; a Neapolitan Nights concert, at 2 o'clock, and a "Songs and Bows" recital from 2:30 to 3 o'clock. At 3 o'clock, KFUO will go on the air and KSD will be silent until 4:30, when it will begin the evening and night schedule with a new program called "Tea Time Tunes."

Changes in KSD's schedule for tomorrow will add a concert by the Palais d'Or orchestra from 11:45 a. m. until 12:15 noon; a series of NBC studio programs from the New York studios from 1:45 to 3

Radio's Supreme Achievement

Into every Stromberg-Carlson Radio receiver is built something more than all the world's knowledge of radio design.

It's the SPIRIT of the building of a masterpiece . . . the desire to make every unit "just a little bit better" . . . and the result is a radio receiver that pours forth a quality of music that is decidedly better.

The true enjoyment that radio can afford is made possible only by making a radio receiver that is "very good" instead of just "good."

NO. 642 STROMBERG-CARLSON. A Screen-Grid Receiver distinguished by its fidelity of tone. Three Screen-Grid tubes in radio frequency stages "totally shielded"; "Linear" Power Detection; Built-in Electro-Dynamic Speaker; Phonograph Jack; single illiuminated dial marked with divisional scale and wave lengths in meters. SILVER Radio
....EXTRAORDINARY....

SILVER RADIOS are just so good that, out in California—even during the summer months—one after another brings in Japan, Australia and New Zealand! Almost any SILVER RADIO owner on the west coast can get the thrill of hearing such programs on a good night just before dawn from a good location—and coast to coast reception is almost "regular fare".

It takes an extraordinary radio to give such results. And that's just what SILVER RADIO is—the one radio that stands out from all others . . . because it does things other radios cannot equal. That's a big claim—but to prove it your SILVER RADIO dealer will make before you four of the most amazing tests you have ever witnessed. The tests are surprisingly simple, yet they're so "stiff" that they let you cut behind the advertising barrage of fancy words and claims and really let you find the best radio.

Then, after the "Ice-Pick Test", the "Vanishing-Aerial Test", the "Hairpin Test", and the "Coin Test" have shown you the amazing difference between SILVER RADIO and all others, make any other side-by-side tests you can think of . . . the stiffer the better . . . for sharp tuning, to see how SILVER RADIO gets one, and only one, program at a time . . . check the beauty of SILVER RADIO cabinets . . . test for tone, to sense its gorgeous tonal possibilities. Then you'll realize why world-famous opera stars, critics of tone above all else, choose SILVER RADIO for their own homes.

And, after all, why not have the best in your home, too? . . . tell your SILVER RADIO dealer that you've come to see his four amazing tests—and get the folder describing them.

Startling New Features!

SILVER RADIO, product of the manufacturer who introduced screen-grid radio to America in 1927, is probably the most widely scrutinized of all radios today. But only SILVER RADIO has "everything new"—FOUR screen-grid tubes, screen-grid power detection, band-selector tuning, matched-impedance electro-dynamic speaker, Overtone Switch to minimize static, complete shielding, automatic line voltage regulation, where desired, and—ELIMINATION OF ALL AERIAL CONNECTION.

THE CONCERT GRAND, illustrated, is of beautiful and unusually substantial construction. The top is of four-way matched butt walnut, and surmounts side panels of diamond matched oriental walnut, flanking a central panel of figured bird's-eye maple—the whole hand-rubbed to a mirror-like polish.
Price, absolutely complete, less only tubes $173.00

Two other cabinet styles, Model 60 Sheraton Lowboy at $160.00 and Model 95 Sheraton Sliding Door Highboy at $195.00, can also be seen at any SILVER RADIO dealer.

Sousa and His Band Will Play On KSD Oct. 7

Sousa and his band will return to broadcasting in the General Motors Family Party, scheduled over KSD on Monday night, Oct. 7.

Seven years were required to persuade Sousa that he would in no wise abandon the high ideals of his band by broadcasting. As his debut on the air, earlier this year, was accepted by the public as a musical triumph, he has consented to broadcast another series of concerts.

Before he decided to go on the air, Sousa had probably played before more people than any other director in the history of band music. There were 153,000 persons in one of his audiences at the International Exposition in Glasgow. His new series will be broadcast over a network of 39 stations.

There are several pieces composed by the famous former leader of the United States Marine Band without one of which no Sousa program would be complete. His first offering Oct. 7 will be the always popular "Stars and Stripes Forever."

State Finals of Singing Contest on KMOX Saturday

Girls and Youths from Seven Missouri Districts Will Compete for Honor of Entering Mid-West Event at Chicago.

The Missouri state finals in the third national Atwater Kent radio audition will be held over KMOX at 10 o'clock next Saturday night.

One girl and one boy from each of seven Missouri districts will compete for the honor of representing Missouri in the district audition in Chicago in November, the winners in that contest to compete in the national finals in New York City in December.

The names and addresses of the winners in the Missouri districts who will compete in the state audition next Saturday night follow:

St. Louis district, Miss Helen McFarland, soprano, 1174 Hodiamont avenue, St. Louis and Emerson Brown, baritone, 4066 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis.

Cape Girardeau district, Miss Irene Pehling, soprano, 906 Cynthia street, Poplar Bluff, and Earl D. Black, baritone, 1306 Broadway, Cape Girardeau.

Kansas City district, Miss Ida May Eberhart, soprano, 4026 Woodland avenue, Kansas City, and Delmer Randolph King, baritone, 3669 Summitt avenue, Kansas City.

Joplin district, Miss Sarah Virginia Woodside, mezzo soprano, 1248 Washington avenue, Springfield, and Roland Eden Lewis, tenor, Rogersville.

St. Joseph district, Miss Mary Catherine Bishop, soprano, 820 Webster street, Chillicothe, (no man contestant from this district).

The contestants will be welcomed to St. Louis b. Mayor Miller in his offices in the City Hall at 11:30 Saturday morning, and in the afternoon they will be the guests of the Vesper-Buick Motor Co., on a sightseeing tour of the city. They will make their headquarters at the Mayfair Hotel, as guests of Charles Heiss, manager of the hotel.

A transformer will burn out if the winding becomes open-circuited through mechanical defect or through mechanical stresses that develop after a period of time.

Drama of Wagner Over KSD

Episodes in Life of Composer and His Music in Eveready Hour.

The life of Richard Wagner, one of the great figures in music, will be the theme of the Eveready Hour at 8 o'clock next Tuesday night over KSD.

The dramatization of Wagner's life in the Eveready Hour will open in Paris, where the composer had gone with the hope of having his works produced with the magnificence they merited. For weary months he waited, at times on the verge of starvation, but at last, in 1860, due to the influence of friends, "Tannhauser" was put in rehearsal at the Paris Grand Opera. The production was a fiasco and was severely criticised. The musical world was not prepared to appreciate such extraordinary music. With the usual conservatism, it repudiated what later was recognized as one of the greatest of music dramas.

After this disaster, Wagner left Paris and for a few years wandered over Europe. The critics were opposed to him and his new conception of music. He made many enemies, but a few devoted friends. Finally, King Ludwig of Bavaria, recognized his genius and offered him the post of royal director at Munich and ample support for his dramatic projects. From that time the current of popular interest, which had been bitter and hostile for 20 years, began to turn.

The principal events leading up to the world's acknowledgment of the composer as one of the greatest creators in the history of musical art, will be authentically reproduced in the Eveready Hour.

NBC in Charge Of All KOA and KGO Broadcast

Will Manage Local Progr for Denver and Californi Stations.

An announcement that may b far more significance than app on the surface is to the effect th beginning Tuesday, the Natio Broadcasting Co. will assu charge of programs broadc from KOA, Denver, Colo., a KGO, Oakland, Cal.

"The NBC will continue to s regular network programs throu the Colorado station from Ne York, Chicago, Washington, S Francisco and other points of or gin," the announcement says. " will also maintain a program d partment in Denver for local p grams over KOA. The Gener Electric Co. retains ownership the station." The announcem regarding KGO is of similar in port.

KGO is the station, also own by the General Electric Co., whic is operating with 10,000 watts o the same channel (790 kilocycle as the 50,000-watt WGY, at Sch nectady, N. Y., another Gener Electric transmitter. As will b recalled, the Federal Radio Co mission took from WGY the 79 kc. wave which it had used for se eral years, and gave it to KGO a Pacific Coast zone cleared chan and restricted WGY to daytime o eration. WGI appealed to th courts and won, the commissi being forced to permit the tw stations to use the 790-kc. wa simultaneously. The commissio contention that, as the two statio were owned by the same compa they need not necessarily be da aged by the order restricting WG to daylight time, was of no avail.

KOA broadcasts with 12,5 watts power on the 830 kc. cha nel, of which it has exclusive use.

Developments will be followe closely because of its possibiliti as to other stations connected wi the NBC network and because o the building up of local program that is possible through NBC co trol of all programs over the tw stations.

The fading of distant station sometimes due to atmospheric co ditions. It may be also caused b the set or another antenna close the aerial wire.

Prospective Radio Purchasers are asking . . . .

What is this that GREBE has done?

News has a habit of traveling quickly and quietly. Prospective radio buyers . . . everywhere . . . are saying "I must hear the New Grebe." The reputation of this set was already spreading rapidly before any public announcement was made. In this case, rumor was right.

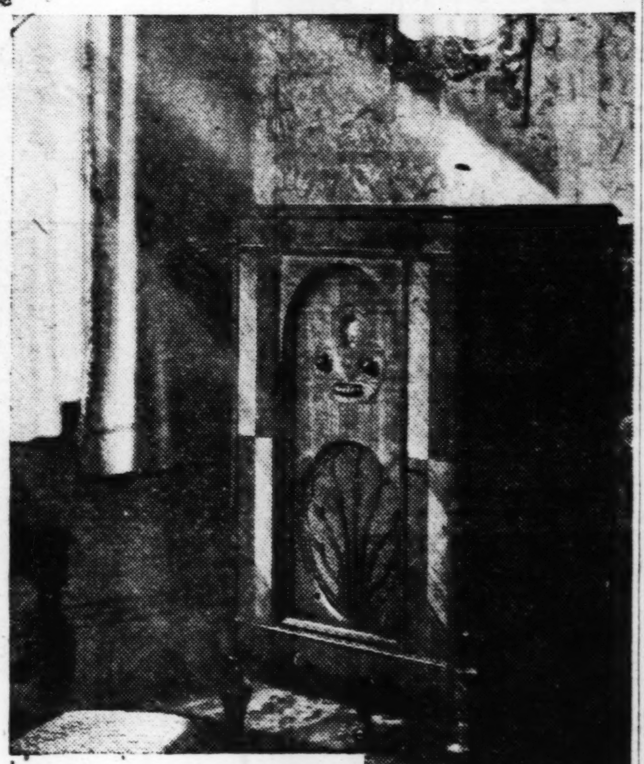
Now we give you the tangible reasons for this enthusiasm for the New Grebe . . . reasons which can affect the whole range of your radio enjoyment.

For Grebe has perfected a new device . . . unique . . . exclusive. Now you enjoy the full benefits of Screen Grid Tubes, the power of which is 10 to 12 times that of the best tube available last year. But in the New Grebe this power is so silent that your mind focuses on the very source of the entertainment. The reproduction is so natural . . . so lifelike in its tone throughout the entire broadcast range that the listener is enchanted with this new Tri-toned* radio. Grebe through the development of the "Equalized Band Pass Filter" has introduced a new standard of radio enjoyment.

Into every one of these New Grebe sets has been built the pride of craftsmanship which has twenty years' standing in the Grebe organization. Every one of the New Grebes is as nearly perfect a musical instrument as it is possible to build. And when you examine the Grebe cabinets from the standpoint of a critical furniture buyer you will find them fitting settings for this splendid achievement in musical re-production.

Visit your Grebe dealer. He wants you to enjoy the delights of the New Grebe in his salesrooms. Then have him send one of the New Grebes to your home for a thorough test under your own conditions. Make your appointment . . . today.

 What is Tri-toned Radio?* Every musical instrument has three distinct characteristics: 1. Pitch, by which we distinguish the note as being high or low; 2. Intensity, or loudness; and, 3. Tone, or character by which we distinguish the sound of one musical instrument from another. In Grebe Radio you have reproduction that gives you perfect blending of all three characteristics without unnatural over-emphasis of any part of the scale.



Many of These Modern Features Are Exclusive With the New Grebe

Screen Grid Tubes—The use of which results in sensitivity never before attained.

New Control for New Power—But in the New Grebe this added power is controlled. Overlapping of stations is eliminated . . . strays are kept out. You get the full tone value made possible by that exclusive Grebe feature—the Equalized Band Pass Filter.

Single Audio Stage Means No Hum—Grebe reception is so strong . . . so pure in tonal characteristics . . . that only a single audio stage is needed. Hum and microphonic noises are eliminated.

Large Diameter Speaker . . . an Original Grebe Idea—Full tone range is effectively accomplished by special large diameter electrodynamic speaker . . . so successfully introduced by Grebe.

For Superb Reproduction of Phonograph Records—You can play your favorite phonograph records by a mere turn of the tuning dial. This automatically connects the phonograph pick-up with specially wound transformer.

Cabinets Designed for Lasting Beauty and Acoustic Perfection—The New Grebe is obtainable in a wide choice of selected walnut and mahogany lowboy and highboy models. Furniture of characteristic beauty and dignity, expertly designed for acoustic properties. In a word, Grebe craftsmanship.

NBC in Charge Of All KOA and KGO Broadcasts

Will Manage Local Programs for Denver and California Stations.

An announcement that may have far more significance than appears on the surface is to the effect that, beginning Tuesday, the National Broadcasting Co. will assume charge of programs broadcast from KOA, Denver, Colo., and KGO, Oakland, Cal.

"The NBC will continue to send regular network programs through the Colorado station from New York, Chicago, Washington, San Francisco and other points of origin," the announcement says. "It will also maintain a program department in Deuver for local programs over KOA. The General Electric Co. retains ownership of the station." The announcement regarding KGO is of similar import.

KGO is the station, also owned by the General Electric Co., which is operating with 10,000 watts on the same channel (790 kilocycles) as the 50,000-watt WGY, at Schenectady, N. Y., another General Electric transmitter. As will be recalled, the Federal Radio Commission took from WGY the 790-kc. wave which it had used for several years, and gave it to KGO as a Pacific Coast zone cleared channel and restricted WGY to daytime operation. WGI appealed to the courts and won, the commission being forced to permit the two stations to use the 790-kc. wave simultaneously. The commission's contention that, as the two stations were owned by the same company, they need not necessarily be damaged by the order restricting WGY to daylight time, was of no avail.

KOA broadcasts with 12,500 watts power on the 830 kc. channel, of which it has exclusive use.

Developments will be followed closely because of its possibilities as to other stations connected with the NBC network and because of the building up of local programs that is possible through NBC control of all programs over the two stations.

The fading of distant stations is sometimes due to atmospheric conditions. It may be also caused by the set or another antenna close to the aerial wire.

Chain Programs An Hour Later On Local Stations

p. m., and a concert by the Salon Singers at 9 p. m.

Among additions to the Tuesday schedule will be the Hotel Pennsylvania luncheon music from 11:45 a. m. to 12:15 noon; programs from the NBC studios in New York from 1:45 to 3 p. m.; and a "Harbor Lights" broadcast at 10:30 p. m. The last mentioned program will bring a dramatic tale of an old sea captain.

On Wednesday, KSD will add a concert by the Palais d'Or orchestra from 11:45 a. m. until 12:15 noon and NBC studio programs from 1:45 to 3 p. m., and will broadcast the entire hour and a half of grand opera—this time, "Carmen," from 9:30 to 11 p. m. Devora Nadworney, contralto, is to sing the role of Carmen.

Thursday, KSD will add a concert by the Hotel Pennsylvania luncheon orchestra, from 11:45 a. m. to 12:15 noon; NBC studio programs from 1:45 to 3 p. m.; a broadcast by the NBC concert bureau from 10 to 10:30 p. m., and music from the Hotel Bossert, in Brooklyn, at 10:30 p. m.. Erva Giles, soprano; Curt Peterson, baritone, and an orchestra led by Hugo Mariani are announced for the 10 o'clock concert.

Friday's additions will be a Palais d'Or orchestra concert from 11:45 a. m. to 12:15 noon; NBC studio programs from 1:45 to 3 p. m., and a feature scheduled as "to be announced" from 9:30 to 10 p. m.

On Saturday, KSD will broadcast these additional programs: NBC studio luncheon music at 11:30 a. m.; a National Laundry Owners' program at 7 p. m.; an organ recital by Lew White at 10 p. m., and music by the Park Central Orchestra of New York, at 10:30 p. m.

Heat From Tubes Normal.

Of the total power put into a set, 75 to 80 per cent is turned into heat. It is normal, therefore, that a modern electric set should get warm, especially if it is in a small cabinet.

Concerning a Lead-in.

The lead-in wire that connects the antenna to the receiving set and the ground wire should be considered part of the aerial system. It is advisable to have the aerial and lead-in made of a single piece of wire. It is sometimes necessary to splice the lead-in and aerial wires. When so doing it is advisable to make a good electrical joint by soldering. The point should be taped or otherwise covered to prevent corrosion. The lead-in wire should be kept away from the side of the building by at least two feet, avoiding all metal objects, such as eaves, gutter pipes, drain and soil pipes, and telephone or electric wires.

Television in Home Still Appears for The Distant Future

Television in the home is far distant, according to a consensus of visitors to the Radio World's Fair in New York the past week. Television in theaters may become a fact within the next year or so, it is reported. The Radio Corporation of America is said to be nearing the point where it can begin the theater experiments.

The Television Committee of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, through D. E. Replogle, chairman, declares that television will require separate receivers. The advent of commercial television before long is possible, Replogle says, beginning with talkie films, transmission of photographs of outdoor scenes soon after the pictures have been taken and developed, then transmission of pictures of events as they are occurring.

Some experts believe that television in the home can not become a fact through broadcasting, anyway, but will be a matter of wired wireless, or transmission over power and telephone wires.

Fields-Dundee Fight On KSD Wednesday

A description of the fight between Jackie Fields and Vince Dundee, the main bout in Jack Dempsey's first boxing show in Chicago, is to be broadcast over KSD and an NBC chain Wednesday night. Graham McNamee will be at the microphone at the ringside. It is planned to have Dempsey talk to the radio audience at intervals.

The broadcast is scheduled to begin about 10 o'clock.

Dumont in Hemus' Role in His Minstrels

Paul Dumont, actor-producer and former minstrel star will make his debut as end-man with the Dutch Masters' Minstrels next Tuesday night over KWK, taking the role left vacant by the resignation of Percy Hemus.

Dumont will be assisted in his first performance by Al Bernard, his fellow end-man; Carson Robison, novelty vocalist; Steele Jamison and Emil Cote, soloists; Billy Carlino, banjo player, and Harold Sanford's orchestra.

It is no miracle that the C. A. Earl in the six months it has been on the market, has achieved so unparalleled a success.

It seems the most natural thing in the world—if you have heard the C. A. Earl in operation.

Hair-Line Super-Selectivity that gives the owner an absolute mastery of the air. Tone and Volume that represent Realism to the last degree. Distance that puts the world of radio at your finger tips. Silence of operation that makes "hum" and other mechanical noises a thing of the past.

At last, "supreme performance at a reasonable price" becomes a reality. Why don't you let your local dealer demonstrate the C. A. Earl Radio?—or write for his name and catalog of new Models—$99.50 to $225.00.

What's New in Radio Industry

Radio Schools to Be Established in All Principal Cities of U. S. by R. C. A. Subsidiary—Tube Plants Increasing Production—New AC Receiver Has a 'Silent Key'—Proving Station for Receivers—Trade Notes.

The RCA Institutes, Inc., a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, has been formed to establish radio schools in various cities throughout the country to meet the increasing demand for trained radio men. The new organization succeeds the Radio Institute of America, formerly the Marconi Institute, founded in 1909. Rudolph L. Duncan, for years director of the Radio Institute of America, is president of the new organization. Gen. J. G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, is Chairman of the Board.

"It was found necessary to increase the scope of the former Radio Institute of America to nation-wide proportions to meet the unexpected demands for radio-trained men," Duncan says. "Expert operators for marine and air services, radio technicians, service men and mechanics are required in ever-increasing numbers. The organization of RCA Institutes, Inc., using the Radio Institute of America as a nucleus, is designed to help solve this problem. Its headquarters and main school will be at 326 Broadway, New York. The new organization has also acquired the Philadelphia School of Wireless, founded in 1911, and the Eastern Radio Institute of Boston, founded in 1913.

"In addition to the schools in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, new schools will be established soon in Newark and Baltimore, to be followed by others as rapidly as possible until we have resident schools in every principal center of the country. Our resident schools will train students desiring to attend regular classes, and will be available for post-graduate work by correspondence course students.

"Although much of our training takes the form of correspondence courses for radio operators and technicians, elaborate equipment will be maintained at the various schools for regular classes and for post-graduate work.

Breaks Its Tube Records.

Packed production of the Arcturus Radio Tube Co. has been more than doubled within the last few months as a result of expansion of plant and equipment, according to a report by Chester H. Braselton, president. In August, ordinarily considered a slack month in the radio industry, the company broke production records by packing 776,931 tubes, as compared with an average monthly output of 303,697 tubes in the first three months of 1929 and an average monthly production of 60,000 tubes in 1928.

The Arcturus Co. now occupies 195,000 square feet of floor space in the Newark manufacturing district as compared with 35,700 feet in January.

"Silent Key" in These Sets.

By pressing the "silent key" in a Stromberg-Carlson receiver, quiet operation can be obtained, this helping when reception conditions are noisy. All automatic volume control circuits thus far proposed, says Ray H. Manson, chief engineer for Stromberg-Carlson, "increase the sensitivity of the receiver to maximum when the selector is turned to any position where no carrier wave is tuned in thereby amplifying any noise conditions picked up by the antenna to a maximum. This 'silent key' cuts out such noise without requiring any changes in the setting of other controls."

AC Tubes in DC Sets.

In addition to AC receivers, Grebe DC models are being introduced. These use the new AC screen grid tubes, and are said to perform as well as the AC receivers. A C-battery is utilized to add 16 volts to the DC power line voltage available for the push-pull amplifier.

Pointers on 26-Type Tube.

George Perryman of the Perryman Electric Co., Inc., sends these pointers on 26-type tubes:

Before the advent of the new 224 or AC shield grid tube, the average receiver used three types of tubes, namely the 26, 27 and 40. The 26 is an AC tube corresponding to the old all-purpose 201 type used in battery sets. It is used as a radio requency amplifier and frequently as a first audio stage.

An AC current of 1:5 volts is applied directly to the filament of the tube. This carries a certain amount of AC 60-cycle hum, but it is negligible when the tube is used in this manner, as radio frequency does not readily pick up the very low AC hum. The hum introduced when this tube is used as an audio tube, also is very small and hardly noticeable. However, it is not a practical tube to use as a detector, for the nature of a detector tube makes it so sensitive it immediately amplifies any hum until it is objectionable. Neither is it good practice to use this tube in the second audio stage.

Plant Works 23 Hours Daily.

The Ceco Manufacturing Co. reports that it is working its tube plant in Providence, R. I., 23 hours a day. Productive capacity has been increased 400 per cent over a year ago.

Has Set "Proving Station."

One of the first radio set "proving stations" is that erected by Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, on his farm six miles from the Crosley plant.

In addition to oscillator tests at the factory, a small part of the daily production is tested on the air at the proving station. This provides a super-check in determining whether a receiving set has the proper volume, balance, sensitivity and selectivity.

At the proving station, continuous testing on one receiver lasts for several days, and sometimes for weeks. There are several antennas with switching arrangements. The station has A. C., 25 and 60 cycles, and D. C. current, so that all types of sets can be tested.

The tests show what each set will actually do under a wide variety of conditions. WLW's 50,000 watt transmitter is only 15 miles from the proving station, so a set can be tested for performance with a very powerful local signal.

It is reported in New York that the R. C. A. is to market a device called the "Theremin," on which one can produce musical sounds by waving his hands over two steel rods protruding from it. Various tones can be produced and modulated in volume by varying the position of the hands. This device has been demonstrated in this country by the inventor, Prof. Leon Theremin, and has caused comment in Europe.

Radio Entertainers At Store Radio Show

Alma Rotter, noted "Blues Singer" and a number of other broadcasting entertainers appeared at a special show of radio receivers and speakers that was held all the past week on the sixth floor of the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney store building.

The entertainers appeared at the show in concerts twice daily, once at noon and again at 3 o'clock. Representatives of radio factories demonstrated the sets the rest of the day.

Besides Alma Rotter, entertainers at the show included: "Al Jolson Jr." of WIL; the Melody Maids of KMOX; Milton Carr, Mme, Thoms, the Alcho Serenaders, Charles Cave, Meyer Lipsitz, Atalie Claire, Bert Morris, Adrienne Phillips, Millard Glaser, Madelin Jennings, Mary Phillips and others.

Brings Musical Effects Never Before Audible to a Normal Ear

A new Stewart-Warner Discovery

Something utterly new to you in music, unless you are yourself an accomplished musician, is here introduced to the world by Stewart-Warner.

Delicate shades of musical feeling never heard before are now reproduced. Your favorite type of music is glorified. (It thrills you emotionally as it thrills the creative artist.)

A blind musician helped us in this great discovery. He worked with our engineers in testing for delicate tone. He cannot see. But his hearing is twice as sharp perhaps as men who have their sight.

He heard in every song, in every orchestral or instrumental piece of music the most delicate shades of musical feeling.

So we built an entirely new-type circuit that uses either Screen Grid or Balanced Bridge equipment. We found a way to add immensely to the delicacy of tuning by microscopic adjustment of our 4-in-line gang condenser. The result is amazing. Radio Engineers who had been hearing broadcast programs every day for 6 years simply sat back and enjoyed this highest form of music.

Songs came with sweetness and tenderness that appeals directly to the heart. Dance music became irresistible. The marvel of all who hear it is this new interpretation of music. It comes only in the Stewart-Warner.

A radio so improved that it changes all old ideas of performance. A radio so advanced it has plug-in for television. So your radio can be quickly adapted when television apparatus is available. Here, too, is a radio you'll delight in for its power and volume. For it's known the world over as the "Set with the Punch." Stewart-Warner dealers everywhere will be glad to demonstrate it without obligation.

'Empire Builders' Broadcasts Back On Air Tomorrow

A new "Empire Builders" series will be broadcast over an NBC chain on Monday nights, beginning tomorrow at 9:30 p. m. These programs, which last season dramatized episodes in the discovery, settlement and early development of the Northwest, will go on the air over KWK and the following stations in this part of the country: WLW, Cincinnati; KYW, Chicago; WREN, Lawrence, Kan.; WKY, Oklahoma City, and KSTP, St. Paul.

Harvey Hays, who played the "Old Pioneer" in last season's dramalogue, will have a leading part in the new Empire Builders' programs, which will center around American business men whose enterprises are building cities, railroads and factories where the Indian and buffalo once roamed.

The first dramalogue will tell the story of a young Easterner whose faith in the West determined the location of a branch factory of a large Eastern company. A beautiful girl of the Pacific Coast helped change the course of the West's development and brought added complications and interest. Musical selections harmonizing with the scenes will be played.

Bagpipes on WENR Tonight.

The Pierre Kilties of Pierre S. D., will play over WENR at 10:30 tonight. The organization consists of bagpipes, drum and bugle corps.

Program Schedule Expanded by WEW

With its transmitter and studios rebuilt, WEW, St. Louis, is extending its broadcasting schedule.

The lectures on social history by the Rev. Joseph Husslein have been changed from Tuesdays to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoons. Today he is to broadcast a condensation of the talks he has already given. For 12 years he has been an associate editor of "America," a national Catholic weekly, and on the faculty of Fordham University.

Beginning this week the Rev. Thomas S. Bowdern, S. J., will broadcast lectures on education.

On Wednesday evenings at 5 o'clock, the Rev. Lawrence Kenny talks on American history. On Fridays the Rev. Henry Regnet gives library talks; on alternate Mondays the Rev. William Doyle will discuss literature and Charles Hodge will talk on economics.

The 5 o'clock period on Thursdays is reserved for music.

The educational features will be in addition to the regular Sunday broadcasts, incuding the music of the mass and sermon from St. Francis Xavier Church, the daily "Question Box" hour, the doctrinal lectures, and the biweekly Government weather review and the week-day Government programs on home economics and agriculture.

WEW plans to run a wire to the stage of the law school auditorium so that lectures and entertainments there may be broadcast.

Prepare for Chicago Opera Broadcasts

A radio "pick up" is being installed in Chicago's new Civic Opera House, to be used in broadcasting opera during the coming season by the National Broadcasting Co., over a nation-wide chain.

The installation is being made by the man who installed the first "pick up" apparatus for the first opera broadcast ever given in America. He is E. H. Gager, chief engineer of WENR, Chicago. The new equipment will cost $18,000 and will include 12 of the latest type condenser microphones, and complete amplifying and control equipment in duplicate.

Champion Sparkers Coming Back on Air

A new series of Champion Sparkers programs is to be broadcast over an NBC chain, including KWK, beginning next Thursday night, at 7:30. Memorable moments in the ring, on the football field, on the baseball diamond, and the track, are to be reconstructed for listeners.

The Dempsey-Firpo fight will be dramatized in the opening program, which also will bring back the Champion Sparkers' orchestra under Gus Haenschen.

A nationally known announcer, who has a reputation for radio sports broadcasts, is to be master of ceremonies.

News! . . important news for every radio owner! Today, Kolster presents its first models for 1930 —the K-43 and K-44!

Today—you enjoy the newest developments in radio as proved by Kolster engineers—screen grid tubes, equipoised dynamic reproducer, distinctive cabinets and selector tuner.

Remarkable? Of course it is! But the world expects all that of Kolster! The world expects that Kolster will develop selectivity and tone realism to greater heights of enjoyment! The world takes for granted that Kolster cabinets will be unsurpassed once again for beauty, for design!

And the new Kolster completely justifies that confidence! More than ever before, you'll hear one neighbor, then another and still another declare with unbounded enthusiasm, "Kolster is a fine set!"

Tonight!—at your dealer's—see and hear the 1930 Kolster! Ask for a thorough demonstration at home!

New Programs on KSD Today

Godfrey Ludlow, whose violin recital will open KSD's broadcasting at 12:30 this afternoon, is a staff artist for the National Broadcasting Co. He has played in a number of broadcasts, some of them of importance. This afternoon he will play a Sonata in C-major, by Bossi, a contemporary Italian composer. This sonata is in four movements—Moderato, Scherzo, Adagio Elegiaco and Allegro con Fuoco.

The Troika Bells concert is to begin at 1 o'clock. It will be given by Genia Fonariova, soprano, who has won decided popularity on the air, and Alexander Kiriloff's balalaika orchestra. The program will include the following old and new Russian music: "On the Piterskoy" (Russian Folk Song); "Gatchino" (Anderieff); "Northern Star" (Glinka), Genia Fonariova; "Arabian Dance" (Tschaikowsky), Donra solo; "Goodbye, My Village" (Russian Gypsy Song); "Hopak" (Moussorgsky), Genia Fonariova, and "Kamarinskaya" (Glinka).

The Milady's Musicians concert is set for 1:30 this afternoon. Beatrice Belkin, a soprano who has sung frequently with Roxy's Gang, and a trio of ancient instruments—spinet, viola de gamba and viola d'amour—will be featured, and Rameau's "Tambourin" will be played by this trio with flute.

The program is announced as follows: "Trio Sonate" (Gluck), Old World Trio; "O, Had I Jubal's Lyre" (Handel), Beatrice Belkin; "Dance of the Gypsies (Couperin), Spinet; "Andante and Minuet (Milandre), Viola d'Amour and Spinet; "Song of the Shepherd" (Old Norse), Beatrice Belkin; "Rondo" (Borghi), Trio and Flute; "Grave" (Tartini), Viola da Gamba and Spinet; "Gavotte" (Martini), Trio and Flute; "Le Grillon" (Rameau), Beatrice Belkin, and "Tambourin" (Rameau), Trio and Flute.

A Neapolitan Nights concert at 2 o'clock will bring as soloists Giuseppe di Benedetto, tenor; Nino Fucile, baritone; Alba Novella, soprano, and Berta Marchetti, contralto. They will be assisted by Joe Biviano, accordionist; the Paladino mandolin quartet, and a chorus. Di Benedetto, who for a long time was the leading tenor in the NBC National Grand Opera company, will direct the program. Fucile sings leading baritone roles in the radio grand opera productions over KSD and allied stations.

The program will bring: "O, Reggimento in Marcia," Orchestra; "Marusca," Giuseppe di Benedetto; "Mar Chiaro," Alba Novella; "Reminiscenze," Mixed Quartet; Accordion solo, Joe Biviano; "Rondino al Nido," Nino Fucile; "Chiarastella," Giuseppe di Benedetto, and "Semplicita" (Silvestri), orchestra.

Betsy Ayres, soprano, and a string trio will give the "Songs and Bows" program at 2:30 this afternoon.

The "Tea Time Tunes" concert is scheduled for 4:30 o'clock. It will last half an hour and will be given by Mary McCoy, soprano; Lannie Ross, tenor and a string trio. The music programmed includes: "After the Clouds Roll By, from "Half Marriage" (Levant), Mary McCoy; "Lonely Troubador" (Klemmer), Lannie Ross; "March Miniature Viennois" (Kreisler), String trio; "In the Hush of the Night", Mary McCoy and Lannie Ross; "From Bohemian Woods" (Friml), String trio; "Song of the Soul," from "The Climax" (Breil), Mary McCoy; "In the Hills of Kentucky" (Handman), Lannie Ross; "The Song of Love," from "Blossom Time," Soprano and Tenor.

Sven von Hallberg will direct this program of melodies of the Orient at 5 o'clock: "In Old Beirut," "Voices of the Streets," "An Armenian Song," "Like a Little Gazelle" and "Carnival Dance."

The Countess Medalago Albani is to sing these songs over KSD at 5:15 this afternoon: "La Habanera" (Bizet); "Preguntale a las Estrellas" (Folk Song); "Clavelitos" (Valverde); "Nobody Knows" (Grever); "One Alone" (Romberg).

Elizabeth Lennox, contralto, will sing the "Brindisi" from "Lucrezia Borgia" in the Maestro's concert which will be broadcast by KSD at 5:30 this afternoon. Lewis James, tenor, and an orchestra under Cesare Sodero also will take part with her in this program: "Tancred" overture (Rossini), Orchestra; "Je Crois Encore Entendre," from "The Pearl Fishers" (Bizet), Lewis James with orchestra; "Claire de Lune" (Debussy), Orchestra; "Brindisi," from "Lucrezia Borgia" (Donizetti), Elizabeth Lennox, with orchestra; Duet from Act I of "Aida," Contralto and Tenor; Divertissement from "Les Erinnyes" (Massenet) and Saturnales, orchestra.

Robert Denti, first trumpeter of the Capitol Grand Orchestra, who has been with that organization for more than eght years, will be soloist with Major Bowes' radio "family" in the usual broadcast over KSD from 5:30 to 6:30 this afternoon.

He will play an aria from Rossini's "Inflammatus" and one of his own works.

Maj. Edward Bowes of the Capitol Theater Family, is to return to the air tonight following a four-week trip to California.

The "Muted Singers" will be heard for the fourth time this season with the Chase and Sanborn Choral Orchestra over KSD from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

The make-up of this group is known to no one outside of the studios, and the method they use to obtain their harmony effects is a closely guarded secret. This group is composed of outstanding radio stars. Their chief number is to be the old favorite, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise."

Appearing with the "Muted Singers" on the same program will be Ohman and Arden, two-piano team. They will present their own arrangement of George Gershwin's "Got a Rainbow," from "Treasure Girl."

David Lawrence is to give his usual talk on "Our Government" at 8 o'clock.

Graham McNamee has talked to kings, queens, presidents and prizefighters. More persons have heard his voice than that of any other human being living or that ever lived. His baritone voice is to be heard in the Atwater Kent concert at 8:15 tonight over KSD.

Six years ago McNamee was singing over the radio and working part time as an announcer. Then came the Greb-Wilson middleweight championship fight, and the manager of Station WEAF, New York, assigned the young baritone. He made an instant hit. From that day his rise to radio fame was meteoric. The thousands who used to know him as a singer have now swelled to millions, to whom his voice has become a household word whenever big events come through the air. One day he reports a world series game in New York, next week a convention in Chicago, and a few days later perhaps a football game on the Pacific Coast. Political conventions, inaugurations of presidents, receptions to visiting royalties—they are all part of the day's work with him.

Springs; KOA, Denver and KSL, Salt Lake City.

At times WSAI, Cincinnati, and the following supplementary group may be added: WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville; WMC, Memphis, WAPI, Birmingham; WSB, Atlanta and WSMB.

"Because of the pre-eminent position of WLS in agriculture, it was selected as the key station for this new important network," Aylesworth said in his announcement. "The National Broadcasting Co. has always held that the farmer has a great stake in radio, and we have always done everything within our power to aid him in the realization of this. The formation of a new service is a natural development in the policy of the NBC to extend its service and facilities to the greatest advantage of the rural listener at the earliest possible opportunity.

"This agricultural service will be operated from 5 a. m. to 5 p. m. (St. Louis time) and will bring to the more than 7,000,000 farmers within its area the very fullest agricultural radio service that we can design. It will also carry programs, sponsored both by commercial clients and by the NBC, that should reach a new high note in entertainment for the farm."

Romeo and Juliet.

ROBERT BETTS and Grace McGowan, who have been featured as "Romeo and Juliet" on Saturday nights over KMOX, are to present a special farewell program at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening. They will do a version of Liza Lehmann's "In a Persian Garden," from the verses of Omar Khayyam.

This special broadcast is to be given in honor of Betts, formerly a principal in the St. Louis Municipal Opera, who recently won a Julliard Foundation scholarship in singing and is to depart soon for New York for a year in musical study.

In addition to their "Romeo and Juliet" broadcasts, Betts and Miss McGowan have taken part in the "Seth Parker's Singing School" programs over KMOX on Thursday nights. Miss McGowan also is heard from time to time as soloist in other programs on the station.

A Chicago artist was second in the beauty contest for the Radio World's Fair in New York City. She is Irma Glen, staff organist for WENR.

The committee which made the award was composed of Florenz Ziegfeld, New York theatrical producer; McClelland Barclay, nationally known art illustrator; Victor Frisch, noted sculptor; Jess Hawley, vice president of United Reproducers' Corporation, Geneva, Ill., and Charles Metcalf, president of the Bosch Magneto Co., Springfield, Mass.

Youngest official radio announcer in America is said to be Robert Hasenjaeger, 12, who will make all the program announcements on the Billikin Troupers' program over WLW on Thursdays at 8 p m., beginning Oct. 3.

Robert, as the Billikin Page, will name each of the acts' numbers in the manner of vaudeville pages.

His radio debut was several years ago when Ford and Glenn picked him to help them in their Lullaby Time. His dramatic training began at the age of 5 when he began elocution lessons.

Robert is in the eighth grade. He likes to read, likes to swim and is tremendously interested in radio.

Margaret Hamilton, who will be soloist in the Baldwin concert over KWK tonight, began to study the piano at the age of 4 years, could play difficult pieces when she was 5, was writing her own songs and piano compositions at 6, and appeared in public concert when she was 7.

Miss Hamilton went to New York when she was 8 years old and studied at the Institute of Musical Art. When she was 11, she was one of nine composers taking part in the annual Manuscript Song Competition in New York. She won a silver cup for three songs she composed. Last year, no longer a prodigy, but a mature artist, she won the Walter W. Naumburg Musical Foundation prize and was chosen to appear with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under Willem Mengelberg at Carnegie Hall, New York. Then followed engagements with the New York Symphony, the Cincinnati Symphony and the Cleveland Symphony.

"30,000 lives at stake!"

The story of Phil Klipp, chief wireless operator, S. S. Pres. Harding (1923)

"Remember the horrors of Russia back in '22? Well, the lives of 30,000 people depended on my Brandes head phones. At that time I was aboard the S. S. Bellingham, discharging relief cargoes of grain for the city of Theodosia on the Black Sea. Telephone wires — cable wires — the Bolsheviks had destroyed them all. Our only means of communication with the American Relief headquarters in Constantinople, 450 miles away, were my wireless and Brandes head phones. In 12 days, I sent 185,000 words. If my Brandes head phones had gone dead on me — for only a day — ! Well — now you know why anything that carries the name of Brandes stands aces high with me. That new set is a wonder — and such a low price!"

Amazing Value!

Gloria Swanson Will Sing Over KSD On Thursday, Oct. 10

Gloria Swanson is to sing for the first time from an American radio studio on Thursday, Oct. 10, at 9:30 p. m. over the Victor coast-to-coast hookup, including KSD.

She will sing "Love," by Edmund Goulding and Elsie Janis, and Toselli's "Serenade." These songs are rendered by her in "The Trespasser," her first all-talking picture, and she has also sung them for records.

Gloria Swanson's soprano voice took her to Los Angeles, not her desire to enter the film world. She studied singing in Chicago and was sent to a California impressario for further instruction, this advice leading her to Hollywood and the discovery by motion picture directors of her screen possibilities.

Broadcast Awards Committee Named

The board of trustees of the Joseph D. R. Freed Foundation, who will make six annual awards for broadcasting excellence, have approved the zoning of the United States arranged by Carl H. Butman, secretary of the Federal Radio Commission, and an Advisory Committee.

Each of the six award committees will be composed of 12 newspaper editors—one from each of the 12 zone headquarter cities, Boston, Mass.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, O.; Winston-Salem, N. C.; Montgomery, Ala.; Dallas, Tex.; Kansas City, Mo.; Denver, Colo.; Brookings, S. D.; Portland, Ore.; and Los Angeles, Cal., and two members of the lay public to be selected by the Advisory Committee and one well-known educator to be appointed by the board of trustees.

Jesse Crawford Really 'Poet Of the Organ'

organ reproduces accurately every known musical instrument save one. Mandolin, guitar, harp, oboe, saxaphone, bassoon drums, every combination of instruments possible is heard, but the balalaika still remains an impossibility, the quick touch and immediate staccato response of the instrument, defying imitation.

Studied Piano in Orphanage.

Jesse Crawford started life, or that part of it he remembers, in the orphanage of Our Lady of Lourdes at Woodland, Cal., for his parents died when he was very young and there were no friends or relatives to care for the youngster. In the orphanage Crawford received the only schooling he ever had in music, lessons on the well-worn piano, under the painstaking tutelage of Sister Antonio

Two piano lessons a week on an old piano and the opportunity to practice made up Crawford's musical background.

There came a day, however, when the boy's instructress realized she had taught him all she knew; realized he had talent, genius, whereas all she had was years of carefully acquired technique. And about that time also the boy's place in the orphanage was needed for a younger lad, one less able to fend for himself than was Crawford.

So Jesse Crawford set out, unknown, ignorant of the world, to make his way. Many hundred weary miles were covered on foot; many long months of discouragement were passed before he found a job playing the piano in a motion picture theater in South Park, Wash., a suburb of Spokane. It was a small job in a small theater, with another small and none too well tuned piano but Crawford was looking ahead, beyond his $5 a week salary. He knew that his ideas of music, well grounded as they were, would never do for motion picture work, but he stuck to it, held his job for three years and taught himself piano playing as applied to theater work.

Took a Chance With Organ.

At the end of three years he had found the proper way to interpret in music the various emotions depicted by the actors in the flickering films, and had discarded as outworn most of his carefully acquired ideas from laborious days of practice at the orphanage. With this knowledge of piano as applied to pictures, and an unusual stock of common sense, he cast about for further opportunity. He wanted to play the organ, for on one or two occasions he had heard the small and inefficient theater instruments of that day, and saw the possibilities in musical expression offered by them.

He had no money for lessons, no friends of musical importance to speak for him, but he located a smaller theater with an organ and left his position, then paying him $25 a week, for the other house where he was paid only $10, but had the organ to play on and to study.

No one knows, least of all, Crawford himself, how he ever managed to get through the first performance in his new position. The bass was played with the feet, the treble with the hands, and outside of that he knew nothing of the instrument. The boy had a half an hour before the matinee in which to find out what to do with three keyboards instead of one, and in some way figured out the pedals and keys, joined up a simple bass octave with the treble tones and finished the afternoon without losing the position.

Submerged for Two Years.

For two years more Crawford remained hidden. He had no instructor, no books of instruction, but he did have determination, infinite patience, a wealth of talent, and youth. At the end of two years more he has a finished, dependable organist, self-taught, and in love with the instrument.

During those two years he had experimented, practiced, worked. He found strange combinations of stop and pedal, made weird sounds aplenty with his experiments, but mastered the organ. In the early mornings before the theater was opened, in the late hours after the show had closed, he practiced. Summer and winter, day and night, tired or rested, sick or well, Crawford stuck to his organ through sheer love of it until at the end of those two grueling years he had a more than local reputation and an ability which was the envy of far more experienced, better-schooled men in his field.

Success Rapid at Last.

His reputation spread and he went from the little theater to a larger one, where a larger audience heard him play and from which a still better position was offered. So he progressed, each change finding a better position and a larger, more up-to-date organ on which to play, until finally Sid Grauman chose him to open what was then the world's largest motion picture house, the million-dollar theater in Los Angeles. From Los Angeles Crawford went to Chicago, where he played at the Chicago and Tivoli Theaters, and at last, about three years ago, came to New York as organist for the greatest motion picture theater in the world, the Paramount Theater.

It was while he was playing in Chicago, incidentally, that he met the future Mrs. Crawford, herself an organist of more than ordinary ability. There is a similarity between the careers of Mrs. Crawford and her husband, for Helen Crawford also started her work as pianist for a small motion picture theater. She was offered the opportunity to learn the organ when another theater installed a small instrument as an experiment, and did not feel like employing an experienced, more expensive player. At the time Jesse went to Chicago Mrs. Crawford was playing in one of the largest theaters in the city, and met him at a dance given by the organists' club. Six months after the meeting they were married.

Ground connections should not be made at the same point as telephone or electric lighting grounds.

FADA THRILLS PUBLIC WITH NEW VIBRA-CONTROL RADIO

Experts Praise Revolutionary Tone Realism

VIBRA-CONTROL has taken the city by storm!

Uptown... downtown... in the smart suburbs... wherever radios are discussed people are saying, "That's the tone I've been waiting for—amazingly natural, absolutely true ... I never thought it could be done."

And no wonder! For Vibra-Control shatters all previous conceptions of radio realism. No more hums, rumbles or roars ... no more phantom stations to interfere and blur the sound ... no more "throaty" tangled tones ... for with Vibra-Control every note, every exquisite shading comes to you exactly as broadcast ... nothing is lost, nothing is added, nothing has been distorted.

Here's the way it looked in front of a Fada dealer's ... and below is an illustration of one of the console models that's drawing the crowds.

Vibra-Control Solves Radio's Greatest Problem

Sounds revolutionary, and it is! For Vibra-Control (the complete control of all radio vibrations) was only possible when Fada engineers had so completely perfected and coordinated the receiver, speaker and console that each note is caught and reproduced just as it enters the microphone.

How this was finally accomplished is a long technical story. But you can prove to yourself in five minutes at any Fada dealer's what Vibra-Control will mean to you.

Eventually others must follow; but remember, for the present Fada alone can offer a series of receivers that embody complete Vibra-Control.

There is a Fada to suit every home. Priced from $99.50 to $675. You will find a choice of table and console models in a superb selection of cabinets. By all means, see them today.

VIBRA-CONTROL FADA 25

"Dracula" Starts Season

Mystery Play at the American Tonight to be followed by Five Weeks of the Theater Guild—Shubert Announces Joe Cook in "Rain or Shine" for October 13—Local Theater Society Plans to Open on October 22—Many Dramas and Musical Plays Scheduled for the Winter.

By H. H. NIEMEYER

WITH considerable eclat, or possibly only aplomb, the local theatrical season, laughingly called the legit, will get going tonight with the presentation of the mystery meller "Dracula" at the American. There has been a slight delay in the starting of the dramatic year due to the fact that questions of art had to be discussed at considerable length by Abe. Erlanger, Jake Shubert and the stage hands and musicians union but now that all the finer matters have been more or less amicably settled the Drama will be allowed to proceed.

The American will have the field to itself for a week or so for, unless some quick shifts in bookings are made, the Shubert will not throw open its doors until Oct. 13 when the comic Joe Cook will arrive with the big musical show, "Rain or Shine." Efforts are being made to bring in Irene Bordoni in "Paris" next Sunday night but other contracts seem likely to block that plan and the opening honors will probably remain with Joe Cook.

And, according to present plans, the Theater Society of St. Louis expects to begin its season at the revamped Gayety, now the Plaza, on or about Oct. 21.

Theatergoers who enjoy a quick-fire procession of super-quality thrills, surprises, shudders and sensations will find in "Dracula" just what they are searching for if advance reports are to be believed. Ever since somebody—they do say Burne-Jones, but it's beyond believing—painted that screaming potboiler of an elongated Theda Bara sitting on the end of Mr. Kipling's bedstead, the word "vampire" can be bought for two cents in the Hollywood coinage and "Dracula" will at least remind us that the original vampire buried her fangs into better things than heavy sugar daddies.

THE play is founded on Bram Stoker's novel of the same name, a novel that has thrilled two generations of readers with the horror of its story, the mystery of its unfolding and the suspense of its climax. For a year in New York, at the Fulton Theater, "Dracula" played to capacity audiences and was one of the most discussed plays that the metropolis has had in many years.

The dramatization of "Dracula" for the English stage was made by Hamilton Deane and has proven one of the most sensational successes England has ever known. It is now in its fourth year there and is still playing in London. The cast to be seen here is the one that appeared in the New York run of the piece. In includes Raymond Huntley, Joan Colburn, Bernard Jukes, Virginia Wallace, Terrence Neill, Wallace Widdecombe, Lester Allen and Carl Reed.

"DRACULA" is to remain for two weeks and following in rapid succession the American will offer a long list of dramatic and musical shows. Included in the American's plans for the year is the subscription season of high-class dramatic attractions sponsored by the New York Theater Guild. The first of these, "Caprice," by Sil Vara, with a cast including Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, follows "Dracula," opening Monday night, Oct. 14. The Guild's production of "Pygmalion" is scheduled for Oct. 21, "Major Barbara" for Oct. 28, "Wings Over Europe" for Nov. 4 and "Strange Interlude" for Nov. 11. In February the Theater Guild will present "Marco Millions."

Among the other dramatic attractions now definitely booked for the American are Bert Lytell in "Brothers," the Stratford-on-Avon Shakspearean players in repertory, William Gillette in a revival of "Sherlock Holmes," Mrs. Fiske in a repertory including "Becky Sharpe" and Francine Larrimore in "Let Us Be Gay."

The musical attractions will include three Ziegfeld productions—"Show Boat," "Show Girl" and Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee"; Earl Carroll's presentation of "Fioretta" starring Leon Errol, Earl Carroll's "Vanities" with a cast headed by W. C. Fields; Lew Leslie's

What News the Rialto

By Robert Littel

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, in Wiesbaden, died a man whose name is barely known to one out of every hundred American theatergoers. He was a country doctor, he liked to fish and—for he was also a playwright—there was more genius in his little finger than in all of O'Neill and ten other assorted American playwrights of all sizes. His name—and please don't forget it—was Chekhov, Anton Pavlovich Chekhov, to be exact. His plays—plays which must be included among the great plays of the world no matter how you reckon them—have from time to time found polite and puzzled favor among the chosen audiences of special matinees for a few days or at best, a few weeks. That is, until the courageous Eva LaGallienne decided that her Civic Repertory Theater here would be enriched by such immortal treasures as "The Cherry Orchard," "Three Sisters" and the "Seagull."

And down on Fourteenth street, where the patrons do not pay $4 and 40 cents via the broker, and will listen to something beside crook melodramas and song and dance shows, at least two of these three plays are enormously successful, and enchant us with thick, strange slices of real life, with the intertwined tragedies of small people who are so much like people all over the world that it is hard to see why Chekhov has never before received his due as the most perceiving of all modern playwrights.

MISS LE GALLIENNE'S company have just added "The Seagull," Chekhov's first play, to their repertory. It is an experience so moving and so simple that most other plays one can think of, and all American plays to date without exception, seem thin and forced and artificial by comparison. One cannot extract from it the story and give people who have not seen it anything that is not the crude, hard-shadowed silhouette of a wonderfully secret and mobile face. A story of frustration, boredom, imprisoned feelings, gusty moods, humorous and tragic, with an undercurrent of heart-rending triviality and a few cruel facts such as abandonment, unhappy love and suicide.

A young writer who keeps tearing up his vague, promising failures, a successful writer whose tragedy it is that he must always write, write, who unwillingly sees life in terms of material for future short stories. And a provincial girl loved by the former and seduced, broken by the latter. Together with fragments from other lives, a selfish emotional actress, a retired jurist who wants to live, a loyal doctor, a weak school teacher and his wife, and a country house by the side of a lake, and games of lotto by candlelight.

It is a story so quiet that in other hands it would often halt and run down, but in the hands of Chekhov it moves forward like the secret growth of some human yeast, because each character is alive, because each one of these people, beside having his part in the main story, has a private life of his own which the author, however briefly, understands and loves.

IN most plays there are a few main characters, and the others either feed their story or offer comic relief from it, but are chained to it and live for no other reason than to contribute to it in some way or other. In "The Seagull" every character on the stage, with a few touches, a few words, becomes real and known to us.

It is a play that cannot possibly be described, because all the effects are so subtle and so invisibly built up into a whole. You cannot catch the thread in the beginning and follow it without your finger until the end. The thread is knotted and crossed with other threads, each life goes on independently and also is affected, in ways you cannot always see, by all the other lives. And as that is the way things happen, it requires almost as much art to explain and reproduce Chekhov to others as he required to create the people and moods to be explained.

Miss Le Gallienne's company improves extraordinarily with every season. Three or four years ago, her first Chekhov play, "Three Sisters," was a brave and sincere attempt, but thin and strained and a little lifeless. "The Cherry Orchard" was much better, but, as too often happens on Fourteenth street, the women were far more capable than the men. In "The Seagull" it is evident that the whole company, as well as individual actors, have made great strides, and in the first part of the play at any rate they give us a depth of feeling and a comprehension which makes the greatness of the play sweep over one in a long wave. Toward the end they lose their grasp, and begin to recite words rather than create characters, but it is on the whole an admirable job, and Jacob Ben-Ami's reading of Trigorin's great speech is an extraordinarily able piece of work. "The Seagull" is something not to be missed on any account.

Capps at St. Louis.

Kendall Capps, a young St. Louisan whose specialty is singing and dancing, is appearing in a special engagement at the St. Louis Theater this week. His number consists of singing and dancing, while playing the uke, banjo or saxophone. Immediately after his appearance here he will go to New York where he has been cast in the Greenwich Village Follies which open at the New York Winter Garden in October.

Symphony Set For Its Golden Jubilee Season

Program to Start on Nov. 1 With Many Novelty Works to Be Presented During the Winter at the Odeon.

THE Golden Jubilee programs of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, which opens its fiftieth season at the Odeon with concerts on Friday afternoon, Nov. 1, and Saturday evening, Nov. 2, will offer this year a proportion of about one novelty in every four works presented. But there is a seeming manifest tendency among those programs to present "first-time" works not so much as representative of the particular school of music to which the guest conductor belongs as in respect to their position in standard concert repertory.

Thus, while Senor Arbos, who opens the season, will bring to St. Louis again some fine examples of characteristic Spanish music for a first-time hearing, his very first program will present not only two of his own transcriptions of those fascinating Albinez pieces, but the "Also Spake Zarathustra" of Richard Strauss. That, too, is a "first-time' presentation in St. Louis—for all that it has been accepted in the concert halls of the world for 33 years.

Arbos is now in Madrid after a successful summer season with his Royal Orchestra. He plans to leave Europe on Oct. 9 on the Ile de France, and will reach St. Louis about Oct. 19, to begin the two weeks of intensive preparation which will precede the season here. Arbos will conduct seven pairs of symphony concerts, the last being an all-Wagner program just before Christmas, for which Florence Austral will be soloist. Immediately after the new year Bernardino Molinari comes for two pairs of symphony concerts, and he is to be followed in turn by Georg Szell, who makes his American debut here with the concerts of Jan. 24-25, and Eugene Goossens comes on Feb. 28-March 1, to bring the season to its close with five pairs of concerts.

MOLINARI is at present engaged in preparing the Augusteo concerts at Rome, of which he is artistic director. He had splendid success last summer in Hollywood Bowl and has been re-engaged for those concerts next summer, as has Eugene Goossens who followed the brilliant success of his opera, "Judith," in London with conductorial triumphs on the Pacific Coast later in the past summer. Georg Szell the fourth of the Golden Jubilee year's guest conductors, is now happily launched in his new duties as musical director of the city of Prague, for which he recently resigned as artistic director of the Staats-Oper at Berlin.

The Symphony Orchestra is now able to announce the complete role of its soloists for the coming season. Szell will appear as pianist as well as conductor. Another pianist added to the list is Rudolph Reuter, the brilliant young American. Mme. Maria Olszewska, contralto, has been forced to cancel her engagement because of her contract with the Chicago Opera company, but her place is taken by Katherine Meisle. And to the list of vocalists is added Mme. Mary Molinari, wife of the guest conductor under whom she sang an incidental off-stage solo last season in "Singing Sicily" with a beauty of voice that captivated her hearers.

The full list then includes the following pianists: Rudolph Ganz, Vladimir Horowitz, Alfred Cortot, Rudolph Reuter, Georg Szell; vocalists, Florence Austral, Katherine Meisle and Mme. Molinari; violinists, Mischa Elman, Yelly D'Aranyi and Nathan Milstein; Louis Bailly, violist, and Alexander Thiede, concertmaster, and Max Steindel, first cellist of the orchestra in the Brahms double concerto for those instruments.

ARBOS has prepared some distinguished programs with which to launch the season. His inaugural concert will present Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, the Strauss "Thus Spake Zarathustra," the Bach-Bantock Chorale Variee, and his own transcriptions of the Albeniz "El Puerto" and "Navarra." Mme. Meisle, soloist of his second concert, will sing the "Che Faro" aria from Gluck's "Orfeo," and a group of songs with orchestra. The program has the "Leonore No. 3" overture, Schumann's Fourth symphony, the "Nocturnes-Serenade," of Mozart, and the "Dance of the Seven Veils" from Strauss' "Salome."

Alfred Cortot, soloist of the third symphony pair will play DeFalla's "Nights in the Gardens of Spain" and Franck's "Symphonic Variations" with the orchestra. Haydn's G major Symphony No. 13, the Andante from Mozart's Cassation No. 7, and the Second "Daphnis and Chloe" suite of Ravel complete that program.

Music Back in the Cinemas

Strike Settlement Being Made and Ambassador Will Return to Its Stage Show With Eddie Lowry Once More Acting as Master of Ceremonies—Missouri, Too, to Have Orchestra in Pit, but Some Neighborhood Show Houses Will Be Forced to Shut Up Shop.

IT can be definitely stated now that the strike of the musicians in the Ambassador and Missouri Theaters and the neighborhood houses of the St. Louis Amusement Co. will be settled. In all probability the end of this week will find the players back in the orchestra pits as a result of the arbitration efforts of John Nick of the Stage Hands Union and Oscar Kleintopf, head of the picture machine operators. These two, ordered by their national unions to call a sympathy strike if the musicians' troubles were not settled within a stated time, began at once to bring the Skouras Brothers and the orchestra men to a point where some sort of a compromise agreement could be reached. While a few things remain to be ironed out it is certain now that the warring factions will get together.

The bone of contention—the number of men to be employed in the smaller theaters of the St. Louis Aumsement Co.—will be settled along lines fairly agreeable to both sides with the Skourases, although disclaiming all responsibility for the neighborhood circuit, probably agreeing to engage a certain number of musicians but reserving the right to use them where, if not when, they please.

This will mean enlarged orchestras at the Missouri and Ambassador and the almost immediate return to the latter theater of Eddie Lowry who opened last week in Newark, N. J., where he went over with a bang. When he comes back the Ambassador will return to its stage show policy and the Missouri will have Irving Rose's orchestra with Milton Slosser once more doing his stuff at the organ.

This settlement does not include the independent neighborhood houses which still must come to terms with the Musicians' Union. Nor is Loews taking part in the adjustment pending. The latter theater has refused to negotiate with the musicians at all, having done away with the orchestra there before the present trouble started. It is around Loews present policy, if persisted in, that some real trouble will be brewing as soon as the Skouras matter is settled.

ST. LOUISANS have always taken special delight in the success of "The Vagabond King" both at the Shubert Theater and at the Municipal Opera. The story of how the musical play was partly written here and how Russell Janney tried his best, only to meet with failure, to interest local money in making the initial production, has been told many times. This week, out at the Fox Theater Janney's young son, William, has a leading part in the picture "Salute" and his work on the screen will be watched with great interest. William went to Hollywood with his mother in 1919 but at 14 returned to New York to play a minor role in "Merton of the Movies," which starred Glenn Hunter.

After three years with this show Janney returned to Hollywood to enter Hollywood High School having studied in the meantime at the Professional Children's School in New York. He took two years of high school work there.

His plan was to go to Yale, the alma mater of his father. However, at 18, he was recalled to New York to play the title role in "Tommy." This engagement lasted two years. A year ago Henry Duffy took him to Hollywood once more to appear in this play.

When Mary Pickford was preparing to film "Coquette," Janney sought an interview for the role of the brother. After two weeks of unsuccessful battering at the studio gates he obtained an introduction to Sam Taylor, director, through Jack Lloyd, a scenario writer. Taylor was impressed and, in turn, arranged for the youth to meet Miss Pickford. Eventually he was singled out from the dozens of candidates.

Fox then signed Janney for one of the principal roles in "Salute," the John Ford all talking picturization of Tristram Tupper's and John Stone's story, which has the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis as its background. In this Fox Movietone picture Janney is a midshipman.

The Story of A Great
MarineBand

THE United State Marine Band — "The President's Own" — which will be heard in concert at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park next Sunday afternoon and night, under the auspices of the Municipal Theater Association, has the distinction of being the oldest musical organization in the United States. By its side the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, which celebrates its Golden Jubilee year with the coming season, is a mere child for the Marine Band is 131 years old, having been authorized by an Act of Congress of 1798, coming into existence that year as an organization consisting of drum major, fife major and 32 drums and fifes.

Even then it had direct ancestors, for when the Continental Congress in 1775 authorized the Marines those soldiers of the sea had their own bands aboard the fighting frigates of the first American Navy and the United States Marine Band claims as its ancestors those three figures familiar to every American in the popular picture "The Spirit of 1776"—those two drummers and that fifer, who, representing youth, maturity and age, march at the head of Washington's Continental troops, leading them on to victory.

Groups of 10 were the Marine bands of that day, lacking in splendor of uniform, and perhaps in musicianly training, yet so far from lacking in spirit that they not only established the tradition of their successor of 150 years later, but helped establish the tradition of a nation as well.

PHILADELPHIA was the first home of the original Marine Band, for Washington was not yet the Nation's capital. In 1800 the Marine Corps Band was removed to that city when it became the seat of Government, and the first press notice of a concert by it is dated July 10, 1800, and praises the "animating notes of martial music" it provided for a gathering of the Society of the Cincinnati—the military society of the officers of the Continental Army—held at that time in the City Tavern in Philadelphia. Two days later the Band was removed to Washington, along with the United States Marine Corps headquarters, for it was a part of the Marine Corps until in 1861 it became, at the opening of the Civil War, a distinct musical unit.

St. Louis remembers the United States Marine Band for the part it took in the opening of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in this city in 1904. For that, too, there was a reason, a reason which dates back to the early days when the traditions of the organization came into being. For the first real patron of the United States Marine Band was Thomas Jefferson, the greatest achievement of whose administration the St. Louis World's Fair commemorated 100 years after.

WITH Jefferson the Marine Band became a part of the social and national life of the new Republic. That President loved music and he interested himself greatly in the band which he called upon to furnish music for his private and public entertainments. They were soldiers, these musicians, who stood guard, went out to fight, laid aside their instruments for their arms or their arms for their instruments as the occasion demanded. Jefferson had already found a place for the musicians in the civic and national life at the young capital. But it remained for Dolly Madison, wife of his Secretary of State, official hostess of the White House during the tenure of that widowed President, and later of her own right mistress when James Madison succeeded to the highest office of the land, to bring the band to its full glory.

For Dolly Madison sought to develop a social life about the White House. She saw possibilities of social brilliance in music and in the splendor of uniforms, and she called upon the band to play in the hall of Long's Hotel, at the first Inaugural Ball ever held in this Republic, while she, gowned in yellow velvet, and wearing a turban of the same material, trimmed with bird of paradise, demurely advanced at her husband's side to the strains of its "Madison's March" which was written especially for that occasion.

Inevitably, then, when President Madison, with his wife at his elbow, inaugurated the first of the New Year's receptions which have become traditional at the White House, the United States Marine Band was called upon to play and since those days of more than a century ago it has always served in like capacity, until it has become "the President's own" indeed.

THERE were semi-official appearances in Washington in those early years, too. And the band had scarcely been domiciled in Washington a month before there appears in the diary of a Mrs. Thornton, the statement that on August 21 she had "journeyed to the Hill to hear the band" in an open air civic concert. On July 4, 1801, it was called upon to play at the White House celebration of the nation's birthday.

With the War of 1812 the band went into active service. But peace time activities were resumed thereafter and it was called upon for public celebrations of national character as well as for those of the President's own household. Thus when the nation sought to honor the Marquis de Lafayette upon the occasion of his visit to America in 1824 the Marine Band was called upon to provide a musical program.

Perhaps the most amusing incident of its history occurred Feb. 22, 1837, when President Andrew Jackson had it play at the White House the while the residents of Washington and vicinity were participating in the cutting of a 1400-pound cheese which one of "Old Hickory's" admirers had sent him from New York. Even the United States Senate had adjourned to do honor to that occasion, and besides Washington, Baltimore, Alexandria and Richmond had sent large delegations of citizens to be present at the unique function.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN admired the United States Marine Band and it was under his first administration that it received its first recognition as a distinct musical unit of the military, and on July 25, 1861, it was authorized by Congress as a band of 31 musicians, whose salary was to range from $17 to $90 a month—the latter the bandmaster's wage. Incidentally it is one of its proud traditions that the band was present when Lincoln delivered his famous Gettysburg speech. In 1899 its membership was doubled by act of Congress, and a symphony orchestra was organized within the band. It is as an orchestra it has functioned at White House entertainments for the last 30 years.

In the course of its history it has played for the wedding of one President—Grover Cleveland, who advanced to claim Frances Folsom as his bride to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The same band played the Lohengrin march for the wedding of Nellie Grant to Algernon Sartoris, and a generation later for the wedding of Alice Roosevelt to Congressman Nicholas Longworth.

It is far more than 50 years ago that John Philip Sousa joined the United States Marine Band and it is almost 50 years ago that he became the leader of that famous organization, laying at once the foundations for his great musical success. For 12 years he continued at its helm, building up its standards of musicianship, its musical library, its class of programs, and finally under the administration of President Harrison securing permission to make a tour of the United States with the organization—its first. He was succeeded by Capt. Fanchiulli, and he, after a brief service, by Capt. Santelmann, who after directing the famous organization for 29 years, retired two years ago, delivering the baton to Capt. Taylor Branson, the present director, whose entire life since he was 17 has been spent in the ranks of the organization.

BEHIND THE SCREENS
OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

Rudy Vallee Looks Upon Hollywood As a Sort of Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.

RUDY VALLEE, that softly crooning favorite child of fortune, really works for a living, believe it or not. He considers his Hollywood sojourn, to make his first talkie, something like a vacation, while most of Broadway's pets who hie themselves hither for that purpose are appalled at first by the rather strenuous exactions of studio production schedules.

RUDY VALLEE

But Rudy has something worse to anticipate when he returns East after completing "The Vagabond Lover." Here is a fair approximation of his schedule then:

He is to play four shows a day at the Paramount, New York, with five on Sundays. After that he and the "Connecticut Yankees" chase over to a night club to play more, giving the flappers who haven't the price of cover charge a chance to listen in by the radio which made Rudy famous.

The mornings (if any) they spend rehearsing, figuring out new song arrangements, and Rudy himself confers with music publishers about new tunes. Once a week they all traipse over to make phonograph recordings. In-between-times Rudy must take care of mail and other personal and business matters, with the aid of his secretary.

Fan mail from New York's flappers keeps mounting—and Rudy, who seemingly has a practical and not badly turned head in spite of all his popularity, is reaping his hay before the sun wanes.

VALLEE, by the way, presents a peculiar paradox. He is, in most feminine minds among his fans, romance personified. Yet he does not look the part, and knows he doesn't. Looking squarely in the camera, he can never worry John Gilbert. His profile is better, but even so Barrymore need feel no alarm. Rudy will never look the part of a "romantic lover." Rudy, he confesses, would very much like to look the part.

What Vallee is is a very clean-cut, confident young fellow, not unaware, that, however it came to pass, he possesses great charm for an important half of the theatergoing population, and determined to capitalize on that good fortune while it lasts.

And even the most spiteful men hereabouts, whether they like Rudy personally, have been heard to admit that they enjoy his singing and the unraucous jazz of his orchestra.

LUPE VELEZ, now "locationing" in Florida, is to play that Spanish wife of the blind Irish bard in "Blind Raftery" . . . with Donald Novis, one of radio's contributions to the talkies, playing opposite . . . Fritzi Ridgeway is the only woman in "Three Godfathers" . . . while Gary Cooper has no sweetheart in "Medals" . . . Incidentally Gilbert's first talkie, "His Glorious Night," is being prepared now for release soon . . . Lillian Gish, last of the silent screen stars to try a talkie, is expected in Hollywood soon to start on Ferenc Molnar's "The Swan." Conrad Nagel, Marie Dressler and Rod La Rocque are in the cast . . . Yvonne Howell, who had several good roles in the days of silent pictures, recently filled out an application blank in the casting office of the Paramount studios, stating that among her qualifications is an ability to giggle. She giggled her way into the cast of "Darkened Rooms," which stars Evelyn Brent.

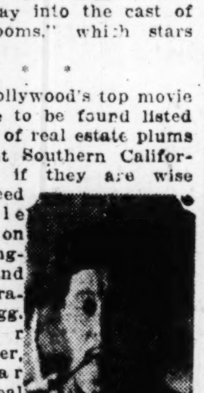
MOST of Hollywood's top movie names are to be found listed as owners of real estate plums scattered about Southern California — that is, if they are wise enough to heed that invisible handwriting on every dressing-room wall and lay away the traditional nest-egg.



WARNER OLAND

Warner Oland, however, has gone far afield for his real estate investments, and his prize holdings are a continent's width apart. He may enjoy the right to be "different" that way because he is a Russian-Swedish actor, and kindly, too, enjoying his greatest movie success in roles of oriental villainy.

Oland, born on a Swedish farm in the far North, lived in New York City 20 years, and in Boston five years before that.

"But I guess," he says, "I'll always be a farmer at heart."

Up in Southborough, Mass., is the Broadlands estate, a quaint old place rich in historical associations, which Oland has owned for years. The manor house, refurbished and renovated by Mrs. Oland, but standing practically as it was when first constructed in 1780, is set amid gardens of old roses and lilacs, and an old Italian caretaker is paid to cherish the grapevines and orchard which Oland himself planted. Neither the actor nor Mrs. Oland has visited Southborough in the last two years, yet neither would dream of selling it. They hope to go there this winter.

EIGHT years ago, returning from the East by way of the Panama Canal, the couple journeyed to Mexico leisurely, and became interested in an island off the coast. Sight unseen, he purchased land on it because it was purported to have rich cocoanut groves. These, he found on visiting it, existed only in the agent's imagination, but the natural charms of the place overwhelmed him. Figs, guavas, pineapples were growing wild, game was abundant, the silvery beach and opulent woodlands enchanted him. Gradually he has increased his holdings there to 222 acres, and a large portion of a neighboring island, around which Cortez and his warriors moved centuries ago, now also is his own. Some day, when through with talkies for good, Oland plans to spend all his winters there.

Nearer the studio, Oland finds compensation meanwhile in his home on Rincon beach near Santa Barbara, where he spends every possible week-end.

Last autumn, vacationing there, he set out a few fruit trees, a dozen or so of lemons and avocados and walnuts. He cultivates and prunes them himself.

Warner Oland loves land. And tilling it is one actor's idea of a "larruping good time."

How Gloria Swanson Brought Luck To Two Leading Men

PLAYING leading man to Gloria Swanson in silent picture days seems to have brought luck to at least two young men who since have become talkie "finds." John Boles, singing on the New York stage when brought to Hollywood to play opposite Gloria in "Sunya," cut no great figure in silent movies, but had he not appeared in the Swanson picture he might never have come west to seek fame in screenland.

LARRY GRAY

As it happened, he came, played and stayed, the result being that when talkies arrived he was already on the ground floor, his singing ability known.

His selection for the lead in "The Desert Song" placed him in the top ranks of the screen's singing stars before most of the Broadway importations had had time to heed the call of Hollywood.

The newest singing "discovery," who also played leads in Swanson pictures, is Larry Gray, officially billed on programs of "Marianne" as Lawrence Gray. His performance and singing in that filmusical have earned him a long-term contract, and the masculine lead with Vivian and Rosetta Duncan in "Cotton and Silk."

Larry Gray rose from the extra ranks. He cheerfully admits the loss of his job as a production superintendent at Paramount, after which, needing work, he joined the mob that haunts the casting offices. He worked up to bits, and at length won the lead opposite Betty Bronson in her first starring picture after "Peter Pan."

BUT it was as the screen lover of Gloria Swanson that he attracted most of the little attention which a silent screen "second fiddle" is capable of attracting. And he admits that Gloria taught him much of whatever he knows today about acting.

"I was awkward, knew none of the tricks, and could do little. But she took me in hand," he says, "and showed me how to 'take a scene,' and never seemed to care if the camera spotted me as well as herself. Some stars as big as she is might object to sharing the lens so freely, but not Gloria."

Gray, in silent picture days, used to sing between scenes to amuse himself and the rest of the players. That meant little then—as little as the warbling of rhapsodies to a group of deaf-mutes—as far as professional advancement was concerned. But when Hollywood began to talk talkies that singing was remembered. Today it has put him on the road to genuine recognition.

LESS than a year ago she was beginning nervously to think of some other possible means of livelihood than the movies. The New York stars were coming to Hollywood in droves, and what could a mere movie actress hope to do in the talkies?

JEAN ARTHUR

Jean Arthur's fears were like those of many another "mere movie actress" in a Hollywood which cringed uncertainly on the brink of oblivion as Broadway's hosts made triumphant challenge.

Nor were her fears entirely groundless. To tell the awful truth, Jean Arthur, after some four years of movie struggling, actually received a kindly notice that there was little chance her contract would be renewed. The talkies had "got" her.

But, as the subtitles used to say, came a championing hero from the same New York which was sending its stage favorites to gather the talkie fruits, a hero to slay, for Jean Arthur as for several others, this dragon of talk.

John Cromwell, Broadway director, could see no reason why a young lady who had been able to express herself since childhood could not continue to do so before a microphone. And microphone tests proved he was right. Jean Arthur has stayed on at the same studio, with better and better parts. She has a low-pitched, musical voice, which registered like the proverbial million.

Voice Makeup Latest Demand

VOICE makeup is the latest requirement demanded of the screen player and extra.

With the reign of King Microphone, those before the camera can no longer merely look a type. They must sound a type as well. Casting directors are filing their men and women according to linguistic talents and assigning them bits and parts, first by speech and second, by appearance. Just as players always have added a beard, painted on a black eye or drawn wrinkles to represent a character, they are now dropping r's or h's, slurring their words and injecting phrases peculiar to the role.

The player who has at his command several foreign languages and who can learn dialects quickly is the man of the hour. Looking back over the pictures released since the advent of sound, it is interesting to note that more than seventy-five per cent of them stray from pure English diction.

Nationalities, social strata and locales all influence the dialogue of the actor, says Jesse P. Lasky, first vice president of Paramount Famous Lasky, in charge of production. In the beginning of talkies, producers worried when a society belle had the vocal tones of a cranberry merchant.

Now that such belles have taken to practicing their scales with no little energy, the producers are concerning themselves with the Irish gentleman who has an Oxford accent, and the actress, whose southern drawl is too pronounced to ever risk in a London scene, in which they wanted to place her.

"DRACULA" TO START DRAMATIC SEASON AT AMERICAN TONIGHT

LUCILLE LUTREL, representing the Theater Guild of New York, will be at the American Theater beginning tomorrow to receive and allot subscriptions to the first St. Louis season of the Guild, which opens, as said above, Oct. 14, with "Caprice." Miss Lutrel will explain the benefit of the Guild's subscription plan and will furnish other information pertinent to that organization's St. Louis season. While the Guild will also send "Strange Interlude" to the American Theater for a return engagement of one week starting Nov. 11.

The Guild is leaving nothing undone to awaken interest in the St. Louis season. Thousands of theatergoers have been circularized during the past few months and starting tomorrow Mrs. Samuel Scott, a well-known St. Louis play-reader and speaker on theatrical topics, will address a number of local clubs, organizations and schools on the Guild and its plays. Her first lecture will be to members of the St. Louis Art League. On Tuesday she will address the Scottish Rite Club and the St. John's Business and Professional Women's Club; on Wednesday, the Morse School of Expression and the Young Men's Hebrew Association; on Thursday the Zonta Club, and on Friday, Mary Institute and the Town Club. The following week Mrs. Scott has been booked for a talk at Sacred Heart School on Monday, at the Lions Club on Wednesday and at Hosmer Hall on Friday.

Arrangements for Mrs. Scott's lectures are being made by Paul Beisman, manager of the American Theater, who announced yesterday that he would be glad to receive invitations from other local clubs, schools and organizations for Theater Guild talks during the coming two weeks.

THE SHUBERT announces a long list of attractions to come to the Grand avenue house following "Rain or Shine." The first of these named is the musical offering, "Pleasure Bound," with Phil Baker and Aileen Stanley. Among the other musical comedies and revues will be "Luckee Girl," "The Red Robe," with Walter Woolf; "The Street Singer"; The Four Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers"; "A Night in Venice," "Good News" and others.

In the dramatic line Ethel Barrymore is to come in two plays, "The Kingdom of God" and "The Love Duel." Then there will be seen "Bird in Hand," a comedy; Janet Beecher in "Courage"; Katherine Cornell in "The Age of Innocence"; Fay Bainter in "Jealousy"; Richard Bennett in "Jarnegan"; "Journey's End" and Otis Skinner in "One Hundred Years Old."

Hebrew Association Announces Programs

THE musical program for the coming season, to be presented by the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. Union and Enright, promises to be one of the most interesting of the year. Excellent artists have been engaged for concerts and their presence, for the second year of music attractions at the "Y," indicates the permanency of good music at the association.

The program for the season is as follows:

Edward Johnson, tenor	Nov. 2 and 3
Gitta Gradova, pianist	Dec. 7 and 8
Carlos Salzedo, harpist, and Gregor Piatigorsky, cellist	Jan. 18 and 19
Toscha Seidel, violinist	Feb. 8 and 9
Y Symphony Orchestra	March 8 and 9

The sale of tickets for the series is under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Charles M. Rice and Mrs. Henry I. Cohen.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.

SOME people you meet in New York; E. C. Crawley is known to everybody as Gene. He came out of a hick town in Indiana and went to Tulsa, Ok. The old story—oil. Today he divides time between an apartment in the exclusive 200's on Park avenue and a lovely estate at Easthampton. He is bald, well built and has a set of teeth an advertising dentist would give anything to duplicate as a window display. And, best of all, he is still a square-toed country boy and reads every line in his weekly home paper.

Thomas Millard is the Tommy Millard people run into in Shanghai, Timbuctoo, London, Paris, Constantinople, New York and San Francisco. He is the only newspaper man I know to achieve a pearl derby and a monocle. And without a cane and a pair of spats would look undressed. Tommy was born at Rolla, Missouri. At a glance you might mistake him for a fop. But don't tell him so. People have and heard the birdies tweet. He has been in every war since the Spanish-American and right up at the front. A deep scar across his cheek is a memento of the Boxer uprising. He has crossed the Pacific a hundred times and has an apartment in Shanghai and one in New York.

Albert Keller is the man who "made" the Ritz Carlton chain of hotels in America and helped to create the word "ritz." He is director of the original three—those in New York, Boston and Atlantic City. He began as a dish washer but is also a graduate of two universities and speaks five languages. He is more than six feet tall and has never smoked because of early European teaching that smoking affects the palate. Keller has been a cook. He will not eat in any of his public dining rooms. In spare time he is a collector of note, his primitive paintings and Chinese porcelains reputed to be the best selected for their number in the world.

"Peaches" is an ocean greyhound—a gambler of the liners. He has spent 20 years of his life crossing the ocean. Sometimes you will meet him as Mr. de Courcey, again as Mr. Grenville, and so on. With a few drinks, "Peaches" grows sentimental about his aged grandmother who lives on an Indiana farm. She thinks he is a traveling steamship agent and he has never failed to write to her every week since he left home.

Frank Case is proprietor of the Algonquin Hotel—a rendezvous for writers and theatrical folk. It has long been the hotel home of such players as Ina Claire, Ethel Barrymore, Marie Dressler, Raymond Hitchcock, Constance Collier and Louise Groody, as well as such writers as Rex Beach, J. P. McEvoy, Ben Ames Williams and Gene Markey. Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks also stop there. Mr. Case has "Please Do Not Tip" over his hat checking stand, and he closed his bar when his son was born, which was long before prohibition. He dons a Tuxedo every night to join guests in his dining room.

Short shavings: Lew Fields and Joe Weber never talk except about business....For years they never spoke...George White wears nothing but blue serge...Anice Terhune, Albert's wife, has written her second book...Thus carrying out the tradition of "the writing Terhunes"...Broadway's dean of press agents is Eddie Dunn, who, at 72, works for George M. Cohan...Lee Shubert usually dines alone...Irving Berlin no longer visits his old Chinatown haunts. He's now an uptown boy...George M. Cohan as a gambler in a new play makes the flesh creep.

MUSIC TO GO BACK IN CINEMA PALACES WITHIN SHORT TIME

"Burlesque." The "beef trust" chorus has a composite poundage of 2000, the exact figure demanded by Directors John Cromwell and Edward Sutherland.

The Amazon chorus appears at the Missouri this week in an opening sequence of "The Dance of Life," in which Hal Skelly and Nancy Carroll are featured. Fred Datig, casting director, says that to find these women was the most difficult assignment he has ever had.

Gordona Bennett and her daughter, Miss La Reno, were the first two to be signed. Miss Bennett has been on the stage since she was three years old. Miss La Reno, for the past three years, has been a member of the chorus in a Los Angeles burlesque show.

Cora Beach Shumway was the prima donna with Eva Tanguay in "Sambo Girl" in 1909. One of the largest and, hence, one of the most statuesque ladies in the group is Charlotte Ogden with years of experience as a New York show girl behind her. Kay Deslys, an "end" girl of the line, has been in the show business for 20 years. Europe contributed Magda Blom, once a well-known classical dancer of the Swedish stage.

The "beef trust" chorus work appealed to these women as a "lark" and it was on this appeal Director Datig coaxed them back to the limelight.

IN THE dim, almost prehistoric days of silent pictures, stage and screen chroniclers had at their beck one infallible subject of discourse. They could survey the cinematic scene, and hit on some stage personality who, lured to the "movies," had failed to win success there. A chorus of "well, well's," and "what can you expect?" and the writer's point was proved.

These remarks are induced by reading the announcement that Ann Pennington is among the headliners of "Gold Diggers of Broadway," the all-color, all-talking, singing, dancing picture, now at the Ambassador Theater.

The Pennington charm as seen by her admirers, is compounded of a number of factors. First and foremost come her dimpled knees that flash and move with pace and rhythm; then the diminutive size of her figure demands consideration; and the smile; the song, too, she is singing; and literally topping it off, long dark tresses that curl down to her hips. The completed picture is Ann Pennington. Leave out any detail and something is missing.

THAT may be why in 1918, when Ann temporarily forsook Broadway and the George White "Scandals" to run down to Hollywood, she did not take the world by storm. She had gone down for the fun—and, of course, cash—of the thing, and because she would play opposite Tom Mix, then at the height of his career as a hero of "Westerns." If Mix was clicking, not so Ann. The silent screen had proved unequal to the elusive responsibility of catching the one hundred and six pound entertainer, body and soul. She was not singing, the little heels were not clicking. It was not Pennington as Penningtonians knew her.

Yet even in 1918 Ann Pennington enjoyed the popularity she does now. She had a following which thronged whatever houses were offering the public the "Scandals" as parented by George White, or the "Follies" as brewed in the Florenz Ziegfeld laboratories. Pennington was Pennington, but the silent screen lacked color and speech—two ingredients that could not seemingly be dispensed with.

Within 10 years Tom Mix has fallen into partial eclipse and colored talking pictures have come to the fore. Evidently the addition of color and speech to the resources of the screen proved an ingratiating inducement for Ann Pennington. She left New York for Hollywood several months ago with the conviction that at last she could give something to film technique, and that vocal pictures would be instrumental in capturing her personality.

"Gold Diggers of Broadway" is Warner Bros.' second all-color and all-talking Vitaphone picture. The first was "On With the Show." It is based on the play of the late Avery Hopwood.

WORKS AS PHONE OPERATOR 28 YEARS ALTHOUGH BLIND

Marion Kennedy of Trowbridge, Ill., Also Buys and Sells Livestock.

By the Associated Press.

TROWBRIDGE, Ill., Sept. 28.—Marion Kennedy, blind for 28 years, has been telephone operator here.

Although his working hours are from 5 o'clock in the morning to 9 at night, he sleeps in the operating room to take care of emergency calls in case of sickness, death, fire or accident. The switchboard is equipped with a bell that sounds when a "drop" falls. Kennedy's sensitive fingers quickly detect the fallen drop and close the proper key to complete the circuit.

Notwithstanding his long hours at the switchboard, he manages to find time to buy and sell livestock. He has a reputation for being a good business man and is said to have acquired a modest fortune through his livestock deals. He can pat a fat porker on the back and sides and give accurate weights. He seems to know intuitively the kind and grade of stock offered him.

Kennedy, who is 61 years old, lost his eyesight when working as a brakeman on a construction train 31 years ago. A laborer was breaking rock with a sledge hammer and a piece of the stone struck him in the face.

CONDEMNATION SUITS TIE UP BOND FUNDS

City Paying Interest on $370,271 Because of Kingshighway Litigation.

While certain owners are trying to get increased damages for property condemned for the establishment of Kingshighway Northwest, including Bircher-Kingshighway, between Penrose Park and Hall's Ferry road, the city is paying out interest on the $370,271 of bond funds tied up in court in the project.

A court official, who declined to permit use of his name, asserted that the extra damages being sought were only $10,000, but that the additional interest cost would be considerably more than that. The city has a revolving fund of $2,071,276 for street improvements tied up in three projects—Kingshighway Northwest, widened Olive street and the extension of Skinker road north of Delmar boulevard. Interest on this bond money amounts to somewhat more than $90,000 a year, of which $16,662 is the annual charge on the Kingshighway Northwest portion.

Exceptions to the original damages awarded them by condemnation commissioners, filed by a number of property owners on Kingshighway Northwest, were sustained by Circuit Judge Hamilton last March. The Judge suggested that proper allowances for them would increase the damages by about $10,000. New commissioners to be appointed by his successor in the court division, Judge Hall, will fix the damages, however.

The city deposited the $370,271 in court on May 12, 1927, so it could proceed with physical work, and Kingshighway Northwest is being paved now. Interest on this sum since the exceptions were sustained has amounted to only about $16,000 to date.

G. William Senn, chief condemnation attorney for the city, said it would be a bad precedent to settle a case by paying additional damages sought, even though that would cut short the time on which interest was paid on the deposit in court. Such a policy would be an incentive to property owners to hold out for money and eventually cost the city a large sum as instances accumulated, he declared. On the other hand, he added, if some property owners were entitled to larger awards, so might be others in the same project, so that it would be wrong in principle to settle with some.

Senn took exception to the action of the trial court in suggesting what the proper damages should have been, since it is the function of commissioners selected as experts to determine this, as the Suprme Court has held. The city has not had enough experience to indicate whether the policy of resisting additional damages was costly in the matter of interest on deposits, Senn stated.

In Senn's opinion, as he has told other city officials, it is a bad policy to deposit money in court before exceptions are disposed of. However, it is commonly known that the desire of the administration to make a record of progress and the pressure of citizens for completion of projects is a deterrent to changing the system. There have been demands for freeing the revolving fund so as to utilize it on other important street projects.

In the Olive street case $1,939,604 was deposited in court in January, 1925; new commissioners are hearing exceptions to the awards there but the street was finished more than a year ago. A deposit of $94,401 was made in the Skinker road case several years ago, and that paving is being finished.

BULGARIA HAS HIGHEST TUBERCULOSIS MORTALITY

More Than 200,000 Persons in Country Reported to Have Disease.

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, Sept. 28.—Recent investigations by Bulgarian authorities show that the country's tuberculosis mortality is the highest in the world. Officials report more than 200,000 persons suffering from the malady among a population of 5,750,000.

School children are the principal sufferers. In one of the primary schools of Sofia 63 per cent of the pupils, 11 or 12 years old, were affected.

Insufficient nourishment and unhygienic surroundings caused most of the cases. Sixty per cent of the children examined rarely ate a hot meal, and only 4 per cent slept alone in a room; in most cases they slept with from three to eight companions. Similar conditions were found among the students at the universities and the lower ranks of civil servants.

Hazel Forbes of "Whoopee," proves that PROPER CARE makes the hair more attractive. She's wearing the popular LONG BOB.

Easy Way to Make Hair Grow Long, Soft, Abundant

YOU, too, can have long, soft, abundant hair. It's simply a matter of using this easy method; approved by hair-specialists; endorsed by stars of stage and screen; used by millions who haven't time for the more laborious treatments.

Tonight when you arrange your hair, just put a little Danderine on your brush. Then as you draw the bristles through your hair, see how the scalp is toned and soothed. See how the hair becomes softer, easier to manage; how its natural color is brought out; how it takes on new brilliance and lustre!

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; helps stop falling hair; keeps hair and scalp healthy; encourages the growth of long, silky, abundant hair. Five million bottles used a year. That proves Danderine's effectiveness!

Des Peres Now Flowing Through More Than Mile Of Double-Barrelled Sewer River Placed Underground, Odorless in Section of Forest Park—Contractor Has Had Hard Fight.

The unrly River des Peres, over more than a mile of its odoriferous route, now courses inoffensively underground in its new concrete-inclosed channel. At a point in Forest Park between Grand and Franklin drives, the reeking creek recently has been turned into a section of double-barrelled sewer that extends 6950 feet south through the park and beyond Oakland avenue.

Wearily and with much gladness, engineers of the A. Guthrie Construction Co., watched the gray waters of the unruly stream leap from its clay channel into the new $2,000,000 concrete cylinders. The River des Peres has proven a tough—an exceedingly tough-adversary.

Twenty-two months ago, the Guthrie steam shovel began to excavate for the sewer at a point 1200 feet southeast of Manchester avenue and 100 feet east of Macklind avenue. In the wake of the shovel, which scooped out a hole 35 feet deep, 75 feet wide at the bottom, and 140 feet wide at the top, concreters rigged up frames and poured concrete for the two sewer cylinders.

Necessary to Re-Route River.

But every week or so, the construction crew had to interrupt its work to wrestle with the river. The stream frequently threatened to cut through its banks and to overflow the sewer tunnel. Then the Guthrie men hauled out the gasoline-engined pile driver and sank steel planking, 14-inches wide and 30 feet long to shore the weakened bank.

From time to time the course of the stream had to be changed. Excavators, powered by Diesel engines, since November, 1927, have dug 100,000 tons of clay merely rerouting the stream, so the big shovel could continue without being inundated.

In July, 1928, the River des Peres, fed by heavy rains, went on a rampage and played hob with the partially constructed sewer. Excavators and windlass motors were swamped. The tunnels were flooded. Shoring was washed away. The bank-leaping prank of the river cost the construction company about $50,000 and added at least three months to their job.

Heavy Rains Would Hurt.

Section "D" of the $11,000,000 project, the Guthrie job, calls for 9360 feet of double-barrelled sewer. Thus far some 8900 feet have been laid, carrying the scoop of the steam shovel near the junction of Sylvan drive and Union boulevard in Forest Park. Approximately 450 feet more of the sewer must be laid before the two cylinders can be joined to Section "E" of the sewer west of Union bouevard.

"We exject to finish the actual digging and concreting about Nov. 15," E. H. Bruntlett, superintendant of construction said yesterday. "Of course, if the River des Peres goes on another rampage, it may take longer. We've had an awful fight with that stream and we are fairly confident we have it whipped. But we're not boasting. Some heavy rains might hurt us.

"The resurfacing of Forest Park may require several months. Remember we have to biuld a few lakes, putting them back where they were before we started digging and erased them."

A Railroading Job.

The double-barrelled section of the de luxe sewer has called into play a vast amount of machinery. The Guthire forces have laid eight miles of railroad track, in order to haul concrete and clay, at a cost of $10,000. They have put into service, dragging long strings of cars loaded with dirt, or concrete—one 30-ton Diesel track engine, two 20-ton gasoline track engines, and nine small steam engines.

The big steam shovel scoops up eight tons of dirt in 45 seconds. In five minutes or less, it has loaded a string of cars with 50 tons of clay. The string of cars is pulled to the rear of operations, and through one lever, dumped over newly dry sections of concrete. Another string of cars will be pulled a distance of a mile to fill a gully. The steam shovel digs 20 hours a day, and in that time scoops approximately 10,000 tons of clay, all of which is hauled away by the track engines.

For resurfacing, the Guthrie engineers employ five drag-line excavators, powered by 100 h.p. gasoline engines and one excavator powered with a 100 h.p. Diesel engine. There is a special engine for pile driving and another for pile pulling. There is a concrete mixer, operated by several motors and running belts, valued at $25,000. The equipment scales in value above $400,000.

Comparison of Jobs.

Approximately 325 men are employed on the job. Of this number 160 are shovelers, track men, dumpers, concrete tampers, and at least 40 paper work and fatigue men. Approximately one-third of this number live either in the company sleeping cars—of which there are eight—or in the two company bunk-houses, and eat at the company mess. Bruntlett is in charge, Armin Schults is chief engineer, and James Scofield is general assistant.

On Section "E" of the sewer, the W. E. Callahan Construction Co., through 70 men and $300,000 worth of machinery, is able to do work that ould not be duplicated by 7000 men and 1000 mules. Engineers on the Guthrie job pointed out that the larger number of workers on their job was due (1) to their building a double-barreled cylinder, thus requiring twice the number of concreters and concrete form assemblers; (2) to the tedious work of driving pilings to keep the River des Peres from "cutting"; (3) to the hauling of dirt a distance of a mile and sometimes more than a mile, as required by the specifications for resurfacing; (4) Section "E" measures but 5600 feet while Section "D" will measure 9350 feet.

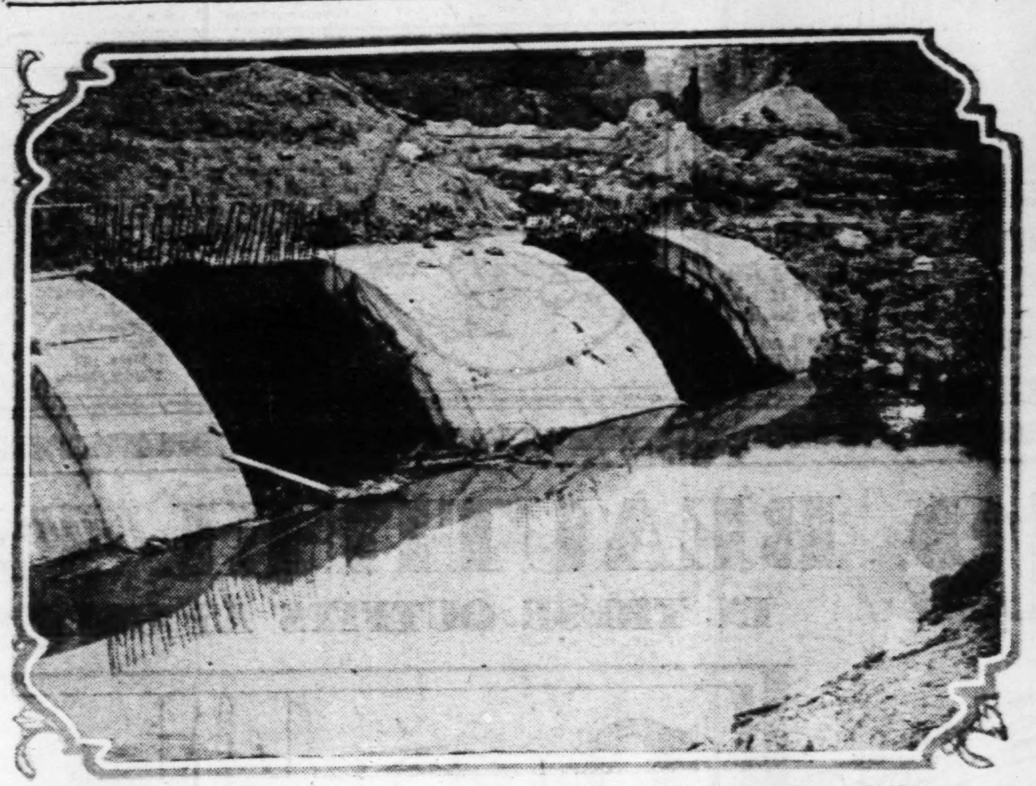
Ten thousand men, each working a 10-hour shift, could not compete with the Guthrie shovels and excavators, their engineers believe. The dirst-carrying power of their narrow gauge railway system could not be equaled by 5000 mules. The Guthrie job illustrates as does the Callahan job the power of modern machinery.

By Nov. 15, if the plans of Guthrie engineers do not go awry, they will have completed 1.7 miles of double-barrelled sewer, each cylinder being 29 feet wide, 23 feet high, and two feet thick; they will have laid 220,000 tons of concrete, reinforced by 7400 tons of steel; they will have re-routed three miles of meandering stream; have dug and refilled more than a mile of new channel; have scooped up more than 2,500,000 tons of clay, shale, hard rock (for the Guthrie scooper does not stop at rock), have built an 8-mile railway system and torn it down. This, after all, is a good deal to get done in 24 months.

The entire concrete sewer, planned by the city to cost $11,000,000, will extend approximately 13 miles. Only the sections in and bordering Forest Park will be enclosed. Sections A, B, and C, open channels extending from Lindenwood to Manchester avenue, have been completed. Sections "D" and "E," both inclosed, will be completed by the first of the year, at the latest. Section "F" extending from the city limits to Lindell drive, and Section "G," extending from the city limits to Gravois avenue, have not been contracted for. All other sections are under construction.

The River des Peres, a surface drainage stream originating beyond the city limits, takes the course of a ragged "E" on its route through the city proper. After crossing the city limits near Etzel avenue, it flows in a general northeasterly direction toward and through Forest Park. From the park, it flows in a general northwesterly direction toward Lindenwood. From Lindenwood, it flows in a general northeast direction again toward the Mississippi river.

Where the Des Peres Enters Its Underground Channel



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

THE River des Peres enters its sewer-pipe channel at this point, a little north of Jefferson Drive in Forest Park, and flows under ground for about a mile and a half, until it again reaches open channel back of the Evens & Howard Fire Brick Co., on Manchester avenue. When remaining pipe sections are completed the opening shown will be closed and the river will enter the pipe at its northern terminus.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM OF CITY ART MUSEUM

Informal Gallery Talks and Story Hours for Children Included.

The Educational Department of the City Art Museum has arranged the program of informal gallery talks and story hours for children for the coming season. The children's program, beginning next Saturday afternoon, consists of an hour for drawing and games, and an hour for story-telling each Saturday afternoon from October to May. The hours for drawing and games begins at 1:30 p. m. and the story hour follows.

Children who come to draw get crayon, paper and boards and some subject from the Museum's collection for an example. No art instruction is given, the idea being not to create artists but to train the children in observation and familiarize them with museum objects. The qualities of form, line and mass are emphasized. Caroline Gleick, assistant in the department, will have charge of this group.

Museum games are based on the collections in the galleries and are held at 2 p. m. They also are intended to familiarize the children with the various Museum pieces. Grace Lischer Brumbaugh, assistant to the Supervisor of Education, will direct the games.

Story Hour Program.

The story hours, beginning at 2:30, are illustrated by objects in the galleries. Children are led in free discussion of Museum material and stories are woven around this material by Miss Mary Powell, Supervisor of Education.

October's program follows: Oct. 5, "The Magic Carpet;" Oct. 12, "The Story of Columbus;" Oct. 19, "The Emperor Maximilian;" Oct. 26, Demonstration—How an Artist Draws.

Each month demonstrations of art processes will be made by specialists in the various media of the subject.

The program for adults includes Museum hours, each Tuesday at 11 a. m. and Friday at 10 a. m. Talks on Prints at 2:30 p. m. each Wednesday and Saturday morning. Gallery Talks at 10:30 o'clock.

October topics for Museum hours are as follows: Oct. 1 and 4, "The Exhibition of Paintings by American Artists—Portraits and Figure Paintings;" Oct. 8 and 11, "Exhibition of Paintings by American Artists—Landscapes and Other Subjects;" Oct. 15 and 18, "Albrecht Duerer;" Oct. 22 and 25, "The Weaving of Oriental Rugs;" Oct. 29, "The Barbizon Painters."

Print Talk Subjects.

Print talk subjects, covering the important artists of countries and periods represented in the Print Department, will be on the following: Oct. 2, "The Beginning;" Oct. 9, "Martin Schongauer;" Oct. 16, "Albrecht Suerer:" Oct. 23, "Andrea Mantegna;" Oct. 30, "Maro-Antonio Raimondi."

The Saturday morning gallery talks, devoted especially to the history of art, are planned to interest university and high school students in addition to the general public. Special exhibitions will be included. The program: Oct. 5, The Exhibition of Paintings by American Artists; Oct. 12, The Art of Egypt; Oct. 19, The Architecture of the Greeks; Oct. 26, Greek Sculpture.

Each of the various talks is complete in itself, while the entire program is planned to relate to the general development and history of art. All the activities of the Museum are free to the public.

TURKS STOP TEACHING ARABIC

Latin and Greek to Replace Oriental Languages in School.

By the Associated Press.

ANGORA, Sept. 28.—Another of the new Turkey's radical turnings from the East toward the West is indicated by an order from the Kemalist Government for the total suppression in all Turkish schools of courses in Arabic and Persian, languages which have been the bases of all Turkish literature. The suppressed courses will be replaced by courses in Latin and ancient Greek, on the ground that Western culture with which Turkey is now to impregnate herself is based on these classic languages.

Another innovation will be the teaching of English in all schools as a part of the Government's program of Americanizing Turkish mentality.

CONSCRIPTION FOR ROAD WORK

Chinese Government Makes All Men From 18 to 50 Liable.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, Sept. 28.—A decree drawn up by the Central Executive Committee of the Nationalist Government makes every able-bodied man between the ages of 18 and 50 liable to draft for work on the good roads program which has been formulated for China. Indifference of a large section of the population to the scheme for national highways caused the issuance of the decree. Motor travel is impossible in almost every district, and few people have seen an automobile or care to look at one.

Under the order, all laborers drafted for service will receive their board and their families will get maintenance doles. Those unwilling to work will be exempted on payment of a fee.

ROME GROWING UNDER MUSSOLINI'S REGIME

Population Is Now 902,451, Increase of 211,000 Since 1921.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 28. — Mussolini's determination to make Rome the real capital of Italy is bearing fruit. In time, if the Premier's efforts continue as fruitful, Rome may recall her ancient glories, when she was center of the Roman Empire.

The latest confirmation of Mussolini's idea is that Rome has just surpassed the 900,000 mark in population. Figures issued by the Capitolium, the statistical review of the city, give the inhabitants of the Eternal City as 902,561. And this despite the regulations of the Government against the migration of country people into the city.

The growth in population goes side by side with Rome's growth in national popularity. Mussolini has done everything he could to center the nation's activities here. He has made Rome the headquarters of the national learned societies, has convoked national conventions here and has induced the various Fascist organizations to hold their reunions in the capital.

400,000 Under Peak.

In time, as Rome grows in size and influence, she may deprive Milan of the financial leadership of Italy. Then she will become as true a capital city as London is of England and Paris of France.

Rome is now only 400,000 in number behind her population under the emperors. The highest point reached by the census of Augustus was 1,336,000, and this mark was never afterward surpassed.

It is significant of Mussolini's belief that Rome should be the true capital of his country that only since the advent of Fascism to power has Rome come to be a really active center politically of Italy. In 1921, the year before the Fascist march on Rome, the city had 691,000 inhabitants. Thus in the few years of the Fascist regime Rome added to its stature 211,000 pople, an increase of 30 per cent.

Great Fluctuation.

While this tremendous increase has been going on, Rome has, with a great effort, overcome her housing difficulties. Four whole new suburbs have been opened.

Rome has had greater fluctuations in population than propably any other city in the world. From the fat figure of 1,336,000 under Augustus, she decreased to the thinness of 15.000, when the barbarians burned the metropolis; to 17,000 in 1377 at the end of the Babylonian captivity" of the Popes at Avignon; and to 20,000 when the Emperor Charles V. in 1527 sacked the city.

Under Napoleon, Rome had 117,000 people. When the Pope was deprived of his temporal power in 1870 the population was 226,000. In the 59 years of the rule of the Sabaudian kings, Rome has gained 676,000 persons.

With these figures to give them background, the residents of Rome are looking forward to the days, perhaps in their own generation, when the Eternal City will be strong enough to rule at least the world as the Romans knew it, which meant the domination of the Mediterranean.

CLASSES FOR ILLITERATES AT CHESTER (ILL.) PRISON

Introduced Two Years Ago by Former Warden Woelfle; Certificates for Graduates.

By the Associated Press

VIENNA, Ill., Sept. 28. — Plans of the State Director of Welfare to give convicts an elementary education were anticipated by more than two years by former Warden F. R. Woelfle of Chester penitentiary, it has been disclosed by his friends here.

Rodney Brandon, director of public welfare, recently announced plans to initiate full time classes at State prisons for educating the illiterates. At about the same time Warden Woelfle was supervising what was probably the first "graduating exercises" ever to be held in an American State prison.

Fifty-one men were members of that graduating class. Each received a certificate attesting he had completed the required course of education, which was equivalent, roughly, to the third grade in elementary schools. There was another "class" of 23 men who received higher certificates, being adjudged equal in education to an eighth grade graduate.

When Warden Woelfle came to Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Chester in 1927, he brought with him the experience of many years service on the Vienna Board of Education. He found in the prison an appallingly large number of illiterates. Only an hour a day was set aside for classes for these men, and their only instructor was the chaplain.

One of his first official acts was to obtain assistance of J. H. Mattix, a school teacher of considerable experience, and together they launched the Southern Illinois penitentiary school. "Faculty members" were recruited from convicts of higher education, and a routine of classes planned which would not interfere with the established system at the institution. Average attendance at the school has been about 300 men, since its beginning.

ALL BUSINESS SUSPENDED IN SPAIN FOR AFTERNOON NAP

Theaters Start Matinee at 6 P. M., and Night Performances at 11 O'Clock.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Sept. 25.—It is the custom in Spain to stay up most of the night, start business next day about 10 o'clock in the morning, close up everything about 2 o'clock and spend the next three hours in eating and sleeping. It is around 5 o'clock in the afternoon before business houses reopen.

If business interferes with the extensive lunch and siesta period—well, that's just too bad for business.

Not even world fairs are allowed to disrupt the traditional Spanish custom. Both the Barcelona and Seville expositions close in the afterenoons, to the astonishment of North American visitors. They find they can roam the grounds during the lunch and siesta hours, but they have to wait until late afternoon to get into the exhibition buildings.

There is no such thing as a quick lunch in Spain. In fact, the very expression, when translated creates amazement. Most Spaniards finish lunch anywhere from 3 to 4 o'clock. Dinner never commences before 9 p. m.

Theaters begin the night performances at 11 o'clock. Matinees are at 6 p. m.

MOST SQUIRRELS IN 25 YEARS ARE REPORTED IN OZARKS

Hunters in, Southeast Missouri Get Limit Within Short Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ELLINGTON, Mo., Sept. 28.—Squirrels are more plentiful in the Ozarks than they have been in 25 years, accordin gto hunters who are familiar with activities of the rodents. Every hunter who shoulders a gun and goes out into the woods over the Ozark region returns with stories of seeing great numbers of squirrels. So plentiful are they that each hunter gets his quota within a short time.

The large number in the Ozark region is attributed by some to the fact that the corn crop in North Missouri is short this year. Farmers throughout the Ozark area are complaining that the rodents are seriously damaging corn. The agriculturist who is bothered, however, is given the power to protect his property by the State game law, which reads: "Any person may protect his or her premises from the ravages and depredations of the animals named at any time and in any way.

SAYS LITVINOFF SHOULD DIVORCE BOURGEOIS WIFE

Berlin Paper, "Rote Fahne," Declares He Should Marry One With Radical Views.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—The Communistic newspaper, "Rote Fahne," believes that Comrade Maxim Litvinoff, acting Commissar of Foreign Affairs of the Soviet Union, should divorce his wife because she committed what Berlin soviet sympathizers consider a grave error in writing a decidedly bourgeois article in the democratic "Berliner Tageblatt."

Mme. Litvinoff's article, "Berlin as Seen by a Visitor," the "Rote Fahne" holds, gives evidence of far too much sympathy for bourgeois life. This, the organ considers sufficient ground for Litvinoff to instigate divorce proceedings and marry one whose ideals are more in line with those of her husband.

"From a cafe Under Den Linden I saw handsome young men pass swiftly in automobiles of the size of an overgrown bug," Mme. Litvinoff wrote. "Then one sees enormous automobiles through the windows of which one can see beautiful women in gorgeous furs or genial captains of finance.

"Berliners have time to sit in cafes, to read newspapers, imbibe coffee and to flirt with every passing goodlooking woman."

The Bishop—typing a Mother Goose rhyme to tell a startled city that he had killed again.

The Bishop Murder Case

S. S. VAN DINE'S GREATEST THRILLER

—Begins Tomorrow in the Post-Dispatch—

The police were baffled. New York was in terror. A murderous maniac, calling himself The Bishop, was on a campaign of killing. Swiftly, silently, he struck, and his murders were even more horrible because each was a gruesome reproduction of a Mother Goose jingle that children love!

Who was The Bishop? Why did he kill, callously and without motive? And why did he gloatingly announce his crimes by sending nursery rhymes to the newspapers?

These are the problems that confront Philo Vance, the noted amateur criminologist, in The Bishop Murder Case. And only his unique psychological methods of detection enable the police to discover the identity of the diabolic Bishop.

The author of the Greene Murder Case, The Canary Murder Case and The Benson Murder Case has never written a more thrilling mystery story than The Bishop Murder Case. An exciting installment will appear daily.

DEEP-SEA DEVIL LURES FISH WITH LIGHT AND HOOKS THEM

Strange Catch Reported at Depth of 8000 Feet Off New Zealand Coast.

By the Associated Press.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Sept. 28.—A deep-sea devil was one of the strange catches made at a depth of nearly 8000 feet off the New Zealand coast by Danish scientists recently, according to R. A. Falla, who accompanied the expedition.

The deep-sea devil is a creature with an enormous mouth and constructed like a skeleton, with practically no internal organs, so that there is water inside it and out. It thus is able to withstand the great pressure in the depths in which it lives.

A strange thing about the creature is a long feeler above its head holding a lamp. By generating its own light for this it attracts fish from higher levels which become easy prey to the great jaws.

Another species of deep sea devil has a long feeler with a hook on the end and a light at a joint and it not only attracts its prey, but hooks it as well.

CHINESE GIRLS NOW HEIRESSES

Married or Single, They Share in Family's Estate.

NANKING, Sept. 28.—The right of inheritance in China will be extended to daughters of the family whether they are married or single, according to a decision reached by the Judicial Department of the Nationalist Government.

For hundreds of years, girl babies have not been welcome in the average Chinese family. Daughters were seldom permitted to share in the family fortune while married daughters were always left out of consideration.

Women Run Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—London's newest hospital is run entirely by women, is exclusively for women patients and devotes itself to cancer. It has 25 beds and 17 women doctors compose the staff.

Single prescription made a family doctor famous

SELDOM has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than the one which Dr. Caldwell performed back in 1885 when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote this prescription as he found men, women, and children suffering from common symptoms of constipation such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite, no energy, etc. Moreover it invariably relieved these symptoms so much more pleasantly, so much quicker than various other things, his patients simply had to tell other people about it.

The demand for this prescription grew so fast that by 1888 the doctor was forced to have it put up ready for use, and supply drug stores with it. Today you can get the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, from drug stores all over the world.

When you or your children suffer from any of the symptoms of constipation, it will pay you to remember this safe, effective, laxative; made from herbs and other pure ingredients; a real constipation corrective; with 47 years of a doctor's experience behind the formula!

POWER beyond the wildest dreams of a year ago . . . .

Imagine! This New Kellogg Radio develops ten times the undistorted power output of sets of a year ago! That's the result of a new design using three Screen-Grid tubes; a new "power detection" principle; and a strong 3-tube Audio stage including two 250 type power tubes in push-pull. "Why", you may ask, "all this increase in power?" Not for volume alone, though Kellogg has a tremendous "punch". Not for distance alone, though Kellogg will bring in distant stations with the quality of a "local". The one biggest reason for super power is to produce super tone quality! It takes big power to operate a modern dynamic speaker at maximum efficiency. And it takes even greater power to produce sweet, pure music with a minimum of outside interference. When you hear this Kellogg, you will appreciate the value of vast power. The "Cathedral Tone" of Kellogg Radio is not merely something to talk about. It is something you will actually feel . . . and thrill to when you hear Kellogg re-creation of some great music.

25 Years to Go 12 Miles.

By the Associated Press.

LE NEUBORG, France, Sept. 28.—A postal card, mailed 25 years ago at Conches, 12 miles away, was recently delivered here. What annoyed the recipient was that he had to pay due postage because the post card rate, 10 centimes in 1904, has been increased to 40 centimes.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 28.—The 25 cardinals residing permanently in Rome have recently received an increase in their annual stipend to 100,000 lire, roughly $5263. Before the war they received about $4000.

ANCIENT CHINESE SPIRIT RITES BARRED IN GHOST MONTH

Worshiping of Departed Ancestors Also Forbidden Under Government Order.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 28.—The ancient practice of worshiping the spirits of ancestors will soon pass out of the everyday lives of the Chinese people along with queues and bound feet, if the leaders of the new Nanking Government have their way.

In their desire to make China as modern as possible the authorities have issued orders barring many spiritual observances, especially worship of departed ancestors during the famous "ghost festival" which falls in the early part of the seventh month.

All Buddhist prayer services, processions and sacrificial ceremonies in temples and homes have been barred and as a result the Ghost Month, which the seventh month is called, promises to be a quiet one this year.

According to the authorities, there will be neither pilgrimages to sacred mountains nor religious fairs. The burning of joss paper and incense sticks also will be forbidden in many cities.

BETTER DEMAND FOLLOWS LOAN RESTRICTIONS

Improved Market for Apartment Rentals and Increased Sale of Dwellings Already Noted.

REAL ESTATE MEN MORE OPTIMISTIC

High Appreciation of Values Said to Depend on Less Construction Till Demand Sharpens.

By Berry Moore.

With the marked decline in construction in the city and suburbs, due to restrictions placed on building loans, the outlook in real estate is becoming manifestly reassuring, with the optimism of real estate men heightened in no small degree. Should construction be held in check until supply and demand, especially as regards flats and apartments, to say nothing of dwellings, have come closer together, it is generally realized that it would result in a high appreciation of values of improved property.

A better demand from renters already is noted, with comparatively few reductions in rentals, according to real estate agents. This is a noteworthy feature in view of the fact that the reported number of removals this fall has been negligible. Not a few apartments are being leased from the plans in the lofty new structures going up on Kingshighway, Lindell boulevard and Skinker road.

Reservations are unprecedented in the 28-story Plaza Park project at the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Maryland avenue. The Plaza-Park, which will be ready for occupancy next spring, has been designed and appointed to appeal to the most discriminating. This project, the most ambitious in the apartment field in St. Louis, is being built by Koplar Bros. Inc., of which Sam Koplar is the guiding spirit.

Higher Prices Foreseen.

Consensus of opinion is that higher purchase prices in due course of time will prevail as a result of the halt called on construction by investment bankers who have placed restrictions on building loans. Even for legitimate new projects comparatively little money is available for more than 60 per cent of the estimated cost, or for loans on existing buildings, according to Richard C. Spackler, president of the Hemmelman-Spackler Real Estate Co., local loan correspondent of the New York Life Insurance Co., and one of the largest lenders on real estate in St. Louis. New apartment projects are being discouraged, Spackler intimated. Restrictions in connection with building loans will keep construction at a low stage and will not be removed, Spackler stated, until demand is in proportion to supply.

According to real estate men, purchase prices of flats and apartments have undergone revision during the last two or three years, and now are at levels that are challenging attention. Present listings of buildings of this type include many holdings of speculators, who of necessity must liquidate, owing to the adverse conditions confronting refinancing.

Increase in Sale of Homes.

Henceforth a larger volume of transactions in buildings of these types is expected. From all indications, transactions in flats and apartments will constitute the bone and sinew of the market this fall and winter. There already is a noteworthy increase in the sale of homes, which until recently had lagged.

While some real estate agents are prone to blame the lure of the stock market for the absence of real estate buyers, others ascribe it to the recent construction campaign, principally in flats and apartments, which was not wholly justified by the demand. Those who avail themselves of present prices, it is believed, will anticipate a higher trend which soon will be in marked evidence, optimistic members of the real estate fraternity believe.

Large Projects Halted.

The money stringency has halted numerous large projects which otherwise would be well under way. This applies principally to those contemplating towering apartments and structures in the downtown district, both office and mercantile. These projects will be brought forward again as soon as money is available for them. The cessation in construction in the central business district will improve in no small degree the situation in that section of the real estate field.

Profits made in the stock market, especially by the already rich, promise to be a factor in activity in the near future in real estate, sought as a permanent investment. This is predicated on the interest already manifested in available holdings in the downtown and uptown districts involving speculatve advantages.

The outlook is characterized as reassuring in the extreme.

BEVERLY JONES BUILDING HOME IN HUNTLEIGH VILLAGE

The selection of Huntleigh in the Edward L. Bakewell on the west side of Denny road as a place for a large country home for Beverly Jones was due to the fact that he found there all the advantages and conveniences of a modern city in rural setting. Jones, retired mercantile manager for the International Shoe Co., at first thought to locate in Virginia, but in Huntleigh Village he found much of the charm and fascination of the Old Dominion. Schools, churches and shops are easily accesible in Kirkwood, while those in St. Louis are within less than 30 minutes' ride by automobile. The Jones house, which will be known as Beverly Hall, has been designed in the old Virginia style, not unlike, in plan, to the house that Thomas Jefferson built for his daughter along the James River, which was designed by one of the first great American architects, Dr. William Thornton, who was likewise the designer of the original capitol in Washington. In designing and planning the residence, Mr. and Mrs. Jones have selected Study & Farrar, Architects. LeGrand Jones represented Beverly Jones in the purchase of the site.

JOST-MILLER CO. ARRANGES LEASING OF TWO STORES

The Jost-Miller Real Estate Co. reports, arranging these leases: Store at 615 Pine street to Arnold J. 6-STORY BUILDING AT LUCAS, NINTH BRINGS $200,000

Olive, High and Washington Avenue Also Involved in Principal Deals Reported During Week.

The chief real estate transactions of the week involve properties on Lucas, Olive, High and Washington avenue in deals negotiated by the Sam Shurchart Real Estate Co., Bixby Smith, the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., Mississippi Valley Merchant - State Trust Co. and Cornet & Zeibig.

The six-story building at the northeast corner of Lucas avenue and Ninth street was purchased through the Sam Schuchert company for a consideration said to be around $200,000. The site has a frontage of 37 feet on Lucas and 107 feet nine inches on Ninth. Annual rentals of $19,000 are derived from the building which has stores on the first floor and lofts above, all under lease.

The Lucas avenue building is just north of the new Lennox Hotel, at the northeast corner of Ninth and Washington avenue, and is regarded as very attractively situated. It was owned by Bruner Lesser.

Restoring Old House.

Butler-Kohns, Inc., purchased through Bixby Smith, Inc., the property at 2823-25 Olive street, occupied by a brick residential structure 60 years old. The purchase price was not disclosed. The old residence is being remodeled into display rooms for the Butler-Kohns firm which specializes in the manufacture and sale of lighting fixtures, fireplace equipment and lamps. The trees and lawn are to remain and the house is to be painted white with green shutters. The architects are Ralph Cole Hall and Victor Protez, whose offices and work rooms will occupy a part of the building.

The northeast corner of High and Wash street was acquired by J. W. Stites, a client of the Mississippi Valley Merchants State Trust Co. through the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. The property consists of a two-story building with a frontage of 57 feet on High, by a depth of 97 feet on Wash. It was owned by a company of which John Sheehan Jr., is president. The consideration in this purchase was not disclosed, but it is understood, established a new peak in this section, regarded as attractive for industrial and business concerns in that it will be available in connection with the proposed subway under High street planned by the Illinois Traction Co. The 10-story Carleton Dry Goods Building at the northeast corner of Washington avenue and Twelfth street is to be converted into passenger station by the traction company.

The Mississippi Valley Merchants State Trust Co. closed a sale of 75x130 feet at 3131 Washington avenue to the Dubinsky Realty Co., of which Frank Dubinsky is president, but the price was not disclosed. The Dubinsky company has begun construction of a new building on the site for the St. Louis Spring Co., which will occupy it under a long lease. The St. Louis Spring Co. now occupies the property just west of and adjoining that acquired for the new building and has plans for occupying both structures.

Borbein, Young & Co. has purchased 80 by 134 feet on the south side of Lucas avenue, 75 feet east of Leonard avenue, from parties represented by the St. Louis Union Trust Co., through Cornet & Zeibig. Borbein, Young & Co. has let contracts to McKelvey, Carter & Co. for the erection of a building which wil comprise 12,000 square feet, to be used as a service station in connection with the concern's presen t location at 3301 Washington boulevard. Borbein, Young & Co. is distributor for Budd-Buffalo - Firestone - Jaxon-Kelsey-Hayes and Motor Wheel.

Dublworth Clothing Co. Lease.

The Dublworth Clothing Co. has made a 15-year lease at 614 Olive street. H. G. Levy is general manager and has been in the clothing business in St. Louis for many years. The firm specializes in $12.75 clothes for men.

GREEN-ACRES

BUILDING a neighborhood and choosing our new neighbors requires that thought and care be given each bit of detail. It calls for providing the things a home builder most desires in improvements, utilities, parks and playgrounds. Careful attention must likewise be given to protecting against the things a community or its neighbors do not want. With this well in hand, we wish to know the new neighbors those who will build in the Village of Green Acres within a year.

LAKE FOREST TRACT TO BE OPENED TODAY

57 Acres at Corner of Clayton and Hanley Roads Was Site of Villa.

Lake Forest, a tract of 57 acres comprising a part of what was formerly known as Gay Villa, at the southwest corner of Clayton and Hanley roads, will be placed on the market today by the Lake Forest Development Corporation. The land is a part of that upon which stood the 22-room colonial mansion, originally the home of Edward J. Gay, millionaire sugar planter and Congressman from Louisiana. It was recently purchased from his daughter, the late Mrs. Sophie M. Crow.

Shaw and Francis have been appointed selling agents of the tract. It will be restricted to homes costing $25,000 or more.

The property has a frontage on Clayton road of 1152 feet and on Hanley road of 2275 feet. It lies upon the crest of a hill, and is studded with large trees. Plans are to divide it into 125 lots, each averaging 100 feet in width. Restrictions on the property require that all residences be built 50 feet from the street line. Plans for all houses constructed must be approved by a committee composed of two property owners and two prominent architects.

In laying out the property, it will be landscaped to emphasize and retain all its natural beauty. Ravines will be made into rock gardens and lily pools, lawns will come down to the gutters that will flank the winding drives. Underground conduits will carry light wires, telephone wires and gas mains, eliminating overhead wires. A sewerage system is to be started immediately.

The present 57 acres was the highest part of an estate of several hundred acres purchased by Gay in 1851 as the location for a home for his family. After his death, his daughted, Mrs. Crow, lived upon the estate with her family for many years. Later it was leased as a summer home by John T. Davis, St. Louis financier. When Davis left, about six years ago, it quickly attained a reputation as a haunted house and suffered much from vandalism. Because of this, Mrs. Crow ordered it torn down about a year ago.

GREEN ACRES A PLACE OF HISTORIC INTEREST

Boyd-Gibson Corporation Developing Community on Bellefontaine Road.

Less than 20 minutes from the downtown section of St. Louis, on historic Bellefontaine road, the village of Green Acres now is receiving attention in the real estate world. The piece of land which it occupies, as well as the surrounding country, is rich in romance and history. It lies halfway between Fort Bellefontaine and the old homestead of the Belgrades in Churchill's novel, "The Crisis."

The vicinity known as Bellefontaine Neighborhood has both the beauty of the present and the romance of the past. In one of the ancestral homes now lives the grandson of one of the earliest settlers in St. Louis. In another house lives a member of one of the first families in St. Louis County; it is the original home founded by his father.

The borders of Bellefontaine road are free from signs and the roadside is looked upon as each home's own to watch over and protect. A beautiful road such as Bellefontaine, transformed from a country road to a quick traffic thoroughfare, naturally attracts road houses and encroachments, but the Bellefontaine Road Association, recently incorporated, stands guard to keep down nuisances, as well as to assist in whatever construction work is of a civic or community nature.

The Boyd-Gibson Realty Corporation is featuring this new development. All improvements and utilities have been contracted for, a permanent office building erected and ground for the first home is to be broken this week. There will be but 26 lots in the first unit and no further lots will be put on the market until all building has been started or contracted for on the present lots. The manager of Green Acres, Miss Caroline Lonenberg, is the first woman manager of a real estate development in St. Louis.

KORTE REALTY & LOAN CO. REPORT OF RECENT DEALS

The Korte Realty & Loan Co. reports the following recent sales: 4635 Shirley place, bungalow, to Frank Ottersbach for Michael J. Lawlor; 2242 Howard street, single flat to W. L. Hedges; 2244-46 Howard street, double flat, to Anton Zoan for Anton Kammel Estate; 2932 University street, residence, to Mary Kenski for Lee-Schermen Realty Co.; lot on south side of Bessie avenue, in 4600 block to Max Breu for H. Kissels Sons; 4028 Lincoln avenue, cottage, to C. F. William Tirre for H. M. Straub; lot in 4600 block Bessie avenue, to Thomas F. Stephens for H. Kissels Sons.

TURKS REFUSE TO PERMIT BROUSSA SCHOOL TO REOPEN

American Institution Closed Two Years Ago for Spreading Christian Propaganda.

By the Associated Press.

BROUSSA, Turkey, Sept. 28.—The Turkish Government has refused the request of the American Board of Foreign Missions for the reopening here of the American School for Girls which was closed in 1927 when three of its American teachers were charged with carrying on Christian propaganda among Moslem students. The teachers subsequently were sentenced to three days' imprisonment in the school building.

The director of the school, Miss Jennie Jillson, of Boston, was one of these three. She has remained in the school for two years, hoping it would be reopened, but now will leave for Beyrouth, Syria, after having given 35 years of her life to educational work in Turkey.

The refusal to permit reopening of this school is thought by Americans in Turkey to be due to the Government's desire to placate the strongly orthodox Moslems of this district. Also it is trying to induce foreigners, who have money to put into educational work in Turkey, to open vocational and technical schools rather than those of a purely academic sort such as the closed Broussa institution.

SWEDISH MATCH TRUST SEEKS MONOPOLY IN GERMANY

Reported to Have Offered $150,000,000 Loan for Control of 70 Per Cent of Output.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—Reports that Ivar Krueger, head of the Swedish Match Trust, had come here to apply to Germany a deal similar to those already in force with France, Poland, Ecuador and nearly all of the Balkan States, were semi-officially admitted tonight to be true. The reports added that the Swedish concern would make a loan of $150,000,000 to Germany in return for a 70 per cent monopoly of matches manufacturer and sold in the country.

It was stated this monopoly would play an important part in a new financial reorganization and tax reform program which is under consideration by the Government. But the premature disclosure of the project was regretted as likely to kill, or at least make it more difficult of fulfillment.

The report caused a sensation in commercial circles, as it was regarded as another instance of the control of German industry passing into foreign hands. But it was also known that the German match trust long has been languishing, owing to flooding of the market by Russians.

I T was a telegram from the manager.

He had left on a noon train.

He had to hurry away after several callers had taken up the last two hours of his time. His last words had been, "I'll probably telegraph you further instructions, Miss Jones."

Here was his message.

He had planned to place a want ad in a Sunday newspaper.

The telegram told just how it was to be worded — and the instruction stated definitely to "Use the Post-Dispatch."

Business men find Post-Dispatch Want Ads useful assistants. In more than a hundred ways they are directing the efforts of men and women; seeking and selling, renting and employing.

Post-Dispatch Want Ads bring answers.

Use them, read them, to succeed.

Call MAin 1111 for an adtaker.

CARD OF THANKS

WE wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends and also Tesson Improvement Association for their consoling words and beautiful floral offering in our late bereavement in the loss of our dear wife, Lizzie Ellerbrook.
John Ellerbrook and mother of Edward Hendricks and Mayme Grozan and Raymond Ellerbrook; also Ziegenhein Brothers' Undertaking Co. (c)

WE wish to extend our sincere thanks to our relatives and many friends for their many beautiful floral offerings and kind sympathy shown us in our late, sad bereavement in the loss of my dear husband and our dear father, Frederick Gronemeier; also the Rev. Mueller for his consoling words, and the pallbearers and the St. Louis County Highway Department and Bauman Bros., undertakers, for the kindness and efficient services rendered.
MRS. EDNA GRONEMEIER AND CHILDREN. (c)

To all our relatives and friends we wish to extend our sincerest thanks for their kind expressions of sympathy as well as the beautiful floral offerings tendered us in the time of sorrow cause by the death of our beloved husband and father, Charles G. Bauer. Especially do we wish to thank Rev. C. Kramer for his prayers and kind words of consolation. The pallbearers for their assistance. Upholsterers' Union No. 21, Loyal Order of Moose, No. 1661, for their attendance, and Ziegenhein Bros., undertakers, for their friendly and efficient services.
MRS. SOPHIA BAUER AND SON.

IN MEMORIAM

BLAKELY, CORP. WALTER M.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Corp. Walter M. Blakely, who gave his life for his country, Sept. 26, 1918. Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER AND SISTER

DUCHEK—In memory of our dear husband and father, Joseph F. Duchek Sr., who passed away Sept. 27, 1927.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

FAHRENHOLZ, GEORGE A.—In memory of our dear father who departed this life Oct. 1, 1927.
Sadly missed by HIS CHILDREN.

FINK—In memory of Otto F. Fink Sr., who died Sept. 28, two years ago:
The flowers are laid upon his grave,
They wither and decay,
But our love for him who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

FITZGERALD—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Officer John J. Fitzgerald, who departed this life Sept. 27, 1928.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion
Of those who think of you.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND SON. (c)

HOFFMANN—In loving memory of Oliver T. Hoffmann, who departed this life Sept. 27, 1921.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one we loved
From memory pass away.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER, SISTERS AND BROTHER.

KAFDEN—In loving memory of our dear son, Pat. Charles E. Kafden, who departed this life Sept. 28, 1918:
Nor will yo never bemfwyhrdmefwypemt
You are not forgotten, Charlie, dear; never shall you be;
As long as life and memory last, for we shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER, BROTHER, SISTER.

LOVELY—In memory of my dear husband, Eugene N. Lovely, who passed on Sept. 25, 1926.
Sadly missed by his wife and all who loved him. MRS. ALICE LOVELY.

MARKS—In memory of Mrs. Fannie Marks.
We think of her in silence.
No eye may see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, LEWIS MARKS, AND THE EAGEN FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

MURPHY—In loving memory of Dorothy Marie Murphy, who died one year ago, Sept. 26:
One year has passed
Since that sad day
When you, dear one,
Was called away
The blow was hard,
The shock severe,
We never thought your death so near.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, DADDY AND BROTHER
And all who loved her.

O'LEARY—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Humphrey O'Leary, who was killed in police service, 23 years ago today, Sept. 29, 1906.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND SON.

OWSLEY—In loving memory of William F. Owsley, son and brother, who passed away two years ago today:
More and more each day we miss him;
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow lies within our hearts concealed. (c)

SCHAAF—In loving memory of Edward Schaaf, who passed away on Sept. 28, 1927. Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER AND SON

SCHAAF—In loving memory of my dear husband, Edward Schaaf, who departed this life Sept. 29, 1927:
Nothing but memories as I journey on,
Longing for a smile from a loved one gone;
None knows the depths of my regret,
But I remember when others forget.
Sadly missed by:
MRS. BERTHA SCHAAF, Wife.

SCHLOEMER—In sad but loving remembrance of our dearly beloved son, brother and nephew, Harry B. Schloemer, who died Sept. 29, 1925:
We are thinking of you always, Harry;
Thinking of the past;
Picturing you in memory,
Just as we saw you last.
You left behind broken hearts,
That loved you too sincere;
That never did nor never will Forget you, Harry dear.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER AND AUNT
And all who loved him.

SUCHER—In loving memory of our dearly beloved father, Charles Sucher, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 1, 1928:
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered. Since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear father,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by sons and daughters and those who loved him.

WEIS—In memory of my dear husband, Peter Weis, who died Sept. 30, 1922.
Sadly missed by WIFE.

WINDMUELLER—Jacob, who died 3 years ago, Sept. 30, 1926:
There is someone who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long;
Since there is someone who thinks of you always, tries to be brave and contended.
Gone is the face I love so dearly,
Silent is the voice I love to hear.
It's sad but true I wonder why the best are always the first to die.
Sadly missed by FRITZ. (c)

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATING PAJAMA STRING STRANGLING

Fiction Writer Starts Inquiry on Theory Washington Woman Couldn't Have Killed Self.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Two weeks ago, the body of Mrs. Virginia McPherson, a trained nurse, was found in her room, in the Park Lane Apartments, on Pennsylvania avenue, near Twentieth street. She had been strangled to death with the waist cord of her pajamas which had been tied around her neck. A Coroner's jury found a verdict of suicide, but Robert J. Allen, member of the Washington police force, former attorney and fiction writer, asserted that Mrs. McPherson had been murdered. He said that she could not have tied the string that choked her to death.

A. A. Hurley, father of Mrs. McPherson appealed to Senator Lee S. Overman of North Carolina who urged U. S. District Attorney Rover to look into the case. Rover ordered a grand jury investigation. A taxicab driver testified today that he had taken a man to the alley behind the apartment the night Mrs. McPherson was killed. He identified the man, whose name was not revealed. The grand jury announced it would make a report on the McPherson case Monday morning.

Robert McPherson, husband of the dead woman, said that he had quarreled with his wife and left her a day or two before her death. He has been questioned several times by the police, but each time has been released.

FRANCE DECORATES KELLOGG

Awards Legion of Honor Cross to Peace Pact Author.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The award of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, the highest decoration of France, to Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, was announced today by the French Embassy.

The proposal for the award was made to President Doumergue by Premier Briand, who collaborated with Kellogg in the general pact for the renunciation of war. The decree awarding the medal was signed by the French President Aug. 27, the anniversary of the signature of the pact in Paris. The former Secretary of State will receive the decoration at a ceremony at the French Embassy here in November.

THREE HELD LIABLE FOR DEBTS OF FIRM

Mrs. Blanche Kaune Had $30,000 of Unpaid Stock of Ozark Red Granite Co.

Mrs. Blanche Hitzman Kaune, her brother, R. C. Hitzman, and Ralph Pearson were held liable to the extent of $50,000 for debts of the Ozark Red Granite Co. for failure to pay for their stock in the corporation, in a decision handed down in the Circuit Court yesterday. The decree was by Judge Hartmann, who gave judgment against Mrs. Kaune, a realty broker, for $30,000; Hitzman for $19,900 and Pearson for $100. The total constitutes the entire stock of the corporation, none of which, it was alleged, was paid for.

The decision grows out of a motion filed by Attorney Louis Hudson to collect a judgment for $8000 for his client, Lucian DuGuay, which has not been satisfied. Last February the court held that DuGuay was entitled to that sum as commission on a $160,000 contract he procured. The contract was based on the delivery of rock from a quarry at Graniteville, Mo., which plaintiff understood the corporation owned and which rock was to be sold to an asphalt firm.

It later developed that the company did not own the quarry, Mrs. Kaune, it was stated, simply having an option to buy, which she did not exercise. So the contract could not be fulfilled, and plaintiff lost his commission.

DeGuay's suit was not contested and the judgment in his favor was rendered by default. When he tried to collect, no assets standing in the name of the company could be found. In order to get funds in the treasury with which to satisfy the judgment DeGuay's counsel proceeded against the stockholders to make them pay for their stock.

At the trial before Judge Hartmann both Mrs. Kaune and Pearson admitted they had not paid for their stock. Pearson explained it was the understanding that a relative of his was to finance the enterprise but the death of the relative had altered the arrangement. Hitzman did not appear in court.

SKIP-STOP SYSTEM ORDERED FOR THE WELLSTON LINE

Elimination of 29 Stops, Beginning Tuesday, Will Make Round Trip Seven Minutes Faster.

The skip-stop system, eliminating 14 eastbound and 15 westbound stops, will be put into effect on the Wellston line, begining Tuesday, the Public Service Co. announces.

Time for the round trip will be seven minutes faster than now prevails, with the cars traveling at an average speed of 11.7 miles an hour as compared with 12.1 miles an hour on the University line, fastest in the city.

Tracks on the Wellston line have been reconstructed in connection with the widening of the street.

NEW BRITISH AIR BOMBER IN SUCCESSFUL TEST FLIGHT

Hawker Rolls Royce Hart Said to Be Fastest Daylight Craft of Its Kind in World.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—What is said to be the fastest daylight bombing airplane in the world, The Hawker Rolls Royce Hart, made a successful test flight today with Royal Air Force pilots at the controls. The machine was built to take part in a private competition held by the Air Ministry to discover a new air bomber for the re-equipment of the Royal Air Force.

It is equipped with the same type of engine with which Britain won the Schneider Cup and is reported to have a speed of more than 200 miles an hour. The actual speed has never been disclosed.

The motors are not so powerful as those in the seaplane with which flying officer Waghorn won the Schneider cup race, retaining the trophy for England.

LINDBERGH IN COLOMBIA; OFF FOR PANAMA TODAY

By the Associated Press.

BARANQUILLA, Colombia, Sept. 28.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here at 5:30 p. m. He will continue his flight to Panama at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

He left Maracay, Venezuela, this morning and on his way here made stops at Willenstad, in Curacao, and Maracaibo, Venezuela.

In his party are Mrs. Lindbergh and Mr. and Mrs. Juan T. Trippe, president of the Pan-American Airways.

During their visit in Caracas yesterday they were guests at luncheon a, the American Legation, visited the birthplace and tomb of Simon Bolivar, the South American liberator, and were received in private audience by President Perez. A reception and ball was given in their honor.

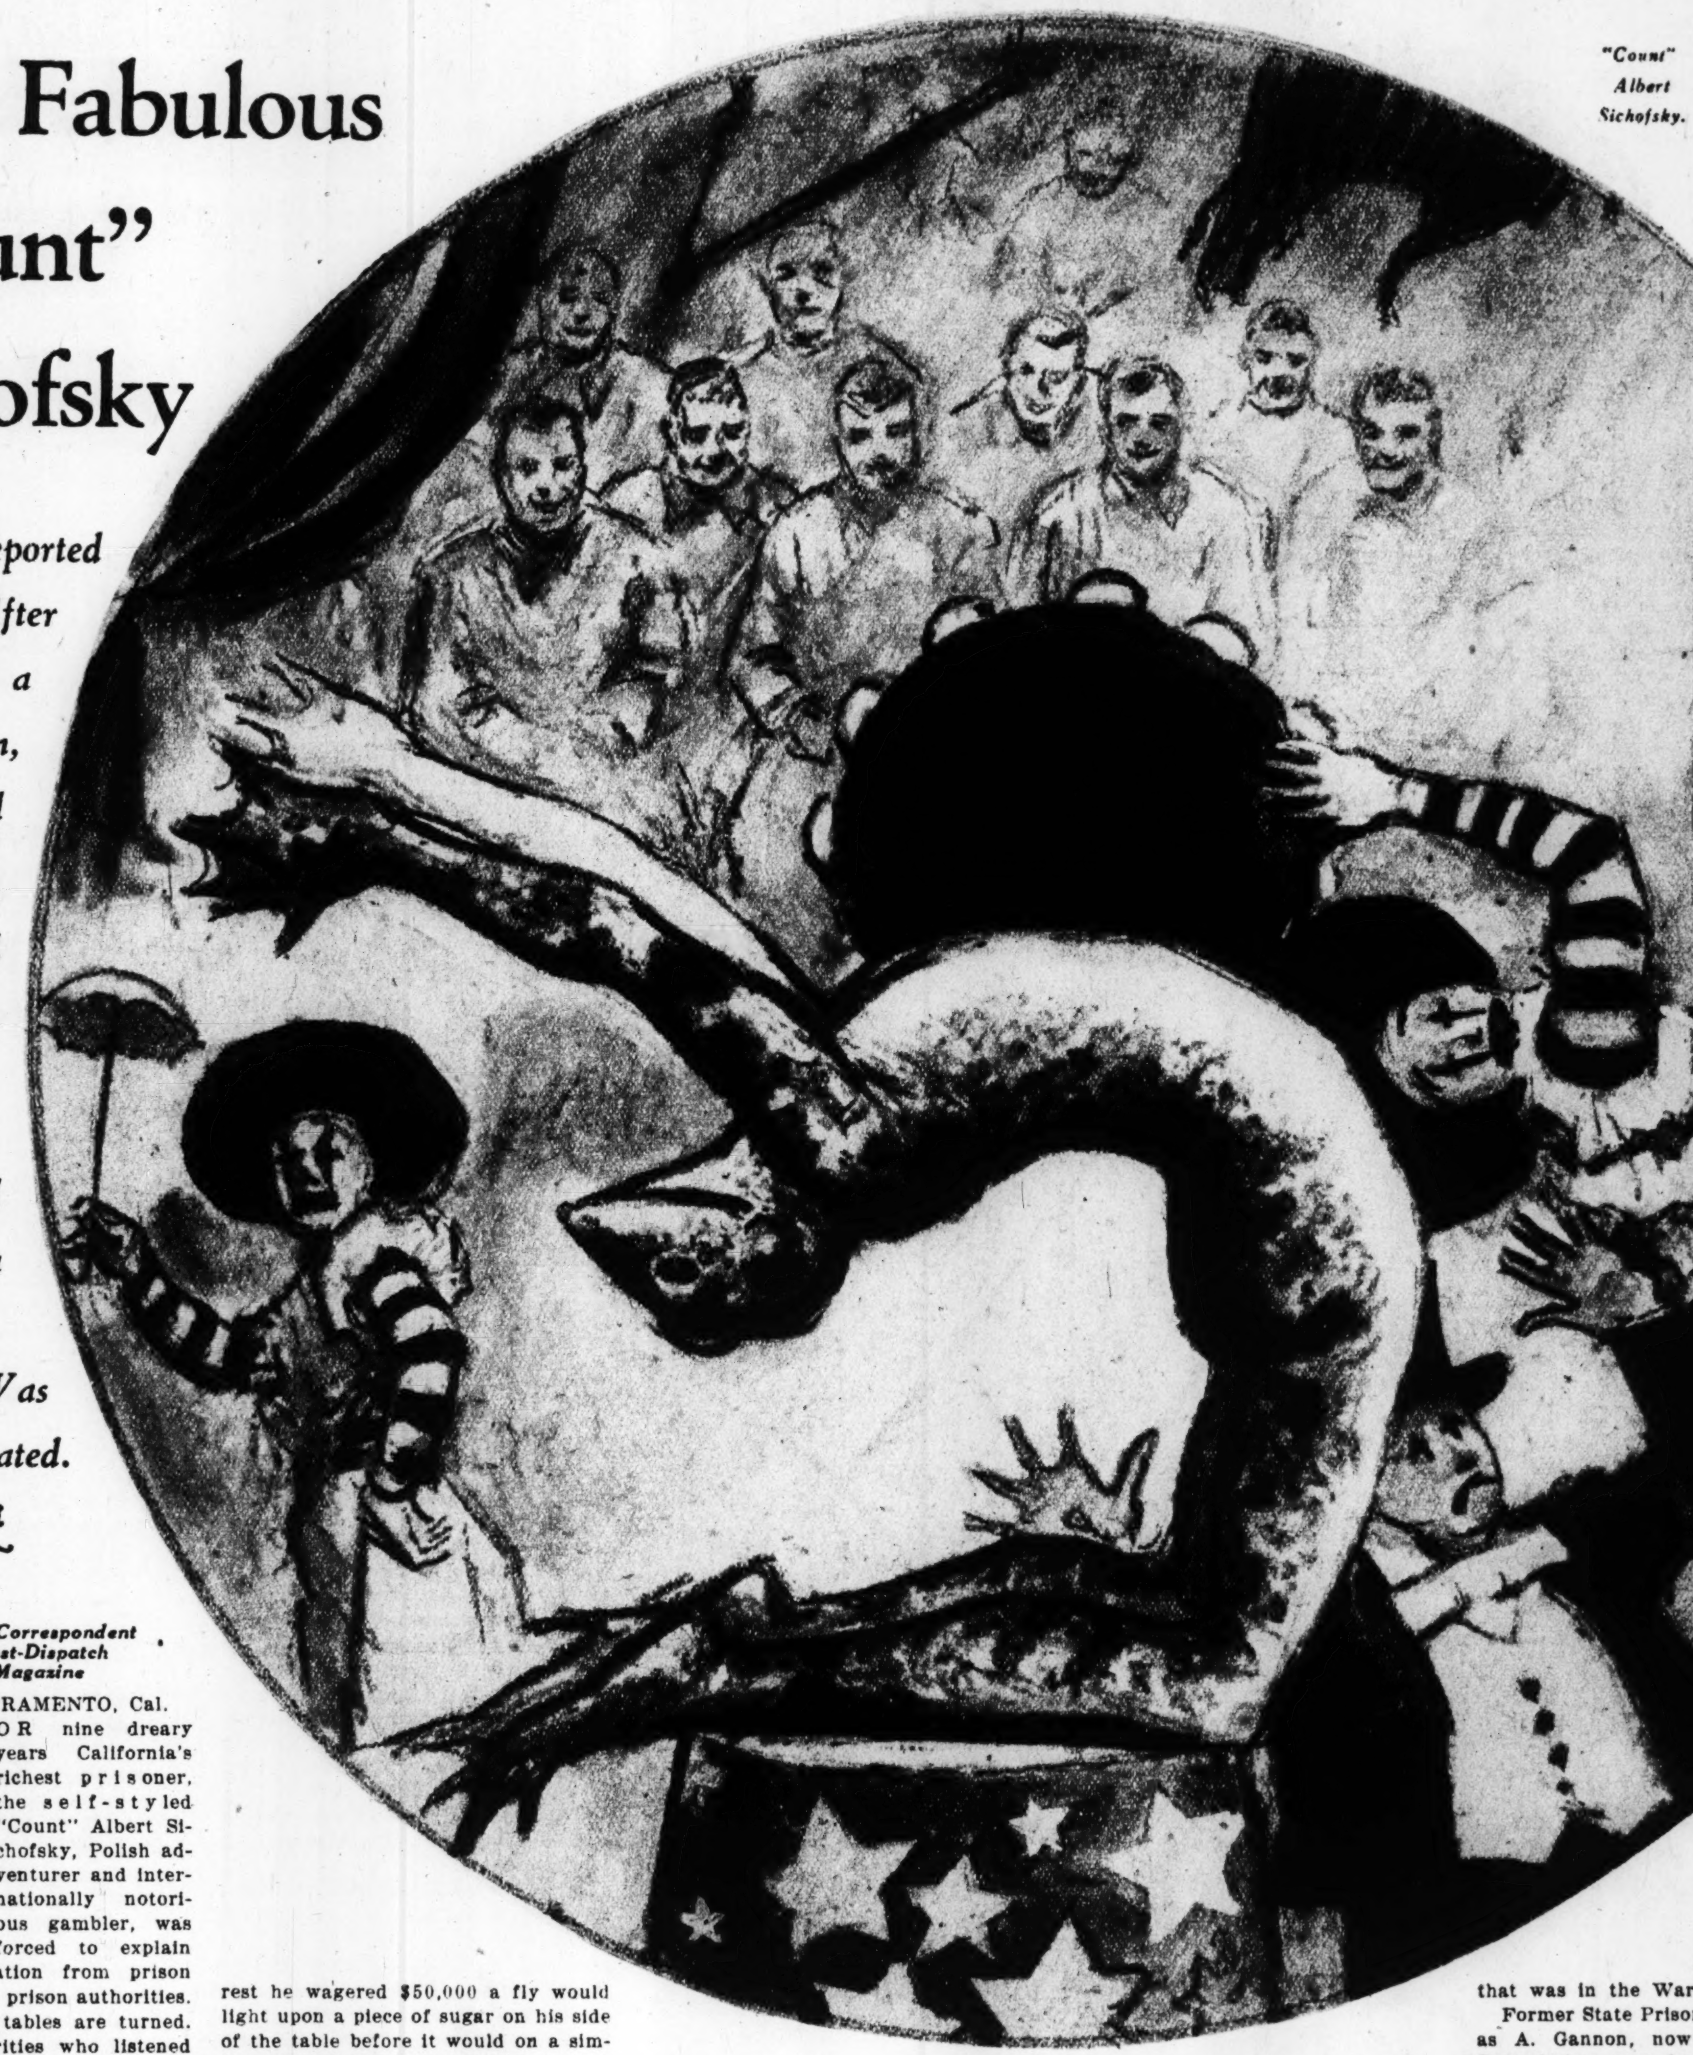
The Fabulous "Count" Sichofsky

Ordered Deported to Poland After Completing a Prison Term, He Stopped Proceedings by Charging That the California Officials Had Robbed Him of a Fortune While He Was Incarcerated.



He gave money to buy costumes for the prisoners' entertainment and appeared himself in the guise of a frog.

"Count" Albert Sichofsky.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

SACRAMENTO, Cal.

FOR nine dreary years California's richest prisoner, the self-styled "Count" Albert Sichofsky, Polish adventurer and internationally notorious gambler, was forced to explain his slightest deviation from prison routine to the State prison authorities.

But today the tables are turned. These same authorities who listened to the "Count's" explanations are explaining things to him. They are trying to tell what became of $200,000 which the former prisoner says disappeared from his fortune while he was serving sentences in McNeil's Island, the Federal penitentiary on Puget Sound, and at Folsom, the California State prison near Sacramento, for embezzlement.

It is not an easy matter to explain offhand what became of $200,000, especially if you didn't know it existed in the first place. And the State and county officials who were connected with the rich "Count's" case declare they know nothing about the money.

"Count" Albert Sichofsky is a figure as fabulous as the Count of Monte Cristo made modern. According to his own story he first came to this country in 1904, subsequently leaving and spending a number of years in Cuba and Mexico. In Mexico, at Parral, in the State of Chihuahua, he says he owns a gold mine which once produced $81,000 worth of gold in 30 days, and for which he says he was offered $2,000,000.

HE COMPLETED his term in the California prison June 15 and was turned over to the Federal authorities, who took him to Ellis Island for deportation. Out of more than $300,000 cash, a $23,000 Rolls Royce, $20,000 worth of jewelry and a wardrobe of many trunks of clothes, which the "Count" claims he had when he first became involved with Federal and California authorities, he now has less than $20,000.

Of slight build and with a slightly Oriental cast to his features, the "Count" is dapper in appearance. Mild of manner, quiet, yet an expert conversationalist on a wide range of subjects, he is hardly a figure one would suspect of being an internationally notorious crook. Around him has swirled a constant stream of intrigue, always involving large sums of money.

It is told that shortly before his arrest he wagered $50,000 a fly would light upon a piece of sugar on his side of the table before it would on a similar piece before the companion with whom he was dining. The "Count" won.

But now hard times are upon him and in the charges which he has laid before the Department of Labor the "Count" would like to know what became of:

Four thousand two hundred dollars taken from him November 15, 1920, by the District Attorney's office in Los Angeles.

Nine thousand eight hundred and twenty-one dollars withdrawn from his account in the Merchants National Bank of Los Angeles by the District Attorney's office.

Thirty-five thousand nine hundred and eighty-two dollars which he says Deputy Sheriff Harvey Bell of Los Angeles placed in a San Rafael bank November 15, 1923, and for which he never received a receipt.

One hundred and sixteen thousand dollars in bonds which disappeared from his safety deposit box in the First National Bank of San Diego.

Twenty-eight thousand seven hundred dollars which he says was withdrawn from three Los Angeles banks without his knowledge or authorization.

One thousand seven hundred and forty-seven dollars he paid in settlement of a judgment against him on what he claims was a forged promissory note.

Sixteen thousand six hundred and eighty dollars he paid in settlement of a civil action brought by John Emmanuel—for what the prisoner claims he does not know.

Sichofsky has in his makeup the same peculiar wizardry which made famous the fictitious Rufus J. Wallingford and the real-life Ponzi. Exactly how he obtained his fortune will always be a matter of speculation. He is a plunger of the highest type. In Wall Street he would be known as a "lone wolf" for he seldom has an accomplice.

Once in prison he became intimate with two trusties and this friendship nearly cost him his life. This chapter of his prison record, as entertaining as a leaf from a Dumas novel, has been revealed in the investigation which followed the charges he brought at Ellis Island while awaiting deportation.

Former Warden J. J. Smith, who had Folsom prison in his charge when Sichofsky was received as a prisoner, revealed how he saved the life of the prisoner, who was being slowly put to death by some mysterious poison, administered, he believes, by the "Count's" trusty friends, in the hope that they would be willed his money.

"COUNT" SICHOFSKY worked with a clerk, George Jennings, a free man, who was property clerk in the prison office. One day Sichofsky became ill and was taken to the prison hospital. The doctor could not diagnose his case but knew he was seriously ill.

Shortly afterward the Warden found an anonymous letter upon his desk one morning, supposedly written by some convict, which warned Smith to look to the welfare of the prisoner in the hospital. The letter also said that Jennings would see the "Count" in the hospital that night.

The Warden strolled to the hospital that evening. He found the doctor operating on a convict and stopped to chat with him for a few minutes. At approximately 9:30, hours after the prison office had been locked, he saw Jennings come in. He went to the ward and directly to Sichofsky's cot. The Warden slipped into the ward and hid himself behind a screen. He could not hear the conversation, but finally heard Jennings ask: "Well, Count, are you ready to sign?"

At this the Warden stepped from behind the screen and seized a sheaf of papers Jennings held in his hand. The papers were afterwards found to be a will. Jennings was the prison notary and had the documents all in order for signing.

On examination, Smith said, he found the "Count's" purported will was to leave the Warden $200, two convicts $200 each and $2000 to Jennings. There was a further proviso that Jennings was to use the $2000 to go to Poland to search for Sichofsky's relatives. If he was unable to find them the residue of the estate was to revert to Jennings.

Smith said that after he confronted Jennings in the hospital the clerk immediately offered to resign. He allowed him to do this.

A few days later the Warden received a second letter, commending him for his action, but warning him that the danger to the "Count" was not past as the "Count" was not supposed to leave the hospital alive.

The Warden set up a watch over the sick prisoner, changed the nurses, who had posed as the "Count's" friends, and the prisoner got well within a few days.

Jennings, who has been reinstated in his job by the present Warden at Folsom, denies that the former Warden's story is correct. There was a will, he says, but his only part in connection with it was to examine the paper as prison notary and see that it was properly witnessed.

Although he is known as an international crook, bad-check artist, high-stake gambler and embezzler, the "Count's" charges have caused a frenzy of excitement in California State circles.

Governor C. C. Young immediately called for an investigation of all that has transpired in connection with "Count" Sichofsky's case since Young became Governor in 1926. Warden Court Smith of Folsom State Prison had to give an itemized account of every penny of the prisoner's money that was in the Warden's keeping.

Former State Prison Director Thomas A. Gannon, now State Railroad Commission examiner, and former State Prison Director George A. Van Smith, now vice president of a large San Francisco bank, have both entered long public denials in the press of the State that they know what became of the prisoner's money.

"Preposterous," they say to the charges and point to his record.

It is an amazing record. A record reaching back to 1904, when Alberto Sycowski, a penniless Pole, came to this country as an immigrant. It runs the gamut from ludicrous to melodramatic.

AT ONE time "Count" Sichofsky was heralded on circus billboards as "The Human Frog" and at another as "The Human Dragon." To those under the big top he was known as Charles Le Dragon, the contortionist. But it is told that strong drink spoiled what might have otherwise been a successful circus act and he became a bunco artist. He became known variously as Carlos La Deaux, Ricardo Soto Prieto, Charles Hombre Rana and Max Freeman.

During the World War he was arrested in Cuba as a German spy. The charges were never pushed for the simple reason that the "spy" escaped and no more was heard from him until after the war.

He was arrested in 1920 in Los Angeles on a charge of embezzlement, lost the case, appealed and then pleaded guilty to a charge in the Federal Court of entering the United States without a passport. For this he was sentenced to McNeil's Island, the Federal prison.

Two years later he was released, supposedly penniless. In two months he was again arrested in California as he was crossing the border from Mexico at Calexico. In addition to the foreign title he had $175,000 in money and valuables, a tennis racquet and a bag of golf sticks.

He was sentenced to serve from one to ten years for grand larceny and embezzlement on the old charge, which had been on appeal when he was sentenced to the Federal prison. California State officials say he had been stripped of everything except $35,890 in cash, two diamond rings valued at $15,000 and 10 wardrobe trunks full of clothes.

The "titled" prisoner was first sent to San Quentin Prison, where those who are serving their first term are imprisoned in California. Soon, however, he was transferred to Folsom, where only those who have served more than one term spend their days.

Folsom State Prison is the most severe of California prisons. There the most hardened criminals are confined. It stands on the banks of the American River, in the foothills of the Sierra Nevadas. It was here that one guard was murdered, five others wounded, 11 convicts killed and 21 prisoners wounded in a riot last Thanksgiving Day. Six convict ringleaders in the riot are in the death cells there now, while an appeal from their death sentence is carried to the United States Supreme Court.

Visitors at the prison often remark about the proud manner in which the convicts carry themselves. They are "hard guys." They admit it boastfully. Many are killers serving life-term sentences.

IN THIS environment the Polish adventurer found himself slightly out of place. He found few friends in the prison and for several years had no intimates.

Although without close friends, the "Count" attempted to buy the good will of the prisoners as a whole. He spent $400 for costumes for the prisoners' Fourth of July celebration in 1925. Among the costumes was a pair of tights in imitation of a frog skin. These the "Count" wore, reverting to his old act as a contortionist for the entertainment of the other prisoners.

Meanwhile, he was busy on the outside. He was constantly embroiled in suits. Those who claimed he had defrauded them sued him. John Emmanuel, an antique dealer in Seattle, obtained the largest judgment against the prisoner. The Court awarded him $14,300, but before it was finally paid, after an appeal had been taken to the highest California court, it had grown to $16,000.

Then, too, the "Count" had a penchant for hiring lawyers. Seven Sacramento lawyers were retained by him at various times and each obtained small sums for his services. The prisoner had a fixed belief that he could obtain his freedom from the State prison through a writ of habeas corpus.

He continued to pose as a Polish Count, but the prisoners believed he was a Syrian or Jew. Only those who felt that they might better themselves financially became his friends. It is told within the prison walls that a woman—the wife of a man who was condemned to hang—heard of the "Count" through her visits to the prison. Hoping to secure financial aid for her husband she began to call upon the "Count" also.

It is prison gossip that she failed

SIGNED for the BIG LEAGUE at the AGE of THIRTEEN

Samuel Solomon, a Freckle-Faced Sandlot Wonder, Has Already Hung Up a Record.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

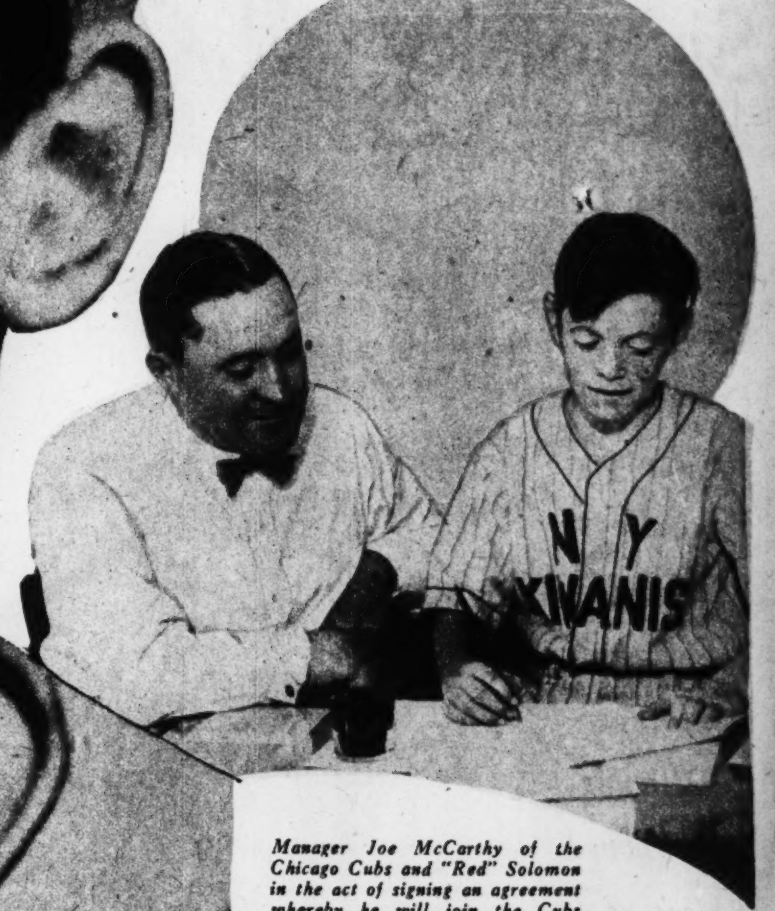
IT WAS not as an ordinary pupil that 13-year-old Samuel Solomon returned to Prospect Junior High School on the opening day of school, but as a conquering hero. An informal gathering of some 25 fellow pupils waited for him outside his front door for the honor of accompanying him to school. In the schoolyard he was the center of an admiring, curious throng, and after school that day he was escorted home by another army of worshipful youngsters, a few of whom almost came to blows for the privilege of walking at his side, and all of whom listened to his words with awe and deep respect.

Now when boys of grammar-school age pick out one of their own familiars to honor as a hero, there must indeed be something decidedly singular about the young man. In this case there was, for Samuel Solomon, better known to his friends as "Red," had just returned from Chicago, where he had gone after having been officially "signed up" by Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs baseball team. It was the first time in the history of major-league baseball that a boy so young had been given a contract, and this was such an unusual tribute to "Red's" genius on the diamond that his schoolmates could not help expressing their admiration.

It was the opening of the school term that was responsible for "Red's" return from the glories of hobnobbing with such celebrities as Rogers Hornsby and the fence-busting Hack Wilson, although when the world series is being played Red will temporarily rejoin the Cubs as their guest for that momentous event.

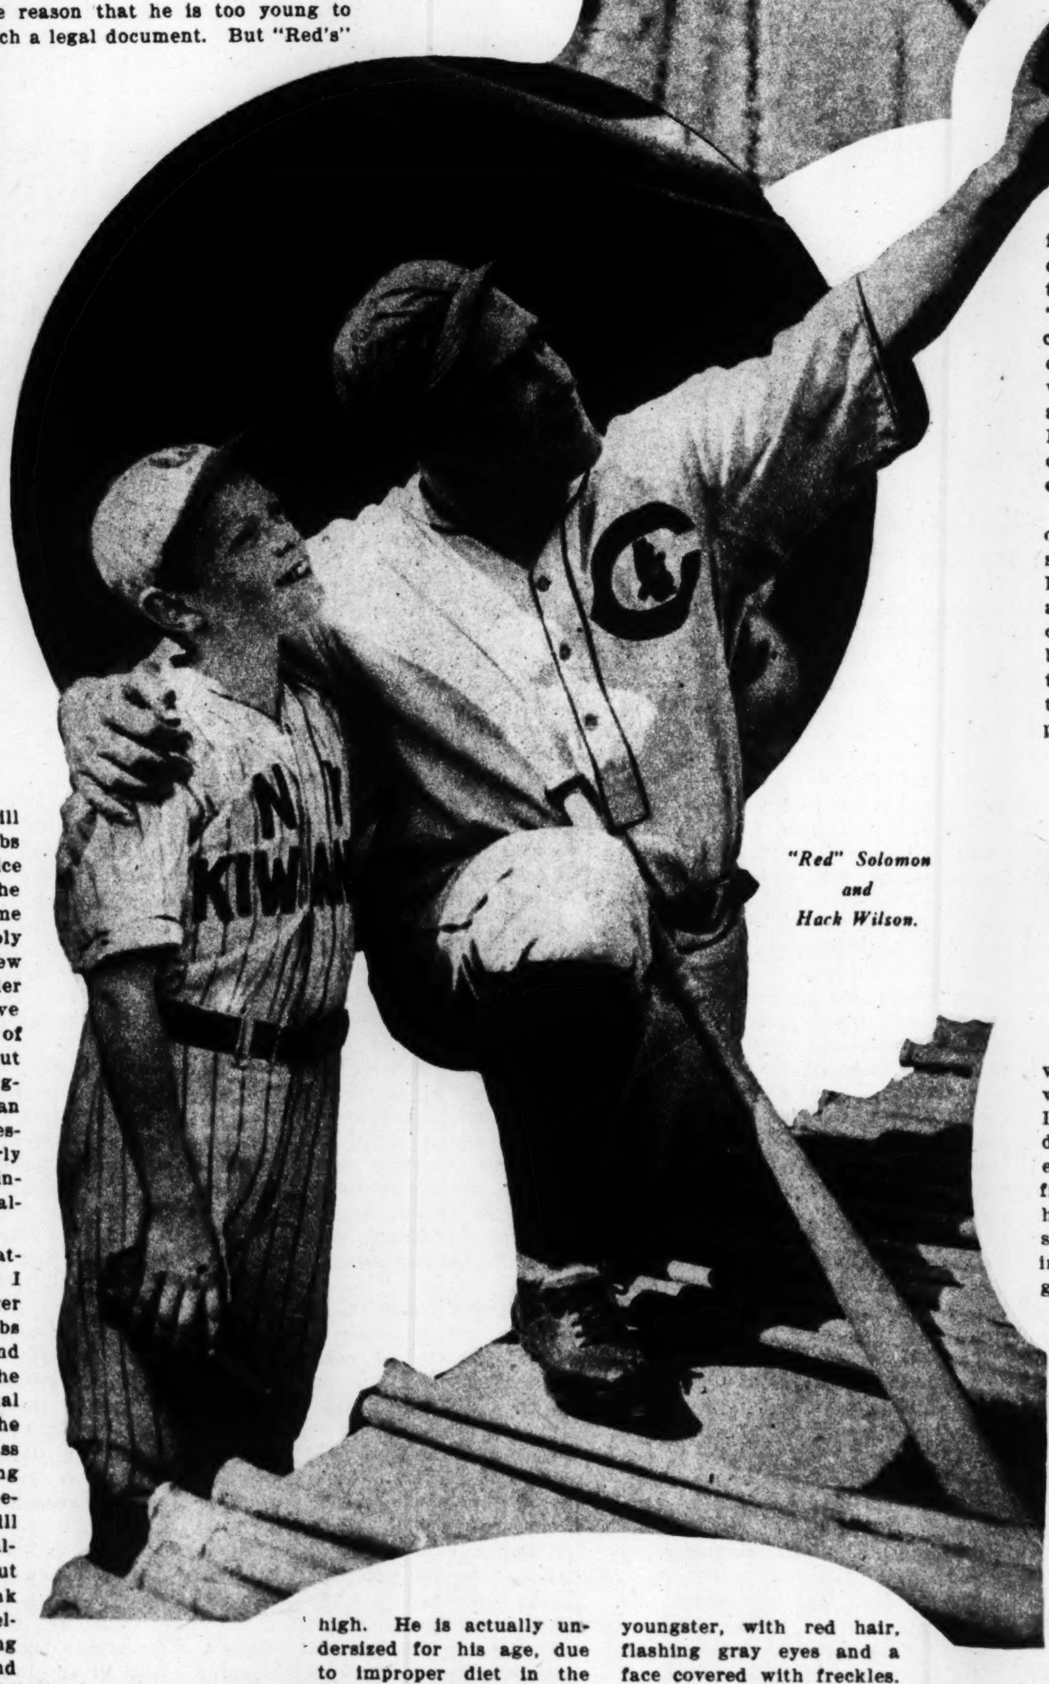
If the awarding of a major-league contract to a lad so young is the cause of hero-worship by his schoolmates, it is equally a source of wonder and surprise to older men. Waite Hoyt, the celebrated Yankee pitcher, was first signed by Manager McGraw of the New York Giants when Hoyt was a high-school boy of 15. And Melvin Ott began his brilliant career with the same team at the age of 17. But never have big-league scouts or managers been impressed enough with the talent of a 13-year-old youngster to show a willingness to obtain an option on his services for the future, as is the case in the present instance.

Samuel "Red" Solomon.



Manager Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs and "Red" Solomon in the act of signing an agreement whereby he will join the Cubs when he has finished school.

"Red," of course, is not bound by an official contract, for the simple reason that he is too young to become a party to such a legal document. But "Red's" father, William Solomon, and Manager McCarthy have signed an agreement which provides that in exchange for being appointed official mascot and bat boy of the Cubs, he agrees not to join any other major-league club before he reaches the age of 21, with the further provision that the Cubs may call him into active service on the diamond any time after he reaches the age of 16. The boy will continue with his studies at school, but during vacations will travel with the Cubs and receive practice and instruction in the science of the game from them. Probably this agreement, in view of Samuel's tender years, does not have the binding force of complete legality, but it is as near to a big-league contract as can be reached at the present, and it clearly shows the Cubs' interest in the potentialities of the lad.



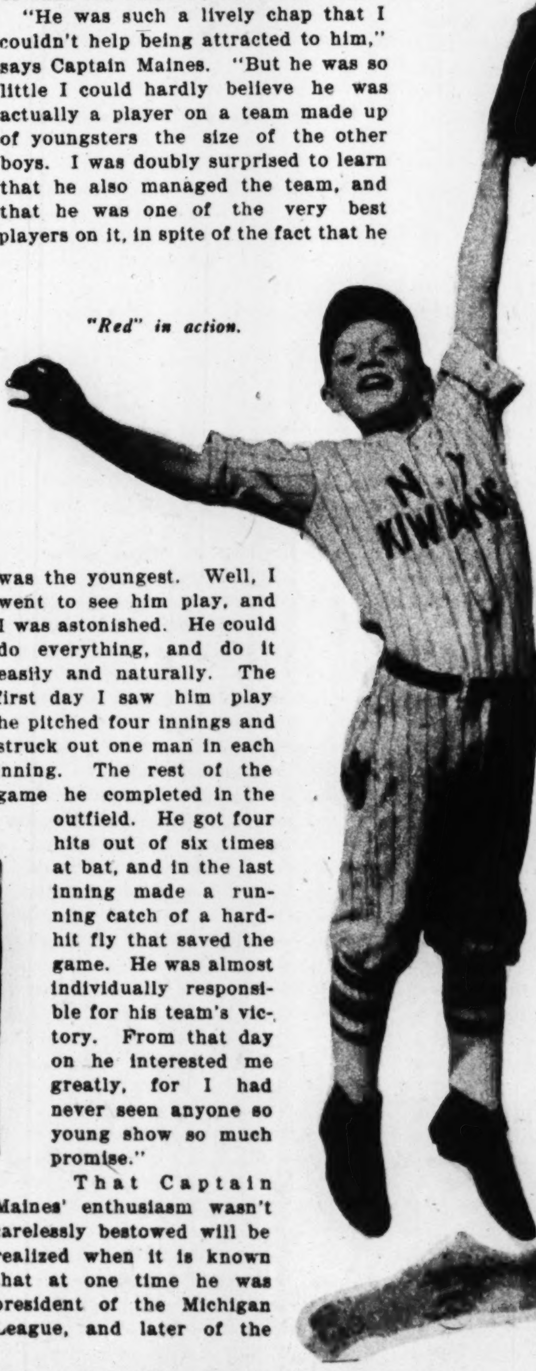
"Red" Solomon and Hack Wilson.

"He is the best natural kid ball player I ever saw," Manager McCarthy of the Cubs recently declared, "and if he develops as he should in the normal course of events he will be a first-class player. I'm signing him up, not only because I think he will some day prove valuable to my club, but also because I think we can help his development by having him with us and working with him while he is young, before he forms any bad playing habits."

The recipient of all this expert praise is a little shaver who weighs only 79 pounds and is 4 feet 8 inches high. He is actually undersized for his age, due to improper diet in the past, but this is a condition that is being remedied by men who have become interested in him, and in the next year or so he is expected to develop physically to his natural weight. Personally, he is a very attractive youngster, with red hair, flashing gray eyes and a face covered with freckles. He has an animated, mischievous look about his face, and is in every way a typical, lively boy.

He has been playing baseball as long as he can remember, but it was really not until two years ago that he was first noticed. At that time he attended a meeting of managers of boys' teams comprising the Junior League. "Red" was conspicuous, not only because of his natural coloring but because all the other managers of teams were several years his senior. It was at this time that Captain George Maines, head of the Junior League and one of the country's strongest boosters of sand-lot baseball, first met him.

"He was such a lively chap that I couldn't help being attracted to him," says Captain Maines. "But he was so little I could hardly believe he was actually a player on a team made up of youngsters the size of the other boys. I was doubly surprised to learn that he also managed the team, and that he was one of the very best players on it, in spite of the fact that he was the youngest. Well, I went to see him play, and I was astonished. He could do everything, and do it easily and naturally. The first day I saw him play he pitched four innings and struck out one man in each inning. The rest of the game he completed in the outfield. He got four hits out of six times at bat, and in the last inning made a running catch of a hard-hit fly that saved the game. He was almost individually responsible for his team's victory. From that day on he interested me greatly, for I had never seen anyone so young show so much promise."



"Red" in action.

That Captain Maines' enthusiasm wasn't carelessly bestowed will be realized when it is known that at one time he was president of the Michigan League, and later of the Michigan-Ontario League.

Now, the team on which Sam Solomon played is a member of the Junior League, organized to promote ball playing by city youngsters in the belief that it is not only a healthy form of amusement, but a good way of keeping them occupied and hence away from less desirable amusements which in many instances breed vicious habits and criminal tendencies. In order to give the juvenile ball players complete instruction in the game and also to keep them enthusiastic, it has been arranged that during the summer months various of the teams practice in the big-league parks in New York and Brooklyn. From time to time professional players have been present to coach them.

It was noticed that on such occasions last year "Red" not only would listen carefully to what was said, but usually he had some highly pertinent question to ask—how to grip a bat, or how to play a bunt. What he heard and saw he promptly began to put into practice for himself, with the result that last year he took phenomenal strides forward as a player. Not only was he a star player, but he was also a shrewd manager, for the team which he was with won the championship of their division of the Junior League by winning 26 games and losing one.

When the Junior League season got under way this summer it was soon observed that "Red" was playing better than ever. He usually plays third base, one of the hardest positions to play and known in baseball vernacular as the "hot" corner because of the number of hard drives that assail that position. Young Solomon's excellent playing at that position soon became a sensation among other members of the league. Captain Maines was so highly elated at the youngster's skill that he would insist on bringing sports writers and other experts out to see the games of the team representing the Kiwanis Club of New York, on which Solomon played third base.

One morning the Kiwanis team was scheduled to play a game at the Polo Grounds and Captain Maines showed up in company with Manager McCarthy and a number of players of the Chicago Cubs, who were then in New York for a series with the Giants. It was while watching the boy play during that game that McCarthy made his remark about "Red's" unusual natural ability. When the game was over, "Red" was introduced to McCarthy and it was decided then and there to give the youngster a severer test than he could receive while playing with other juveniles. He took his position alone at third base, and Kiki Cuyler, hard-hitting outfielder of the Chicago team, stood at home plate with a bat and ball in his hands. And he began to hit hard grounders to the boy. "Red" fielded the first four balls with perfect ease. Under orders from McCarthy, who was supervising the test, Cuyler began to hit the ball with all his might. Thirteen times he smashed the ball at the youngster. Twelve times Sam fielded it perfectly. The thirteenth drive he also stopped, but the force of the blow knocked him off his feet. Nevertheless, when he picked himself up, he had the ball tightly clutched in his hands.

On the strength of this performance, Manager McCarthy invited "Red" to take part in the team's practice before its games. The first afternoon he reported he was sent to the outfield to catch flies. And he caught them. Now, to judge a fly ball hit far into the outfield is no easy feat, and to get one's hands on it and hold it is a job that some major-league players have not perfected. No one would pretend that "Red" gave a perfect demonstration of the feat, but he gave a performance worthy of the skill he had shown in stopping Cuyler's drives. Then it was that Manager McCarthy agreed with Captain Maines that "Red" Solomon was a "find," and that evening "Red" was offered his contract. A few days later he accompanied the Cubs back to Chicago. He practiced with them daily, became a great favorite with the players, and returned to New York only because of the imperative need to report to school.

"Red" is one of nine children and his father is a house painter living in the Bronx. A number of New York men, headed by Captain Maines, have undertaken the task of giving "Red" more attention than he could receive as a member of such a large family. The boy lives at home, but Captain Maines has provided him with a tutor, who not only looks after the youngster's behavior after school hours, but who has put him on a diet to help him reach his normal physical development. Another of the tutor's functions is to help "Red" keep a level head in the face of the publicity and popularity that has come to him as a result of being signed up by the Cubs, the first boy of his age ever to receive a big-league contract.

IN HOLIDAY mood, their duties as school teachers at an end for the time being, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempster started out on a vacation not long ago. Since they wanted some picturesque lake and mountain scenery they decided on the Italian Alps.

They came back the other day knowing as little about the Italian Alps as when they left. For they spent almost the entire time in an Italian jail at Susa, the scenery being limited to the view from a narrow, barred cell window. They tell an amazing story.

For using a camera, for sketching a mountain peak and for carrying a Boy Scout knife they were seized as suspicious characters and clapped into prison, where they were held incommunicado for a week. Dempster was put in with 20 Italians of varying degrees of criminality. Mrs. Dempster was made to share a cell with an Italian girl. The jail was filthy and vermin-ridden and the food was abominable.

That was their vacation. And while they and their friends have made representations to the Foreign Office, little is expected to come of it. Next year they will not visit Italy.

"WHAT we went through," said Dempster on their return, "is scarcely credible—except that it happened to us, an Englishman and his wife on holiday abroad in this year 1929.

"We crossed from France through the Mont Cenis Pass, and on August 5 were making our way down to Bardonnecchia, which is at the Italian end of the Mont Cenis Tunnel, intending to travel back by train to Modane, on the French side.

"I had taken some photographs of the mountain panorama with my small camera, and was sitting making some sketches of rocks in the valley, when a young soldier came up and asked what we were doing.

"He told us I was not permitted to sketch or photograph, and that we must accompany him to Bardonnecchia for him to report to the police headquarters. He added it was only a matter of form, and that when we had satisfied the officers we were doing no harm we should be able to proceed into France.

"It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when we reached the headquarters of the customs police at Bardonnecchia, and they kept us there for hours while an officer, who did not understand English, made out a long report about us.

"We were searched. All our belongings were taken from us, including about 1000 francs. Our fingerprints were taken, and finally we were informed that I had broken three laws:

"Carrying a camera without permission, using a camera and sketching, and having in my possession a knife more than six inches long.

"I had one of those cheap knives which Boy Scouts use; indeed, it was marked 'Boy Scout' on the blade.

"The senior officer told us that we would have to go to Susa to prison. I asked at once to be permitted to telegraph, or telephone, to the British Consul at Turin, but I was told that was impossible. I was, however, shown a telegram in Italian which I was informed was to be sent to the British Consul. We learned

WENT to ITALY for a HOLIDAY—SPENT IT in JAIL

Harrowing Ordeal of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempster, English School Teachers, Who Were Arrested for Taking Photographs of a Mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Dempster.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

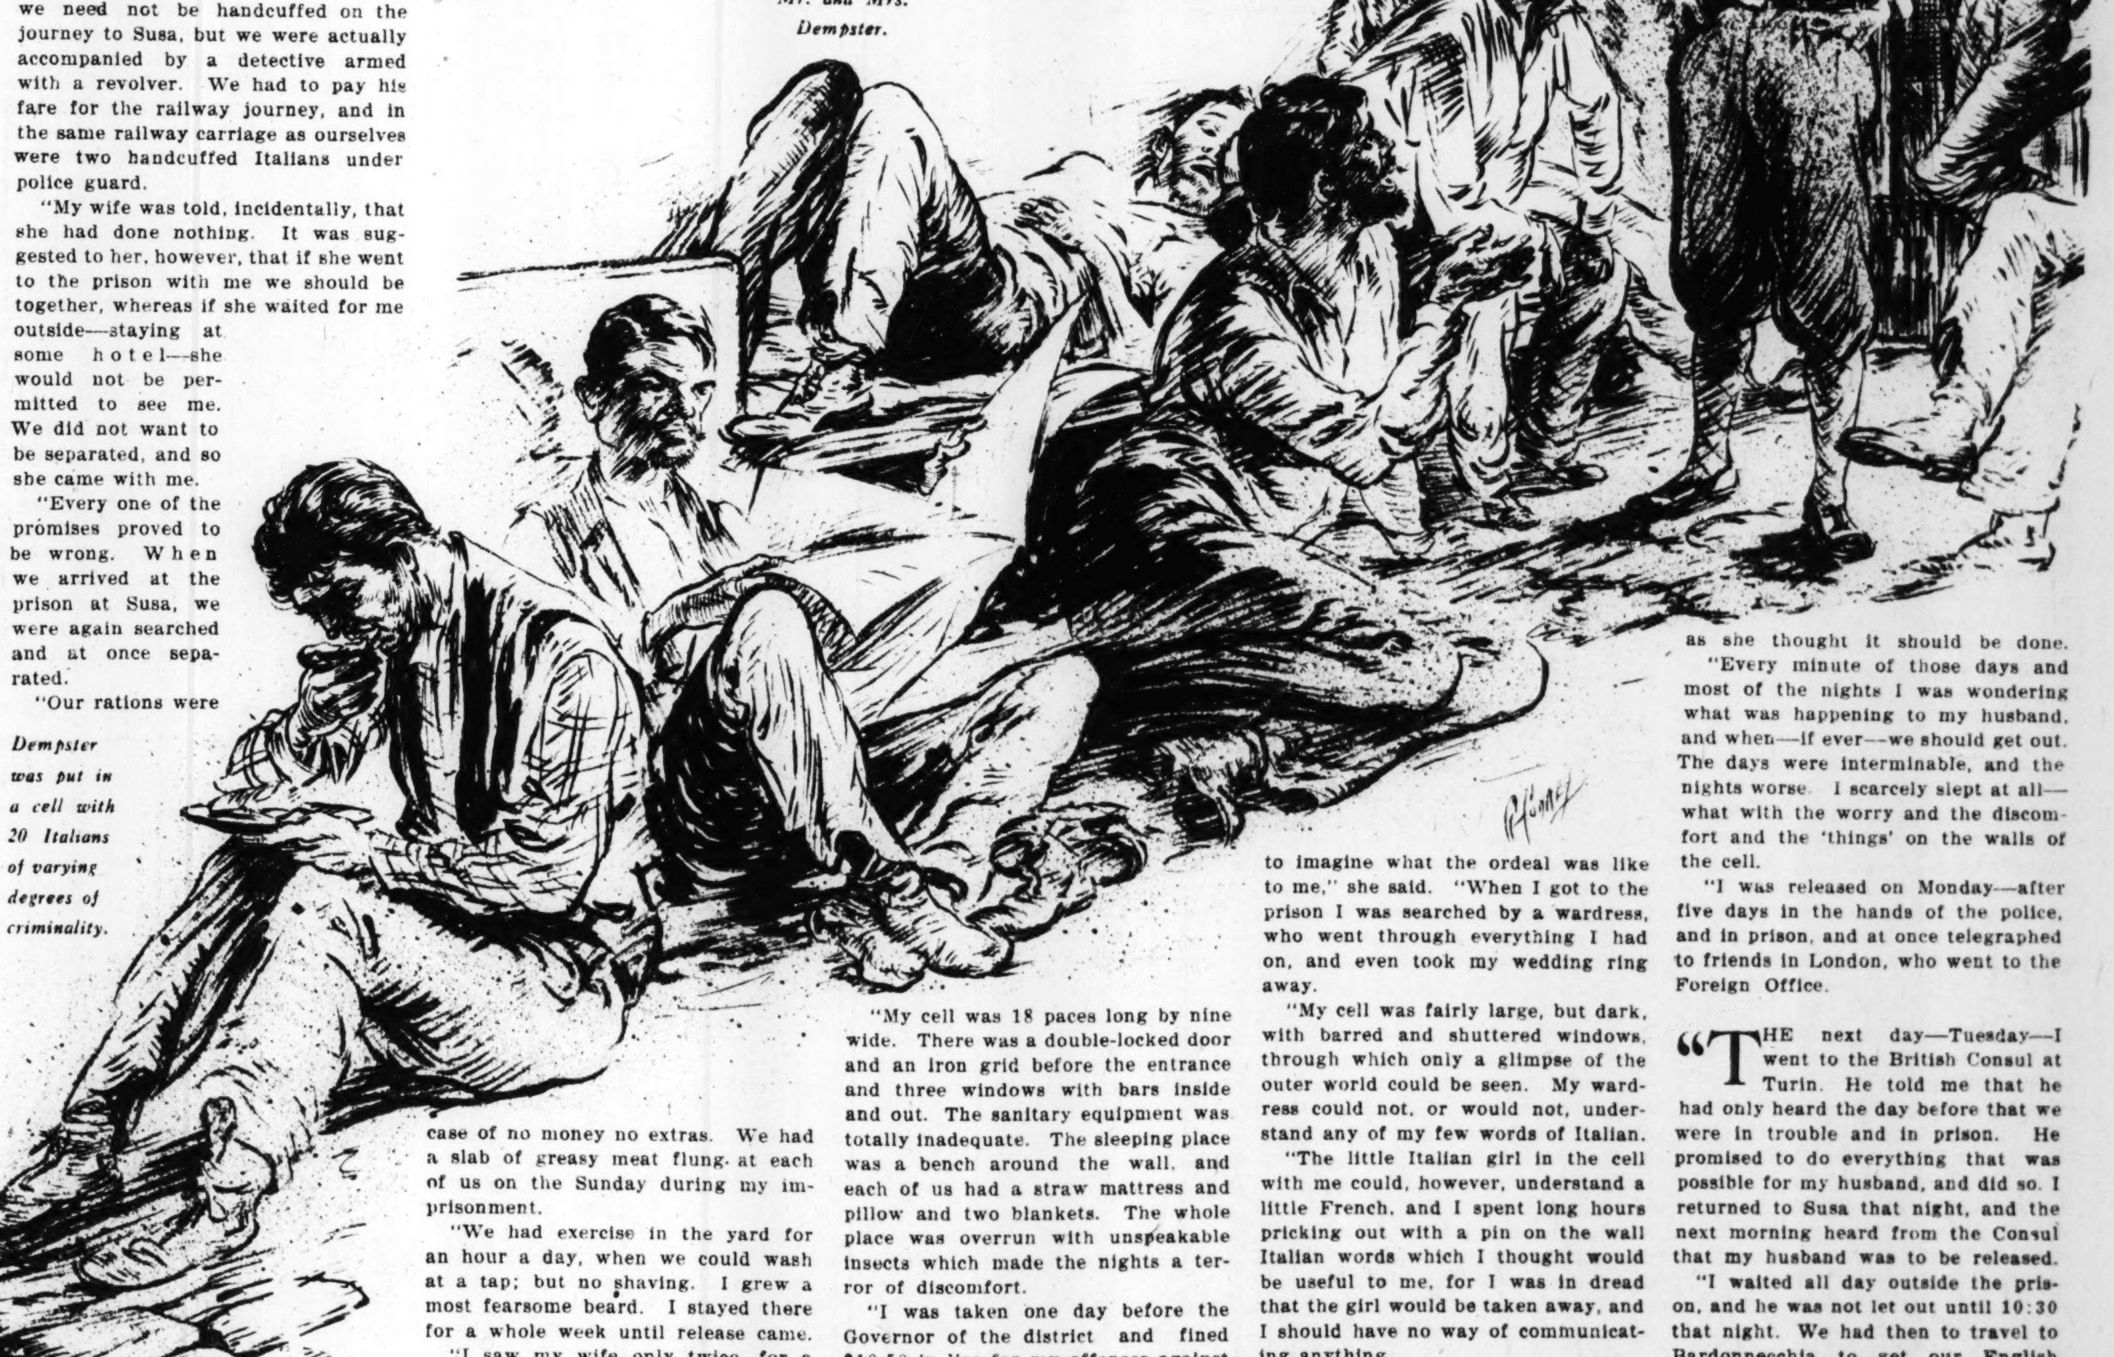
LONDON.

IN HOLIDAY mood, their duties as school teachers at an end for the time being, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempster started out on a vacation not long ago. Since they wanted some picturesque lake and mountain scenery they decided on the Italian Alps.

They came back the other day knowing as little about the Italian Alps as when they left. For they spent almost the entire time in an Italian jail at Susa, the scenery being limited to the view from a narrow, barred cell window. They tell an amazing story.

For using a camera, for sketching a mountain peak and for carrying a Boy Scout knife they were seized as suspicious characters and clapped into prison, where they were held incommunicado for a week. Dempster was put in with 20 Italians of varying degrees of criminality. Mrs. Dempster was made to share a cell with an Italian girl. The jail was filthy and vermin-ridden and the food was abominable.

That was their vacation. And while they and their friends have made representations to the Foreign Office, little is expected to come of it. Next year they will not visit Italy.



Dempster was put in a cell with 20 Italians of varying degrees of criminality.

"WHAT we went through," said Dempster on their return, "is scarcely credible—except that it happened to us, an Englishman and his wife on holiday abroad in this year 1929.

"We crossed from France through the Mont Cenis Pass, and on August 5 were making our way down to Bardonnecchia, which is at the Italian end of the Mont Cenis Tunnel, intending to travel back by train to Modane, on the French side.

"I had taken some photographs of the mountain panorama with my small camera, and was sitting making some sketches of rocks in the valley, when a young soldier came up and asked what we were doing.

"He told us I was not permitted to sketch or photograph, and that we must accompany him to Bardonnecchia for him to report to the police headquarters. He added it was only a matter of form, and that when we had satisfied the officers we were doing no harm we should be able to proceed into France.

"It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when we reached the headquarters of the customs police at Bardonnecchia, and they kept us there for hours while an officer, who did not understand English, made out a long report about us.

"We were searched. All our belongings were taken from us, including about 1000 francs. Our fingerprints were taken, and finally we were informed that I had broken three laws:

"Carrying a camera without permission, using a camera and sketching, and having in my possession a knife more than six inches long.

"I had one of those cheap knives which Boy Scouts use; indeed, it was marked 'Boy Scout' on the blade.

"The senior officer told us that we would have to go to Susa to prison. I asked at once to be permitted to telegraph, or telephone, to the British Consul at Turin, but I was told that was impossible. I was, however, shown a telegram in Italian which I was informed was to be sent to the British Consul. We learned later, as a matter of fact, that it was never sent, or never received.

"We were informed that as a special concession we need not be handcuffed on the journey to Susa, but we were actually accompanied by a detective armed with a revolver. We had to pay his fare for the railway journey, and in the same railway carriage as ourselves were two handcuffed Italians under police guard.

"My wife was told, incidentally, that she had done nothing. It was suggested to her, however, that if she went to the prison with me we should be together, whereas if she waited for me outside—staying at some hotel—she would not be permitted to see me. We did not want to be separated, and so she came with me.

"Every one of the promises proved to be wrong. When we arrived at the prison at Susa, we were again searched and at once separated.

"Our rations were bread and water in the morning; thin soup at midday and bread and water again at night. We were allowed to buy extras—wine, fruit and cheese—which were charged to us and the amount deducted from the money which the police had seized. It was a case of no money no extras. We had a slab of greasy meat flung at each of us on the Sunday during my imprisonment.

"We had exercise in the yard for an hour a day, when we could wash at a tap; but no shaving. I grew a most fearsome beard. I stayed there for a whole week until release came.

"I saw my wife only twice, for a few moments, in the presence of prison officials, and once by the courtesy of the chief warder she scribbled a little note to me.

"I was put into a cell with 20 Italians, who were there for various offenses—mostly trying to cross the frontier without passports. One man in the cell had served a long sentence for manslaughter, but he was not a bad sort, and was the only one who could speak English.

"My cell was 18 paces long by nine wide. There was a double-locked door and an iron grid before the entrance and three windows with bars inside and out. The sanitary equipment was totally inadequate. The sleeping place was a bench around the wall, and each of us had a straw mattress and pillow and two blankets. The whole place was overrun with unspeakable insects which made the nights a terror of discomfort.

"I was taken one day before the Governor of the district and fined $10.50 in lire for my offenses against the law. The Governor proved a decent fellow and promised he would do all in his power for us, and the Governor of the prison himself seemed a good sort, but the lower officers were just brutes. I could get nothing out of them except 'Tomorrow, tomorrow,' when I kept asking what was going to happen."

Mrs. Dempster took up the narrative here.

"I should like other women to try to imagine what the ordeal was like to me," she said. "When I got to the prison I was searched by a wardress, who went through everything I had on, and even took my wedding ring away.

"My cell was fairly large, but dark, with barred and shuttered windows, through which only a glimpse of the outer world could be seen. My wardress could not, or would not, understand any of my few words of Italian.

"The little Italian girl in the cell with me could, however, understand a little French, and I spent long hours pricking out with a pin on the wall Italian words which I thought would be useful to me, for I was in dread that the girl would be taken away, and I should have no way of communicating anything.

"We were luckier than my husband in our cell, because we did have iron bedsteads on which to sleep, and were allowed two coarse sheets—rather like mutton cloth at home.

"All the cleaning of the cell had to be done by the Italian girl and myself.

"The picture comes back to me now of my using a broom in the cell, while the wardress shouted at me in Italian because I was not doing the work as she thought it should be done.

"Every minute of those days and most of the nights I was wondering what was happening to my husband, and when—if ever—we should get out. The days were interminable, and the nights worse. I scarcely slept at all—what with the worry and the discomfort and the 'things' on the walls of the cell.

"I was released on Monday—after five days in the hands of the police, and in prison, and at once telegraphed to friends in London, who went to the Foreign Office.

"THE next day—Tuesday—I went to the British Consul at Turin. He told me that he had only heard the day before that we were in trouble and in prison. He promised to do everything that was possible for my husband, and did so. I returned to Susa that night, and the next morning heard from the Consul that my husband was to be released.

"I waited all day outside the prison, and he was not let out until 10:30 that night. We had then to travel to Bardonnecchia to get our English passports, and eventually were allowed to go across the frontier.

"I am afraid that I collapsed then, and was seriously ill for some days.

"Now, thank heaven, we are back in London and 'home.' All our possessions were returned to us by the Italian police—except the camera, the sketch book and the Boy Scout knife.

"I hope they like the pictures in the camera, and that the knife proves useful to them for something."

Spectacular Prison Escapes—Including the Case of Tommy Dowd, Who Grasped a Red Hot Poker to Prove He Was Insane, and of Nine Men in a Sewer.

By GUY FORSHEY

WHETHER or not a break from prison succeeds, it is a hazardous feat that pays small dividends, a prodigious exercise in futility. In his new book, "You Can Escape," just published by the Macmillan Company, Edward H. Smith makes that point clear. He dwells upon it. And having devoted his life largely to the study of criminals and their fate, he is prepared to offer testimony that is a bit more than merely competent.

But so long as there are prisons—he also makes this clear—men will engage in the futile though sometimes heroic endeavor to break out of them, and no matter how foolproof the prisons may be they will find a way to do it. Men have been doing it ever since prisons were set up. Sometimes these breaks are spectacular dashes for freedom with attendant violence and gun play—dashes which in spite of their spectacular nature often require little courage, no ingenuity and no imagination. Sometimes breaks are merely ready-made deliveries engineered from the outside by confederates and effected by means of politics and bribery. These are unheroic, too, and colorless besides. But now and then—once or twice in a decade, perhaps—there occurs one of those incredible escapes where escape seemed impossible, an escape which by reason of the ingenuity involved, the sustained and terrible patience exercised and the almost superhuman perseverance practiced in the face of crushing obstacles, commands and holds a place among the immortal deeds of mankind. It is with these extraordinary breaks, these tours de force in prison heroics, that Smith concerns himself in his volume with the reassuring title.

Classic instances of escape, such as those of Casanova and Cellini and even such prodigious fictional exploits as those of Monte Cristo and Jean Valjean, appear no more remarkable than the modern examples which Smith has chosen for his succession of thrilling tales. Casanova, it is remarked, had patience but no more than the German prisoner, Schaarschmidt, who, having no other tools, set to work with his teeth and in six months gnawed his way to liberty through two heavy oak beams. When he was recaptured three weeks later it was found his teeth had been worn to stubs and his jaw muscles had developed so that his lower face had the look of a giant ape's. The man should have had his freedom and a decoration for this prodigy of patience, the author declares, but unimaginative officialdom sent him to a stronger prison with something added to his term. Cellini, the reader is reminded, had imagination as well as patience, but no more than the Vermont farmer, Clarence Adams, who learned and practiced the art of self-hypnosis until he could simulate death successfully enough to have himself carried out of prison as a corpse and placed in a burial vault, where confederates released him.

The volume is filled with accounts of such amazing exploits as these. There is the case of Harvey Logan, an example of an extraordinary break made possible by an "escaper's instinct" plus genius.

"HARVEY LOGAN," writes Smith, "belongs to the select list of escapers. His break from the jail at Knoxville, Tennessee, on June 27, 1903, a few hours before the officers were ready to take him to prison to serve what might have been a life sentence, ranks with the most remarkable of breaks for freedom and would entitle him to attention here, even had he not made several hair-raising flights before that memorable afternoon."

Logan, it will be recalled, was much in the news 25 years ago. He was a direct inheritor of the Jesse James tradition. Cattle rustler, highwayman, train robber, bandit leader and killer, he was almost a legendary figure, one of the last survivors of the old Wild West.

At the head of the notorious Hole-in-the-Wall gang which hid away in the mountains of Wyoming, he rode fast and loose over the West, defying the local constabulary, until the harrassed citizens appealed to the State and prepared to send the militia to invade the mountain retreat. Logan saw his gang couldn't hold out against troops and fled. The gang broke up and scattered. Many of them were picked up and Logan himself was captured after a fight in a Knoxville saloon in the course of which he shot down two policemen. He was locked up, tried and sentenced to life imprisonment. While his appeal hung fire in the courts, however, he had time to watch the jail routine for some little weak spot through which he might strike for freedom.

He found it at last. He couldn't have recognized it at the time, but with a desperate man's confidence in trifles, he had the instinct to seize upon a "break" when it came his way. One day he was sweeping out his cell when he noticed one of the wires on the broom had become loosened. In a twinkling he had unwound the wire and hidden it.

"What kind of a broom is this you gimme?" he called to the guard.

THE guard inspected the broom, which was coming to pieces. Because it had been in service a long time, he suspected nothing and brought another broom for the prisoner, who again took off as much of the wire as he dared and hid it with the rest. He probably didn't know what he was going to do with the wire, but had a vague idea that it might be useful. Eventually, a plan formed in his mind.

One of his guards was loquacious. Moreover, he liked to listen to Logan's tales of banditry. Sometimes he would come over and lean against the cell bars while the prisoner talked. Logan cultivated the interest of his guard. Then, when circumstances permitted, he fastened the two pieces of wire together and made a noose, like a lasso. On the last day before he was to be transferred to the State prison, Logan tried again to lure the friendly guard to the cell with an engaging story, but the guard was wary. He listened, but he wouldn't approach. Logan was desperate. Finally he asked for a pencil and a scrap of paper.

"I want to draw you a little map that will mean something to you," he said. "It's the best I can do before I go."

The keeper brought the pencil and paper, and Logan spent a few minutes drawing a fanciful map, talking all the while.

"When Flat Nose and me got that bank in Sisley," he said, "they was purty hot after us and we had to drop the gold somewhere. There's about three thousand dollars of it we never got back. We never had a chance to go after it. This here map'll show you where it is. All I want is one thousand so I kin get little things while I'm in stir."

With that, the author relates, Logan poked the map through the bars and the guard approached. The prisoner started to point out the details and the guard leaned close. While he stood listening and staring Logan slipped out his wire noose, tossed it quickly over the keeper's head and threw himself back with great force so that the wire caught the unhappy guard about the throat and pulled him back against the steel door of the cell, choking for breath and tortured as the fine wire bit into his neck.

"Get out your keys and drop them inside the cell or I'll cut your head off," Logan commanded.

The agonized keeper hesitated, but was forced to obey. Logan got the keys, unlocked his cell, took the guard's two revolvers and tied the helpless man to the cell door. He then advanced on the outer door, covered the jailer through a peep hole in the door and compelled him to unlock. Taking the jailer with him, he made for the Sheriff's stable, where he tied his prisoner in one of the stalls. He then rode to liberty on the Sheriff's horse.

But for all his spectacular escape, Harvey Logan failed to make much of his freedom. A year later he and three followers held up a train at Parachute, Colorado. A posse was organized and pursued them. In an exchange of shots one of the bandits was wounded. The others escaped. As the officers approached the wounded man put his revolver to his temple and blew off the top of his head. He was afterwards identified as Harvey Logan.

"Futility," declares the author, "is written upon most of the escapes from prison that stir our imaginations. An abandoned convict, friendless and forgotten, locked in the heart of a great vault of stone and steel, makes his way to light and air by an extraordinary exertion of cunning and courage, with vast patience, with infinite labor and risk. Our hearts expand for him, not because we love a felon but because mankind, enclosed under the impenetrable skies, fettered to the tiny earth, moving in darkness and in doubt, a helpless atom in the grasp of the blind forces of the world, feels a kinship with the triumphant surmounter of insuperable difficulties, the breaker of ineluctable bonds. Yet, of every ten who clear the walls of jail, hardly one retains his bitterly-won freedom. Heroes at the initial adventure, they nearly all prove children at the art of flight, and a few days or weeks see them locked back more tightly than ever in their 'houses of bondage.' "

EXAMPLES of such futile escapes are those of "Shoebox" Miller from the Pennsylvania Western Penitentiary at Allegheny in 1881, the heroic exploit of Tommy Dowd at Joliet in the late nineties, the flight of "Soap Box" Hardy from Dannemora, "the unbeatable prison," in 1891; the break of the lovelorn Reynolds Forsbrey from Auburn in 1918, and the incredible journey through a sewer conducted by "Hard Luck" Casey at Boston in 1890.

Here and there, the author explains, a man makes an escape which becomes a part of tradition. Scores of other men emulate the original and the trick thus grows into an accepted method of jail-breaking which must be taken into consideration when new prisons are built. To this category belongs the case of "Shoebox" Miller.

"Shoebox" Miller's method of passing the barriers of walls and locks is suggested by his sobriquet. Sent up for eight years at Allegheny after robbing an aged hermit of $30,000, Miller scrutinized every nook and cranny of the prison in quest of a way out. Finally he found one. During the working hours he and many other convicts labored in the prison shoe factory. He observed that shoes were packed into large boxes, which were then nailed shut and loaded on a dray by which they were hauled outside the walls and stored in a warehouse. Enlisting the aid of several confederates, Miller had himself nailed in a case of shoes and was hauled out. A confederate employed in the warehouse was to release him there. However, on the crucial day the warehouse confederate was discharged and Miller, packed in a suffocating box of shoes, was stored away in the warehouse. He would certainly have died there had not other outside confederates broken into the warehouse that night and set him free. They found him unconscious. He was revived, outfitted with clothes and smuggled to Canada, but soon afterward he was recaptured and brought back to serve out his term.

TOMMY DOWD was a super-escaper, too. "His break," writes the author, "was a terrible, a beautiful, a miraculous thing. It belongs upon the golden scroll of absolute heroisms. When men come to think of the tortures borne before the far shrine of the strange goddess of freedom, they will not overlook this devotee."

Tommy Dowd was a safe blower. Caught in a job at Bloomington, Illinois, he was sent to the Joliet penitentiary for 15 years. There he settled down quietly to examine the prison for its mental or physical weak point. To do this he had, by extreme patience and cunning, to get himself transferred from one shop or department to another. After making the tedious round, a process that consumed many months, he had found no flaw except one. That was in the insane ward. A grating on one of the windows was loose. He knew that if he could get himself declared insane the way would be easy. But he also knew the consequences would be terrible if he should be caught faking.

One morning the keeper found Dowd in his cell flushed as if from fever and rambling incoherently. "Tell the Warden I want my breakfast served in the cell after this," he ordered. "Get me some good cigars. I'm going to change things around here."

He was taken before the Warden and continued his irrational gibberish. Then he was examined by the physician and when his reactions to tests were found to be normal, his keepers launched upon an elaborate course of torture to break his pose. It was a grisly contest between the endurance of one human being and the capacities of others for inflicting punishment. His wrists were clamped in the bull-rings (manacles with teeth on the inside to tear the flesh) and he was suspended till he lost consciousness. He didn't wince. Then, when he had revived, he was strung up again and the lash was applied till blood ran down his back. When he had recovered he was summoned to quit his pretending and go back to work. His reply was to order the Warden to black his boots. His torturers went back to their task.

He was flogged with a paddle, which, between blows, was dipped in boiling fluid or hot sand so that it raised blisters at every blow. Still he held out. Finally, the Warden went to his cell with a red-hot poker.

"You're still bugs, are you, Tommy?" he taunted. "Well, here's a sword for you," he added, poking the hot iron through the bars.

"Dowd saw the trap instantly," Smith relates. "So, in addition to all the other cruelties, tortures and tests, he was to be put to the ordeal of fire. It took him no more than an instant to decide. If he had borne all the rest he could bear this, too.

TOURISTS swarming to Europe nowadays have no trouble in rubbing elbows with royalty. The country is literally full of ex-Kings and ex-Queens, some rich, some poor, but all readily available for public inspection. They are veritably a tourist attraction. Tourists like to see Kings, even if they are only ex-Kings. And here they can see them. For those who have laid aside sufficient funds to rob exile of its terrors, Paris offers more allurements than any other capital. Here the pop-eyed tourists, almost any evening, may see a sloppily-fat and greasy-looking man of middle age dining with a carefree company in one of the most fashionable restaurants. He always attracts much attention because of his penchant for wearing gorgeous rings on most of the fingers of his fat, soft hands.

THIS obese man is ex-Sultan Ahmed Shah, once ruler of Persia. He keeps up the pomp of a shadow court along with such business activities as Bourse gambling and the conduct of a perfumery shop.

Gambling and love of the gay life of European capitals cost this monarch his throne. While he lingered over the gambling tables of Monte Carlo, Riza Khan Pahlevi was marching at the head of an army on the Persian capital, Teheran. The absentee, spendthrift Shah had long tried the patience of the Persian Parliament, the Mejlis.

The upstart soldier, Riza Khan, delivered his ultimatum: Return, shoulder your responsibilities or abdicate. The young Shah, perfumed and bejeweled, surrounded by beautiful women, declined to return. He voluntarily joined the ranks of the mock monarchs.

In Paris, Ahmed Shah still loves to keep up the pomp of his regal days. He has his royal servants and his chamberlain. He holds levees. And when he walks abroad an imperial guard in orthodox attire attends him. Lately this romantic exile has recouped his nearly-exhausted exchequer after a long run of bad luck at the race course and Monte Carlo. He made a killing in stocks on the Bourse and is once more in the millionaire class. He covets no King's job.

Like him in this respect is Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the arch intriguer of the Balkans, deposed by the fortunes of war, who earned the sobriquet of "Foxy Ferdi." In a peaceful villa in Coburg, Thuringia, he now makes flower-growing a hobby. Not long ago he paid a visit to Brazil armed with a butterfly net to search for rare birds and butterflies in the backwoods. Quaint mission for a King.

Living in seclusion at Nice is another shadow monarch who enjoys the halo of martyrdom. He is ex-Sultan Abdul Medjid, known to the orthodox Moslem world as the true, the one and only Khalif of the Koran. When he fled into exile he found himself without funds, for Mustapha Kemal saw to it that with the departure of the Sultan there should be no withdrawal of treasure. He now lives on a pension supplied by the true followers and amuses himself with painting, playing the piano and learning billiards.

George, former monarch of Greece, apparently finds no terror in his banishment. With his wife, formerly Princess Elizabeth of Rumania, he lives in a small and quiet hotel of London's West End. He is as English as the English and to all appearances is quite content with his lot. "It's a rotten job, being King—a boring life," he once declared.

In the streets of Richmond and Twickenham, suburbs of London, one may run across another royal exile—a small man with a dark mustache and a friendly, engaging smile, and with him a beautiful companion, dressed in a simple frock and carrying on her arm a market basket, for she is in the habit of doing her own marketing. They are King Manuel of Portugal, who has been without a throne for 29 years, and his wife, Queen Augusta Victoria. They live in a quiet retreat at Fulwell Park, Twickenham, and often give musical parties, for both are musicians. Manuel is also a lover of literature and has been called "the royal bookworm."

Ex-Queen Amelia of Portugal, the mother of Manuel, lives in France, where she has a beautiful castle near Versailles. But perhaps she should not be counted an exile, for loss of her throne really brought her home, as she is a Princess of France, a Bourbon.

Another royal outcast is Zita, the Bourbon ex-Empress of Austria. With her husband, Karl, and seven young children she fled to Madeira, where Karl died and another child was born. Almost penniless, the family sought sanctuary in Spain, where King Alphonso provided them with a villa at Lequetto, near San Sebastian. At one time Zita's entire capital was $5000, obtained from the sale of wine from the imperial cellars, but her financial distress has been relieved by surrender to her of the income from Karl's private estates. She wears the plainest of clothes, is deeply religious and avoids society. She is bringing up her eldest boy to believe that he will some day be Emperor of Austria. She is an exruler who is dying hard.

THERE are many others in this quaint fraternity of former monarchs. They are not limited to the western world, either. The Far East has a representative in the "Boy Emperor," once the ruler of China. So straitened are his circumstances that he has been forced to move into a small house in Tientsin with his wife and a single concubine. His huge fortune has virtually disappeared and he is now dependent for support on the kindness of his old Manchu retainers. He is now about 30, but is poorly equipped to earn a living in any manner. He is one of the few who do not cherish dreams of sitting on a throne again. He is not ambitious. All his property has been confiscated by the Chinese Republic, and he now has less than $150 a month on which to live.

Since the death of the Grand Duke Nicholas, the shadow throne of the non-existent Russian Empire has passed to the White Hope, Grand Duke Cyril. Many tales are told of the mock courts held by this exiled Romanoff in the sunny south of France. Pomp and all the ceremonials of a royal court surround him and he is known as the Emperor. Now and then the court visits Paris.

It may be that the Russian monarchist movement may be dismissed as the impotent activity of men unable to accept a harsh fate. Not so, however, the activities of the supporters of Rupprecht of Bavaria. It is not long since this Prince in the line of Stuart of England was acclaimed King of Bavaria in an enthusiastic Munich. The Monarchist party in Bavaria is

TWILIGHT of the GOD

By MARY HEATON VORSE

SANTOS didn't want to go home, and that was a fact. He told as much to his mate, Deutra, as he clambered over the side of his vessel, the Maria Virginia. He said:

"I don't want to go home tonight. I'm damned if I do!" And to emphasize it, he spat in the water, which reflected the violent crimson of the sunset.

"Why not?" asked the mate, though he knew well enough the reluctance with which many men married a long time turn their footsteps toward home.

"I don't want to go home because my house hates me," said Santos.

"You mean you hate your house," said the mate.

He was a huge, red-faced man, whose belly swung as he walked.

"No," said Santos, "I mean just what I say. I mean that my house hates me! It seems, when I go in, as gloomy as a woman who never wanted you to come and who wishes you'd go. My house hates me."

Santos was sitting high on the dory thwarts. His well-shod feet were placed daintily where the luster of his shoes would be undimmed. In the evening light the faces of the men rowing him looked scarlet. They gazed at Santos with affectionate and respectful eyes, for he was an able captain and a great killer and they were in from a great catch.

"You should have stayed in Boston," said the mate, eyeing Santos through his little piggy eyes, which were like shining slits in his fleshy jowls. "What you need is a bat. There isn't a man who doesn't get tired of his wife now and then!" In this simple manner the mate interpreted Santos' discontent.

Santos said no more, for he wanted understanding. The reason Santos hated his house was that it was drenched with tears and it was empty.

Santos' wife, Julia, was a plain, good woman. She was little and swart and her eyebrows nearly met in a sullen line. She had been childless for five years, and for this she had somehow managed to shift the blame to Santos in a skillful woman's fashion. Then she had had a child which had died as it was born.

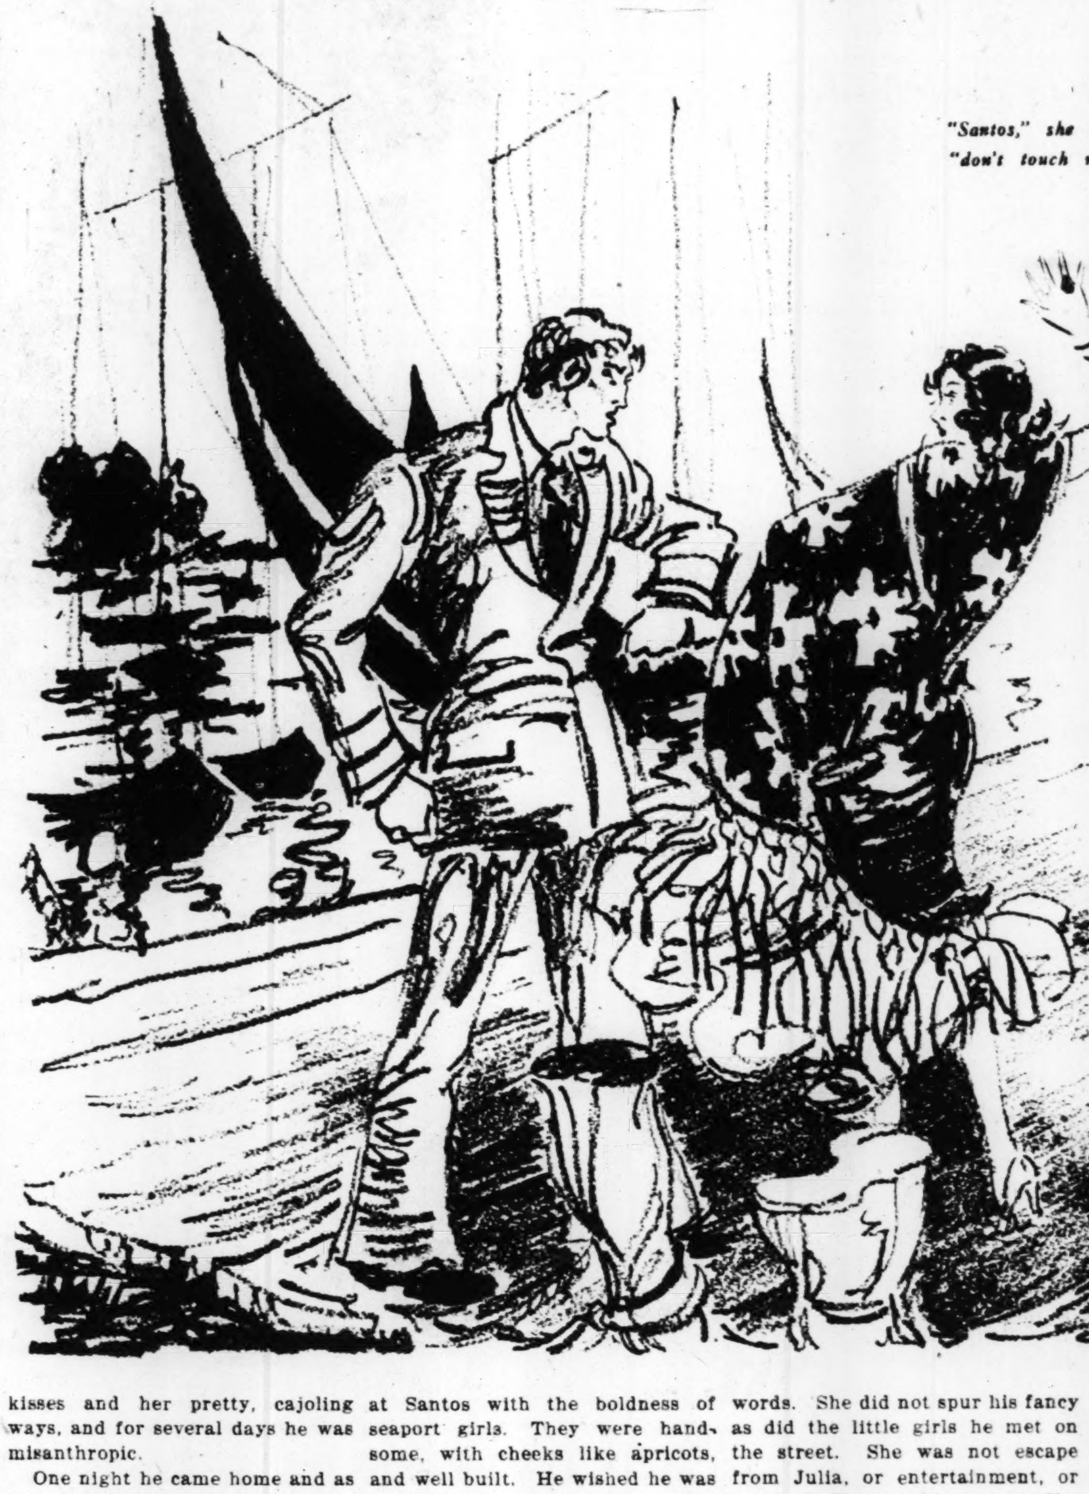
At this Santos' mother commented:

"It's too bad, Manell, that you should be married to an awful plain woman, but that you got a homely woman an' a barren woman, too, is worse than any man deserves!"

AFTER the baby, Julia was harder to get on with than ever. The first few times Santos came home and found her crying over the useless baby clothes he had been moved and he had patted Julia and loved her; later her tears had made him angry, for he had felt the lack of children to the core of his heart. The desire for children clamored loud in Santos to make up for his swarthy, nagging wife, who kept such a jealous watch on him. He could feel her watching him, every minute, when they went up town. When Julia was along he could take no pleasure in the admiring glances of the girls who looked at him, for she was jealous in a covert, underhand fashion.

Tonight Santos felt sure he would find her sniveling over the baby clothes again. He had a wordless perception that she did this to rivet his attention on her. But she only greeted him in an accusing sort of way, and after supper he sat smoking on the veranda, figuring out all over again how he had come to marry Julia.

When he was a bachelor he roomed at her grandmother's, with whom she lived. He never noticed Julia for a long time. Then he saw that when he passed her an ugly red would cover her face. Next he noticed how quick and trim she was about the house. Santos was keeping company at the time with Nellie Cabral, a wild, splendid-looking girl. He was even thinking it was time he got married, when he caught Nellie kissing his handsome cook, Anthony Silva. His pride and his vanity were hurt, and when he next saw Nellie on the boardwalk he didn't speak to her. Santos missed Nellie. He missed her kisses and her pretty, cajoling ways, and for several days he was misanthropic.



"Santos," she said, "don't touch me."

One night he came home and as he went into his room he was conscious of someone there. Then he saw that it was Julia, silhouetted against the window.

"Julia," he said, softly, "what is it? What do you want?"

"You," she answered.

"W-what?" . . . He had a sudden feeling of intense surprise; a sort of gladness swept through him.

She stood there, little and humble and very lonely.

"I love you," she said into the silence. Her voice was very low, hardly above a whisper, and clear, like the note of a bell.

He found himself shaking with excitement. There was something in her sheer audacity that roused him and pleased him as beauty never had.

"See here," he said; "see here. I—I don't love you."

"Oh, I know—I know—but I love you—I've always loved you."

It touched him inexpressibly. It soothed his vanity, too. He admired her blank courage. His heart pounded so it hurt him. She stood there waiting.

The air in the room seemed thick to Santos. Suddenly he seemed nearer to this plain, little girl with her heavy lips than he had ever been to anyone else.

Caution stood a moment beside him. But she had bared her heart and it left him helpless. Then suddenly she sank down on the edge of the bed. He could see her dim outline shaking with sobs. She had vanquished him by her humble audacity and he had married her.

But always she knew he had never loved her, and for this and her childlessness she had never forgiven him. He was a handsome, gay man and the eyes of women followed him. She didn't forgive him for this, either.

He was thinking of all these things when Julia joined him on the veranda. After a time:

"I'm going out to walk," said Santos.

Julia answered nothing to this, and he sauntered down the brick walk. The streets were full of shadowy people; they seemed eager and happy to Santos, who felt remote and cut away from life. Two girls passed by, staring at Santos with the boldness of seaport girls. They were handsome, with cheeks like apricots, and well built. He wished he was in a strange town so he could talk and laugh with them; but even away from Julia he was still tied to her. Her sad, hostile presence was there beside him.

There was no escape.

HE DIDN'T know where he would go. He thought he might stop at the poolroom or the movies. But then the music of a dance at the town hall struck his ears, and, indifferent as a jelly fish in the tide, he wandered up the steps. Santos, drifting in on a slack tide of idleness, all his desires adrift, everything in him slack, ebb tide of the spirit, ran into Victoria Sonza.

He ran into her literally, caromed against her, drifting as he was on the stream of inertia and disgust. For a minute they stood staring at each other, at first in amazement and then in glad recognition, as though the mute, blind self who knows no obligations but the obligations of its desires had cried out: "Here is my mate."

Victoria was a tall woman, and when this happens among the Portuguese such a woman is of extreme magnificence. Victoria's eyes were deep and melancholy; her mouth, darker than a pomegranate flower, had the disconsolate droop of a woman made for love whose life is unfulfilled. Her face was a pale olive, accented by her deep eyes and her dark, crimson mouth. Her skin was drawn smoothly over her cheeks.

Someone introduced them. Santos, with his eyes on this woman who suddenly seemed more his own than any other human creature, could not remember afterward who it was who said their names. He held out his arms and she came to them, and as they danced they seemed to flow along like two streams joined. This woman danced close to him, enveloping him with her nearness.

"Are you a single woman?" he asked her, knowing well enough what the answer would be.

"No," she answered.

Though Santos had expected this, her words were a sharp knife in his side. Then Santos knew that he loved this woman, Victoria, though he didn't put it into words. She did not spur his fancy as did the little girls he met on the street. She was not escape from Julia, or entertainment, or passion. She was his woman. She was his mate, without argument or question. He did not tell her these things; he only suffered because both of them were bound to someone else. Yet he was glad, too, with an overwhelming gladness, as though he had always before been a cripple and now, with this woman in his arms, he was whole. To spare himself from the silence of confession:

"Do you live here?" he asked. "I don't remember I saw you before."

"We've just come. My husband just opened a tailor shop."

"Where'bouts do you live?"

"Next Manell Santos' house. You know, the big white one with green verandas all around."

"That's my house," said Manell. "You live next door to me. I am Manell Santos."

They looked at each other, glad and terrified at once, as people are when in the hands of fate. The music stopped.

"My husband's over there," she said. "Come and I'll make you acquainted."

She introduced Manell to a little, stoop-shouldered man, a half-head shorter than herself. He was a drab little fellow, who looked at Victoria with submissive adoration.

She kept her husband in the conversation, praised him, brought him out as though defying anyone to wonder why she had married him.

THE Sonzas and the Santoses became friends. They would all four sit on the Santoses' wide veranda and Julia and Anthony would talk about their gardens. Victoria and Manell didn't talk; they had no need to. There were nights when Manell wondered that Julia wasn't seized with jealous fury. He could feel love stream out of him toward Victoria, his woman, sitting there quiet, her eyes burning him. But Julia prattled on about cuttings and seedlings.

So things went on. But every time Santos came home from a cruise he would see Victoria waiting on a wharf. She would make no sign; she would stand there waiting until Manell was over the side of the vessel. Then she would be home before he was, her hungry eyes watching for him. One thing they had. When Manell was home they went to the dance in the town hall, Anthony and Manell and Victoria, for Julia would not go. Then for a moment, as they danced, Santos would hold Victoria in his arms; for a moment they belonged to each other. They said everything and they said nothing.

Then one evening Victoria came to the house.

"Is Julia home?" she asked as Manell answered her knock.

"She's up the street. Come in, won't you?"

Victoria hesitated, as though trying to defy fate.

"Sit down and wait," Manell inserted gently.

For a moment they were silent, and then Manell reached over for her hand.

"Victoria," he began—and before he could say any more Julia and Santos' mother came down the street absorbed in talk.

Julia was voluble as Santos had never seen her, and she was angry. She was telling a long story to old Mrs. Santos, indignation in her sharp gestures. The old woman shrugged with the fatalism of the aged. Victoria and Manell looked at each other. A thought leaped between them. It was: "They are talking about us!"

All that night Santos didn't sleep. All that night his mind buzzed like a fly in a spider's web. One thing stood out:

He loved Victoria and she loved him, and tomorrow they were going to the dance and the next day his vessel cleared.

So as usual the trio went to the town hall, and during the dance:

"Victoria," said Manell, "come outside to the wharf with me."

They walked out proudly, defying the eyes of the curious people thronging the doors. A strong tide bore them along. They walked to the end of the wharf, keeping a space between them, not speaking. A shed at the wharf's end threw an impenetrable angular shadow. Manell drew Victoria into its sheltering darkness and would have put his arms around her, but she lifted a warning hand.

"Santos," she said, "don't touch me."

"OH, YOU'RE a good woman, are you?" said Santos. "For all the way you hold me when you dance and the way I can't come home from my vessel without finding your eyes burning me." For Santos when he was angry defied the world and didn't care for consequences.

"No," said Victoria, "I'm only proud. I want everything or nothing, Manell Santos! I'll run away with you, Santos, or you let me be!"

Santos felt like a gutted fish. He felt empty and as though he had no insides left. He felt as if he'd been drinking and couldn't find his feet. It frightened him to death to think of eloping and it burned him, too. Thoughts crowded his brain like mackerel in a net. He thought about his crew and what they'd say, and where people lived when they eloped, and about little, swarthy Julia, sitting sniveling over the baby clothes.

Stronger than all of this was Victoria's courage. He could think of nothing to say, so he put his arms around Victoria and kissed her. She struggled and fought with him and he kissed her to submission.

"When will you come?" he asked her, though he felt a good deal as though he were asking her when they should jump off Fish Wharf together.

"I'll go tomorrow," she said. "I'll go any time."

He sat in his room that night feeling winded. Then he began to figure what could be done. He sailed on the next day's tide, and Victoria could meet him in Boston. Afterward—he could think that out later. He started to go to Victoria. He loved her because she had the bold design of leaving with him.

AS HE started for Victoria's he met Julia in the hall. She did not see him. She was going toward her room. She was so little and looked so defenseless that suddenly Santos knew he could not leave her. She had in life little enough; he could not leave her defenseless to pity.

He found Victoria waiting for him. She looked like a flower over which a blight has passed.

"Santos," she said, "I can't. I thought I could. Anthony—he's so little. He's got only me. I—I never loved him right."

"I know," said Santos. "I know."

They stood together, united by their relinquishment. Then Santos left her. Santos went aboard his vessel with the peace of death in his heart.

That summer a terrible storm smote all the New England coast. It came down on the fishermen without warning, and there were crews and there were vessels who never saw land again. Provincetown and Gloucester and New Bedford were full of lamentations of widows when the storm lifted. When the hurricane descended the Maria Virginia had just cleared George's Banks, full of fish and bound for Boston.

Santos looked in death's eye with indifference. It was as though his will to live had gone out of his body. He had been dashed back and forth in the grip of love and the renunciation of love, and he watched the storm without the tensing of will and muscle that danger usually brought to him. Slack and indifferent, he gave his orders. He welcomed the storm's death-bringing fury. Let it whelm him into the sea. He didn't care. Let it break the sinister monotony. Manell welcomed it. It made his heart lighter to think of death, for Santos knew life was no good to him any more, since it could not hold Victoria.

At last the storm came crying in from the far reaches of the Atlantic. Something savage and glad sprang up in Santos to welcome it. An ache for death rushed over him. He wanted at any price to be free. He wanted never again to hear Julia's flat whine. He wanted never again to feel Julia's damp, clinging hands. He could have shouted in answer to the shriek of the wind.

The seething madness of the storm closed down upon him. The wind came streaming down like the black madness of murder. Sound incalculable filled the universe. The Maria Virginia shrieked under the blow like a living creature wounded to its death. Then suddenly, more powerful than the impact of the storm, sprang up Santos' will to live.

A single thought, unified as light, had come on the wings of peril. It was:

"I must have Victoria."

THE vessel bent over to the gale and fled before it like a live creature, driven by fire. And then, with a terrible rending, her mainmast went and she almost with it, while her crew labored to clear her of this burden.

There were hours when Santos saw his vessel overwhelmed. There were hours when he saw himself and all his crew at the sea's bottom. And all the time there worked for Santos some unknown sense. The storm never conquered him. He was a puny human creature, but with some spark in him like a goaded ape, chattering madly, and grasped the searing iron firmly in both hands. A howl more of rage than pain escaped him as he caught the torturing metal, but he did not let go. He clung to the poker, pulling it with all his strength while the foul odor of scorching flesh rose in the cell, floated out and smote the Warden's nose.

BREAKING THROUGH STEEL AND STONE TO LIBERTY

"The official dropped the poker in horror and recoiled. Dowd collapsed, flung the hot poker from him and tumbled down on the floor of his cell. He was carried to the hospital. . . . Here he lay for some weeks before he could so much as lift a spoon to his lips."

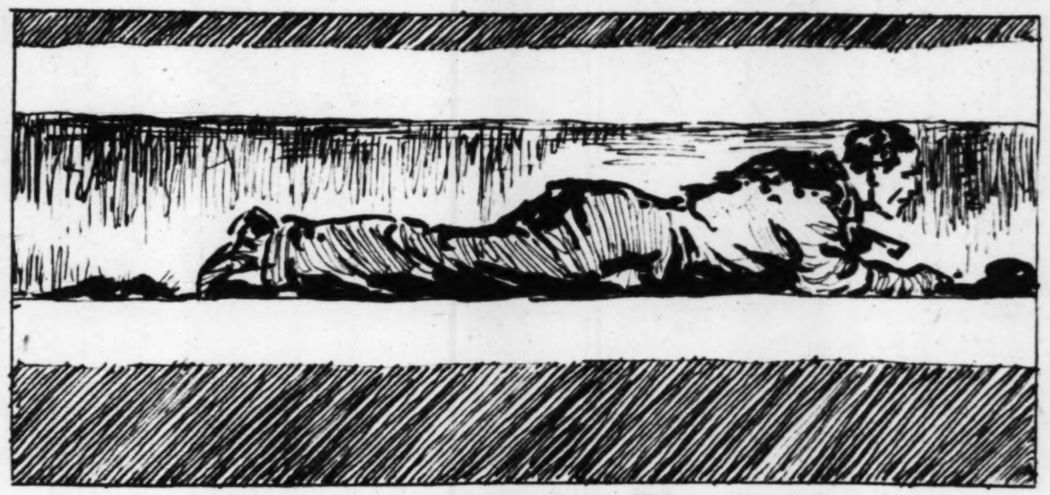
But he had got what he wanted —a transfer to the insane ward. The Warden had drawn down his flag. So, on the second night after his transfer, Dowd pried off the loose grating and escaped.

"He earned it," said the Warden.

But after all this ordeal he was free only three years. He was later sent up at Richmond, Virginia, escaped there, and shortly afterward was shot to death in a gun fight.

"Soap Box" Hardy beat the "unbeatable" Dannemora prison by walking out one day in the paint-smeared overalls of an outside workman who had failed to report that day for duty and had left his overalls and paint bucket inside the walls. Reynolds Forsbrey, inspired to desperate feats by his love for a woman, found his way to a short-lived freedom by extraordinary use of a hacksaw bequeathed to him by a departing convict. But among them all there was no more resourceful escaper than "Hard Luck" Casey.

"HE HAD fought in no wars, been decked with no medals, and all the citations opposite his name were in red ink," writes the author. "He was, in short, a criminal and a convict, yet there can be no doubt of his heroism. . . . His was the only kind of greatness known to prisons and keeps."



IT TOOK CASEY HALF AN HOUR TO SQUIRM THROUGH THE 16-INCH SEWER.

Casey started out to be a stonemason, but wound up as a holdup man with a five-year sentence stretching ahead. He was sent to the old Boston Prison and in a short time escaped by means of saws and a long scantling by which he climbed over the walls. He shipped on a cattle boat for Hamburg, got in trouble there, fled back to New York and shipped again for Liverpool. But a storm crippled the boat on the second day out and it limped back to Boston for repairs. Immediately one of his own intimates betrayed him for the $100 reward offered by the State. He went back to Boston Prison. Hence his nickname.

Now it happened that at Boston Prison was an old lifer. He had been around the place so long that nobody regarded him as anything but a fixture. Least of all did anybody suspect he cherished any hope of escaping. But he hadn't quite lost the instinct. Working in the Wardens' office, cleaning out desks, one day he came upon some old blueprints of the prison. He couldn't make heads or tails of them, but he hid one of them away. He thought it might come in handy. He had been saving it for seven years when one day he chanced to mention it to Casey. He had vast respect for Casey, the escaper.

Casey examined it and almost let out a shout. It showed that a sewer 16 inches square and buried 12 feet underground led from the prison and emptied into the river about 200 yards away. Moreover, the print showed that the sewer ran almost directly under a shack in the prison yard used as the carpenter shop. Obviously the trick would be to sink a shaft under the floor, break into the sewer and crawl out to the river. But how to work without interruption and dispose of the excavated earth? Those were formidable questions.

Having been a builder, Casey managed to get himself transferred to the carpenter shop. Then, by a tedious and careful process, he had to "feel out" the five other men employed there. When he found them "right" he had then to take in the errand boy who frequently came to the shop. Digging under the floor when opportunity permitted, they had sunk the shaft three feet when they found there was not longer room under the floor for the loose soil. They started carrying it out by handfuls and mixing it with rubbish in the refuse dump. The convict in charge of the dump soon detected fresh earth and sensed an escape, but instead of reporting it he declared himself "in." Casey welcomed him, because he could help dispose of the soil, but it brought the group to nine members, an unwieldy number.

Finally, after four and a half months of patient, watchful labor, they got the shaft down 12 feet—and found no sewer. Still undaunted, they sent out lateral excavations and in three weeks found it. Now all was ready. Who would lead off?

Nobody wanted to go first. Nobody knew what hidden terrors lurked in that old sewer, which had lain there for 50 years. It might be filled with deadly gas. It might have caved in. Doubtless it was full of slime and filth. Who could say it was 16 inches square all the way? A man might squeeze in, find his way blocked and never be able to get back. They shuddered. Then Casey volunteered to lead. His only condition was that a fat man in the group go last, "so if he gets stuck he won't block 'er up for the rest." He plunged in, armed only with a stick, and after half an hour of squirming in horrible, stifling filth, emerged at the river. He had had a close call, for there was a bend in the sewer and it was tight. It had taken him 10 minutes to wriggle through. He wondered how the others had fared. One by one they came. He counted seven. The eighth—the fat man—never appeared. Casey realized with a shudder what had happened to him in that tight bend.

BUT they couldn't afford to give an alarm or attempt a rescue. It was every man for himself. They scattered and ran. Most of them were soon recaptured, but Casey got to New York, walked past detectives at the Grand Central Station by acting as porter for an old gentleman with baggage, and shipped to London. He was making preparations to flee to Australia when the London detectives arrested him and sent him back to Boston to serve out an augmented term. It was then he learned the facts about the hideous fate of his fat comrade. Eventually Casey was released, Smith relates, and died in obscurity—another hero of futility.

The Fabulous "Count" Sichofsky

to get the money, but did obtain possession of the prisoner's wardrobe trunks. Subsequently her husband died on the gallows and her visits to the prison ceased.

The prisoners "spotted" the "Count" as an easy mark for women. His most prized possession was a book of newspaper clippings which told in elaborate detail of a dinner he once gave in Hollywood, when the film beauties bathed in champagne in the center of his table.

"It was a swell dinner," he once boasted to the prison dentist. "It cost me $7000."

This dentist's chair was a sort of confessional for the prisoner. He liked to have work done on his teeth, and while the dentist worked at molding fillings he would recount his adventures in the world. He confided to the dentist how he bilked a Chicago millionaire out of $100,000 for a set of cheap Oriental rugs. The story went like this:

The "Count" furnished an elaborate suite of rooms in a fashionable Chicago apartment house and posed as one of the Russian nobility who had escaped from the bolsheviki with only a few of his family's priceless collection of rugs as the last remnant of a vast fortune. A colleague worked himself into the confidence of a wealthy lumberman who was a collector of Oriental rugs. The colleague told the lumberman of the "Russian's" rugs, but informed him they could not be bought.

AN "ACCIDENTAL" meeting was arranged. The "Count" made no mention of his rugs and his confederate warned the lumberman that should he attempt to buy the rugs not to pay more than $100,000 for them. He said that the "Count" would undoubtedly want half as much again as they were worth.

Later came another meeting, this time in the "Count's" apartment. He insisted the rugs were not for sale. They were "priceless heirlooms," and so on, but finally declared that in view of his need for money he would take $150,000 for them. The lumberman bargained and finally got the rugs for $100,000.

Fastidious in his habits, a gambler and "confidence" man by nature, the "Count" wiggled out of the hard manual labor of the rock quarry at Folsom Prison. He lost his credits through his gambling escapades within the walls and for attempting to smuggle out letters. He was reported as never vicious but always "in bad" with the prison heads.

California prison officials heaved a deep sigh of relief when they turned Sichofsky over to the Federal authorities for deportation to Poland. He had been a constant source of trouble in the prison. His reputed wealth made him the target of many who believed that the prisoner would be unable to defend any charge they might bring against him.

In statements to the newspapers since the investigation of the prisoner's finances, former members of the State prison board declare that because the "Count" was a prisoner they were doubly careful that no unjust claim might be levied against his money and suits were carried to the State's highest court for that reason.

A large part of the prisoner's alleged loss is a block of $116,000 in Liberty Bonds and railroad bonds which Sichofsky declares he had in a safety deposit box in a San Diego bank. Since he has been detained at Ellis Island the "Count" declares that he wrote the bank and received a reply telling him that because rent on the deposit box was not paid it was opened five years ago and was found empty.

ALSO since his arrival at Ellis Island, he claims, he has written three Los Angeles banks where he believed he had $27,800 deposited, and all three answered that the money had been withdrawn, the accounts closed.

On the way east for deportation the "Count" boasted to the guards of his wealth and showed them passbooks on Los Angeles banks showing deposits of something like $85,000. He told the escort that he had given former District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles, now himself under prison sentence, $17,500 to square a swindle charge.

As it now stands, "Count" Sichofsky has moved for a writ of habeas corpus. If the proceedings are granted the "Count" will be released from Ellis Island on bail to come to California and prosecute the claims which he had filed against California officials. If not, "Count" Sichofsky will be returned to Poland.

But in face of this the "Count" now says he isn't Polish at all but of German parentage and that Poland will not accept him.

to be reckoned with as a political force of no mean magnitude. And Rupprecht himself is no figurehead, but a man of action and ideas. It may be that this exile will stage a come-back.

While the ex-Kaiser drags out the remainder of his days at Doorn, his sister suffers exile in Florence.

Ex-Queen Sophie of Greece, like her brother, has sufficient wealth to sugar the pill of exile. She maintains whatever of the old court splendors she can. But her shadow court is not a center of political intrigue. She is resigned to her station.

Resigned, too, is ex-Queen Nathalie of Serbia, whose beautiful mansion at Biarritz is the rendezvous for small battalions of royalties and princelings.

One of the more recent comers to the band of royal exiles is Abbas Hilmi, last Khedive of Egypt. His fez is a familiar sight on the boulevards of Paris. But if he has his dreams of wresting his lost throne from King Fuad he lets it go at that. Like many another cast-down Prince, Abbas Hilmi finds that the gay French capital has compensations to offer, compensations even for the loss of a throne.

Vibraphones Reduce Head Noises

A new and scientific discovery stimulates the hearing processes by utilizing sound waves through small silver devices that fit the ears perfectly. The vibrators are built inside the sound chambers. The instruments are so small that your friends will seldom know you are wearing them. Comfortable, easily put in the ears or removed. No wires. No batteries. No head bands. Nothing like them. This new and scientific triumph produces marvelous results. Head noises are reduced. And hearing gradually improves. Don't be handicapped or embarrassed another day by deafness. Call at office or write for complete details. VIBRAPHONE Sales Co.,

TWILIGHT of the GOD

to match and conquer the blind, incomparable fury of the storm. He fought the storm for his love. He wrested his love from the fury of death. In after years the crew told him how Manell Santos rode death as if it were a horse.

The absolute necessity to live had gripped him—the supreme need of living that has dotted the pages of history with miracle and resurrection. Santos was born again and his new united soul could not know defeat.

Later, as the storm abated and, crippled but safe, he sailed into the harbor, pity had been burned from him and old scruples, the thou-shalt-nots of church and town had been torn away in the storm. His mind was made up.

He stoop to run away? He would go to Julia and Anthony and tell them what was in his heart. For Santos intended to ride life as he had ridden out the hurricane. He had been saved to live. He had come to this necessity in the storm's unspeakable travail. This resolve had been welded in him by death itself.

HE sailed into the harbor as near a god as man ever becomes. His men looked at him with humble adoration. They had been dead men; he had given them life. More than that, he had won back life for himself. He was reborn. He had left Julia behind as one leaves a dark dream. As though resurrected, he was coming to claim Victoria for his woman.

Victoria was not there to meet him. No one met Santos. Other men's wives were there, but not Victoria, not Julia.

The women looked at him with veiled pity in their eyes. No one came too near Santos. It seemed as if a vacuum had been made around him. A feeling of discomfort grew on him, and with discomfort came anger. His own men were staring at him.

What had happened? His men who had looked at him with the adoring eyes of those who have been snatched from the hand of death now drew back from him.

Santos was used to admiration and respect, so he walked up the street in growing anger, in deepening amazement. Acquaintances ducked past him in embarrassed haste, in their eyes this puzzling, veiled pity—pity for Santos, who had been stronger than death.

He hurried along, his eyes searching hungrily for Victoria. She was nowhere, Julia was nowhere. He had returned braced for combat. He had expected to ride over the flood of Julia's reproaches as over the fury of the storm. And now there was nothing over which to ride. He felt winded as a man who jumps from a height—who feels the ground rise up to meet him.

He stormed up the steps of his home. The door was locked.

He shook the door and cried into the silence:

"Julia," and again, "Julia," but as he cried his eyes searched Victoria's home. It turned blank, empty windows on him as stony as his own locked front door.

Dread plucked at Santos' heart. Slowly he went to his side door. It opened to his hand. The house had an air of emptiness. There was none of the cheerful litter of a lived-in abode. It was as neat as a room where death had been. He walked through the house and as he did a slow, stealthy fear traveled up Santos' back, a certainty formed itself in the back of his mind.

Downstairs a door opened and light footsteps sounded through the house. He turned and faced Victoria.

"Oh, Manell," she faltered. "Manell." All her anxiety, all her love was in the caress of his name. For her he was resurrected from the dead. "We thought—you—wouldn't get back."

She was here in his house, speaking to him in the voice of love. He drew back from her as though to ward off her love in the presence of the wronged dead.

"Where's Julia?"

"Why, haven't you heard?"

"Dead?" cried Manell.

"Dead!" Victoria exclaimed; "no, gone, run off with Anthony Sonza! Who would have thought? Gone together and left us this letter—telling how they couldn't stand your ways—my ways—any more. And the town laughing and holding its sides. Gone like rats—cleared out!"

She looked at him with the eyes of love. Then, her arms dropped, the happiness in her eyes changed to blankness. "I thought you'd be glad," she faltered.

"GLAD!" he said; "glad to have everyone laughing at me! Glad to have my wife run off with a runt," he raved, while in Victoria amazement strove with anger. She had come to offer her love. Secure in the delight of her mate, with joyful news of all difficulties solved, and he raved: "Gone with that rat. My wife. My wife cleared out. Oh, a weasel will mate with a weasel. Blind! Blind! And I—and I—looking at them talking over the fence. I never dreamed. I thought they were jealous! Time and again I've seen them and never dreamed" . . .

Victoria drew herself apart, watching his fury. Then suddenly she collapsed. Mirth rocked her, the malicious laughter of all time shook her peal on peal. Her laughter rang through Julia's empty house.

Santos had landed from his vessel a god, master of fate, stronger than death. He was going to claim his woman arrogantly. Like a god he was prepared to trample under foot the small moralities. Now, behold, he was the butt of the centuries, the most ridiculous creature on earth, a betrayed husband. Betrayed by his creature, Julia, while his woman, Victoria, laughed.

"IT'S a pity," thought Joan as Rita confessed she had had a miserable time at the party.

"Rita is adorable, but everybody slights her. I'd love to tell her why. But I just can't."

Luckily though, Rita's doctor was more frank. Today, there's no "B.O"—no body odor spoiling Rita's attractiveness. She has flocks of admirers since she found this delightful way to keep perspiration odorless.

SAY IT WITH CARDS

New Use for the Alphabet.

Ellis Parker Butler.

NOT so long ago the only person who sent another a card was the one-eyed bandit who sent his victim the ace of spades as a warning and then went around and shot six holes in his gizzard. Along about 1888 a lady named Fiffit—she was born in Blickoff, but married Emory Montgolfier Fiffit—was eating alphabet soup, and, when she got home, she found she had spilled four of the soup letters down her bosom, or "buzzum," as it was then pronounced.

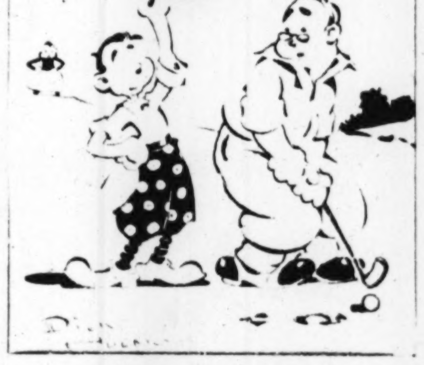
The question was what to do with the four letters—which were P, R, S and V—and she was pushing them around on her dresser, having removed them from where they had been, when they fell into the order R.S.V.P. This gave her an idea, and she immediately had some cards engraved with the letters R.S.V.P. in one corner, inviting somebody to something.

For quite a while Mrs. Fiffit had everything all her own way. When people received her cards, they took a sheet of note paper and a pen and wrote, "Sure I'll come!" or "You bet, I'll be there with bells on!" or "Not on your life! Take your old party and rub it in your hair." But presently a lady named Oogleheim, who was in good society, but had a lot of trouble with her spelling—she always wrote "You'res received"—got tired of having her spelling laughed at and had some cards engraved to send to Mrs. Fiffit and the other R.S.V.P. people when they sent her invitation cards.

Mrs. Oogleheim's cards were engraved "Mrs. Montmorency Oogleheim accepts with pleasure Mrs. ——'s invitation for the ——th." And down in one corner was engraved N.Y.U.S.A. This did not mean much, and she had not got it out of the alphabet soup, but it went Mrs. Fiffit one letter better than the Fiffit R.S.V.P. and it started the great card competition that is now reaching its climax.

IT USED to be that if you wanted to do the thing right, you had to go to an engraver and have your cards engraved. If your dog got a new flea, for instance, you went to the engraver and had a card engraved with the words "Mr. and Mrs. Olean Shultz beg to announce that their rug-hound, Alice, has acquired a new flea. Please omit flowers." Now all you have to do is go to the stationery store and ask the clerk: "Have you got a card I can send to folks? My dog has a new flea." He will show you an assortment to choose from. He will show you one that reads: "Mr. and Mrs. —— beg to announce that —— has ——. Please omit ——." All you need do is fill in the blanks. Thus you can make it read: "Mr. and Mrs. Olean Shultz beg to announce that Fido has the mange. Please omit jeers." Or you can make it read: "Mr. and Mrs. Shultz beg to announce that baby has a tooth. Please omit presents."

The card has now passed out of the social sniff class into the great domain of modern efficiency and stands with the self-starting automobile and the canned baked bean as a symbol of progress and proficiency. Personally, I think it is being carried a little too far, partaking somewhat of the flavor of the form letter that was sent to the man who, when he complained that he found a wire nail in the last cake of cheese, received this answer: "Yours of the —— at hand informing us that you found a —— in the —— shipment of ——. We regret that these accidents will happen. Kindly return the —— at your convenience, and we will give you credit. We assure you that we —— your business and consider you one of our best customers. Yours —— truly."



The well-informed golfer now sends his caddy to the slow foursome ahead of him with a card.

Even my butcher is getting the card habit, but he pins his on the meat in his window: "Fresh ——, —— cts. per lb." My electric light company has been at it a long while, sending me now and then a little token of affection that reads: "Unless your bill is paid by the ——th, we will shut off the juice," or words to that effect.

I can see that, if the card habit increases much more, we are going to be able to go through life without using our intelligence at all. We will do it with cards on every occasion. My wife will sit at her desk and reach for card No. 98-767 and, having filled in the spaces, will send it to our butcher, who will read it: "Mrs. E. P. Butler regrets to inform Mr. Schmid that the chops sent Thursday were too long in the shank and too thin in the bulge." The same card, filled in properly, will do as well for our butcher's reply: "Mr. Schmid regrets to inform Mrs. E. P. Butler that the chops sent Thursday were the shortest in the shank and the thickest in the bulge then available."

I CAN see that for middle-aged flirts who have written love letters that later appeared in court when the lady sued for breach of promise and $1,000,000 damages, the engraved card will be a life-saver. The sappy old fellow who used to reach for a pen and so lose himself in the throes of composing a love letter that he ended by inditing to the chemical blonde words like "Meet your poppa-woppa at Shelmonico's at 8, my dear future wiffy-biffy, and there'll be dinner and love and kisses. Your owny-woney Bunny rabbit"—that man will find the stock card No. 45376 worth its weight in gold. It is engraved: "Mr. ——requests the pleasure of the company of Miss —— at dinner at —— at —— o'clock, ——192—. Matrimony not intended."

Life thus becomes more and more simplified. Instead of rudely shouting "Fore!" the well-informed golfer now sends his caddy to the slow foursome ahead of him with a card saying: "Mr. Ghills presents his compliments and begs to inform Mr. Giffey and party that he intends immediately to drive through." And one taxi driver —when bumped by another—hands the offending rival a card that has the blank places properly filled in to read: "Mr. Cassisi begs to inform Mr. Dunkwesser that he is a —— —— ——. Kindly omit flowers." Mr. Dunkwesser then fills in a card and hands it to Mr. Cassisi, who reads on it: "Mr. Joseph L. Dunkwesser respectfully informs Mr. Cassisi that he can go to ——. B.Y.O."

In case the gentlemen's fountain pens do not work well, and they remain too long inert, a man in a blue uniform will come to them and hand them a card reading: "Mr. Officer begs to inform Mr. —— that he is summoned to appear in the —— court at —— o'clock —— 192—." And in the corner of the card are the words, "Bring cash."

The engraved card has come to stay. The evidence of this is that there has just been put on the market one that reads as follows: "President of the United States, begs to inform inquiring parties that he does —— choose to run." The blank may be filled in or not, as desired.

Look years younger
Sallow, Dingy Skin made Lovely —Coarse Pores become Fine— It corrects oily skin, heals eruptions and dissolves blackheads
Creamed Magnesia clears the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach
The newest discovery in beauty culture is that creamed magnesia is much better for the complexion than any soap or cleansing cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with creamed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.
It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away the tell-tale signs of age. You will marvel at the effect of your first five-minute facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger. It's marvelous how magnesia dissolves blackheads, clears eruptions and corrects oily skin.
And because it is so mild, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing as a face wash for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Being greaseless, it cannot fatten the face or grow hair. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white. Until recently creamed magnesia was used only by New York doctors' wives, and nurses. But now the large druggists everywhere find it hard to keep enough on hand to supply the demand. To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask for Denton's Facial Magnesia. Remember, five minutes works wonders. So, get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight. It costs almost nothing to try. It's Guaranteed!

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

DOES YOUR CHIN-LINE TELL A TRAGIC STORY?
YOUR mirror answers this question with startling bluntness. Neglect, not age, is the great cause of that unsightly drooping of the underchin. A double chin makes any woman look old, no matter how young she may be in actual years.
But it is not necessary to develop a middle-aged chin-line, or to tolerate one already formed.
Dorothy Gray evolved simple, scientific treatments and preparations that have long proved remarkably successful in both preventing and correcting double chins. You can readily follow these treatments in your home. You will find the same Dorothy Gray preparations used in the Dorothy Gray salons in the shops listed below.

People who work indoors need this health protection says Italy's great intestinal specialist

PROFESSOR DOCTOR PAOLO ALESSANDRINI is chief physician of all the hospitals of Rome. At the University of Rome he lectures on diseases of stomach and intestines. So crowded are his days that he rises at three in the morning to write the medical articles which have made him known to doctors everywhere. He is a Chevalier of the Italian Crown.

"TO check constipation and correct indigestion," Dr. Alessandrini says, "yeast has long been famous. Its laxative action is stimulating, not irritating. As the richest source of vitamin B it is particularly useful in run down states of health.

"Now the health value of fresh yeast has been doubled. When 'irradiated,' it is especially rich in vitamin D, the 'sunshine' vitamin, which builds hard, straight bones and sound teeth. It should be a godsend to those who work indoors."

A flood of living yeast plants is released in your digestive tract by each cake of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast. Gently stimulating, these tiny yeast plants reawaken sluggish intestines and soften the clogging food wastes. When constipation goes, appetite and digestion quicken. Fresh new energy is released. Telltale skin eruptions disappear.

And now this famous food brings you an added health protection. The new "irradiated" Fleischmann's Yeast is the richest food source of the mysterious "sunshine" vitamin. Most people, especially those of growing age (under twenty-five), need the "sunshine" vitamin daily. It builds sound, straight bones and teeth. It makes your body harder, tougher. It is essential for expectant and nursing mothers.

Has confining work indoors brought dull, headachy half-health? Has living away from the sun made you "soft"? World-famous doctors point the way to quick, natural health renewal. How easy it is—just three cakes daily of fresh yeast—Fleischmann's Yeast. Start eating it today!

ON THE AIR! Fleischmann's Yeast Radio Hour. Tune in Thursday evenings with the National Broadcasting Company—47 associated coast-to-coast stations.

"At the end of the day too tired to enjoy the evening"

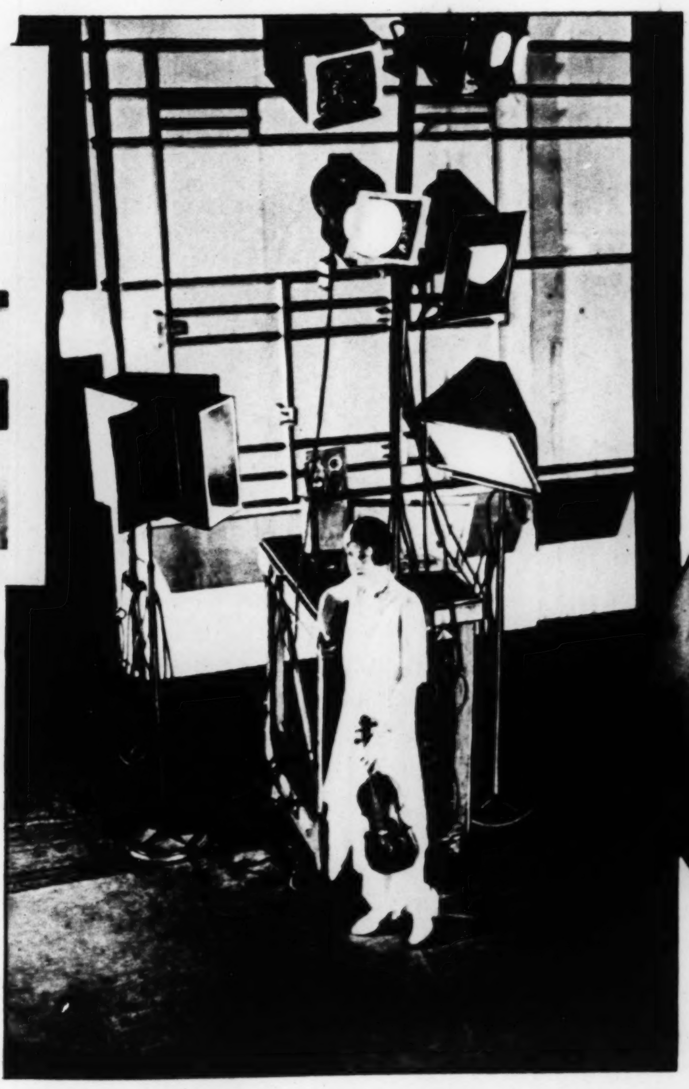
New York, N. Y.

"What the great doctors have said about yeast is certainly matched by my own experience.

"Close confinement to my desk day after day without exercise resulted, two years ago, in 'nervous' stomach and constipation. Headaches would stay with me for days.

"What three cakes a day of yeast did for me hardly seems possible. But suddenly I realized my constipation had been corrected. I could eat my meals without discomfort. I laughed at office difficulties which formerly had me stumped. I was able to enjoy the evenings with my family.

"I am still eating yeast. I find it keeps me in splendid condition."—H. J. LLOYD



"PLAYING ON THE KEITH CIRCUIT means indoor work and varying food," writes Helen Delvey of New Orleans. "For years I had indigestion and constipation. After eating Fleischmann's Yeast, my constipation disappeared. My complexion has improved a hundred per cent. My work has become a pleasure."

"Even caring for Jean had become a burden"

"Even the best baby ties a mother down," writes Mrs. W. A. Peters of Stamford, Conn. "I became nervous and irritable—was subject to indigestion and constipation. And my skin was terrible. My doctor suggested yeast. It improved my disposition and stopped all my tiresome 'miseries.'"

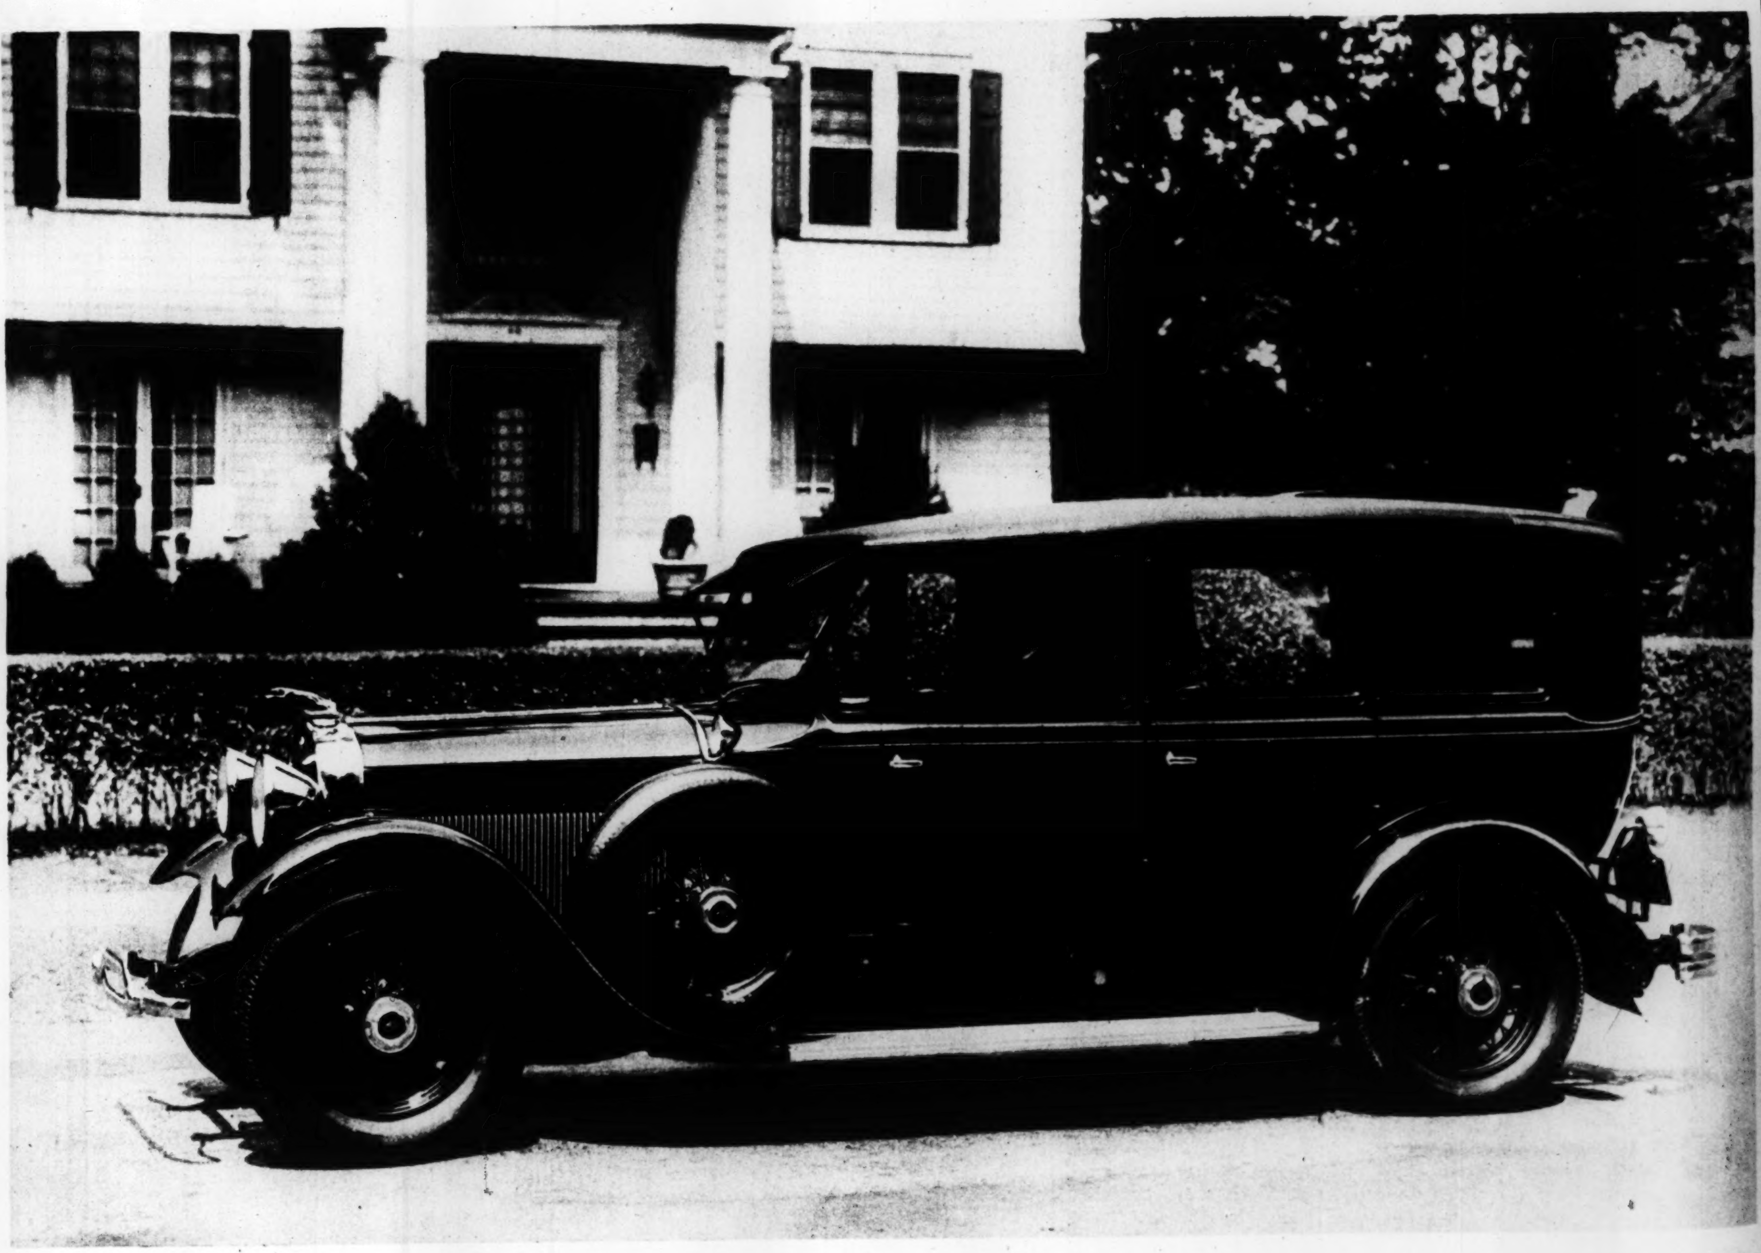
THE LINCOLN IS A MOTOR CAR OF STEADFAST CHARACTER AND PURPOSE



The Willoughby Limousine, a smart and capacious car for city use

IMPROVEMENTS are constantly being made in the Lincoln. But the policy on which this automobile is built—to protect Lincoln owners by making only proven changes that will increase the fundamental excellence of motor, chassis and body—is at all times steadfastly maintained.

In this sense, the Lincoln may be thought of as a conservative car. Certainly its makers have avoided, and will continue to avoid, sensational changes in engine or body design. And this policy has won the respect and loyalty of those who appreciate a truly fine motor car.

The mechanical excellence of the Lincoln results from the soundest engineering skill and experience at the command of the Ford organization. Every piece of material that goes into it is painstakingly tested to insure its quality. The car, itself, is built with unhurried craftsmanship in one of the famous precision plants of the world. Every operation in manufacture and assembly is governed by standards of accuracy that range in delicacy to one-fifteenth of a hair's breadth. And its exterior beauty is assured by the designs of the foremost custom coachmakers of the country—LeBaron, Locke, Willoughby, Judkins, Dietrich, Derham and Brunn.

There is no motor car that retains its power, stamina and appearance more notably than the Lincoln. And there is no motor car which varies less from one year to another in the distinguished character of its motor, chassis and body. Improvements in the mechanism of the car, refinements in design and finish, are continually being adopted. But the Lincoln remains fundamentally and steadfastly the Lincoln . . . "as nearly perfect a motor car as it is possible to produce."

Lady Violet Astor

LADY VIOLET ASTOR is the daughter of an Earl and one of the most beautiful women in England. A brilliant hostess, she often entertains royalty in her magnificent London house.

DAZZLING SWEEPS OF SNOW . . . icy exhilarating air . . . a little English girl skiing . . . Lady Violet as a child. For she spent her childhood at the vice-regal court in Canada, and loved the winter sports.

MISTY WINTER MORNING . . . hounds baying . . . the huntsman's horn . . . scarlet coats . . . A hunt scene in England where Lady Violet follows the Old Surrey and Burston or West Kent packs.

BRILLIANT BLUE SKY . . . dazzling white mosques . . . the Taj Mahal . . . India, where Lady Violet grew to womanhood at the vice-regal court. Here her beauty was guarded carefully, as in childhood.

AN ENCHANTING ENGLISH BEAUTY BEARS A GREAT AMERICAN NAME

She has lived amidst Canada's snows and under India's blazing sun, yet keeps her marvelous complexion . . . .

LOVELY, lovely Lady Violet Astor! Hers is the serene beauty of the English countryside. Her hair is golden as ripe wheat, her eyes are violet blue, her skin is pink and white and delicate of texture as a wild hedge rose.

Lady Violet is outspoken in her praise of the "wonderful service Pond's have done for women.

"They've put in our hands the means of making our skin look younger and younger each year," she says. "Those Two Creams keep my skin so perfectly cleansed and protected! And the Skin Freshener, the filmy Tissues for removing cream—all four are delightful—practical—effectual!"

This is the way Lady Violet uses them:

FIRST, for thorough cleansing amply apply Pond's Cold Cream over face and neck several times a day and always after exposure. Pat on with firm, upward, outward strokes. The light, pure oils sink deep into the pores and float the dirt to the surface.

THEN, take Pond's Cleansing Tissues, two at a time, fold or crumple them in your hand and wipe away the cream and dust gently and thoroughly.

NEXT, dab Pond's Skin Freshener briskly over face and neck. It removes every trace of oiliness, firms, tones the skin and refines the pores.

LAST—for the entrancing finishing touch—smooth on a little Pond's Vanishing Cream for protection and as a delicate powder base.

Every night cleanse with Cold Cream and remove with Tissues. Leave on a little cream overnight if your skin is dry.

Follow this régime and your skin will keep the glorious radiance of youth.

YOU WOULDN'T WANT TO LIVE IN A ONE-ROOM-AND BATHING SLOT, WOULD YOU?
IT WOULD BE BETTER THAN CLIMBING THESE STAIRS FIFTY TIMES A DAY.
BUT THINK OF THE FREEDOM OF IT HERE--- GOING FROM ONE ROOM TO ANOTHER-ANY TIME YOU LIKE
YES, AND FINDING MORE WORK TO DO IN EVERY ONE OF THEM
BUT, HANG IT, VI, THIS IS HOME- DON'T YOU REALIZE THAT?
LISTEN, JOE, HOME TO YOU MEANS JUST A LOT OF DIFFERENT PLACES TO LIE DOWN. WHILE TO ME ----
YES, DELIA, I'M COMING. TELL THE GROCER WE NEED EGGS.

THE DINING ROOM CLOCK SAYS 10:15; THE KITCHEN CLOCK IS 5 TO 10, IT'S HALF PAST 9 BY THE HALL CLOCK, THE LIBRARY CLOCK JUST STRUCK 11 ---- WHAT'S THE CLOCK IN MY ROOM SAY?
GOSH, HAVE I GOT TO WALK ALL OVER THE HOUSE JUST TO FIND OUT THE TIME?
BUT THINK OF THE FREEDOM OF IT, JOE--- YOU CAN GO FROM ONE ROOM TO ANOTHER-ANYTIME YOU LIKE.
THIS IS A FINE HOUSE, THIS IS, WHEN A MAN CAN'T EVEN--- BUT, JOE, THIS IS HOME-- DON'T YOU REALIZE THAT?

IMAGINE IT! AN OCEAN LINER CROSSING THE ATLANTIC IN FOUR DAYS! AND I READ THAT THEY MIGHT BUILD A STEAMER WITH TWO HULLS AND MULTIPLE SCREWS THAT WILL DO IT IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS! SPEED—TRANSPORTATION—ENDURANCE—PROGRESS! GOSH, THE WORLD IS MOVING FAST!
I'VE GOT TO PUSH THIS PEANUT FROM COAST TO COAST! I LOST AN ELECTION BET! IF I SUCCEED, I'M ALLOWED TO EAT THE PEANUT AS A REWARD!
A MEXICAN JUMPING BEAN WOULD GET YOU THERE FASTER! BUT I GOT TO GIVE YOU CREDIT EVEN IF IT IS A FOOLISH STUNT! NO MAN HAS EVER DONE IT BEFORE!
GEE, THEY'VE BEEN DRIVING THOSE STOCK CARS DAY AND NIGHT FOR FIFTY THOUSAND MILES TO ESTABLISH A NEW AUTOMOBILE ENDURANCE RECORD! EVERYBODY IS ACCOMPLISHING SOMETHING EXCEPT ME! I WISH I WAS A MAN! I'D SHOW THE WORLD A THING OR TWO!
ANGELO IS A GREAT ARTIST! FOR FIVE YEARS HE HAS HELD THE SPAGHETTI-EATING CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE WORLD, AND NOW HE IS BREAKING HIS OWN RECORD!
OF COURSE, THAT KIND OF A STUNT DOESN'T DO THE WORLD ANY GOOD, BUT I GUESS IT GIVES ANGELO A LOT OF PERSONAL SATISFACTION! MAYBE IT'S BETTER TO BE THE CHAMPION SPAGHETTI-EATER THAN NOTHING AT ALL!
DANCING IS SUPPOSED TO BE A PLEASURE, BUT KEEPING IT UP FOR A SOLID WEEK MUST BE HARD WORK! A MARATHON DANCING CONTEST DOESN'T ACCOMPLISH ANYTHING, BUT IT SHOWS THAT EVERYBODY IS TRYING TO DO SOMETHING FASTER, LONGER, OR BETTER THAN IT HAS BEEN DONE BEFORE!
IT'S THE IDEA, I GUESS! SOMETHING IN THE AIR THAT DRIVES PEOPLE TO THE LIMIT! NOW THAT FELLOW HAS JUST ESTABLISHED A WORLD'S RECORD FOR PARACHUTE DROPS! AND THE WHOLE IDEA BACK OF IT IS—HOW FAR CAN A PERSON FALL SAFELY WITH A BIG UMBRELLA?
EVEN THE WOMEN ARE GOING IN FOR NEW RECORDS! THEY TELL ME THAT GIRL HAS BEEN SWIMMING CONTINUOUSLY IN THAT TANK FOR FIFTY-SIX HOURS, AND BEFORE SHE GETS THROUGH SHE'LL HAVE HAD THE LONGEST BATH IN HISTORY!
JUST FOR THE EXPERIENCE, I'VE BEEN RUNNING WITH THESE DISTANCE GUYS FOR NEARLY A MILE AND MY FEET ACHE! NO WONDER THEY CALL IT THE BUNION DERBY! THEY'RE RUNNING FROM NEW YORK TO LOS ANGELES! I WONDER WHY? NOBODY'S CHASING THEM!
THERE MUST BE SOMETHING I CAN DO THAT'S NEVER BEEN DONE BEFORE! THE ONLY WAY TO ACCOMPLISH IT IS TO STUDY! I'LL BE THE SMARTEST BOY LIVING WHEN I FINISH THESE BOOKS, AND THEN I'LL FIGURE OUT SOMETHING NEW TO DO!
WHEW! I'VE RUN AROUND SO MUCH TODAY WATCHING OTHER PEOPLE DO THINGS THAT I'M ALL TIRED OUT!

SOME KNIFE, CICERO! I'LL TRADE YOU MY NEW 'KIDDIE KAR' FOR IT!
IT'S A GO, RUDIE!
HELLO, PERCY! WHAT DO YOU THINK OF MY NEW TEN DOLLAR KIDDIE KAR?
IT'S A PEACH! LISTEN! HOW ABOUT A TRADE FOR THIS?
CICERO, I'LL GIVE YOU MY GOAT FOR THAT SAXOPHONE! COME ON, KID!
BLA
I THINK I GOT THE BEST OF FATTY SCHMALZ IN THAT TRADE! COME ON, GOAT!
CERTAINLY THIS IS MY GOAT! WHY DO YOU ASK, JEFF?
I WAS JUST THINKING, CICERO! M-M!
HOW ABOUT A TRADE?
IT CERTAINLY DOESN'T TAKE MUCH TO PLEASE A CHILD! WHY, THAT KNIFE I GAVE CICERO COST ONLY TEN CENTS!
LOOK, M'LOVE!
HELLO, FOLKS! GET AN EYEFUL OF MY CAR!
YOUR CAR? WHERE DID YOU GET IT?
WELL, TO MAKE A LONG STORY SHORT— I TRADED MY TRICK KNIFE FOR IT!

THAT'S THE BUFFALO—AND TO THINK THEY ARE ALMOST EXTINCT AND IT ISN'T SO LONG AGO THAT THERE WERE MILLIONS OF THEM ROAMING THE PLAINS.
WELL, I'LL NEVER FORGET WHEN I WAS MAKING A TRIP ACROSS THE PLAINS FROM GOLD NUGGET WHERE I HAD BEEN STOPPING TO VISIT GRIZZLY IKE—
—IT WAS A TERRIBLE HOT DAY—BOTH MY POOR HORSE AND I WERE NEARLY OVERCOME WITH THE HEAT—
—I FINALLY DECIDED TO GIVE THE POOR HORSE A REST WHEN ALL OF A SUDDEN I SAW A HERD OF BUFFALO—THOUSANDS OF THEM STAMPEDING IN MY DIRECTION AT A TERRIFIC SPEED—
—I QUICKLY MOUNTED AND TOOK OFF AT THE BEST SPEED MY TIRED HORSE COULD MAKE—
THEY GAINED ON ME STEADILY AS I KEPT URGING MY POOR TIRED HORSE ONWARD—
FINALLY THE POOR BEAST FELL DOWN WITH EXHAUSTION AND I TOOK OUT ON FOOT—
AS SPEEDY AS I WAS, I WAS UNABLE TO KEEP AHEAD OF THIS MAD ONCOMING HERD—ALL OF A SUDDEN AS THEY WERE ABOUT TO CRUSH ME TO EARTH, I JUMPED HIGH INTO THE AIR AND LANDED—FLOP!—RIGHT ON THE LEADING BUFFALO'S BACK—
FOR HOURS I RODE ON THE BUFFALO'S BACK—HE WAS UNABLE TO STOP BECAUSE OF THE ON-COMING HERD—
WHEN I REALIZED I WAS REACHING MY DESTINATION AND WOULD BE CARRIED FAR PAST IT., I STARTED JUMPING FROM ONE BUFFALO TO ANOTHER AND THERE SEEMED TO BE NO END TO THEM—
AFTER HOURS, I CAME TO THE END OF THE HERD AND DROPPED OFF THE LAST ONE—I FOUND I WAS 30 MILES PAST MY DESTINATION—THAT WAS THE FASTEST AND MOST DIFFICULT AND DANGEROUS TRIP ANY ONE EVER MADE—
HOO-EE E-E-E-E!

Dear Sally Salve
c/o The Daily Bugle.
My wife wears the pants. All I wear is the scars of battle and a rubber wig, to fit the lumps she gives me, as they come and go. Wot'll I do?
X.Y.Z.
X.Y.Z. YOU ARE RIGHT AND YOUR WIFE IS WRONG! I AM SURE, IF YOU TALK THE MATTER OVER FRANKLY AND FREELY, SHE WILL SEE YOUR SIDE AND LISTEN TO REASON -- SALLY SALVE
